A cause of action arising on an express contract for the payment of a fixed and specified salary may be united in the same action with a cause of action for the same services on an implied contract to pay the reasonable value of such services. Darknell v. Coeur d'Alene etc. Co., supra.

An action by the state to the use of various parties claiming under an indemnity bond given the state for their protection is not a misjoinder of causes of action, nor a misjoinder of parties plaintiff. S. v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co. (1915) 27 I. 752, 152 P. 189; aff. 240 U. S. 136, 60 L. ed. 566, 36 S. C. R. 345.

Real property actions: A complaint in a suit brought to obtain a deed to property, sold under execution, from the sheriff, and to determine plaintiff's right to such a deed as against the sheriff and an adverse claimant, states but one cause of action. Brady v. Linehan (1898) 5 I. 732, 51 P. 761.

A plaintiff may unite several causes of action to recover specific real property with or without damages for withholding the same or for waste committed thereon and the rents and profits thereof where the same judgment is asked against all of the defendants. White v. Whitcomb (1907) 13 I. 490, 90 P. 1080.

Where a number of parties have at divers times and acting severally, gone upon a certain tract of land and each taken severally a part thereof and erected improvements thereon, and one or mor of the parties have individually and o their own account removed certain im provements placed on the land, a caus of action for the removal of the improve ments against the party guilty thereof, ca not be joined with an action against a of the defendants for a restitution of th premises. White v. Whitcomb, supra; af 214 U. S. 15, 53 L. ed. 889, 29 S. C. R. 59

An action for waste on real propert can not be united with an action fo damages for an assault, and an actio for injuries to property can not be unite with an action for damages for injurie to the person. Kruger v. St. Joe L. Co (1905) 11 I. 504, 83 P. 695.

Injuries to property: A plaintiff ma join in the same action all injuries t property arising out of the same contract Frepons v. Grostein (1906) 12 I. 671, 8 P. 1004.

Identity of parties: Where a certain per son is a necessary party to one caus of action but is neither a proper or neces sary party to three other causes of actio stated in the complaint, a demurrer fo misjoinder of causes of action should b sustained. Beane v. Givens (1898) 5 I 774, 51 P. 987.

Writ of mandate: Application for wri of mandate is a special proceeding an may not be united in the same complain with an action to quiet title or with on for injunctive relief. Lewis v. Mountai Home Coop. Irr. Co. (1916) 28 I. 68 156 P. 419.

ARTICLE 3.

DEMURRER TO THE COMPLAINT.

§ 6689. [4174] Grounds of demurrer. The defendant may demu to the complaint within the time required in the summons to answe when it appears on the face thereof, either:

1. That the court has no jurisdiction of the person of the defen ant or the subject of the action; or,
2. That the plaintiff has not legal capacity to sue; or,
3. That there is another action pending between the same partie for the same cause; or,
4. That there is a defect or misjoinder of parties, plaintiff or d fendant; or,
5. That several causes of action have been improperly united; or
6. That the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute cause of action; or,
7. That the complaint is ambiguous, unintelligible or uncertai [R. S. § 4174.]

Demurrer does not cure default: T filing of a demurrer on behalf of defen ants who are already in default can n affect such default. Harr v. Kight (191 18 I. 53, 108 P. 539.

Several demurrers: A party may n interpose different demurrers to the sa pleading except by permission of the cou Murphy v. Russell & Co. (1901) 8 I. 1 67 P. 421.

Lack of jurisdiction: If the compla upon its face discloses that the court, which the action is brought, has no jur diction of the subject matter, then a murrer to the complaint upon that ground should be sustained. The court is not required to wait until a verified answer is filed in order to determine the question of jurisdiction. Hammer v. Garrett (1909) 15 I. 657, 99 P. 124.

Want of capacity: A demurrer on the ground of want of legal capacity to sue must relate to some legal disability on the part of the plaintiff to maintain the action, such as infancy, coverture and the like, and not to the absence of facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, as that the plaintiff is not the proper party to sue for the injury complained of; in that case a general demurrer for want of facts reaches the defect. Pratt v. Northern Pac. Exp. Co. (1907) 13 I. 373, 90 P. 341, 121 A. S. R. 268, 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 499.

The objection that a foreign executor can not maintain his action in this state without being first appointed by the courts of this state goes to the capacity of the plaintiff to sue or maintain his action, and is a ground of demurrer under this section, and if not raised by demurrer or answer, is thereby waived under the provisions of § 6693. Anthes v. Anthes (1912) 21 I. 305, 121 P. 553.

Another action pending: Pendency of another action in which the plaintiff, who is defendant in such other action is bound to assert the right which he seeks to enforce in the action brought by him, is ground for demurrer. Stevens v. Home Savings etc. Assn. (1898) 5 I. 741, 51 P. 979, 986.

Defect of parties: The question of nonjoinder of parties plaintiff is not properly an issue on an application for an injunction against the actions of a stranger to the property threatened with injury. Gilin v. Sierra Nev. Con. M. Co. (1890) 2 I. 696, 23 P. 547, 1014.

In an action concerning water rights, where it does not appear from the complaint that the subject in litigation is within any water district, or that there is any water master in charge of the water in question, a demurrer based on nonjoinder of the water master is not well taken. Boulware v. Park (1896) 4 I. 692, 43 P. 680.

When one brings suit on four causes of action, three being for personal services, and the fourth for the purpose of having a chattel mortgage executed by himself and wife on the separate property of the wife, declared fraudulent and void, and fails to make his wife a party, a demurrer on the ground of nonjoinder of parties will be sustained. Beane v. Givens (1898) 5 I. 774, 51 P. 987.

A defect in naming parties defendant can not be raised by general demurrer going to the sufficiency of the complaint, but must be raised by special demurrer. Bonham Nat. Bk. v. Grimes Pass P. M. Co. (1910) 18 I. 629, 111 P. 1087.

Nonjoinder of a proper as distinguished from a necessary party is not ground of demurrer. Taylor v. Lytle (1914) 26 I. 141 P. 92.

Misjoinder of causes: The remedy for improperly joining several causes of action in one count of the complaint is not by demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action, but by motion to require an election between the causes of action and to strike out all matter relating to the cause not elected. Fox v. Rogers (1890) 6 I. 710, 59 P. 538; Jones v. Caldwell (1911) 20 I. 5, 116 P. 110.

Where the complaint mingled two causes of action, not inconsistent, in one count, the proper procedure was a motion to require plaintiff to separately state his causes, and not by demurrer or motion to strike out or compel the pleader to elect. Fox v. Rogers and Jones v. City of Caldwell, supra, overruled so far as they hold the contrary. Labonte v. Davidson, 31 I. 644, 175 P. 588.

Want of facts: A demurrer on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action will only lie when the defects of the case are such as would render the count bad on general demurrer at law or for want of equity in chancery; the defects must be so fatal that, admitting all the facts, they do not show a cause of action. Brown v. Bledsoe (1879) 1 I. 746.

Where a single cause of action is sufficiently stated in the complaint, a general demurrer will not lie although there are objectionable causes of action joined therewith. Carter v. Wann (1899) 6 I. 556, 57 P. 314.

When the complaint states a cause of action, a general demurrer will not be sustained. First Nat. Bk. of Lewiston v. Sampson (1901) 7 I. 564, 64 P. 890; Steinour v. Oakley S. Bk., 32 I. —, 177 P. 843.

A demurrer to a complaint on the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action is not sufficient to raise the question of the legal capacity of a foreign corporation to maintain an action in this state. Valley L. & Mfg. Co. v. Driessel (1907) 13 I. 662, 93 P. 765, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 299, 13 Ann. Cas. 63; Valley L. Co. v. Nickerson (1907) 13 I. 682, 93 P. 24.

Where a complaint contains several causes of action separately stated, and a general demurrer is directed against the complaint as a whole and not against any separate cause of action, it should be overruled if any one of the causes of action is well pleaded. Bonham Nat. Bk. v. Grimes Pass P. M. Co. (1910) 18 I. 629, 111 P. 1087.

A joint demurrer of two defendants should be overruled if complaint states a cause of action against either. Jones v. Moss (1915) 28 I. 245, 153 P. 249; Harkness v. Hyde, 31 I. 784, 176 P. 885.

Ambiguity and uncertainty: The failure of a complaint for death by wrongful act, to state whether the deceased was a minor so that the action should be brought by his father or mother, or a major so that it should be brought by his heirs or representatives, is ground of demurrer for uncertainty and not of general demurrer for want of facts. Palmer v. Utah & N. R. Co. (1887) 2 I. 315, 13 P. 425.

In ejectment to recover certain property on the theory that it was community property, an objection to the complaint on the ground that it does not state that the property was obtained by "gift, bequest, devise, or descent," is not ground of general demurrer but of special demurrer for ambiguity and uncertainty. Jacobson v. Bunker Hill etc. M. Co. (1891) 3 I. 126, 26 P. 396.

Where no objection on the ground of uncertainty is taken to a complaint, the complaint, although uncertain, is sufficient to admit proof of the facts uncertainly pleaded. Chemung M. Co. v. Hanley (1904) 9 I. 786, 77 P. 226.

Appeal: If a demurrer, sustained by the trial court on an erroneous ground is good on any ground, the ruling will not be reversed. Feehan v. Kendrick, 32 I. — 179 P. 507.

§ 6690. [4175] Form of demurrer. The demurrer must distinctly specify the grounds upon which any of the objections to the complaint are taken. Unless it do so it may be disregarded. It may be taken to the whole complaint or to any of the causes of action stated therein, or the defendant may demur and answer at the same time. [R. S. § 4175.]

Demurrer and answer: Where there is both a demurrer and answer to same complaint, the issue of law raised by the demurrer should be first disposed of. Guthrie v. Phelan (1885) 2 I. 95, 6 P. 107.

§ 6691. [4176] Amendment of complaint. If the complaint is amended, a copy of the amendments must be filed, or the court may, in its discretion, require the complaint, as amended, to be filed; and a copy of the amendments or amended complaint must be served upon the defendants affected thereby. The defendant must answer the amendment or the complaint as amended within 10 days after service thereof, or such other time as the court may direct, and judgment by default may be entered upon failure to answer, as in other cases. Where a complaint in a justice's court s subject to any of the objections which ›y this section are waived, if not raised ›y demurrer, he must demur to the com- ›laint on proper grounds, either in the ustice's court or on appeal to the district ›ourt. Carter v. Wann (1899) 6 I. 556, 7 P. 314.

Failure on the part of defendant to easonably raise by demurrer questions in- ›olving lack of capacity on the part of he plaintiff to sue, or defect or misjoinder ›f parties, must be deemed to be a waiver f the right to thereafter raise such ques- ions. Trask v. Boise King Placers Co. 1914) 26 I. 290, 142 P. 1073.

Where a defendant does not plead the tatute of limitations as a bar to a cause f action by either demurrer or answer, he defense that the cause of action is so ›arred must be deemed to have been ›aived, under the provisions of this sec- ion. Rogers v. O. W. R. R. & N. Co. 1916) 28 I. 609, 156 P. 98.

Objection to jurisdiction not waived: An bjection to the jurisdiction of the court s never waived and may be raised for the rst time in the supreme court. Aram v. Edwards (1903) 9 I. 333, 74 P. 961.

Objection to evidence not waived: Fail- re to demur to paragraphs of a complaint alleging improper items of damage or to move to strike such items does not pre- clude the defendant from objecting to the introduction of evidence thereunder. Risse v. Collins (1906) 12 I. 689, 87 P. 1006.

Where no objection to a complaint is made in the trial court, either by demurrer or motion, and it is objected to for the first time on appeal as stating facts in- sufficient to constitute a cause of action, the supreme court will only consider whether there is a sufficient statement of facts to support the judgment. Crowley v. Croesus Gold M. Co. (1906) 12 I. 530. 86 P. 536.

An objection that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action can be reviewed on appeal from the judgment but not from an order denying a new trial. Taylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 789, 96 P. 573.

If the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, it will not support a judgment; and, if a judgment is rendered on such a complaint, it will be reversed on appeal. ARTICLE 4.

THE ANSWER.

§ 6694. [4183] Contents of answer. The answer of the defendant hall contain:

1. A general or specific denial of the material allegations of the omplaint controverted by the defendant.

2. A statement of any new matter constituting a defense or counter- laim. If the complaint be verified, the denial of each allegation con- roverted must be specific, and be made positively, or according to the nformation and belief of the defendant. If the defendant has no in- ›rmation or belief upon the subject sufficient to enable him to answer n allegation of the complaint, he may so state in his answer, and place is denial on that ground. If the complaint be not verified a general enial is sufficient, but only puts in issue the material allegations of the ›mplaint. [R. S. § 4183.]

General denial: A general denial is suf- ficient where the complaint is not verified, although the action is brought by the people of the territory so that the defend- ant is required by statute to verify his answer whether the complaint is verified or not. U. S. v. Shoup (1889) 2 I. 493, 21 P. 656.

A general conjunctive denial of the alle- gations of a complaint, such as a denial of all the statements and allegations in a certain paragraph, is insufficient. Stick- ney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 P. 189.

But a denial of each and every of the allegations contained in certain specified paragraphs is a sufficient denial under this section. Joyce v. Rubin (1913) 23 I. 296, 305, 130 P. 793.

Denial of conclusion: A denial of indebtedness without a denial of the facts pleaded to show the existence of the indebtedness, is a denial of a conclusion of law and raises no issue of fact. Swanholm v. Reeser (1892) 3 I. 476, 31 P. 804.

A denial of the correctness of an account is not a sufficient denial of a complaint on a balance of account due. Ib.

Denials on information: Matters of public record must be denied positively; denials on information and belief are insufficient. Simpson v. Pennington (1899) 6 I. 681, 59 P. 360; Work Bros. v. Kinney (1900) 7 I. 460, 63 P. 596; (on petition for rehearing) Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1908) 14 I. 5, 38, 93 P. 789; Vadney v. Med. Examiners (1911) 19 I. 203, 210, 112 P. 1046; First Nat. Bk. v. Walker (1915) 27 I. 199, 148 P. 46.

If the pleader avers that he has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief of the truthfulness of an allegation, it is sufficient averment that he has no belief, and is a good basis for his denial. Golden v. Spokane etc. R. R. Co. (1911) 20 I. 531, 118 P. 1077.

A denial on information and belief when the truth of the allegations attempted to be denied may be easily or readily obtained by the defendants, is not sufficient. First Nat. Bk. v. Callahan M. Co. (1916) 28 I. 627, 155 P. 673.

Evasive denials: Where a verified complaint alleges the possession by plaintiff of land traversed by a watercourse; that defendants built a dam across the watercourse a little below plaintiff's land, thereby causing the water to flow back over plaintiff's land, thereby causing him damage, an answer, not denying the existence of the watercourse but merely denying building a dam across the same, is evasive and bad. Norris v. Glenn (1875) 1 I. 590.

Conclusion of denial: A denial of the allegations of a complaint which is otherwise sufficient is not rendered objectionable because it concludes with the words, "other than as hereinafter set forth," although the pleader does not thereafter refer to the same. Anderson v. War Eagle Con. M. Co. (1902) 8 I. 789, 72 P. 671.

New matter: The true test of whether matter relied on in defense is new, in such sense that it must be affirmatively pleaded is whether it merely controverts the original cause of action, tendering no new issue, in which case it is simply a traverse or whether it raises a new issue or involves the introduction of a new ingredient as the basis of such an issue, by way of confession and avoidance, when it is new matter. Lindsay v. Wyatt (1878) 1 I. 738.

Where a complaint alleges the sale and delivery of property, an answer denying the purchase of or receiving the property does not authorize the defendant to show illegality of the contract or failure of title but such matters must be affirmatively pleaded. Miller v. Donovan (1905) 11 I. 545, 83 P. 608.

In an action of claim and delivery a defence based on possession by virtue of a lien is not new matter, which must be affirmatively pleaded, but may be shown in evidence under denials in the answer. Lindsay v. Wyatt, supra.

Cross complaint as answer: An equitable right of action which might be brought as an independent right of action may be interposed as a defense in a cross complaint in an action involving the same subject matter. Penninger Lat. Co. v. Clark (1912) 22 I. 397, 126 P. 524.

§ 6695. [4184] Essentials of counterclaim. The counterclaim mentioned in the last section must be one existing in favor of a defendant and against a plaintiff, between whom a several judgment might be had in the action, and arising out of one of the following causes of action:

1. A cause of action arising out of the transaction set forth in the complaint as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim, or connected with the subject of the action.

2. In an action arising upon contract; any other cause of action arising also upon contract and existing at the commencement of the action. [R. S. § 4184.]

Matters arising from transaction: In an action on a note, an answer alleging that as a part of the transaction in which the note was given, the plaintiff was to take possession of a certain building, mortgaged to secure payment of the note, and rent the same, applying the rental money in the satisfaction of the note; that plaintiff when in possession of the building, collected the rent and applied the same to his own use; that the building was destroyed by fire, and that plaintiff recovered in insurance money, rents, etc., a sum largely in excess of the sum due on the note, is a proper counterclaim. First Nat. Bk. of Hailey v. Bews (1892) 3 I. 481, 31 P. 818.

Where suit is brought to recover the penalty prescribed by statute for failure of the mortgagee to satisfy the mortgage on the record and to procure an adjudication of satisfaction of the mortgage, the mortgagee must assert by counterclaim in said suit any right which he may have for the foreclosure of the mortgage, and can not thereafter maintain an independent action to foreclose the mortgage. Stevens v. Home Savings etc. Assn (1898) 5 I. 741, 51 P. 779, 986.

In an action to cancel a mortgage for fraud, it is the duty of the mortgagee to set up by way of cross complaint or counterclaim any right that he may have for a foreclosure of the mortgage. Givens v. Keeney (1900) 7 I. 335, 63 P. 110.

In an action to contest the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, the defendant is entitled to file a cross complaint seeking the foreclosure of a real estate mortgage covering property in another county, but given as a part of the same transaction and to secure the same debt for which the chattel mortgage was given. Murphy v. Russell & Co. (1901) 8 I. 151, 67 P. 427.

In an action for unlawful detainer, a claim for unliquidated damages arising out of a breach of covenant made by the lessor, is not a proper matter of counterclaim. Hunter v. Porter (1904) 10 I. 72, 77 P. 434.

Actions on contract: In an action arising on contract, another action arising on contract existing at the commencement of the action, may be pleaded as a counterclaim although it has no relation to the subject matter set out in the plaintiff's complaint. Miller v. Hunt (1899) 6 I. 523, 57 P. 315.

A counterclaim under this section, while it must exist in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiff, may in other respects go further than a cross complaint, and may include any cause of action arising on contract where the complaint states a cause of action arising on contract. Hunter v. Porter, supra.

Unliquidated counterclaims: Where a cause of action arose out of the same contract or transaction, there is no difference between liquidated and unliquidated damages, in considering the essentials of a counterclaim. Wollan v. McKay (1913) 24 I. 691, 135 P. 832.

A claim for unliquidated damages for a tort can not be set off, either under this or the following section or under the bankruptcy act, against a claim upon a judgment. Pindel v. Holgate (1915) 221 F. 342, 137 C. C. A. 158, 349.

§ 6696. [4185] Counterclaim must be interposed. If the defendant omit to set up a counterclaim in the cases mentioned in the first subdivision of the last section, neither he nor his assignee can afterwards maintain an action against the plaintiff therefor. [R. S. § 4185.]

Purposes of section: This section in connection with §§ 6694-5 is intended to prevent a multiplicity of suits and to settle all controversies and causes of action between the parties which arise out of, or are connected with, the transaction upon which the plaintiff's action is founded. Burke and Co. v. Wells Fargo Co. (1900) 7 I. 2, 60 P. 87.

Independent suits prohibited: A cause of action arising out of the transaction set forth in the complaint must be set forth as a counterclaim and can not be made the basis of an independent suit. Murphy v. Russell & Co. (1901) 8 I. 151, 67 P. 427.

In an action to cancel a mortgage on the theory of payment of the principal and usury in the interest, the mortgagee must, by counterclaim, assert his right to foreclose or be forever precluded from so doing. (Dis. op.) Anderson v. Or. Mtg. Co. (1902) 8 I. 418, 69 P. 130.

§ 6697. [4186] Cross demands compensated. When cross demands have existed between persons under such circumstances that, if one had brought an action against the other, a counterclaim could have been set up, the two demands shall be deemed compensated, so far as they equal each other, and neither can be deprived of the benefit thereof by the assignment or death of the other. § 6698. [4187] Separate defenses permitted. The defendant may set forth by answer as many defenses and counterclaims as he may have. They must be separately stated, and the several defenses must refer to the causes of action which they are intended to answer, in a manner by which they may be intelligibly distinguished. The defendant may also answer one or more of the several causes of action stated in the complaint and demur to the residue. [R. S. § 4187.]

Defense must be interposed: This section, construed with others of the code, not only permits but requires a defendant to set up any and all defenses he may have, whether legal or equitable in character, by answer in the original action. Utah & N. R. Co. v. Crawford (1880) 1 I. 770.

Inconsistent defenses: A defendant may set forth in his answer as many defenses and counterclaims as he may have, and such defenses, to a certain extent, may be inconsistent with each other, but they must not be so inconsistent that the proof of one would necessarily disprove the other. Murphy v. Russell & Co. (1901) 8 I. 133, 67 P. 421; Harshbarger v. Eby (1916) 28 I. 753, 156 P. 619.

Remedy for commingling: Where defenses are commingled the plaintiff's remedy is a motion to require the defendant to elect upon which defense he will proceed to trial or to plead the defenses in separate counts. Jones v. Caldwell (1911) 20 I. 5, 116 P. 110, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 119.

§ 6699. [4188] Affirmative relief: Cross complaint. Whenever the defendant seeks affirmative relief against any party, relating to or depending upon the contract or transaction upon which the action is brought, or affecting the property to which the action relates, he may, in addition to his answer, file at the same time, or by permission of the court subsequently, a cross complaint. The cross complaint must be served upon the parties affected thereby, and such parties may demur or answer thereto as to the original complaint. [R. S. § 4188.]

Essentials of cross-complaint: A cross-complaint must relate to or depend upon the contract or transaction on which the main case is founded, or affect the property to which the action relates, but need not necessarily seek relief against all or any of the original plaintiffs or defendants. Hunter v. Porter (1904) 10 I. 72, 77 P. 434.

Incorporation with answer: A cross-complaint may be embodied in the same instrument with the answer. Western Loan etc. Co. v. Smith (1906) 12 I. 94, 85 P. 1084.

Cross-complaint as answer: Where a defendant files a cross-complaint by way of answer this, being in the nature of a bill in equity, must contain all the essential and necessary averments of such a bill, and properly pleaded, it makes the party so pleading an actor and plaintiff with respect to all matters alleged in such affirmative defense; and such defense must be of such a character as may call for a decree in such party's favor. Pennington Lat. Co. v. Clark (1912) 22 I. 397, 126 P. 524.

Matter for cross-complaint: In an action on a note, paragraphs of the answer asking for an accounting and for damages growing out of the transaction in which the note was given, are not properly a part of the answer and should be rejected as surplusage; in order to make them available the defendant should state the matters therein alleged in the form of a cross-bill, separate and distinct from the answer, stating a complete cause of action in itself. First Nat. Bk. of Hailey v. Bewick (1892) 3 I. 486, 31 P. 816.

Damages sustained by reason of the wrongful issuance of an attachment are proper matter for a cross-complaint in the attachment suit. Willman v. Friedman (1894) 4 I. 209, 38 P. 937.

In an action for unlawful detainer a claim for unliquidated damages arising out of a breach of covenant by the lessor is not a proper matter for a cross-complaint. Hunter v. Porter, supra.

In action to quiet title, where the defendant relies upon title in himself, a cross-complaint is not necessary; but where he seeks to enforce an equitable title against the plaintiff as the holder of the legal title, a cross-complaint is proper. Bacon v. Rice (1908) 14 I. 107, 112, 93 P. 511.

Nonresident attorneys: Before a nonresident attorney may appear in the state courts he must have associated with him a resident attorney, whose name shall appear on the pleadings. Anderson v. Coolin (1915) 27 I. 334, 149 P. 286.

§ 6703. Verification of pleadings. Every pleading must be subcribed by the party or his attorney, and, when the complaint is veried, or when the state or any officer of the state, in his official capacity, plaintiff, the answer must be verified unless an admission of the truth f the complaint might subject the party to a criminal prosecution, or nless an officer of the state in his official capacity is defendant.

Actions by officer: This section does not verify the complaint in an action by public officers, etc., in such sense as to require specific denials of the allegations thereof, but merely dispenses with such verification of the complaint and requires the defendant to verify. U. S. v. Shoup (1899) 2 I. 493, 21 P. 656.

Person entitled to verify: Where facts stated in a pleading are within the knowledge of some other person than the party, such other person may verify the same. Pence v. Durbin (1874) 1 I. 550.

In an original proceeding in the supreme court for a writ of mandate to compel a clerk of the district court to file an information presented by the prosecuting attorney, the state is the party interested and the prosecuting attorney, representing the state, may verify the complaint or petition. S. v. Quarles (1907) 13 I. 252, 89 P. 636.

Verification by attorney: An attorney may verify a petition for a writ of review where the petition shows he is better acquainted with the proceedings than the client, and he states in the affidavit that he knows the facts stated in the petition and has examined all the proceedings mentioned therein. Madison v. Piper (1898) 6 I. 137, 53 P. 395.

Where an affidavit is made for the purpose of procuring an injunction the person who knows the facts should make the affidavit if he can be procured to do so, and if he can not, and the affidavit is made by the attorney, the reason why he makes the affidavit should be fully set forth and the affidavit should show why the party who personally knows the facts does not make the same. Wiles v. Northern Star M. Co. (1907) 13 I. 326, 89 P. 1053.

Defective verification: Where the verification of a pleading is not objected to any defect therein is waived and the pleading can not be disregarded for want of a proper verification. Pence v. Durbin (1874) 1 I. 550.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, § 447; Kerr's C. ib.

Terms defined: The due execution of an instrument in writing goes to the manner and form of its execution by a person competent to execute it according to the laws and customs of the country where executed. The genuineness of an instrument in writing goes to the question of its having been the act of the party, just as represented; or, in other wards, that the signature is not spurious and that nothing has been added to or taken from it which would lay the party signing or changing the instrument liable for forgery. Cox v. Northwestern Stage Co. (1871) 1 I. 376; Austin v. Brown Bros. Co. (1917) 30 I. 167, 164 P. 95.

Specific denial necessary: In order to put in issue the execution or genuineness of a bond in suit a specific verified denial is necessary; a general denial is insufficient. U. S. v. Alexander (1888) 2 I. 386, 17 P. 1746.

§ 6705. [4201] Same. When the defense to an action is founded on a written instrument, and a copy thereof is contained in the answer, or is annexed thereto, the genuineness and due execution of such instrument are deemed admitted, unless the plaintiff file with the clerk, within ten days after receiving a copy of the answer, an affidavit denying the same, and serve a copy thereof on the defendant. [R. S. § 4201.]

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same except time is five days and the last clause is omitted; C. C. P. 1872, § 448; now same as amended: Kerr's C. ib.

Fraud may be shown: The failure of the plaintiff in a personal injury action to deny under oath the genuineness and due execution of a release relied on by the defendants as a bar, does not preclude the plaintiff from showing that the release was obtained by fraud. Cox v. Northwestern Stage Co. (1871) 1 I. 376.

Surrounding circumstances: Failure to file an affidavit denying the execution of a deed, does not preclude evidence of what took place between the parties at the time of the execution and delivery of the deed. Martin v. Dowd (1902) 8 I. 453, 69 P. 276.

Failure to file affidavit does not preclude plaintiff from denying the effectiveness of a release interposed as a defense. Gold Hunter M. & S. Co. v. Bowden, 252 F. 388.

Validity of instrument subject to attack A failure to file an affidavit denying the genuineness or due execution of an instrument does not place a party in the position of admitting its validity and he should be allowed to introduce evidence that the instrument, notwithstanding its genuineness and due execution is invalid. Pettingill v Blackman (1917) 30 I. 241, 164 P. 358.

Failure to deny a written instrumen contained in the answer as required by this section admits the genuineness and due execution of such instrument, but plaintiff is not precluded from taking any position in avoidance of the contract not inconsistent with the admission of its genuinenes and due execution. Austin v. Brown Bros (1917) 30 I. 167, 164 P. 95.

§ 6706. [4202] Same: Right to inspect original. But the execution of the instruments mentioned in the two preceding sections, is not deemed admitted by a failure to deny the same under oath, if the party desiring to controvert the same, is, upon demand, refused an inspection of the original. Such demand must be in writing, served by copy upon the adverse party or his attorney, and filed with the papers in the case. [R. S. § 4202.]

Purpose of section: The purpose and object of our code of procedure is to have actions tried upon their merits and not to have them dismissed on mere technicalities. Nobach v. Scott (1911) 20 I. 558, 119 P. 295.

Applied: A pleading should be so construed as to allege all of the facts that can be implied by fair and reasonable intendment from the facts expressly alleged. Where a clerical mistake is made in a date and the whole pleading taken together clearly shows the correct date this is sufficient. McCormick v. Smith (1913) 23 I. 487, 130 P. 999.

Where a material fact is only stated inferentially and pleading is not properly demurred to for this reason, it is good after judgment. (On petition for rehearing) The Mode v. Myers (1917) 30 I. 165, 164 P. 91.

§ 6708. [4208] Sham and irrelevant matter. Sham and irrelevant answers, and irrelevant and redundant matter inserted in a pleading, may be stricken out, upon such terms as the court may in its discretion, impose. [R. S. § 4208.]

First Nat. Bank v. Martin (1898) 6 I. 204, 55 P. 302.

§ 6709. [4209] Pleading an account. It is not necessary for a party to set forth in pleading the items of an account therein alleged, but he must deliver to the adverse party within ten days after a demand thereof in writing, a copy of the account, or be precluded from giving evidence thereof. The court or a judge thereof, may order a further account when the one delivered is too general or is defective in any particular. [R. S. § 4209.]

Allegation of balance: This section is intended to relieve the pleader from the necessity of specifying the exact amount of each separate item of an account and amply protects the adverse party from surprise at the trial. It is sufficient to allege an indebtedness on a balance of account for money loaned, services performed, goods furnished and money paid between certain dates. Mills v. Glennon (1885) 2 I 105, 6 P. 116.

Bill of particulars: This section provides the method for an adverse party securing an itemized statement of an account, and in addition to that provision of the statute the court in an equity case has the inherent power to so regulate and control its proceedings as to require the party to furnish a bill of particulars in a proper case. Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1908) 14 I. 5, 93 P. 789.

Discretion of court: The requirement that the adverse party shall serve an itemized statement of the account sued on within 10 days after demand therefor is not mandatory but directory, and vests a discretion in the trial court as to whether or not it should inflict the extreme penalty of excluding evidence of such an account where the party has failed to serve the statement within the time required. [4211] Pleading a judgment. In pleading a judgment or other determination of a court, officer or board, it is not necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction, but such judgment or determination may be stated to have been duly given or made. Ethell v. Nichols (1879) 1 I. 741.

§ 6712. [4212] Pleading conditions precedent. In pleading the performance of conditions precedent in a contract, it is not necessary to state the facts showing such performance, but it may be stated generally that the party duly performed all the conditions on his part, and if such allegation be controverted, the party pleading must establish on the trial the facts showing such performance. § 6713. [4213] Pleading statute of limitations. In pleading the statute of limitations it is not necessary to state the facts showing the defense, but it may be stated generally that the cause of action is barred by the provision of section —— (giving the number of the section and subdivision thereof, if it is so divided, relied upon) of the Code of Civil Procedure; and if such allegation be controverted, the party pleading must establish on the trial the facts showing that the cause of action is so barred. Miscitation of statute: If the pleader cites the wrong section of the statute of limitations he can not urge the question on appeal unless he amended in the court below. Tritthart v. Tritthart (1913) 24 I. 186, 133 P. 121.

Sufficiency of pleading: The statute of limitations is not sufficiently pleaded by general demurrer but should be pleaded by answer in accordance with this section. Kelly v. Leachman (1893) 3 I. 629, 33 P. 4. The statute must be pleaded by answer or special demurrer; a general demurrer is insufficient although the complaint shows on its face that the cause of action is barred. Chemung M. Co. v. Hanley, (1904) 9 I. 786, 77 P. 226.

A statute of limitations may be pleaded either in the demurrer or answer, where it appears on the face of the complaint that the cause of action is barred by such statute, and by answer where it does not appear on the face of the complaint that the cause of action is so barred. The plea of the statute of limitations can not be invoked by general demurrer. Rogers v. O. W. R. R. &. N. Co. (1916) 28 I. 609, 156 P. 98.

Where it clearly appears on the face of the complaint that the cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations the statute must be pleaded by special demurrer. Where, however, this is not true, the plea of the statute must be taken by answer, and, if this is not done, the statute must be regarded as abandoned, and can not be taken advantage of on objection to the admissibility of evidence. McLeod v. Rogers (1916) 28 I. 412, 154 P. 970.

Affirmative defensive matter: Any affirmative matter which must be plead as a defense is deemed denied. Allen v. Phoenix Assurance Co. (1906) 12 I. 653, 88 P. 245.

The failure of the plaintiff in a personal injury action to deny under oath the genuineness and due execution of a release relied on as a bar by the defendants, does not preclude the plaintiff from showing that the release was obtained by fraud. Cox v. Northwestern Stage Co. (1871) 1 I. 376.

There is a distinction between situation of defendant who fails to plead matters relied upon as an affirmative defense and of a plaintiff under the code which has abolished replication, when it comes to attacking affirmative matter pleaded as new matter in the answer. Pettingill v. Blackman (1917) 30 I. 241, 164 P. 358.

Statute of limitations: Where an answer interposes the statute of limitations as a defense, the matter therein stated is deemed to be denied, and it is error to render judgment on the pleadings in favor of the defendant. Alspaugh v. Reid (1898) 6 I. 223, 55 P. 300. And this is the rule even though the complaint shows on its face that the action is barred. Chemung M. Co. v. Hanley (1904) 9 I. 786, 77 P. 226.

Where statute of limitations is pleaded by answer the question as to whether defendant is not estopped from raising that question may be determined without pleading estoppel in complaint. Powell-Sanders Co. v. Carssow (1915) 28 I. 201, 152 P. 1067.

No proof required: An admission contained in a pleading sustains a finding conformable to such admission. Broadbent v. Brumback (1888) 2 I. 336, 16 P. 555.

Where defendants fail to deny an allegation of the complaint they waive their right to proof thereto, and the plaintiff is justified in not tendering his testimony in support of the same. Burke v. McDonald (1890) 2 I. 679, 33 P. 49.

Admissions made in pleadings are not required to be supported by evidence on the part of the adverse party. Such admissions are taken as true against the party making them, without further proof or controversy. On the other hand, the plaintiff is deemed to have denied all allegations of new matter contained in the answer, but such statutory denials do not impose upon the plaintiff the necessity of proving any such allegations, in the event he desires to rely on or avail himself of any admissions therein contained. Knowles v. New Sweden Irr. Dist. (1909) 16 I. 217, 101 P. 81.

The pleadings in a cause are before the court as part of the proceedings, without being introduced in evidence. Admissions made by a pleading need not be supported by evidence of the opposing party. Wheeler v. Gilmore etc. Rr. Co. (1913) 23 I. 479, 130 P. 801.

Contributory negligence is a defense, to be pleaded and proved by the defendant; but that does not alter the rule that, where the complaint itself shows that the negligence of the plaintiff was one of the contributing causes of the injury, or the proximate cause of the injury, the plaintiff can not recover. Goure v. Storey (1909) 17 I 352, 105 P. 794.

VARIANCE, MISTAKES AND AMENDMENTS.

§ 6722. [4225] Material variance defined. No variance between the allegation in a pleading and the proof is to be deemed material unless it has actually misled the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense upon the merits. Whenever it appears that the party has been so misled, the court may order the pleading to be amended upon such terms as may be just. [R. S. § 4225.]

Variance: Variance arises when there is a substantial departure from the issue in the evidence adduced, and must be in some matter which in point of law is essential to the charge or claim. Davidson Gro. Co. v. Johnston (1913) 24 I. 336, 133 P. 929. Ann. Cas. 1915C 1129.

Immaterial variance: Where the defendants induced the plaintiff to believe that they were jointly liable on a contract, and the complaint was accordingly drawn on that theory, evidence which showed that the contract was made with but one of the defendants, could not have misled such defendant and was not a material variance. Hewitt v. Maize (1897) 5 I. 633, 51 P. 607.

Mode of objection: In case a variance misleads the adverse party to his prejudice, it is his duty to show the fact to the court, and he can not first raise the objection on motion for new trial or on appeal to the supreme court. Aulbach v. Dahler (1896) 4 I. 654, 43 P. 322; Johnson v. Gary (1910) 18 I. 623, 111 P. 855; Maw v. Coast Lbr. Co. (1911) 19 I. 396, 114 P. 9.

§ 6723. [4226] Immaterial variance: Amendment. Where the variance is not material, as provided in the last section, the court may direct the fact to be found according to the evidence, or may order an immediate amendment, without costs. [R. S. § 4226.]

§ 6724. [4227] Failure of proof. Where, however, the allegation of the claim or defense to which the proof is directed is unproved, not in some particular or particulars only but in its general scope and meaning, it is not to be deemed a case of variance within the last two sections, but a failure of proof. of the issue of law thereon, by filing the same as amended and serving a copy on the adverse party, who may have 10 days thereafter in which to answer or demur to the amended pleading. A demurrer is not waived by filing an answer at the same time; and when the demurrer to the complaint is overruled and there is no answer filed, the court may, upon such terms as may be just, allow an answer to be filed. Amendment of demurrer: A demurrer is a pleading and may be amended; if the amended demurrer is filed without permission of the court, the court may nevertheless, in its discretion, permit the same to remain on file. Kelly v. Leachman (1892) 3 I. 629, 33 P. 44. Leave to file an amended demurrer should first be obtained, but should be granted as of course as to a first amendment prior to hearing. It is not permissible to file a number of demurrers to the same pleading. Dunbar v. Bd. of Comrs. (1897) 5 I. 407, 49 P. 409.

Effect of amendment: Where an amended complaint and answer thereto are filed, the original complaint and answer cease to perform any function as pleadings and are no part of the record. P. v. Hunt (1872) 1 I. 433. An amended complaint renders the original functus officio as a pleading and takes the place of the original and dates back by relation to the time of filing such original. Woody v. Jamieson (1895) 4 I. 448, 40 P. 61.

Though demurrer pending to original complaint, plaintiff may file an amended complaint. Nuestel v. Spokane I. Ry Co. (1915) 27 I. 367, 149 P. 462.

Where a complaint is amended it takes the place of the original complaint, and the action of the trial court in overruling a demurrer to the original complaint becomes of no consequence, and can not be alleged as error on appeal. Andrews v. Moore (1908) 14 I. 465, 94 P. 579.

Service of amendment: When the plaintiff files an amended complaint in which material facts which are not contained in the original complaint are alleged, the amended complaint must be served upon all the defendants against whom judgment is sought upon such amended complaint. Vermont etc Co. v. McGregor (1897) 5 I. 510, 51 P. 104.

Answer to amendment: It is not necessary to deny affirmative allegations in an amended cross-complaint made by defendant when such allegations were contained in substance in the original cross-complaint of said defendant and were denied by the answer of plaintiff thereto. Brossard v. Morgan (1900) 7 I. 215, 61 P. 1031.

Time for amendment: Under this section the parties may amend any pleading once as a matter of course at any time before answer or demurrer is filed, or after demurrer and before the trial of the issue of law thereon, but such right of amendment without leave of court does not extend beyond the time allowed by law for filing a demurrer or answer where no such pleading has in fact been filed, and the right to thereafter file such a pleading rests in the sound discretion of the court. Dunbar v. Griffiths (1908) 14 I. 120, 93 P. 654.

Amendments under this section should be submitted before the close of the trial and submission of the case. Snowy Pea M. Co. v. Tamarack etc Co. (1910) 17 I. 630, 107 P. 60.

§ 6726. [4229] General power to permit amendments, relieve from defaults, etc. The court may, in furtherance of justice and on such terms as may be proper, allow a party to amend any pleading or proceeding by adding or striking out the name of any party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party or a mistake in any other respect, and may upon like terms, enlarge the time for answer or demurrer. The court may likewise, in its discretion, after notice to the adverse party, allow upon such terms as may be just an amendment to any pleading or proceeding in other particulars, and may, upon like terms, allow an answer to be made after the time limited by this code, and also relieve a party, or his legal representative, from a judgment, order or other proceeding taken against him through his mistake, inadvertance, surprise or excusable neglect; and whenever, for any reason satisfactor to the court or the judge thereof, the party aggrieved has failed to apply for the relief sought during the term at which such judgment, order or proceeding complained of was taken, the court, or the judge thereof in vacation, may grant the relief upon application made within a reasonable time, not exceeding six months after the adjournment of the term. When from any cause the summons in an action has not been personally served on the defendant, the court may allow, on such terms as may be just, such defendant, or his legal representative, at any time within one year after the rendition of any judgment in such action, to answer to the merits of the original action. When in an action to recover the possession of personal property the person making any affidavit did not truly state the value of the property and the officer taking the property or the sureties on any bond or undertaking, is sued for taking the same, the officer or sureties may, in their answer, set up the true value of the property, and that the person in whose behalf said affidavit was made was entitled to the possession of the same when said affidavit was made or that the value in the affidavit stated was inserted by mistake, the court shall disregard the value as stated in the affidavit and give judgment according to the right of possession of said property at the time the affidavit was made. Applied to probate court: This section applies to practice in the probate court. Connolly v. Probate Court (1913) 25 I. 35, 136 P. 205; Chandler v. Probate Court (1914) 26 I. 173, 141 P. 635; Est. of Blackington (1916) 29 L. 310, 158 P. 492.

Amendment of Pleadings.

Liberal rule: Great liberality should be shown in allowing amendments to pleadings in furtherance of justice between the parties. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. (1903) 9 I. 277, 74 P. 868; Dunbar v. Griffiths (1908) 14 I. 120, 93 P. 654; Rankin v. Caldwell (1908) 15 I. 625, 99 P. 108. Unless the exercise of the discretion to permit amendments vested in the trial court deprives the complaining party of some substantial right, it is not error. Havlick v. Davidson (1909) 15 I. 787, 100 P. 91; Panhandle L. Co. v. Rancour (1913) 24 I. 603, 135 P. 558.

The court may permit a defendant to withdraw his answer and cross complaint and file an amended demurrer to the complaint. Murphy v. Russell & Co. (1901) 8 I. 133, 67 P. 421.

It is not prejudicial error to refuse to permit an amendment to a pleading where the facts set forth in the amendment were admissible under the pleading prior to the amendment. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. (1903) 9 I. 277, 74 P. 868.

Not error for trial court to allow amendment to complaint where defendant allowed a continuance, if he desired. Lorang v. Randall (1915) 27 I. 259, 148 P. 468.

New issue prohibited: A new complaint and a new cause of action can not be substituted under the guise of an amendment to the original complaint. Hallett v. Larcom (1897) 5 I. 492, 51 P. 108.

Where amendment would change entirely or materially the issues, discretion of the court in refusing amendment will not be questioned. Fralick v. Mercer (1915) 27 I. 360, 148 P. 906.

Showing: An amendment proposed under this section must be supported by a showing sufficient to set in motion the discretion of the court to allow the party to amend. Snowy Peak M. Co. v. Tamarack etc. Co. (1910) 17 I. 630, 107 P. 60.

But it is an abuse of discretion for the court to refuse to permit a party to state to the court his reasons for invoking the court's assistance. Dunbar v. Griffiths (1908) 14 I. 120, 93 P. 654.

Time of amendment: After a case has been reversed on appeal and remanded for a new trial, the allowance of amendments to the pleadings is in the discretion of the court. Park v. Boulware (1903) 9 I. 225, 73 P. 19; Elder v. I. W. N. Rr. (1914) 26 I. 209, 141 P. 982.

Where a cause has been pending for some three or four years and had been finally tried and determined, it was proper for the court to refuse to permit the defendant to amend his answer and to file a cross complaint which would have necessitated a retrial of the case. Kindall v. Lincoln Hardware etc. Co. (1904) 10 I. 13, 76 P. 992.

Where plaintiff's attention is directed by demurrer or answer to the uncertainty or insufficiency of his complaint and he fails for two years to apply for leave to amend, it is not error for the court to refuse an application to amend made at that date. Chemung M. Co. v. Hanley (1904) 9 I. 786, 77 P. 226.

An application to amend complaint while motion for nonsuit is pending is addressed to sound discretion of trial court. The Mode v. Myers (1917) 30 I. 159, 164 P. 91.

To conform to proof: The trial court has large discretion in permitting amendments to pleadings, and may permit such amendments at any stage of the proceedings almost as of course to make the pleadings correspond with the proof. Pa. etc. Co. v. Gallagher (1910) 19 I. 101, 112 P. 1044.

It is clearly within the discretion of the trial judge to permit amendments to be made after the close of the evidence to conform to the proof. Rankin v. Caldwell (1908) 15 I. 625, 99 P. 108; Sweeney v. Johnson (1913) 23 I. 530, 130 P. 997; Unfried v. Libert (1913) 23 I. 603, 131 P. 660; Trask v. Boise King Placers Co. (1914) 26 I. 290, 142 P. 1073.

Where, after the close of the evidence in the trial of a case, an amendment is proposed to the answer, and it appears that such proposed amendment would not be supported by the proof, it is not error to disallow the same. Valentine v. Rosenhaupt (1910) 19 I. 130, 112 P. 685.

Where it appears that the amendment offered is made for the purpose of conforming to the proof and does not present any new cause of action or issue, and the opposing party has not been misled or deprived of introducing any evidence which he might desire to offer in consequence of the amendment, it is error for the court to disallow such amendment. Harrison v. Russell & Co. (1909) 17 I. 196, 105 P. 48.

Where application to amend a pleading to conform to the proof is made before the findings and decree are signed by the judge, such application is not too late, and should not for that reason be denied, but otherwise if no proof to support same. Snowy Peak M. Co. v. Tamarack etc. Co. (1910) 17 I. 630, 107 P. 60.

Attachment proceedings: Secs. 6812, 6813, and 6814, expressly directed to the subject to attachments, limit and control the general provisions of § 6726. Heaton v. Panhandle Smelting Co., 32 I. —, 179 P. 510.

Vacation of Judgments.

Application of remedy: If for any excusable neglect a defendant allowed judgment to be taken against him in the lower court, his remedy is in that court under this section, and not in a direct appeal to the supreme court. Kraft v. Greathouse (1869) 1 I. 254.

Plaintiff has no right to have judgment standing on records against defendant, if same is void, and motion to vacate is a proper procedure. Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 75, 147 P. 286; Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 78, 147 P. 284.

Where, through mistake, there has been a failure to enter the judgment pronounced, the court has power to correct the matter and to order the proper entry made. Clerical mistakes in judgment may be corrected but judicial errors can only be remedied by motion for new trial or upon appeal. Wylie v. Kent (1915) 28 I. 16, 152 P. 194.

The provisions of this section apply to judgments entered on a trial of the case as well as judgments entered by default. Franklin Co. v. Bannock Co. (1916) 28 I. 653, 156 P. 108.

A void judgment in divorce action may be set aside even after death of one of parties when property interests of survivor are involved. Vincent v. Black (1917) 30 I. 636, 166 P. 923.

An order extending time to plead entered after entry of default operates ipso facto to vacate default. Default judgment entered while cause is at issue is void. Ib.

Discretion of court: An application to vacate a default judgment is entrusted to the discretion of the trial court and such discretion will not be reviewed unless abused. Baker v. Knott (1893) 3 I. 700, 35 P.172; Western Loan etc Co. v. Smith (1906) 12 I. 94, 85 P. 1084; Pease v. County of Kootenai (1901) 7 I. 731, 65 P. 432; Culver v. Mountainhome Elec. Co. (1910) 17 I. 669, 107 P. 65; Green v. Kandle (1911) 20 I. 190, 118 P. 90; Richards v. Richards (1913) 24 I. 87, 132 P. 576; Neustal v. Spokane I. Ry. Co. (1915) 27 I. 367, 149 P. 462; Domer v. Stone (1915) 27 I. 279, 149 P. 505; Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 78, 147 P. 284; Franklin Co. v. Bannock Co. (1916) 28 I. 653, 156 P. 108.

But the improper exercise of such discretion will be corrected when the essential elements necessary to set such discretion in motion are wanting. Holzemar v. Henneberry (1905) 11 I. 428, 83 P. 497; Valley S. Bk v. Post Falls etc. Co. (1916) 29 I. 587, 161 P. 242.

In determining the question of discretion, the power of the court should be freely and liberally exercised under the statute to mold and direct its proceedings so as to dispose of cases upon their substantial merits. Pittock v. Pittock (1908) 15 I. 47, 96 P. 212; Hamilton v. Hamilton (1912) 21 I. 672, 123 P. 630; Humphrey v. Idaho Gold etc Co. (1912) 21 I. 126, 129 P. 823, 40 L. R. A. (N. S.) 817.

Discretionary power means a sound and impartial discretion and should be resolved in case of doubt, in favor of the application. Hamilton v. Hamilton, supra.

Grounds: The premature entry of judgment or its entry contrary to the terms of a stipulation between the parties may be corrected in the lower court under this section. Grete v. Knott (1881) 2 I. 1, 3 P. 25.

Where a mistake, purely clerical, is nade in entering a judgment, such mis-ake being in the description of land, such nistake may be corrected under the pro-isions of this section. Wilcox v. Wells 1898) 5 I. 786, 51 P. 985.

A mistake in the transmission of a tele-gram sent by the judge setting the date or a hearing, whereby the party is de-prived of a hearing without his fault, is sufficient ground for vacating a judg-nent. Thum v. Pyke (1898) 6 I. 359, 5 P. 864.

To vacate a default defendant must show his mistake was one of fact and not law. Neglect of lawyer to familiarize himself with the practice of the forum wherein ase is pending, is not excusable. Domer . Stone (1915) 27 I. 279, 149 P. 505; Valley S. Bk. v. Post Falls etc. Co. (1916) 9 I. 587, 161 P. 242.

Neglect of attorney acting as agent not ufficient to justify court in setting aside efault against principal. (Davis, D. J., issents.) Kynaston v. Thorpe (1916) 29 . 302, 158 P. 790.

Time for proceedings: A motion to set side a judgment may be made within six nonths after the adjournment of the term t which the judgment was rendered, and eed not necessarily be made within six nonths after the rendition of the judgment. Kerns v. McAulay (1902) 8 I. 558, 69 P. 39. But the court is without power to acate a judgment after the expiration of he prescribed six months unless the court cted without jurisdiction, and such fact ppears from the judgment roll. Vane v. ones (1907) 13 I. 21, 88 P. 1058.

The requirements of this section as to ne time within which proceedings may be aken for the vacation of an order, and s to notice to the adverse party, do not pply to void orders, and judgments. Kerns v. Morgan (1905) 11 I. 572, 83 P. 54; Shumake v. Shumake (1910) 17 I. 49, 107 P. 42.

Same: In probate court: The court or ne judge thereof does not have juris-iction to open up or set aside its decree nore than six months after decree is en-ered. Connolly v. Probate Court (1913) 5 I. 35, 136 P. 205.

Terms of the probate court have been olished by § 6468, but a maximum "reas-nable time" under this section would be x months from the rendering of the de-ee or the making of the order to be set side. Chandler v. Probate Court (1914) 3 I. 173, 141 P. 635.

Showing: Affidavits on motion to set side a default judgment must show that e default occurred through mistake, in-dvertence, surprise or excusable neglect. Western Loan etc. Co. v. Smith (1906) 12 94, 85 P. 1084. And must also set forth cts from which the court can judge hether or not the defendant has a merit-ious defense. Holzeman v. Henneberry 1905) 11 I. 428, 83 P. 497; Holland Bk Lieuallen (1898) 6 I. 127, 53 P. 398; ck v. Lavin (1908) 15 I. 363, 369, 97 P. 28; Council Imp. Co. v. Draper (1909) I. 541, 102 P. 7; Culver v. Mountain ome Elec. Co. (1910) 17 I. 669, 107 P. ; Harr v. Kight (1910) 78 I. 53, 108 539; Hall v. Whittier (1911) 20 I. 120 6 P. 1031.

Proper practice does not permit the facts stated in the applicant's affidavit, which constitute his defense to the action, to be rebutted by counter affidavits. (On rehearing) Beck v. Lavin (1908) 15 I. 369, 97 P. 1028.

A litigant moving for relief under this section on the grounds of mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect, must show that he has exercised due diligence in the prosecution and protection of his rights, such as an ordinary prudent man would exercise under similar conditions. Council Imp. Co. v. Draper (1909) 16 I. 541, 102 P. 7.

Where a defendant has been sued in a state court and summons has been served upon him, and prior to the expiration of the time allowed by statute for him to answer, but without appearing or answering he files a petition for removal to the federal court and the removal is ordered and the cause is thereafter remanded by the federal court on the ground that it was not removable from the state court, and in the meanwhile the defendant has allowed his time to elapse in which to appear or answer and he makes no appearance in the state court, and the clerk thereupon enters his default for failure to appear or answer, he can not thereafter move to have the default vacated and the judgment set aside on the ground of his mistake, inadvertence and excusable neglect. Morbeck v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1910) 19 I. 83, 113 P. 89; S. v. Am. Surety Co. (1914) 26 I. 652, 145 P. 1097, Ann. Cas. 1916E 209.

Where only documentary evidence is before the court below, and it renders its decision upon such evidence alone, this court will make an original examination of the evidence as contained in the record and will exercise its judgment and discretion, the same as if the case were being presented to it in the first instance. Parsons v. Wrble (1911) 19 I. 619, 115 P. 8, 13.

Where a judgment has been obtained by plaintiff in an action which does not survive and the plaintiff thereafter dies before a motion for a new trial is heard or before the case is heard upon appeal, a clear showing ought to be required from the moving party before the court should set aside or reverse the judgment. Green v. Kandle (1911) 20 I. 190, 118 P. 90.

Where an application is made to open a default and set aside a judgment and the defendant in support of said motion presents and asks to have filed a verified answer, and the answer states a defense to the cause of action stated in the complaint, such answer is sufficient as an affidavit of merits, but a cross-complaint will not be considered as part of the answer. Vollmer Clearwater Co. v. Grunewald (1912) 21 I. 777, 124 P. 278.

If a party stands on his pleadings and a motion is presented which goes to the vitals of the issue, he must abide the result, and the court will not set aside the judgment and allow amendments, where such party is not taken by surprise. Union Trust etc. Bk. v. Idaho S. & R. Co. (1913) 24 I. 735, 135 P. 822.

In an action for divorce, where a default has been taken a much more liberal rule should be followed on motion to vacate the default than in an ordinary action involving property rights, for the reason that the state, as well as the parties, is interested in the marital relationship. (Dis. op.) Darwin v. Darwin (1915) 27 I. 303, 149 P. 467.

Lack of personal service: Where the defendant has not been personally served and an application to set aside a default is made within a year, it is within the legal discretion of the court to grant such application and to open the default and permit the defendant to file an answer on the merits. Brooks v. Orchard L. Co. (1912) 21 I. 212, 121 P. 101.

Where the service of summons is made upon the county auditor and not upon an officer of a company or its designated agent, such summons has not been "personally served" on the defendant within the meaning of the term as used in this section. (Sullivan, J. dissents) Ib.

Service by leaving a notice at the last and usual place of abode of the defendant is not personal service but a substitute for it. Ib.

Other Proceedings.

Cost bills: Where no notice of the filing of a cost bill is given the adverse party may obtain relief from the bill if it is exorbitant. McDonald v. Burke (1892) 3 I. 266, 28 P. 440, 35 A. S. R. 276.

On a motion to strike a cost bill from the files on the ground that such bill was not filed within five days after the notice of the decision of the court, a showing upon opposition to said motion that at the time of the decision plaintiff was in an eastern state and that his attorney did not have sufficient data to make out such bill, is not sufficient to excuse the failure to file such bill. Stickney v. Berry (1900) 7 I. 302, 62 P. 925.

Bill of exceptions: A misunderstanding of an attorney as to the time when a 60-day extension of the time within which to file a bill of exceptions should begin to run is not ground for invoking the provisions of this section in support of an application for still further time in which to prepare and serve the bill of exceptions. Sandstrom v. Smith (1906) 11 I. 779, 84 P. 1060.

The preparation and settlement of a statement or bill of exceptions is a proceeding within the meaning of the term "proceeding" as used in this section, and where application is made to the court to settle a bill of exceptions after the time has expired for serving the same, on the ground of mistake, inadvertence or excusable neglect, and the court finds that the bill was not served in time by reason of mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect, it is the duty of the court to grant relief from such default. Richardson v. Bohney (1910) 18 I. 328, 109 P. 727.

Indorsement: Court properly allows amendment changing indorsement by "clerk" to be by "auditor" to conform to requirements of law. O'Connor v. Comrs. of Bear Lake Co. (1909) 17 I. 346, 351, 105 P. 560.

Stipulations: It is within the sound judicial discretion of the trial court, for good cause shown and in furtherance of justice, to relieve parties from stipulations which they have entered into in the course of judicial proceedings, and it is its duty to do so when enforcement thereof would be inequitable and when all parties to the action will, by vacating the stipulation, be placed in exactly the same condition they were in before it was made. Koepl v. Rupert (1916) 29 I. 223, 158 P. 319.

§ 6727. [4230] Fictitious designation of defendant. When the plaintiff is ignorant of the name of a defendant he must state that fact in the complaint, and such defendant may be designated in any pleading or proceeding by any name, and when his true name is discovered, the pleading or proceeding must be amended accordingly. Even if the judgment in an action of replevin is not in the alternative and makes no provision for the return of the property, if it clearly appears from the record that return can not be had, money judgment will be sustained. Cady v. Keller (1916) 28 I. 368, 154 P. 629.

On appeal: A party to an action will not be permitted to stand by and neglect or refuse to raise seasonable objections to mere defects in pleadings or proceedings and thereafter take advantage of such defects on appeal. Nobach v. Scott (1911) 20 I. 558, 119 P. 295.

that they are bound to the defendant in double the value of the property as stated in the affidavit for the prosecution of the action, for the return of the property to the defendant, if return thereof be adjudged, and for the payment to him of such sum as may from any cause be recovered against the plaintiff, the sheriff must forthwith take the property described in the affidavit, if it be in the possession of the defendant or his agent, and retain it in his custody. He must, without delay, serve on the defendant a copy of the affidavit, notice and undertaking, by delivering the same to him personally, if he can be found, or to his agent from whose possession the property is taken; or, if neither can be found, by leaving them at the usual place of abode of either, with some person of suitable age and discretion; or, if neither have any known place of abode, by putting them in the nearest post office, directed to the defendant. INJUNCTIONS.

§ 6768. [4287] Injunction defined. An injunction is a writ or order requiring a person to refrain from a particular act. It may be granted by the court in which the action is brought, or by a judge thereof, and when made by a judge, it may be enforced as the order of the court. [R. C. § 4287.]

Injunction against completed act: An injunction can only issue to restrain the commission of a future or contemplated action, and the writ will not be granted to restrain an act which has already occurred. Wilson v. Boise City (1900) 7 I. 69, 60 P. 84; Roberts v. Kartzke (1910) 18 I. 552, 111 P. 1.

Remedy preventive: Under this section an injunction is a writ to restrain a contemplated act and not a writ commanding a person to do a certain act. Brinton v. Steele (1910) 19 I. 71, 112 P. 319; (On rehearing) Fischer v. Davis (1911) 19 I. 501, 116 P. 414. Beem v. Davis, 31 I. 730, 175 P. 959.

Restraining order: A restraining order under § 6773 is an injunction as defined herein, and is void unless plaintiff gives an undertaking as required by § 6772. Mc Watters v. Stockslager (1917) 29 I. 803, 162 P. 671.

Against officers: Will not lie to restrain a ministerial act by a public official where no property rights are involved. Donovan v. Dougherty, 31 I. 622, 174 P. 701.

Appeal: Completed act: Where it appears that the act sought to be enjoined has been done, the court will not upon appeal review an order of the trial court dissolving a preliminary injunction. Abel v. Turner Trust Co. 31 I. 777, 176 P. 884.

Review of restraining order: Where a temporary restraining order is issued upon a verified complaint, it will not be vacated on appeal, where the allegations of the complaint are sufficient to justify the issuance of the order. Pfirman v. Success M. Co. 32 I. —, 179 P. 50.

§ 6769. Grounds for injunction. An injunction may be granted in the following cases:

1. When it appears by the complaint that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief demanded, and such relief or any part thereof, consists in restraining the commission or continuance of the act complained of, either for a limited period or perpetually.

2. When it appears by the complaint or affidavit that the commission or continuance of some act during the litigation would produce waste, great or irreparable injury to the plaintiff.

3. When it appears during the litigation that the defendant is doing, or threatens, or is about to do, or is procuring or suffering to be done, some act in violation of the plaintiff's rights, respecting the subject of the action, and tending to render the judgment ineffectual.

4. When it appears, by affidavit, that the defendant during the pendency of the action, threatens, or is about to remove, or to dispose of his property with intent to defraud the plaintiff, an injunction order may be granted to restrain the removal or disposition.

5. An injunction may also be granted on the motion of the defendant upon filing a cross-complaint, praying for affirmative relief upon any of the grounds mentioned above in this section, subject to the same rules and provisions provided for the issuance of injunctions on behalf of the plaintiff.

6. The district courts or any judge thereof sitting in chambers, in addition to the powers already possessed, shall have power to issue writs of injunction for affirmative relief having the force and effect of a writ of restitution, restoring any person or persons to the possession of any real property from the actual possession of which he or the nay be ousted by force, or violence, or fraud, or stealth, or any combiiation thereof, or from which he or they are kept out of possession by hreats whenever such possession was taken from him or them by entry)f the adverse party on Sunday or a legal holiday, or in the night time,)r while the party in possession was temporarily absent therefrom. The granting of such writ shall extend only to the right of possession under he facts of the case, in respect to the manner in which the possession was)btained, leaving the parties to their legal rights on all other questions the ame as though no such writ had issued: Provided, That no such writ hall issue except upon notice in writing to the adverse party of at least ive days of the time and place of making application therefor. Discretion of court: Large discretion is ested in the trial court in the granting of temporary injunction to hold property n statu quo pending a determination of ne action, and its exercise of such discreon will not be reversed on appeal unless clear abuse of such discretion is shown. 'eber v. Della Mountain M. Co. (1905) 1 I. 264, 81 P. 931; Shields v. Johnson 1904) 10 I. 454, 79 P. 394. Where the icts are disputed the granting or dissolvig of an injunction is within the discreon of the court, although the answer deies all the equities of the complaint. Price Grice (1904) 10 I. 443, 79 P. 387. Harman v. Woodall, 31 I. 750, 176 P. 565.

Where both parties to an action to quiet tle to certain land are each claiming to the owner, upon a proper showing an junction will be granted to preserve the operty in statu quo pending the litigaon. Castlebury v. Harte (1908) 15 I.)9, 98 P. 293.

Courts should be more liberal in grantg injunctions pendente lite than upon e trial of the case upon its merits. Boise ev. Co. v. Idaho etc. Bk. (1913) 24 I. 133 P. 916; Buena Vista etc. Co. v. oise Basin Imp. Co. (1916) 29 I. 789, 2 P. 330.

Mining cases: Where a title to a mine in litigation and the plaintiff by his comaint shows title thereto, an injunction ay be granted to restrain working the ine pending the determination of the igation. Gilpin v. Sierra Nev. Con. M. Co. (1890) 2 I. 696, 23 P. 547, 1014. The practice is to be liberal in granting injunctive relief in mining litigation in order that neither party may get the advantage of the order during litigation by force or violence. Safford v. Flemming (1907) 13 I. 271, 89 P. 827.

Where an action is brought to determine the right of possession to and the ownership of certain mining ground, and it appears from the complaint and affidavit of one of the plaintiffs that the defendants have threatened to assault the plaintiffs and their employees if they appeared upon or undertook to do any work upon such claim, it is proper for the court to grant an injunction pendente lite, enjoining the defendants, their agents or employees from in any manner interfering with the plaintiffs and their employees in performing the necessary discovery work and other work upon said claim necessary to hold the same, although all of the allegations of the complaint and affidavit are denied by the defendants. Safford v. Flemming (1907) 13 I. 271, 89 P. 827; Stewart M. Co. v. Ontario M. Co. (1913) 23 I. 280, 129 P. 932.

Restraint of trespass: A temporary injunction may issue to restrain a trespasser from removing timber which he has cut upon land claimed by the plaintiff, pending suit to establish plaintiff's title, when the case is one of urgency and where the cutting and removal of such timber would result in great injury to the plaintiff, although the injury might not be irreparable, the defendant being solvent, and notwithstanding that other remedies lie in behalf of the plaintiff. Staples v. Rossi (1901) 7 I. 618, 65 P. 67.

Courts of equity should hesitate before granting injunctions to restrain trespasses committed under color of title or right. In this case it was observed in support of such an injunction that strong evidence was submitted tending to show the inability of the defendants to respond to any judgment for damages. Shields v. Johnson (1904) 10 I. 454, 79 P. 394.

Where the complaint alleges great and irreparable injury to growing crops, the damage to which can not be justly estimated, resulting from checking the flow in the irrigation ditch conveying water to desert lands on which such crops are growing, a temporary injunction to restrain the obstruction of such flow of water, pending litigation, is authorized. Wilson v. Eagleson (1903) 9 I. 17, 71 P. 613.

Nuisances: Where the complaint and affidavits for an injunction against a city allege a nuisance especially injurious to the plaintiff, and the defendant does not deny the existence of the nuisance but alleges that it has taken steps to abate the same, and that it intends to prevent any recurrence thereof, but affidavits are produced showing that conditions have not been materially changed and that the cause of complaint still exists, it is error to deny a temporary injunction. Schreck v. Coeur d'Alene (1906) 12 I. 708, 87 P. 1001.

Restraining sheriffs' sales: The foreclosure of a chattel mortgage executed by the husband alone upon exempt property contrary to Laws of 1899, p. 292, may be enjoined. Kendall v. Lincoln Hdw. & Imp. Co. (1902) 8 I. 664, 70 P. 1056. An injunction will issue to restrain the sheriff from selling personal property where it is shown that the plaintiff has no plain, speedy or adequate remedy at law, or that the defendant is insolvent and not able to respond in damages. Kester v. Schuldt (1905) 11 I. 663, 85 P. 974.

Sale of corporate stock: Where the proposed action of a corporation to sel the stock of an insane stockholder for th payment of an assessment, is founded upo and instigated by the wrongful acts an conduct of a person who controls a major ity of the capital stock, and a part of th stock going to make up such majority wa procured by such person from the insan stockholder, and a cause of action fo fraud and wrongful conduct is charge against the person so controlling a major ity of the stock, a temporary restrainin order against the corporation making suc sale is incidental to the main action, an is a proper relief to be granted in th sound discretion of the court until th case can be heard on its merits. Weber v Della Mountain M. Co. (1905) 11 I. 264 81 P. 931.

Irreparable injury unnecessary: An in junction will issue to temporarily restrai an act which will result in great damag to the plaintiff although the injury is no irreparable, and although other remedie by way of damages are open to the plain tiff. Meyer v. First Nat. Bk. of Coeu d'Alene (1904) 10 I. 175, 77 P. 334; Price v. Grice (1904) 10 I. 443, 79 P. 387.

§ 6770. [4289] When granted: Complaints and affidavits. The in junction may be granted at the time of issuing the summons, upon the complaint, and at any time afterwards, before judgment, upon affidavits The complaint in the one case, and the affidavits in the other, must show satisfactorily that sufficient grounds exist therefor. No injunction can be granted on the complaint unless it is verified. When the application is upon notice or order to show cause, a copy of the moving papers must be served with the notice or order; when granted without notice a copy of the moving papers must be served with the injunction. Successive writs: Successive writs of injunction may be granted on the complaint alone without any supplementary affidavits, where all are of the same tenor and effect, except that they extend th time within which the defendant may ap pear and show cause, and the reason fo issuing the later writs is the inability o the sheriff to find the defendant or an person upon whom to serve the prior writ Powell v. Within five days after the service of the injunction, the defendant may except to the sufficiency of the sureties. If he fails to do so he is deemed to have waived all objections to them. When excepted to, the plaintiff's sureties, upon notice to the defendant of not less than two or more than five days, must justify before the judge or a probate judge, in the same manner as upon bail on arrest, and upon failure to justify, or if others in their place fail to justify at the time and place appointed, the order granting an injunction shall be dissolved. Review on appeal: Where, upon a hearing in the district court on an order to show cause why a temporary restraining order should not be continued, the only matters before the court were the verified complaint and an affidavit in support thereof, and the showing so made is sufficient to justify the court in continuing the order in force, the order therefor will not be reversed on appeal. Definition: The terms "general" and "ordinary" business of the corporation, as used in this section, include the collection of municipal taxes to be applied to payment for the construction of sewers, and therefore, in an action to enjoin the city from the sale of property at a sewerage assessment sale, it is error to grant such injunction without due notice of application therefor to the proper municipal officers. Dissolution on injunction papers: Where the adverse party moves to dissolve a temporary injunction upon the papers upon which it is granted, no notice is required to be given to the party who obtained the injunction and no further showing can be made in opposition to such motion. Meyer v. First Nat. Bk of Coeur d'Alene (190 10 I. 175, 77 P. 334.

By the plaintiff up the papers on which defendant obtain the injunction. 3. By either party up affidavits, with or without answer. Issuance and Execution of Writ.

§ 6779. Attachment: When issued. The plaintiff at the time of the ɜuing of summons, or at any time afterwards may have the property the defendant attached, as security for the satisfaction of any judgment that may be recovered, unless the defendant gives security to pa such judgment as in this chapter provided in the following cases.

1. In an action upon a judgment, or upon contract, express or in plied, for the direct payment of money, where the contract is not s cured by any mortgage or lien upon real or personal property, or an pledge of personal property; or, if originally so secured, such securit has, without any act of the plaintiff, or the person to whom the securit was given, become valueless.

2. In an action upon a judgment, or upon contract, express or in plied, or for the collection of any penalty provided by any statute o this state, against a defendant not residing in this state. ['13, c. 5 § 1, p. 160.]

Time of issuance: A writ of attachment issued prior to the issuance of any summons or to the appearance of the defendant in the case would be subject to discharge on motion on the ground that the same was improperly issued. Ridenbaugh v. Sandlin (1908) 14 I. 472, 94 P. 827, 125 A. S. R. 175.

The legislature did not intend to allow a plaintiff to commence an action and let his complaint lie in the files of the court for one year, as he may do under § 6671, ante, and at the same time have the defendant's property attached and held under process for the payment of a debt that he has taken no steps to reduce to a final judgment. Ib.

Applied: The contract of an indorser of a promissory note or guarantor of a bill of exchange is a contract "for the direct payment of money," and an attachment may issue against the property of such indorser or guarantor when action is brought to enforce payment of the deb the same as against the acceptor or ma er, under this section. Armstrong v. Slic (1908) 14 I. 208, 93 P. 775.

Nature of attachment lien: Attachme is such a provisional remedy as reach out and lays hold upon the property proceeding in rem and subjects it to t payment of the debt for the recovery which the action was instituted. Potlat Lbr. Co. v. Runkel (1909) 16 I. 192, 101 396, 23 L. R. A. (N. S.) 536, 18 Ann. Ca 591.

Nonresidents: In attachment against t property of a defendant not residing this state it is not necessary to show by t affidavit for attachment that the plaint has no security for the debt. Foore v. S mon Piano Co. (1910) 18 I. 167, 108 1038.

A corporation organized under the la of a foreign jurisdiction, although engag in business in this state and having co plied with the constitution and all the la of this state affecting foreign corporatio is a nonresident and subject to attachme as such. Jennings v. Ida. Ry. etc. C (1915) 26 I. 703, 146 P. 101, Ann. C 1916E 359, L. R. A. (N. S.) 1915D 115.

Attachment wrongfully issued: The st ute provides in what actions an attachme may issue, and if the complaint disclo that the action is not such, and an attac ment is issued, then it was improper issued, and upon proper motion will dissolved. Ross v. Gold Ridge M. (1908) 14 I. 687, 95 P. 821.

§ 6780. Same: Affidavit. The clerk of the court must issue the w of attachment upon receiving an affidavit by or on behalf of plaint setting forth:

1. That the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff (specifying t amount of such indebtedness over and above all legal set-offs or counte claims) and whether upon a judgment or upon a contract for the dire payment of money, and that the payment of the same has not been s cured by any mortgage or lien upon real or personal property, or a pledge of personal property, or if originally secured, that such secur has, without any act of the plaintiff, or the person to whom the secur was given, become valueless.

2. When the defendant is a nonresident of this state, that such fendant is indebted to the plaintiff (specifying the amount of such debtedness over and above all legal set-offs or counterclaims), and th defendant is a nonresident of the state.

3. That the attachment is not sought and the action is not prosecuted to hinder, delay or defraud any creditor of the defendant. ['13, . 51, § 2, p. 160.]

Must show jurisdiction: Since an affiavit for attachment must show the existnce of the jurisdictional facts at the time the issuance of the writ an affidavit led 28 days before the issuance of the rit is not sufficient to support the writ hen issued, and the same should be disarged. Murphy, Grant & Co. v. Zaspel 1905) 11 I. 145, 81 P. 301.

False affidavit: Where an attachment fidavit is false the court has no jurisdicon to issue the writ. Murphy v. Montanon (1892) 3 I. 325, 29 P. 851, 35 A. S. . 279.

Insufficient affidavit: An affidavit alging two or more grounds of attachment, the alternative, is insufficient, and a rit issued thereon is properly discharged. eaton v. Panhandle Smelting Co., 32 I. , 179 P. 510.

Error in amount claimed: An error in e attachment affidavit in claiming a rger debt than that found due by the dgment does not vitiate the attachment. nney v. Moore (1903) 9 I. 284, 74 P. 6.

Absence of signature: The absence of fiant's signature from the affidavit does t vitiate it where the same is duly veri-d. Simmons Hdw. Co. v. Alturas Com. . (1895) 4 I. 334, 39 P. 550.

Double causes of action: Where an atchment is sought on two causes of action d the affidavit is false as to one cause ated and a single writ is issued to cover th causes of action, the attachment will dissolved on motion as to both causes action. (Sullivan, C. J. dissents) Voller v. Spencer (1897) 5 I. 557, 51 P. 609. here two causes of action are stated and e statutory grounds exist the plaintiff ay have separate writs issued as to each use of action or he may procure one writ r both causes. Ib.

Essentials of affidavit: It is not necesry to allege any other facts than those ecified in the statute. Ross v. Gold Ridge Co. (1908) 14 I. 687, 95 P. 821.

Same: Debt: An affidavit for attachnt which fails to specify the amount of e indebtedness sought to be recovered er and above all legal setoffs or counterims, is fatally defective and does not ve the court jurisdiction to issue the it. Kerns v. McAulay (1902) 8 I. 558, P. 539. The affidavit must state that e debt is due. Ib.; Gatward v. Wheeler 904) 10 I. 66, 77 P. 23.

Same: Security: Failure of an affivit for attachment to state that the debt ed upon is not secured by "any pledge of personal property" does not render the attachment ineffective or void when it does allege that the same has not been secured by any mortgage or lien on real or personal property; lien includes "pledge." Glidden v. Whittier et al. (1891) 46 F. 437.

Where the affidavit partially follows the language of the statute in regard to the debt not being secured but fails to state that it is not secured by "pledge of personal property," and contains no statement equivalent to that, the affidavit is not sufficient. Knutsen v. Phillips (1909) 16 I. 267, 101 P. 596.

A party who holds a secured claim against another can not secure the benefit of the attachment law therefor by procuring an assignment of small unsecured claims and writing such claims in the same complaint with the secured claims. Willman v. Friedman (1893) 3 I. 734, 35 P. 37.

When a debt is secured by mortgage an attachment affidavit in a suit to recover the debt must allege that the mortgage was given and that the same has become valueless without any act of the plaintiff; if it falsely states that the debt is unsecured the attachment should be dissolved on motion, although it is shown that the security has become valueless. (Sullivan, C. J. dissents) Vollmer v. Spencer (1897) 5 I 557, 51 P. 609.

A reservation of title in a vendor in a conditional sale contract until the payment of the purchase price constitutes such a lien as precludes the vendor from obtaining an attachment in an action to recover the unpaid portion of the purchase price. Willman v. Friedman, supra; Mark Means Trans. Co. v. McKenzie (1903) 9 I. 165, 73 P. 135; Barton v. Grossclose (1905) 11 I. 227, 81 P. 623.

An order drawn by the defendant on his debtor, accepted by the latter and placed in the hands of the creditor to secure the debt is such a pledge of personal property as to preclude an attachment. Murphy v. Montandon (1892) 3 I. 325, 29 P. 851, 35 A. S. R. 279. But where an account is assigned as security and accepted on the condition that a note by the debtor in the account shall be substituted therefor, and the account is afterward liquidated by a note which is not executed in the form required by the agreement between the assignor and the assignee, and the assignee refuses to accept the same for that reason, there is no such security as to preclude the attachment. Simmons Hdw. Co. v. Alturas Com. Co. (1895) 4 I. 334, 39 P. 550.

Same: Against nonresidents: Where an attachment is sought against the property of a nonresident it is sufficient to allege in the affidavit just what is required by the second and third subdivisions of this section; the affidavit need not aver the nonresidence of the defendant. Kerns v. McAulay (1902) 8 I. 558, 69 P. 539. The affidavit need not allege that the defendant has property in the state. Ib.

Defects in an affidavit for attachment against a nonresident who is not personally served with process go to the jurisdiction of the court and preclude entry of a valid judgment in the action. Ib.

In an attachment against a defendant not residing in this state it is not necessary to show by the affidavit for attachment that the plaintiff has no security for the debt. Foore v. Simon Piano Co. (1910) 18 I. 167, 108 P. 1038.

Nonresidence of defendant: The no residence of the defendant must be stat positively, and a writ of attachment bas on an affidavit which does not so state it improperly and irregularly issued. Heat v. Panhandle Smelting Co., 32 I. —, 179 510.

§ 6781. [4304] Undertaking: Publication of notice. Before issuin the writ the clerk must require a written undertaking on the part the plaintiff, in a sum not less than $200, and not exceeding the amou claimed by the plaintiff, with sufficient sureties, to the effect that, if th defendant recover judgment, or if the attachment be wrongfully issue the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendan and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment n exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking; and two days after i suing such writ and delivering it to the proper officer, the clerk mu post at the front door of the courthouse, and cause to be published some newspaper published in the county, if there be one, a notice, se ting out the title of the cause and the fact that an attachment has bee issued against the property of the defendant. Such notice shall be kep posted at least 10 days and shall be published, if in a weekly paper, three issues thereof, and if any other than a weekly paper in at lea six issues. Any creditor of the defendant, who, within 60 days after th first posting and publication of such notice, shall commence and pros cute to final judgment his action for his claim against the defendan shall share pro rata with the attaching creditor in the proceeds of d fendant's property where there is not sufficient to pay all judgments full against him. But a failure of the clerk to require an undertaking, when the amount sued for is in excess of $200, equal to the amount sued for, is not a ground for dissolving the attachment. Ross v. Gold Ridge M. Co. (1908) 14 I. 687, 95 P. 821.

Clerical errors: A clerical error in the attachment bond, as the insertion of the words "under execution," do not vitia the bond where the same substantia indemnifies the defendant. Simmons Hd Co. v. Alturas Com. Co. (1895) 4 I. 3 39 P. 550.

Application to justice's courts: The pr visions of this section for prorating t proceeds of attached property, adverti ment of notice, etc., do not apply to t justice's court practice. Kimball v. Ra mond (1903) 9 I. 176, 72 P. 957.

Failure to give notice: The notice the issuance of a writ of attachment quired to be given by the clerk is intend for the protection and benefit of oth creditors of the defendant, and a fail to give notice is not available to the fendant in the attachment proceedi and does not enable him to avoid attachment or subsequent execution s thereunder. Foore v. Simon Piano (1910) 18 I. 167, 108 P. 1038.

Conditions precedent to prorating: Jud ment within 60 days: Under this sect a creditor in order to be entitled to pror in the proceeds of attached property m both commence his action within the day period and prosecute the same to fi judgment within the 60-day period. (Prior to amendment of '11) Filing with the recorder a writ of attachment, together with a description of the land attached and a notice that it is attached, and leaving a similar copy of the writ, description and notice with the defendant who does not reside on the land, is not a substantial compliance with the provisions of this section, and personal notice to th defendant is not equivalent to posting co ies in a conspicuous place on the lan and is insufficient to create a lien upo the property. Williams v. Olden (1900 7 I. 146, 61 P. 517.

Effect of discharge: On redelivery of attached property such property passes into the absolute possession and control of defendant upon the execution of a proper bond. The plaintiff's lien upon the property is annulled and he must rely upon the undertaking given by defendant. The undertaking is a new and independent contract, into which defendant and his sureties enter, regardless of plaintiff's desire in the premises, but for his security. Glidden v. Whittier (1891) 46 F. 437.

§ 6811. [4320] Same. Before making such order the court or judge must require an undertaking on behalf of the defendant by at least two sureties, residents and freeholders or householders in the county, to the effect that in case the plaintiff recover judgment in the action defendant will, on demand, redeliver the attached property so released to the proper officer to be applied to the payment of the judgment, or, in default thereof, that the defendant and sureties will, on demand, pay to the plaintiff the full value of the property released. The court or judge making such order may fix the sum for which the undertaking must be executed, and, if necessary in fixing such sum to know the value of the property released, the same may be appraised by one or more disinterested persons, to be appointed for that purpose. The sureties may be requested to justify before the court or judge, and the property attached can not be released from the attachment without their justification if the same be required. [R. Grounds for discharge: The only grounds upon which an attachment can be discharged is that the writ is improperly or illegally issued; that the property levied upon is exempt from execution or is a homestead is not ground for discharging the writ. Mason Ehrman & Co. v. Lieuallen (1895) 4 I. 415, 39 P. 1117.

The attachment will not be dissolved for mere irregularity in the issuance of the summons. Ridenbaugh v. Sandlin (1908) 14 I. 472, 94 P. 827, 125 A. S. R. 75.

A motion to dissolve will not be turned into a demurrer. If the complaint fails to state a cause of action, because the facts plead are defectively stated, and it appears from the complaint that a cause of action can be stated by amendment under the ordinary rules governing amendments, then on the hearing of the motion to dissolve, the amendment will be considered as having been made. If, however, the complaint states no cause of action, then a motion to dissolve the attachment, on the ground that the complaint fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, will be considered and sustained. Ross v. Gold Ridge M. Co. (1908) 14 I. 687, 95 P. 821.

An affidavit alleging two or more distinct grounds of attachment in the alternative is insufficient, because it is impossible to determine which ground is relied on to sustain the attachment. Heaton v. Panhandle Smelting Co., 32 I. —, 179 P. 510.

Right not waived: The release of attached property by defendant by the execution of a proper undertaking is not a waiver of defects in the original proceeding, and defendant may move for a discharge of the writ of attachment on the ground that the same was irregularly or improperly issued, after the release of his property. RECEIVERS.

§ 6817. Grounds for appointment. A receiver may be appointe by the court in which an action is pending or has passed to judgmen or by the judge thereof:

1. In an action by a vendor to vacate a fraudulent purchase of pro erty, or by a creditor to subject any property or fund to his claim, or b tween partners or others jointly owning or jointly interested in a property or fund, on the application of the plaintiff or of any par whose right to, or interest in, the property, or fund, or the proce thereof, is probable, and where it is shown that the property or fund in danger of being lost, removed or materially injured.

2. In an action by a mortgagee for the foreclosure of his mortga and sale of the mortgaged property, where it appears that the mortgaged property is in danger of being lost, removed or materially injured, or that the condition of the mortgage has not been performed, and that the property is probably insufficient to discharge the mortgage debt.

3. After judgment to carry the judgment into effect.

4. After judgment to dispose of the property according to the judgment, or to preserve it during the pendency of an appeal, or in proceedings in aid of execution, when an execution has been returned unsatisfied, or when the judgment debtor refuses to apply his property in satisfaction of the judgment.

5. In the case where a corporation has been dissolved, or is insolvent, or in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights.

6. In all other cases where receivers have heretofore been appointed by the usages of courts of equity. ['09, p. 26, H. B. 60.]

Jurisdiction to appoint: An action is ot pending in such sense as to authorize ie appointment of a receiver until the omplaint has been placed in the hands f the clerk or in his office for the purpose f receiving the filing mark. Gold Hun-r M. Co. v. Holleman (1891) 3 I. 99, 27 413.

District courts have no jurisdiction to point receivers in all actions which may pending before them but only in the ases of cases mentioned in this section, id then when prior to judgment it is ade to appear that such an appointment necessary in order to protect the rights the parties. Sweeney v. Mayhew (1899) I. 455, 56 P. 85.

A plaintiff is not entitled to the appointment of a receiver where the defendit fully meets and denies the equities his bill by a sworn answer, unless he ercomes the denials in the answer by rther proof in support of his bill. Ib.

This section must be construed with §§ 44-7 relative to proceedings supplemenry to execution and does not authorize e judge before whom supplementary proedings are pending to determine the inests of a garnishee in such proceedings d appoint a receiver to take charge of e property garnished. Spaulding v. eur d'Alene Ry. etc. Co. (1899) 6 I. 638, P. 426.

Courts of equity have the power and auority to appoint receivers of property and ect them to care for, protect and preve the property and decree the charges d expenses therefor as prior and pre-red liens to that of all other liens, mortges or incumbrances, and to direct the perty sold for the payment of the same. lliba v. Winschell (1905) 11 I. 364, 82 P. 107; Hewitt v. Great Western etc Co. (1911) 20 I. 235, 118 P. 296; Coml. Trust Co. v. Ida. Brick Co. (1913) 25 I. 755, 139 P. 1004.

A receiver can not be appointed until an action is pending or has passed to judgment. (Stewart, J. dissents) Elmore Co. etc. Assn. v. Stockslager (1912) 22 I. 420, 126 P. 616.

There are no provisions in the statutes which limit the jurisdiction of the court in appointing trustees and receivers of a foreign corporation which owns valuable property in the state and is making contracts and carrying on business, where such corporation becomes insolvent and has creditors and is unable to pay the debts of the corporation. Such corporation can be sued in the courts of the state, and the courts acquire jurisdiction of such corporation by reason of the fact that such corporation has appointed an agent and a principal place of business in the state, and the district court and the judge thereof has power to make such appointment. Rowe v. Stevens (1913) 25 I. 237, 127 P. 159.

Where all the parties interested in property and having control over it are personally present in court the court may appoint a receiver to take charge of the property (in a proper case) although the property is outside of the jurisdiction of the state. Eureka M. etc. Co. v. Lewiston Nav. Co. (1906) 12 I. 472, 86 P. 49.

In addition to the grounds specified in this section a receiver may be appointed in all other cases where receivers have been appointed by the usages of courts of equity. Riley v. Callahan M. Co. (1916) 28 I. 525, 155 P. 665.

When appointed: Where a party has property in his possession and under his control which he allows to depreciate in value or wrongfully disposes of, in which another party has an interest, it is proper for the court to appoint a receiver. Jones v. Quayle (1893) 3 I. 640, 32 P. 1134.

Where the stockholders of a corporation make application for its dissolution and it appears that the corporation is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, the appointment of a receiver is proper. Security Sav. etc. Co. v. Piper (1895) 4 I. 463, 40 P. 144.

Where the property of a corporation has suffered depreciation by fire and the corporation is not in active operation and its capital stock is equally divided between contending factions, and its assets consist principally of cash, it is proper to appoint a receiver under subdivision 6 of this section, although none of the contingencies mentioned in subdivision 5 of this section have arisen. Gibbs v. Morgan (1903) 9 I. 100, 72 P. 733.

A receiver should be appointed on the application of a stockholder of a corporation where it is shown that the directors and officers of the corporation are mismanaging its affairs for their personal advantage and gain; that the profits of the corporation's business are being absorbed in paying the salaries of favorite employees whose services are unnecessary; and that the corporation is so grossly mismanaged that such mismanagement, if continued, would necessarily result in its insolvency. Hall v. Nieukirk (1906) 12 I. 33, 85 P. 485.

This section authorizes the district court to appoint a receiver to receive and take charge of notes, accounts, certificates of the capital stock of corporations and choses in action, and other personal property, where the necessity and occasion for such appointment is shown. Utah Assn. of Credit Men v. Budge (1909) 16 I. 751, 102 P. 691.

Where a foreign corporation leases its irrigation system to another corporation engaged in the distribution of water for rental and sale and the latter corporation becomes insolvent, the court has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of the entire property of both corporations pending litigation to determine the interest a purchaser of water may have acquired in such system. Idaho Fruit Land Co. v. Great Western etc. Co. (1909) 17 I. 273, 105 P. 562.

The right to have a receiver appointed is available in an action by a mortgagee for foreclosure where it appears that the property is in danger of being lost, removed or materially injured, or that the condition of the mortgage has not been performed, and that the property is probably insufficient to discharge the debt. Keane v. Kibbie (1915) 28 I. 274, 154 P. 972.

Intervention by mortgagee in creditors' suit where receiver has already been appointed and prayer that income of an insolvent public service corporation be impounded is authorized under this section. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Idaho Ry. L. & P. Co. (1915) 228 F. 972.

This section confers jurisdiction to appoint receiver in foreclosure of chattel mortgage. Skeen v. Dist. Ct. (1916) 29 I. 331, 158 P. 1072.

When not appointed: Appointment of receivers to take charge of real property should never be made until the moving party shows himself clearly entitled thereto; the court should not take charge of real estate through the aid of a receiver as against a party in possession asserting title in himself unless the property is shown to be in imminent danger of great waste or irreparable injury. Kelly v. Steele (1903) 9 I. 141, 72 P. 887.

Where a mortgage requires the mortgagor to keep the property insured but provides that in case he fails to do so the mortgagee may insure and have an additional lien on the property for the amount paid for insurance, the failure of the mortgagor to insure is not such waste as to authorize the appointment of a receiver. Eureka M. etc. Co. v. Lewiston Nav. Co (1906) 12 I. 472, 86 P. 49.

The fact that a mortgaged boat is being used to ply waters without the state is no grounds for the appointment of a receiver on the application of the mortgagee, where the mortgage merely stipulates that the boat is not to be taken without the limits "of the United States" and it does not appear that it is being so taken, nor that the waters in which it is used are any more dangerous than those within the state. Ib

Where the ground alleged for the appointment of a receiver of a corporation is "imminent danger of insolvency," facts must be alleged sufficient to show such imminent danger. Cronan v. Dist. Ct. (1908) 15 I. 184, 96 P. 768.

Effect of appointment: The appointment of a receiver does not necessarily cause the dissolution of the corporation unless the court so directs; the receiver may be appointed simply to manage the affairs of the company during the pendency of the litigation. Hall v. Nieukirk (1906) 12 I. 33, 85 P. 485.

Except so far as the control of the affairs of a domestic or foreign corporation is placed in the hands of the receiver, its officers and directors, except when enjoined by the court appointing the receiver, continue to exercise their functions as if no receiver had been appointed. Rowe v. Stevens (1913) 25 I. 237, 137 P. 159.

Powers of receiver: A receiver is an officer of the court, under its protection and property in his hands is in custodia legis; therefore, no one can sue him concerning such property without leave of the court which appointed him. Martin v. Atchison (1890) 2 I. 634, 33 P. 47.

A receiver in charge of the property of a corporation has no authority to carry on the business of the corporation unless he be so authorized and directed by the court. Dalliba v. Winschell (1905) 11 I. 364, 8 P. 107. A court of equity has no authority to direct its receiver in charge of placer mines to carry on a general mining business, and charge the expenses of the business and operations as a prior and preferred lien against the property over that of prior recorded mortgages and incumbrances on the same property. Ib.

Allowances to receiver: A receiver is not entitled to allowances for fees paid attorneys for making his reports, narrating his acts, receipts and expenditures as receiver and prosecuting claims for his own compensation against the estate he represents. Ib.

Where a receiver has failed to keep correct accounts of the business and transactions of the receivership estate and has failed to take vouchers for numerous and large sums of expenditure, and has made large overcharges and false charges for sums claimed to have been expended by him, and has been generally reckless in his expenditures in connection with the trust and in the employment of servants, and has shown general disregard for the trust he has assumed, a court of equity will refuse to allow him any salary or compensation for services as receiver. Ib.

§ 6818. [4330] Same: Upon dissolution of corporation. Upon the dissolution of any corporation the district court of the county in which the corporation carries on its business or has its principal place of business, on application of any creditor of the corporation, or of any member or stockholder thereof, may appoint one or more persons to be receivers or trustees of the corporation, to take charge of the estate and effects thereof, and to collect the debts and property due and belonging to the corporation, and to pay the outstanding debts thereof, and to divide the moneys and other property that shall remain over, among the stockholders or members. If a receiver be appointed upon an ex parte application, the court, before making the order, may require from the applicant an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, in an amount to be fixed by the court, to the effect that the applicant will pay to the defendant all damages he may sustain by reason of the appointment of such receiver and the entry by him upon his duties, in case the applicant shall have procured such appointment wrongfully, maliciously or without sufficient cause; and the court may, in its discretion, at any time after said appointment, require an additional undertaking. A court of equity has no power to authorize a receiver to incur indebtedness in carrying on a private business, and to make the same a first and paramount lien upon the corpus of the property, superior to that of prior lien holders, without their consent. Stevens v. The Evening Courier, 31 I. 719, 175 P. 964. Dalliba v. Winschell, 11 I. 364, 82 P. 107.

Receiver's sale: A district judge at chambers has power to order the sale of property in the hands of a receiver, with instructions to the receiver to report the sale to court for confirmation. First Nat. Bk. of Pocatello v. Bunting & Co. (1900) 7 I. 387, 63 P. 694.

A receiver's sale is a judicial sale, and is required to be made upon not less than five nor more than ten days' notice, as are other judicial sales. A sale by a receiver on an ex parte application at chambers, made upon only three days' notice posted in only three places in the county is void, and an order confirming the same should be set aside. (Dis. op.) Ib.

In order to justify setting aside a judicial sale on behalf of one attacking it on the ground of alleged irregularities in the conduct of such sale, the person attacking such sale should allege and establish injury to himself resulting from the irregularities complained of. TRIAL AND JUDGMENT IN CIVIL ACTIONS.

ARTICLE 1.

JUDGMENT IN GENERAL.

Hist. (See C. C. P. '81, § 350) R. S. § 4350, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, § 577; Kerr's C. ib.

§ 6827. [4351] Judgment as between several parties. Judgment may be given for or against one or more of several plaintiffs, and for or against one or more of several defendants; and it may, when the justice of the case requires it, determine the ultimate rights of the parties on each side, as between themselves. [R. S. § 4351.]

Settlement of conflicting claims: Under this statute all conflicting claims should be finally settled when the parties are in court and should be applied in compensation of each other, judgment being rendered in favor of the party proving the largest claim. First Nat. Bk. of Hailey v. Bews (1892) 3 I. 468, 31 P. 816.

§ 6828. [4352] Same: Against one of several defendants. In an action against several defendants the court may, in its discretion, render judgment against one or more of them, leaving the action to proceed against the others, whenever a several judgment is proper. [R. S. § 4352.]

Hist. (See C. C. P. '81, § 352) R. S. § 4352, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, § 579; Kerr's C. ib.

N. D. Analogous: C. C. P. § 7679.

Applied: Where two persons are sued as joint tort-feasors and the evidence clearly shows that only one of them is liable for the tort, judgment may be rendered against the one who is liable for the trespass. Zilka v. Graham (1914) 26 I. 163, 141 P. 639.

Modification of judgment: The court may modify a verdict and judgment against joint defendants by setting the same aside as to one defendant against whom no liability is shown. Gaffney v. Hoyt (1866) 2 I. 199, 10 P. 34.

§ 6829. [4353] Extent of relief. The relief granted to the plaintiff, if there be no answer, can not exceed that which he shall have demanded in his complaint; but in any other case the court may grant him any relief consistent with the case made by the complaint embraced within the issue. [R. S. § 4353.]

Scope of relief: When an answer is filed the court may grant any relief consistent with the case made by the complaint and embraced within the issue made whether such relief is prayed for or not. Burke Land Co. v. Wells Fargo Co. (1900) 7 I. 42, 60 P. 87. Dover Lbr. Co. v. Case, 31 I. 276, 170 P. 108.

Where an answer is filed to a complaint which prays specifically for an injunction restraining a defendant from filling plaintiff's ditch with debris, from running the same onto his land and for damages, the court, under the further prayer for general relief, may settle an issue raised by the complaint as to the plaintiff's right to certain waters of a creek. Stocker v. Kirtley, (1900) 6 I. 795, 59 P. 891.

In actions in which the demand for an injunction is only incidental and not the main purpose or object of the suit, the suit would not abate and die in case of circumstances arising which would make the granting of the injunction unnecessary. Wilson v. Boise (1900) 7 I. 69, 60 P. 84.

Scope of relief: Judgment consistent with admissions in answer properly entered. Dunn v. Stufflebeam (1910) 17 I. 559, 106 P. 1129.

Default cases: In an action to restrain the sale of property at an assessment sale where no answer is filed and where the relief prayed for is a perpetual injunction, and such other and further relief as may be equitable, the granting of a permanent injunction is the only relief that can be granted, and the prayed for general relief will not warrant a judgment or decree removing any cloud that said sale might cast upon the title to the property, nor can said sale be set aside under such prayer. Ib.

In case the defendant fails to answer the trial court is without power to grant relief not demanded in the complaint, and if there be no prayer accompanying the complaint and no relief demanded, no judgment can be entered in favor of the plaintiff. Washington etc. Co. v. Weiser Nat. Bk. (1915) 26 I. 717, 146 P. 116.

§ 6830. [4354] Dismissal or nonsuit. An action may be dismissed, or a judgment of nonsuit entered, in the following cases:

1. By the plaintiff himself, at any time before trial, upon the payment of costs: Provided, A counterclaim has not been made or affirmative relief sought by the cross complaint or answer of defendant. If a provisional remedy has been allowed the undertaking must thereupon be delivered by the clerk to the defendant, who may have his action thereon.

2. By either party, upon the written consent of the other.

3. By the court, when the plaintiff fails to appear on the trial, and the defendant appears and asks for the dismissal.

4. By the court, when, upon the trial, and before the final submission of the case, the plaintiff abandons it.

5. By the court, upon motion of the defendant, when, upon the trial, the plaintiff fails to prove a sufficient case for the jury. The dismissal mentioned in the first two subdivisions is made by an entry in the clerk's register. Judgment may thereupon be entered accordingly. [R. S. § 4354.]

Motion for Nonsuit.

Essentials of motion: The moving party must specify particularly the points relied upon for nonsuit at the time he makes the motion so as to give an opportunity for the removal of the objection or the same will not be sustained on appeal. Idaho Merc. Co. v. Kalanquin (1900) 7 I. 295, 62 P. 925.

Time for motion: A nonsuit should not be granted under this section until the plaintiff has put in or offered all of his evidence and rests his case. Rauh v. Oliver (1904) 10 I. 3, 77 P. 20; Wheeler v. O. R. & N. Co. (1909) 16 I. 375, 102 P. 347.

Effect of motion: On motion for nonsuit after the plaintiff has rested the defendant must be deemed to have admitted all the facts of which there is any evidence, and all the facts which the evidence tends to prove. Bk. of Com. v. Baldwin (1906) 12 I. 202, 85 P. 497. The motion should be denied unless admitting all the facts that may be gathered from every reasonable view of the evidence that no recovery can be had. Later v. Haywood (1906) 12 I. 78, 85 P. 494; Stricker v. Hillis, (1910) 17 I. 646, 648, 106 P. 1128. On motion for a nonsuit the evidence must be interpreted most strongly against the defendant. Pilmer v. Boise Traction Co. (1908) 14 I. 327, 94 P. 432, 125 A. S. R. 161, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 254; Shank v. Great Shoshone & T. F. etc. Co. (1913)

(1916) 28 I. 403, 154 P. 968; McAlinden v. St. Maries Hosp. Assn. (1916) 28 I. 657, 156 P. 115; Donovan v. Boise (1918) 31 I. 324, 171 P. 670.

Waiver of motion: Any error in denying a motion for nonsuit is waived by the subsequent introduction of testimony by the defendant. Chamberlain v. Woodin (1890) 2 I. 642, 23 P. 177. Unless it is renewed at the close of the evidence. Shields v. Johnson (1906) 12 I. 329, 85 P. 972; Barrow v. Lewis L. Co. (1908) 14 I. 698, 95 P. 682.

Where a motion is made for a nonsuit at the close of the evidence on the part of the plaintiff upon the ground that the evidence is insufficient to warrant the submission of the cause to a jury, and the motion is denied, and evidence is thereafter offered by the defendant, the ruling of the trial court upon the motion is not reviewable upon appeal from the judgment or from the order overruling the motion for a new trial. Rippetoe v. Feely (1911) 20 I 619, 119 P. 465; Knauf v. Dover Lbr. Co. (1911) 20 I. 773, 120 P. 157; Smith v. Potlatch Lbr. Co. (1912) 22 I. 782, 128 P. 546; Tonkin Clark Realty Co. v. Hedges (1913) 24 I. 304, 133 P. 669.

When granted: Where the evidence of the plaintiff is such that the trial court would, in the event of a verdict, feel compelled to set the same aside, it is its duty to take the case from the jury by granting a nonsuit. Jacobson v. Bunker Hill etc. Co. (1891) 3 I. 126, 26 P. 396; Blackwell v. Kercheval (1916) 29 I. 473, 160 P. 741.

Where the plaintiff stands on a challenge which he has interposed to the jury panel and refuses to introduce any testimony and defendant has pleaded a cross complaint but introduces no evidence in support thereof the court should order a dismissal or judgment of nonsuit, and should not direct verdict for defendant. Simmons v. Cunningham (1895) 4 I. 426, 39 P. 1109.

Where plaintiff's evidence shows that his demand for damages should have been litigated in a former action between the same parties a motion for nonsuit should be sustained. Shields v. Johnson (1906) 12 I. 329, 85 P. 972.

When not granted: It is reversible error to grant a nonsuit where the plaintiff has made a prima facie case. Kroetch v. Empire Mill Co. (1903) 9 I. 277, 74 P. 868; Adams v. Bunker Hill etc. Co. (1906) 12 I. 337, 89 P. 624; Mineau v. Imperial Dredge etc. Co. (1911) 19 I. 458, 462, 114 P. 23; Culver v. Kehl (1912) 21 I. 595, 123 P. 301.

In an action where the complaint alleges joint liability of three defendants upon a certain contract, and the evidence shows that the contract was made with but one of the defendants, but that plaintiff was led to believe by the acts of all the defendants that they were jointly liable, a nonsuit will not be granted. Hewitt v. Blaize (1897) 5 I. 633, 51 P. 607.

That counsel for the plaintiff fails to state facts in his opening statement to the jury which would entitle the plaintiff to recover is not a ground for granting a nonsuit before evidence is offered to support the plaintiff's claim. Wheeler v. Oregon R. R. etc. Co. (1909) 16 I. 375, 102 P. 347.

The insufficiency of the complaint is not a ground for a nonsuit. Strong v. Western Union Co. (1910) 18 I. 389, 407, 109 P. 910, Ann. Cas. 1912A 55, 30 L. R. A. (N. S.) 409; Ludwig v. Ellis (1912) 22 I. 475, 126 P. 769.

Dismissal.

When permissible: Plaintiff may dismiss his action at any time before a counter claim has been interposed or affirmative relief has been sought by cross complaint or answer. Elliott v. Collins (1898) 6 I. 266, 55 P. 301.

The plea of the statute of limitations does not constitute affirmative relief such as to destroy the plaintiff's right to voluntarily dismiss the action. Boyd v. Steele (1899) 6 I. 625, 59 P. 21.

In an action for divorce, where no cross complaint or counterclaim stating a cause of action and seeking affirmative relief is filed, the plaintiff has a right, as a matter of course, to dismiss the action. Stover v. Stover (1900) 7 I. 185, 61 P. 462.

This section is applicable to actions and proceedings in eminent domain and authorizes the plaintiff to dismiss an action in condemnation after the filing of a report by commissioners appointed to award the damages or at any time before trial. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Trueman (1910) 18 I. 687, 112 P. 210.

When not permissible: The granting of a motion by plaintiff to dismiss an action as to defendants who have by their answer sought affirmative relief, is error. N. W. & P. Hypotheek Bk. v. Rauch (1898) 5 I. 752, 51 P. 764.

The trial court has no power or right to dismiss an action over the objection of a defendant who has filed an answer and cross complaint seeking affirmative relief, but is required to enter judgment upon the merits of the issue presented by the cross complaint. Frost v. Idaho Irr. Co. (1911) 19 I. 372, 114 P. 38.

A dismissal by plaintiff of his action under this section does not carry with it a dismissal of the action based upon the cross-complaint, but defendant is entitled to have the issues raised therein determined upon the merits. Brown v. T. B. Reed & Co., 31 I. 529, 174 P. 136.

Taxation of costs: Costs of dismissal only need to be paid at the time. Other costs follow as a matter of law. Under § 7218 it is necessary for defendant to file a cost bill within five days after notice of dismissal. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Trueman (1910) 18 I. 687, 112 P. 210.

Judgment: Where the plaintiff pays the costs and dismisses the action before trial the fact that the clerk fails to enter a formal judgment of dismissal, if such judgment is required, does not affect the conclusiveness of the dismissal. Stover v. Stover (1900) 7 I. 185, 61 P. 462.

The concluding sentence of this section, that judgment may be entered accordingly, applies to judgments of nonsuit and not to dismissals. Boyd v. Steele (1899) 6 I. 625, 59 P. 21.

§ 6831. [4355] Judgment on merits. In every case other than those mentioned in the last section, judgment must be rendered on the merits. [R. S. § 4355.]

ARTICLE 2.

JUDGMENT UPON FAILURE TO ANSWER.

§ 6832. [4360] Entry of judgment by default. Judgment may be had, if the defendant fail to answer the complaint, as follows:

1. In an action arising upon contract for the recovery of money or damages only, if no answer has been filed with the clerk of the court within the time specified in the summons, or such further time as may have been granted, the clerk, upon application of the plaintiff, must enter the default of the defendant, and immediately thereafter enter judgment for the amount specified in the summons, including the costs against the defendant, or against one or more of several defendants, in the cases provided for in section 6679.

2. In other actions, if no answer has been filed with the clerk of the court within the time specified in the summons, or such further time as may have been granted, the clerk must enter the default of the defendant; and thereafter the plaintiff may apply at the first or any subsequent term of the court for the relief demanded in the complaint. If the taking of an account, or the proof of any fact, is necessary to enable the court to give judgment, or to carry the judgment into effect, the court may take the account or hear the proof; or may, in its discretion, order a reference for that purpose. And where the action is for the recovery of damages, in whole or in part, the court may order the damages to be assessed by a jury; or if, to determine the amount of damages, the examination of a long account be involved, by a reference as above provided.

3. In actions where the service of the summons was by publication, the plaintiff, upon the expiration of the time for answering, may, upon proof of the publication, and that no answer has been filed, apply for judgment; and the court must thereupon require proof to be made of the demand mentioned in the complaint; and if the defendant be not a resident of the state, must require the plaintiff or his agent to be examined on oath respecting any payments that have been made to the plaintiff or to any one for his use, on account of such demand, and may render judgment for the amount which he is entitled to recover. Defaults sustained: Where a defendant has been served by process, and within the time allowed for answer files a demurrer and thereafter withdraws the demurrer and is given five days in which to further plead, and fails to make any further appearance within the time granted, he is thereafter in default, the same as he would have been had he not appeared within the time originally allowed under the statute after the service of summons, and the clerk or court may properly enter his default, and he is not entitled to any notice of application or motion for default. Hall v. Whittier (1911) 20 I. 120, 116 P. 1031.

If a defendant has his case removed to a federal court but it is remanded on the ground that it is not removable, and the defendant has not answered within the time prescribed by the summons, the clerk of the state court may properly enter his default, after which judgment may be had; his vain endeavor to get out of the state court into the federal court does not extend his time for answering. Morbeck v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1910) 19 I. 83, 113 P. 89; S. v. Am. Surety Co. (1914) 26 I. 652, 145 P. 1097; Ann. Cas. 1916E 209.

In order to avoid suffering judgment by default, after service of summons upon him, the defendant must, within the time prescribed in the summons, file his ans wer with the clerk of the court; the deposit of it in the post office addressed to him will not do. Pendrey v. Brennan (1915) 31 I. 54, 169 P. 174.

Necessity of service: A judgment by default entered without proof of service is void. Vermont Loan & Trust Co. v. McGregor (1897) 5 I. 510, 51 P. 104.

Before any judgment can be entered in the district court in a case where service is had by publication, application must be made to the court, which must first determine whether a good and valid service has been made on the defendant. The fact that the order for publication was made either by the probate or district judge is not conclusive on the court when application is made to him for judgment. McKnight v. Grant (1907) 13 I. 629, 92 P. 989, 121 A. S. R. 287.

Necessity of proof: The plaintiff in a water adjudication after taking default must apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint, and must establish by proof the material allegations of his complaint. Joyce v. Rubin (1913) 23 I. 296, 130 P. 793.

Relief limited by prayer: This section limits the plaintiff in his application to the court in case the defendant has not answered to the relief demanded in the complaint. Washington etc. Co. v. Weiser Nat. Bk. (1915) 26 I. 717, 146 P. 116.

Judgment by clerk: This section does not authorize an entry of judgment by the clerk in an action of conversion. Parke v. Wardner, (1887) 2 I. 285, 13 P. 172.

This section does not authorize the clerk to enter default judgment against a garnishee for his failure to answer interrogatories submitted. Shumake v. Shumake (1910) 17 I. 649, 107 P. 42.

Appeal: It is permissible for the supreme court to determine whether or not a default should have been set aside by a district court for reasons not assigned in the motion to set aside such default, where it appears that the district judge considered such reasons at the suggestion of the party resisting such motion. Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 78, 147 P. 284.

Order under subd. 1 is not appealable, either from default entered or from order setting aside default. Omaha Structural Steel Wks. v. Lemon (1917) 30 I. 363, 164 P. 1011. (Overruling Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 78, 147 P. 284.)

ISSUES, MODES OF TRIAL AND POSTPONEMENT.

§ 6833. [4365] Issues defined. Issues arise upon the pleadings when a fact or a conclusion of law is maintained by the one party and is controverted by the other. They are of two kinds:

1. Of law; and,
2. Of fact. [R. S. § 4365.]

Definition: The word "trial" includes the determination of an issue at law as wel as of issues of fact. Lamkin v. Sterling (1867) 1 I. 120.

§ 6837. [4369] Trial of issues of fact. In actions for the recovery of specific real or personal property, with or without damages, or for money claimed as due upon contract, or as damages for breach of contract, or for injuries, an issue of fact must be tried by a jury, unless a jury trial is waived, or a reference is ordered, as provided in this code. Where, in these cases, there are issues both of law and fact, the issue of law must be first disposed of. In other cases, issues of fact must be tried by the court subject to its power to order an issue to be referred to a referee, as provided in this code. [R. S. § 4369.]

Right to jury: An appeal from an order of the board of county commissioners allowing a claim is within the provisions of this section and the issue should be submitted to a jury. Fisher v. Bd. of Comrs. (1895) 4 I. 381, 39 P. 552.

The right to a jury trial can not be denied because it is necessary to show that a deed absolute in form was a mortgage, when the determination of this issue is only incidental to the main object of the action, which is the recovery of money. Johansen v. Looney (1917) 30 I. 123, 163 P. 303.

Equitable actions: In an equitable action for specific performance of a contract the defendant is not entitled to a jury as a matter of right, and the findings of the jury on questions submitted to it are only advisory to the court. Brady v. Yos (1898) 6 I. 273, 55 P. 542.

In determining the question of whether or not parties are entitled to a trial by jury courts must look to the ultimate and entire relief sought, and where, in order for the court to render a judgment which would give adequate relief it would be necessary to decree the cancellation of a mortgage and the surrender of a note, such relief could only be available by the exercise of the equitable jurisdiction of the court, and the parties would not be entitled to a jury trial. Rees. v. Gorham (1917) 30 I. 207 164 P. 88.

Procedure in mixed law and equity actions: Where an action at law is brough and an equitable defense is interposed b a cross complaint, and also in an actio cognizable in equity where a cross com plaint at law is interposed, the prope rule of procedure is for the court to hea and dispose of the equitable cause of actio before proceeding to try the issues of law Penninger Lat. § 6840. [4372] Continuance: Absence of evidence. A motion t postpone a trial on the ground of the absence of evidence can only b made upon affidavit showing the materiality of the evidence expected to be obtained, and that due diligence has been used to procure it. The court may also require the moving party to state, upon affidavit, the evidence which he expects to obtain; and if the adverse party thereupon admit that such evidence would be given, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial, or offered and overruled as improper, the trial must not be postponed. Discretion of court: A motion for continuance is addressed to the sound discretion of the court and its ruling will not be reviewed unless such discretion has been abused. Reynolds v. Corbus (1901) 7 I. 481, 63 P. 884; Robertson v. Moore (1904) 10 I. 115, 77 P. 218; Rankin v. Caldwell (1908) 15 I. 625, 99 P. 108; Storer v. Heitfeld (1909) 17 I. 113, 105 P. 55; Miller v. Self-contradictory testimony: It is not an abuse of discretion to deny a continuance for the absence of a witness whose testimony as offered would conflict with his testimony as given on a previous trial. Huber v. Mother Aurelia (1907) 13 I. 276, 89 P. 942.

Admission of evidence: A party admitting that missing evidence would be given as provided in this section does not thereby admit the absolute truth of such evidence but when the admission is made the affidavit merely becomes evidence in the case. Terr. v. Guthrie (1888) 2 I. 432, 17 P. 39.

Bad faith: Where affidavits are filed tending to show that an application for a continuance is not made in good faith it is proper to deny the continuance. Cox v. N. W. Stage Co. (1871) 1 I. 376.

Absence of witness: It is not error for the trial court to overrule a motion for a continuance on account of the absence of a witness, where the only showing of diligence is that the witness agreed to be present and there was no use of legal means to secure the attendance of such witness. Rankin v. Caldwell (1908) 15 I. 625, 99 P. 108; Walsh v. Winston Bros. Co. (1910) 18 I. 768, 774, 111 P. 1090.

Absence of counsel: It is not an abuse of the legal discretion vested in the trial court to deny an application for a continuance upon the sole ground that the applicant's counsel is ill, where no affidavit of merits is filed showing that the applicant has a meritorious cause or defense and that other counsel can not be procured who are able to try said case. Rankin v. Caldwell, supra.

Showing: Even though case is proper one for postponement showing by affidavit or otherwise than by oral statement is required. Kerney v. Hatfield, (1917) 30 I. 90, 162 P. 1077.

§ 6841. [4373] Same: Depositions may be taken. The party obtaining a postponement of a trial in any court of record must, if required by the adverse party, consent that the testimony of any witness of such adverse party, who is in attendance, be then taken by deposition before a judge or clerk of the court in which the case is pending, or before such notary public as the court may indicate, which must accordingly be done; and the testimony so taken may be read on the trial with the same effect, and subject to the same objections, as if witnesses were produced. 1. The plaintiff, after stating the issue and his case, must produce he evidence on his part.

2. The defendant may then open his defense and offer his evidence n support thereof.

3. The parties may then respectively offer rebutting evidence only nless the court, for good reasons, in furtherance of justice, permits iem to offer evidence upon their original case.

4. When the evidence is concluded and before the case is argued or ubmitted to the jury, either party may request the court to give to the ury instructions in writing on the law arising in the cause which shall e given or refused as asked: Provided, That the court may also give ther and further written instructions of its own motion. All of the writ- n instructions given shall be carried by the jury to their room for their uidance in arriving at a correct verdict according to the law and the evi- ence. The instructions shall then be read to the jury by the court, and nless the case is submitted to the jury without argument, the plaintiff ust commence and may conclude the argument.

Right to open and close: Plaintiff has e right to open and close the evidence d argument, and it is error for the urt, over the objection of the plaintiff, to ny such right. Harrison v. Russell & Co. 909) 17 I. 196, 105 P. 48.

The burden of proof, with its incident right to open and close, naturally and necessarily is in the first instance with the plaintiff, and remains with such party so long as it continues incumbent upon him to make any proof whatever. When the defendant, either by an admission in express and absolute terms or by refraining from denial of the plaintiff's cause of action and alleging affirmative matter in avoidance of it, renders it wholly unnecessary for the plaintiff to give any evidence whatever to have a complete recovery of all that he claims, the burden and the right are with the defendant. It rests in the sound discretion of the trial court to direct the order of addressing the jury, and unless there is a clea abuse of discretion the supreme court wi not disturb the verdict. Exchange S. B v. Taber (1915) 26 I. 723, 145 P. 1090.

The verdict must be in writing signed by the foreman, if all the jurors agree, and by those agreeing, i three-fourths or more, but not all, agree, and must be read by the cler to the jury and the inquiry made whether it is their verdict. If mor than one-fourth of the jury disagree, they must be sent out again; but i no such disagreement be expressed, and neither party requires the jur to be polled, the verdict is complete and the jury discharged from th case. Either party may require the jury to be polled, which is done b the court or clerk asking each juror if it is his verdict. If more than one fourth answer in the negative, the jury must again be sent out. [R. S § 4394.]

§ 6860. [4396] General and special verdicts. The verdict of a ju is either general or special. A general verdict is that by which the pronounce generally upon all or any of the issues either in favor of th plaintiff or defendant. A special verdict is that by which the jury fi the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court. The special verdi must present the conclusions of fact as established by the evidence, an not the evidence to prove them, and those conclusions of fact must be presented as that nothing shall remain to the court but to draw fro them conclusions of law. Equity cases: This section recognizes a fference between law and equity actions. ı an equity case the verdict of a jury pon a point submitted to it is merely lvisory. Behrensmeyer v. Gwinn (1913) 5 I. 186, 136 P. 623.

General finding: When a general verdict is submitted to the jury and no special verdict is requested, a general finding for either party is sufficient. Campbell v. First Nat. Bk., 13 I. 95, 88 P. 639; Keim v. Gilmore P. R. R. Co., 23 I. 511, 131 P. 656; Tannahill v. Lydon, 31 I. 608, 173 P. 1146.

§ 6861. [4397] Same: Rendition of special verdicts. In an action)r the recovery of money only, or specific real property, the jury, in ıeir discretion, may render a general or special verdict. In all other ıses the court may direct the jury to find a special verdict in writing pon all or any of the issues, and in all cases may instruct them, if they ender a general verdict, to find upon particular questions of fact, to be ated in writing, and may direct a written finding thereon.

The special verdict or finding must be filed with the clerk and en- red upon the minutes. Where a special finding of fact is inconsistent ith the general verdict, the former controls the latter, and the court ıust give judgment accordingly. [R. S. § 4397.]

Discretion of jury: In an action for the covery of money only it is within the scretion of the jury to return a general special verdict, and neither the court instructions nor counsel by stipulation n require them to find a special verdict. law v. Manville (1895) 4 I. 369, 39 P. 9. Though the court may, in a proper se, direct them to bring in special findgs, and would, no doubt be obeyed. Norman v. Rose Lake Lbr. Co. (1912) 22 I. 1, 128 P. 85, Ann. Cas. 1913E 673.

It is within the discretion of the jury ı an appeal from an order of the board county commissioners allowing a claim render a general or special verdict. sher v. Comrs. of Bannock Co. (1895) I. 381, 39 P. 552.

Inconsistency of findings: The true test to whether special findings are consisnt or contradictory either in themselves with the general verdict is whether they)uld authorize a different verdict or judg- nt from that given. Gwinn v. Gwinn 897) 5 I. 271, 48 P. 295. When a genal verdict is not sustained by a special ıding of facts, or the special findings are contradictory that no conclusion can based thereon, such general verdict can t be sustained. Ib.

When there is an inconsistency between ecial findings and the general verdict judgment in accordance with the special ıdings is proper although it is for a different amount than the sum specified in the general verdict. Bradbury v. Ida. & Ore. Land Imp. Co. (1886) 2 I. 239, 10 P. 620.

Discretion of court: It is the province of the court to determine what particular facts the jury shall find specially, and neither party has a right to dictate the terms of such questions nor to assign error on the refusal of the court to comply with such dictation. Lufkins v. Collins (1886) 2 I. 256, 10 P. 300. But such discretion is not absolute but must be properly exercised; thus it is error to refuse to submit special issues when a proper request therefor is made and the issues are such as to make their special submission desirable. Burke v. McDonald (1890) 2 I. 679, 33 P. 49.

Same: Complicated cases: The power of the court is a discretionary power. In complicated cases where the issues are numerous and difficult the court has a discretionary power whether special issues should be submitted to the jury; in such cases and where the jury is likely to become confused, the court should insist on a special verdict and should formulate the issues into distinct propositions and logical and concise questions. Fodey v. N. P. Ry. Co. (1912) 21 I. 713, 123 P. 835.

Where actions in law and equity and defenses and counter defenses in law and equity are interposed in the same cause, special and separate verdicts should be found upon each particular question and issue raised. Penninger Lat. Co. v. Clark (1912) 22 I. 397, 407, 126 P. 524.

Sufficiency of general verdict: Where suit is brought on a note for a definite sum and the jury finds generally for the plaintiff without stating for what amount, the court may enter judgment for the amount of the note. Betts v. Butler (1868) 1 I. 185.

§ 6862. [4398] Verdict in money actions. When a verdict is found)r the plaintiff in an action for the recovery of money, or for the de- ndant, when a counterclaim for the recovery of money is established, exceeding the amount of the plaintiff's claim as established, the ju must also find the amount of the recovery. [R. S. § 4398.]

Value of specific articles: The verdict in an action of claim and delivery need not find the value of specific articles of the property claimed, or that defendant is entitled to the return of such specific articles in terms, except when the court in its instructions requires the jury to so find; the matter of requiring such a finding is within the discretion of the court. Johnson v. Fraser (1888) 2 I. 404, 18 P. 48.

Measure of damages: Where personal property is seized and taken possession of unlawfully and without authority of law and is thereafter retained and converted to the use and benefit of the person taking such possession, in an action for damages by the owner of such property for conversion of the same, the plaintiff is entitled to recover, as a general rule, t market value of such property at the ti the same was taken. Unfried v. Libe (1911) 20 I. 708, 119 P. 885.

Exemplary or punitive damages can r be recovered unless the evidence sho clearly that the action of the wrongdo is wanton or gross or outrageous, or whe the facts are such as to imply malice a oppression. Ib.

This section is mandatory. A failure, wever, to render a decision within 20 ys after the cause is submitted does not alidate or avoid the judgment entered reafter; but in the event of such faile, a writ of mandate will lie to require decision to be made. McGary v. Steele 911) 20 I. 753, 119 P. 448.

The failure of counsel to furnish the trial irt with a brief is not a sufficient reason justify the court in delaying a decision ger than the period prescribed. Ib.

Decision defined: Decision means the dings of fact and conclusions of law de by the court and not the judgment. ldwell v. Wells (1909) 16 I. 459, 101 P. 2.

The decision of a court consists of findgs of fact and conclusions of law, which st be in writing and be filed with the rk. An oral opinion announced by the irt from the bench prior to making of dings of fact and conclusions of law, a written opinion addressed to counsel ich is not in the nature of findings and nclusions, is not the decision of the irt. Stewart M. Co. v. Ontario M. Co. 913) 23 I. 724, 132 P. 787, aff. 35 S. C. R. 237 U. S. 350, 59 L. ed. 989; Smith v. ris-Kesl Const. Co. (1915) 27 I. 407, P. 25.

Findings of fact: When required: The tute does not require findings by the irt when a cause is tried to a jury. The dict of the jury is the finding upon ich judgment should be rendered. Findgs are made by the court only upon the trial of questions of fact by the court. Jenkins v. Coml. Nat. Bk. (1911) 19 I. 290, 113 P. 463.

Necessity of findings: There must be a finding upon every material issue whether raised on the complaint or upon an affirmative defense alleged in the answer. Carson v. Thews (1886) 2 I. 176, 9 P. 605, And failure to find upon all the material issues is ground for reversal. First Nat. Bk. of Lewiston v. Williams (1890) 2 I. 670, 23 P. 552; Standley v. Flint (1905) 10 I. 629, 79 P. 815. The rule applies to issues raised by affirmative defenses. Wood v. Broderson (1906) 12 I. 190, 85 P. 490.

Sufficiency of findings: A finding that all the issues of fact raised by the pleadings are hereby found and decided in favor of defendant and against the plaintiff, is indefinite and insufficient. Ib. Where an affirmative defense is interposed, a general finding that all the allegations and denials of the answer in conflict with the findings are found to be unsupported, is insufficient. Stoneburner v. Stoneburner (1905) 11 I. 603, 83 P. 938.

A general finding that all the material allegations of the answer were supported by the evidence and true, and that all the material allegations of the plaintiff's complaint in conflict with the foregoing findings were unsupported by the evidence and untrue, is not sufficient. Sterrett v. Sweeney (1908) 15 I. 416, 98 P. 418, 128 A. S. R. 68, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 963.

Where all of the findings of fact made by the cross-complaint alleging a resulting trust are that the court finds "that there is no competent evidence to sustain the facts as stated in the allegation" it is not a sufficient finding of fact. Pittock v. Pittock (1908) 15 I. 426, 98 P. 719.

In a proceeding to remove a public officer from office under R. S. § 7459 the fact that the court does not find as a fact that the wrongful acts of the officer were committed fraudulently, wilfully or corruptly, is not ground for reversal of judgment for removal where such facts are found under conclusions of law. Miller v. Smith (1900) 7 I. 204, 61 P. 824.

Where, in an action on a bail bond, the issue of the rearrest of the principal obligor is raised by the pleadings and evidence, the failure of the court to find on that issue is reversible error. S. v. Baird (1907) 13 I. 126, 89 P. 298.

Where the findings and the decree are not responsive to the case made by the complaint the judgment will be reversed. Uhrlaub v. McMahon (1908) 15 I. 346, 97 P. 784.

Extraneous references: The practice of referring to extraneous matters, such as maps and plats, in the findings and judgment for any matter which should be incorporated in the findings and judgment, should be discouraged, but indulgence therein is not of itself ground for a reversal of the judgment. Murry v. Nixon (1905) 10 I. 608, 79 P. 643.

Appeal cases: Findings should be made on an appeal tried by the court from an order of the county commissioners fixing the salaries of county officers. Reynolds v. Comrs. Oneida Co. (1899) 6 I. 787, 59 P. 730.

Mode of objection: A party desiring to avail himself of error or defect in a fin ing should request the court before or the time the case is finally submitted, make findings in writing, and see th the request is entered in the minutes the court, and should further except the findings when made and filed. Peop v. Hunt (1872) 1 I. 433.

Resubmission for additional findings: here a referee is called to examine all the evidence in the case and to report a judgment subject to the approval of the court on all the issues, but fails in his report to find upon all the issues of fact, the court may remand the case to the referee to bring in further findings covering the omitted issues without any further consent of the parties. Robinson v. Nelson (1895) 4 I. 567, 43 P. 64.

Waiver of jury: A reference under this section in an action at law is a waiver of a jury and the referee's findings of fact have the effect of a special verdict. U. S. v. Ramsey (1907) 158 F. 488.

ARTICLE 7.

EXCEPTIONS.

§ 6878. [4426] Definition and manner of taking. An exception is a objection upon a matter of law, to a decision made either before or ter judgment, by a court, tribunal, judge or other judicial officer in a action or proceeding.

Except as provided in the next section, the exception must be taken id settled at the time the decision is made, and no order of court shall e made for the settlement of such exception at any other time, except the agreement of both parties.

When an exception is taken, the court, judge, tribunal or judicial ofer shall allow sufficient time for the reduction to writing, and settlent of the same, and in case such time shall not be allowed, or such exption shall not be fairly settled, the facts may be shown by affidavit, id the party taking such exception may apply to the court, or tribunal, which an appeal lies, in the action or proceeding, to settle the same irly, according to the facts, and when so settled the same shall beme a part of the record in such action or proceeding. Necessity of exception: Whenever a case called to dispose of any issue whether law or fact, exceptions must be taken d incorporated into a bill of exceptions order to procure a review in the sueme court of rulings made by the trial rt. Lamkin v. Sterling (1867) 1 I. . The supreme court will not review charge of the trial court unless the ge's attention has been called by exceptns directed specifically to the particular rtion of the charge complained of. ck v. Lewiston (1887) 2 I. 276, 13 P.

Sufficiency of settlement: Where exceptns are settled at the time they are de, in accordance with the provisions his section, nothing further is required the hands of the trial court as to their settlement, but each exception, when so settled, is a bill of exceptions and as such may be embodied in the statement on motion for new trial or may be the sole basis for such a motion. Rumpel v. O. S. L. Ry. Co. (1894) 4 I. 13, 35 P. 700.

Settlement on stipulation: A stipulation agreeing that exceptions to error committed on the trial may be settled at another time authorizes the settlement of the same by the judge at any time within the terms of the stipulation. Sebree v. Smith (1888) 2 I. 359, 16 P. 915.

Waiver of objections: The action of parties in participating without objection in the settlement of a bill of exceptions after the trial is equivalent to an agreement that they may be so settled, and constitutes a waiver of any objection to the failure to settle the same at the time of making the decision. Lockhart v. Rollins (1889) 2 I. 540, 21 P. 413.

Review of settlement: The improper settlement of a bill of exceptions after trial without any agreement for such settlement being made, can not be reviewed as error in the absence of an appeal by the respondent presenting the question. Coffin v. Bradbury (1894) 3 I. 770, 35 P. 715.

§ 6879. Same: Matters deemed excepted to. The instructions of e court to the jury, the refusal to give requested instructions where ch refusal is noted in writing by the judge or court, the verdict of the ry, any interlocutory order, ruling or decision appearing upon the recds and files in the action or minutes of the court, the final decision in action or proceeding, an order or decision made in the absence of a rty, and rulings, orders and decisions upon objections to evidence or y contested proceedings at a trial reported in the stenographer's notes of the evidence and proceedings upon a trial are deemed excepted t Rulings, orders and decisions appearing upon the records, files or mi utes need not, unless desired by the party objecting thereto, be embodie in a bill of exceptions, but the same appearing in the records, files o minutes may be reviewed upon appeal as though settled in such bi of exceptions. Construction: Any party aggrieved by the verdict has his exceptions saved by this section, although the verdict, while it does not satisfy him, is in his favor. Fox v. West (1880) 1 I. 782.

Exceptions must be preserved: It was formerly held that the exceptions saved by this section must be preserved in a bill of exceptions in order to be available on appeal. Ainslie v. Ida. World Ptg. Co. (1877) 1 I. 641; Graham v. Linehan (1880) 1 I. 780; Fox v. West (1880) 1 I. 782; Purdum v. Taylor (1886) 2 I. 167, 9 P. 607; Berry v. Alturas Co. (1887) 2 I. 296, 13 P. 233; Guthrie v. Phelan (1885) 2 I. 95, 6 P. 107.

But these decisions were rendered prior to the enactment of this section as it now stands and they are therefore no longer in point. See Palmer v. Pettingill, 6 I. 346, 55 P. 653.

Bill of exceptions unnecessary: No formal exception need be taken to an order denying a new trial. Hattabaugh v. Vollmer (1896) 5 I. 23, 46 P. 831. A bill of exceptions is not necessary on an appeal from an order taxing costs after judgment. Thiessen v. Riggs (1897) 5 I. 487, 51 P. 107. Nor to obtain a review of an order overruling a demurrer. Palmer v. Pettingill (1898) 6 I. 346, 55 P. 653. Nor to review an order striking out a portion of a pleading. Warren v. Stoddart (1899) 6 I. 692, 59 P. 540; (On petition for rehearing) Perkins v. Loux (1908) 14 I. 614, 95 P. 696. Nor in case of an order sustaining or overruling a demurrer. Taylor v. McCormick (1901) 7 I. 524, 64 P. 239; Corcoran v. Sonora etc. Co. (1902) 8 I. 651, 71 P. 127.

Since an exception is allowed as a matter of law to an order denying new trial, error in such order will be reviewed by the supreme court although not specifica ly assigned as error in that court, whe the appellant assigned his errors in t statement used on the hearing of the m tion for a new trial, and pointed out t particulars of insufficiency of evidence a errors of law on which he relied. Whi ney v. Dewey (1905) 10 I. 633, 80 P. 111

Under this section the papers used the hearing of a motion, which are ma a part of the records and files in the a tion, need not be embodied in a bill exceptions, and if the same appear in t records or files they may be review upon appeal as though settled in a b of exceptions, if certified or identified provided by law. Hall v. Jensen (190 14 I. 165, 93 P. 962.

The certificate of the trial judge ce tifying to the different papers and doc ments used upon a motion to dismiss appeal, although incorporated into t record and designated as a bill of exce tions, is not strictly a bill of exceptio but is a certificate of identification und the statute, as to the papers used up the hearing of the motion, and will considered only as such certificate. bill of exceptions is not required. Lib v. Spokane Valley etc. Co. (1908) 15 467, 98 P. 715.

Nature of exception: The exception a verdict which is saved by this secti is an exception to the verdict as receiv and such a verdict, if sufficient to susta a judgment, will not be disturbed becau informal or insufficient. Johnson v. Fi ser (1888) 2 I. 404, 18 P. 48.

Appellate review: The respondent c not procure a review on appeal of an ception to a ruling of the court denyi the respondent permission to file cert papers as part of the transcript on appe unless such exception is saved by stat or duly saved in a bill of exceptions. G den v. Lemp. (1901) 7 I. 677, 65 P. 44

Interlocutory orders: The word "int locutory," as used in this section, ref to all orders, rulings and decisions made the trial court from the inception of action to its final determination, and such orders, rulings and decisions deemed excepted to. Steinour v. Oak S. Bk., 32 I. —, 177 P. 843.

§ 6880. [4428] Same: Form of exception. No particular form exception is required. But when the exception is to the verdict or cision, upon the grounds of the insufficiency of the evidence to sustain the objection must specify the particulars in which such evidence is leged to be insufficient. The objection must be stated, with so much the evidence or other matter as is necessary to explain it, and no mo Only the substance of the reporter's notes of the evidence shall stated. Documents on file in the action or proceeding may be copi or the substance thereof stated, or a reference thereto, sufficient to id tify them may be made. [R. S. § 4428.]

Repeal: There is a question as to whether or not this section is in force. Ulright v. Baslington (1911) 20 I. 546, 119 294.

Specification of errors: A specification errors on which a party relies is not required in a bill of exceptions, except when is claimed that the evidence is insufficient to justify the verdict or decision. arren v. Stoddard (1899) 6 I. 692, 59 P. 0. But if the exception is to the verdict decision upon the ground of insufficien- of evidence, the bill will be stricken it does not specify the particulars of inefficiency. Hole v. Van Duzer (1905) I. 79, 81 P. 109.

A bill of exceptions will not always be ricken for lack of specifications but may retained to review questions of law arising during trial. Humphrey v. Whitney, (1909) 17 I. 14, 103 P. 389.

Before the supreme court on an appeal can consider the sufficiency of the evidence to support the findings and judgment, the appellant must specify the particulars in which it is alleged the evidence is insufficient, and such specifications must be embodied in the bill of exceptions. Later v. Haywood (1908) 14 I. 45, 93 P. 374; Humphrey v. Whitney (1909) 17 I 14, 103 P. 389.

It is the common practice, and that which is apparently contemplated by the statute and court rule, for the appellant to specify the particular things that he conceives it was necessary for the adverse party to prove and which he has failed to prove, and thereby call the attention of the court and the opposing counsel to the specific insufficiency of the evidence or lack of evidence in the case. Spongberg v. First Nat. Bk. (1910) 18 I. 524, 110 P. 716, Ann. Cas. 1912A 95, 31 L. R. A. (N. S.) 736.

§ 6882. [4430] Same: Settlement after judgment. When a party esires to have exceptions taken at a trial settled in a bill of exceptions e may, within 10 days after the entry of judgment, if the action were ied with a jury, or after receiving notice of the entry of judgment, if ıe action were tried without a jury, or such further time as the court which the action is pending, or a judge thereof may allow, prepare ıe draft of a bill, and serve the same or a copy thereof, upon the adrse party. Within 10 days after such service the adverse party may ropose amendments thereto, and serve the same or a copy thereof upon ıe other party. The proposed bill and amendments must within 10 ays thereafter, by the party seeking the settlement of the bill, be dered to the clerk of the court for the judge who tried or heard the ıse. When received by the clerk, he must immediately deliver them the judge, if he be in the county; if he be absent from the county, and ithin the state, and either party desire the papers to be forwarded to ıe judge, the clerk must, upon notice in writing of such party, immeately forward them by mail or other safe channel; if not thus forarded, the clerk must deliver them to the judge immediately after his turn to the county. When received from the clerk, the judge must esignate the time at which he will settle the bill, and the clerk must mediately notify the parties of such designation. At the time desigıted the judge must settle the bill. If the action was tried before a ref'ee, the proposed bill, with the amndments, if any, must be presented such referee for settlement within 10 days after service of the amendents, and thereafter, upon notice of five days to the adverse party, the referee shall settle the bill. If no amendments are served, or if served are allowed, the proposed bill may be presented, with the amendments if any, to the judge or referee, for settlement without notice to the adverse party. It is the duty of the judge or referee, in settling the bill, to strike out of it all redundant and useless matter, so that the exceptions may be presented as briefly as possible. Construction with § 6878: This section does not conflict with § 6878, but exceptions may be settled under either section. Rumpel v. O. S. L. Ry. Co. (1894) 4 I. 13, 35 P. 700.

Nomenclature immaterial: A statement of the case containing the matters objected to at the trial, duly authenticated by the trial judge, will be considered by the supreme court as a bill of exceptions whether it is called a statement or a bill of exceptions. Schultz v. Keeler (1887) 2 I. 333, 13 P. 481. A paper denominated a statement on motion for new trial will be treated as a bill of exceptions when certified as such. United States v. Alexander (1888) 2 I. 386, 17 P. 746.

Service of bill: A draft of a bill of exceptions, into which are incorporated exceptions taken at the trial, must be proposed and served within 10 days after entry of judgment, if the action were tried without a jury, or such further time as the court or judge may allow. Then the adverse party, within 10 days after such service, must propose such amendments thereto, if any, as he may desire, and serve the same upon the other party. Stickney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 P. 189.

Time for service: The district judge has no jurisdiction to settle a bill of exceptions which is not served on the adverse party within the time allowed by law or by stipulation for such service, and which is presented to him without notice to the adverse party, and if he inadvertently does so it is proper for him afterward to strike the bill from the files. Lydon v. Piper (1897) 5 I. 541, 51 P. 101.

Extension of time: After the time has expired for serving and filing a proposed statement or bill of exceptions, the judge or court has no power to extend the time. Swartz v. Davis (1903) 9 I. 238, 74 P. 800; Sandstrom v. Smith (1906) 11 I. 779, 84 P. 1060.

Stipulations for settlement: It is usual and proper for the parties when starting into a trial to stipulate as to the time a bill of exceptions may be proposed and served, but they can not dispense with the necessity of incorporating the exceptions into a bill of exceptions. Lydon v. Piper supra.

When parties agree by stipulation that either party has a certain number of days after the rendition of the decision in which to prepare and serve a bill of exceptions such stipulation is a waiver by both parties of notice of rendition of the judgment and the bill of exceptions must be proposed and served within the stipulated time from the date of entering judgment unless the time therefor be properly extended. Ib.

Contents of bill: Documentary evidence to be used upon an appeal must be incorporated into a statement or a bill of exceptions and documentary evidence which has not been so incorporated into a statement or bill of exceptions will, upon motion, be stricken from the files. Stickney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 P. 189.

It is not reversible error that the bill of exceptions contains questions and answers. Gray v. Pierson (1901) 7 I. 540, 64 P. 233.

Certificate: A bill of exceptions or statement can not be considered on appeal unless it has been signed and certified by the trial judge; the attorneys can not settle a bill or statement by joining in a stipulation or certificate thereto. Hays v. Crutcher (1904) 10 I. 260, 77 P. 620.

Settlement: If no amendments are served within the time designated, or if served, are allowed, the proposed statement and amendments, if any, may be presented to the judge for settlement without notice to the adverse party. Coast I. Co. v. Wood (1910) 18 I. 28, 108 P. 336.

There is no statutory limit within which the judge must settle a bill of exceptions but the statute contemplates that the party moving to settle the bill will prosecute the motion with due diligence. An unreasonable delay deprives the court of jurisdiction. (Ailshie, C. J. dissents) Behrensmeyer v. Gwinn (1913) 25 I. 186, 133 P. 623.

Resettlement: Where an omission or mistake has occurred in the settlement of a bill the judge may allow a resettlement thereof, provided the transcript has not been sent to the supreme court and the error is shown by documentary evidence or is admitted; but if such an omission or mistake rests in the recollection of the judge or counsel and it is not admitted by the adverse party, a correction or resettlement should be denied. Griffiths v. Montandon (1895) 4 I. 329, 39 P. 195.

Sufficiency: It is within the discretion of the trial court to say that a bill of exeptions is sufficient to control its action n granting or refusing a new trial, and if he trial court finds a bill of exceptions ufficient and acts upon it, it is not for the upreme court to say it was error. Gray . Pierson (1901) 7 I. 540, 64 P. 233.

Amendments: The allowance of amendents to a statement and bill of exceptons, consisting of a number of specifications of insufficiency of the evidence to upport certain findings, six months after ne proposed statement and bill of exceptons had been served, and without service f such proposed amendments, is error. tickney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 . 189.

Where amendments are proposed to a ill of exceptions indication should be givn as to where such amendments are to e inserted, and where alterations or hanges are proposed by the amendment ne amendment should indicate just what ne changes consist of, and in such cases ne proposed bill with the amendments nould be engrossed so as to show the nange or alteration and the insertion of ne amendments in their proper place, and nereby make the bill of exceptions intelliible. Shumake v. Shumake (1910) 17 I. 49, 659, 107 P. 42.

Striking bills from transcript: Where ne transcript shows that the bill of exeptions was not settled and filed until fter the hearing of the motion for new ial, such bill of exceptions will be strickn from the transcript. Buckle v. McConghy (1905) 11 I. 533, 83 P. 525; Wood v. anner (1909) 15 I. 689, 99 P. 123.

Where a proposed statement is not pre-nted and settled within the time required y law and is inserted in the transcript, n motion, it will be stricken therefrom. eatherstone v. Keane (1910) 18 I. 24, 08 P. 337.

Annotations to § 6890 prior to its amendent: Before its amendment in '11, c. 18, § 2, p. 377, § 6890 provided for bills f exceptions and statements of the case n motions for new trial. The following nnotations, now obsolete under the mended § 6890, are transferred here, here they may be useful by way of anogy.

Service of statement: Under this section statement must be proposed and served ithin 10 days after entry of judgment, nd after service of such proposed statement, any proposed amendments must be rved within 10 days. Stickney v. Hanhan, supra.

When a proposed statement, on motion or a new trial, is served on the adverse arty within the statutory time and no nendments thereto are proposed, the atement as proposed may be presented the judge or delivered to the clerk for ttlement within any reasonable time nereafter; the provisions of this section not limit the time within which to prent the statement for settlement. Miller Hunt (1901) 7 I. 486, 63 P. 803; Hoehn v. N. Y. Drygoods Co. (1901) 8 I. 66, 7 P. 796.

Extension of time: Where any objecon or protest to the settlement of the atement is made because of lapse of statory time the court has no jurisdiction to extend the time or settle the statement. Hoehnan v. N. Y. Dry Goods Co. (1901) 8 I. 66, 67 P. 796.

When parties agree by stipulation that either party may have 60 days after the rendition of the decision in which to prepare and serve a statement, such stipulation is a waiver by both parties of notice of entry of judgment, and the statement must be prepared and served within 60 days from the date of judgment unless the time therefor be properly extended. Ib.

Contents of statement: It is not necessary to incorporate exhibits or other papers in the statement in haec verba where such exhibits or papers are inserted in the transcript and are referred to in the statement by letter or number. Moore v. Taylor (1875) 1 I. 583.

Documentary evidence to be used upon an appeal must be incorporated into a statement or a bill of exceptions, and documentary evidence which has not been so incorporated into a statement or a bill of exceptions will, upon motion, be stricken from the files. Stickney v. Hanrahan, supra.

Orders extending time for the preparation of the statement or bill of exceptions are not a necessary part of the record on appeal, and it is not necessary that they be included in the statement on motion for a new trial. Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 384, 92 P. 363.

Settlement of statement: The statement should be made and settled prior to the decision of the motion. Stevens v. N. W. Stage Co. (1875) 1 I. 604.

The trial judge should not settle a statement where amendments are allowed until after the engrossment thereof. Hattabaugh v. Vollmer (1896) 5 I. 23, 46 P. 831. An authentication prior to engrossment certifying that the statement is settled "in the manner marked by me in pencil allowing the proposed amendments where so marked and disallowing them where so marked," is insufficient. Crowley v. Croesus Gold etc. M. Co. (1906) 12 I. 530, 86 P. 536.

The trial judge should see that all statements of the case signed by him conform to the facts and should eliminate from them any matter which is false or untrue, whether amendments are offered or not; errors made after the settlement of the statement may still be corrected by the judge, but such corrections should not be made without first giving notice to counsel on both sides. Humbird Lbr. Co. v. Kootenai Co. (1904) 10 I. 490, 79 P. 396.

By the provisions of this statute it is incumbent upon the judge to strike from a proposed statement all redundant and useless matter, regardless of whether the parties have agreed to it or not, and to insert any matter necessary to make the statement speak the truth. Coast Lbr. Co. v. Wood (1910) 18 I. 28, 108 P. 336.

It is the duty of counsel for appellant to secure a settlement of the case within a reasonable time, and such want of diligence may be ground for dismissing the appeal. Smith v. American Falls etc. Co. (1908) 15 I. 89, 95 P. 1059.

Specifications: Bills of exceptions are not required to specify the errors relied upon except in the case of insufficiency of evidence to sustain the verdict. Warren v. Stoddart (1899) 6 I. 692, 59 P. 540.

Certificate: Where a statement is not certified by the trial judge in the manner provided in this section, it should be disregarded on the hearing of the motion for new trial, and it becomes no part of the record on appeal. Hyde v. Harkness (1876) 1 I. 623.

Only the judge or referee is authorized to settle and certify a statement on motion for a new trial: it can not be certified by the attorneys for the parties. Van Meter v. Squibb (1903) 9 I. 160, 72 P. 884.

Where a certificate of the judge to the statement recites that it contains all the evidence introduced or considered, the supreme court will treat the statement as containing all the evidence, although it appears that some evidence was introduced that is not contained in the record, as in that case it will be assumed that what was left out is immaterial. Van Camp v. Emery (1907) 13 I. 202, 89 P. 752.

When a statement on motion for a new trial has been duly settled it is presumed to show exactly what occurred at the trial, including the exceptions reserved to the rulings of the court upon questions of law, and as to those matters it is in substance the same as a bill of exceptions. (On rehearing) Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 392, 92 P. 363.

Amendment of statement: A statement on motion for a new trial may be amended by the insertion of the specifications of particulars wherein it is claimed that the evidence is insufficient to justify the verdict. Miller v. Hunt (1901) 7 I. 486, 63 P. 803.

The allowance of amendments, consisting of a number of specifications of insufficiency of the evidence to support certain findings, six months after the proposed statement had been served, and without service of such proposed amendments, is error. Stickney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 P. 189.

Where the moving party prepares statement and the adverse party proposes amendments to which no objection is made within 10 days, it was too late for counsel for the adverse party to ask for anything additional that would result in the amendment of the statement, and it was also too late for the moving party to insist that he had not adopted all of the amendments, and the court erred in holding that he had lost jurisdiction, and should have directed the proposed statement, with all of the amendments that had been proposed in time, to be engrossed and settled. After that was done, if said engrossed statement then truly represented the case, it was the judge's duty to settle it. Coast Lbr. Co. v. Wood (1910) 18 I. 28, 108 P. 336.

Custody of statement: When a statement is settled it is the duty of the judge to deliver it to the clerk and cause it to be filed, and it is improper to permit counsel or any one else to take possession of the settled statement until it has been filed, but the fact that the statement is not filed until several months after the date of settlement is not ground for rejecting the same in the absence of a showing of fraud or misconduct on the part of the party seeking to use it. Van Camp v. Emery (1907) 13 I. 202, 89 P. 752.

Appellate review: An objection to a verdict can not be raised in the supreme court where no motion for new trial is made, under this section, and no motion was made on the trial to correct the verdict. Fox v. West (1880) 1 I. 782.

Exceptions to rulings of the court in the admission or rejection of evidence when embodied in the statement to be used on motion for new trial may be reviewed on appeal to the supreme court. Bradbury v. Ida. etc. L. I. Co. (1886) 2 I. 239, 10 P. 620.

Where a statement on motion for a new trial is insufficient the appeal from the order denying the motion will be dismissed. Robson v. Colson (1903) 9 I. 215, 72 P. 951.

§ 6883. [4431] Same: Decisions made after judgment. Exceptions to any decision made after judgment may be presented to the judge at the time of such decision and be settled or noted as provided in section 6881, and a bill thereof may be presented and settled afterward, as provided in section 6882, and within like periods after entry of the order upon appeal from which such decision is reviewable. [4432] Settlement by supreme court. If the judge in any case refuse to allow an exception in accordance with the facts, the party desiring the bill settled may apply by petition to the supreme court to prove the same. The application may be made in the mode and manner, and under such regulations as that court may prescribe; and the bill when proven, must be certified by a justice as correct, and filed with the clerk of the court in which the action was tried, and when so filed it has the same force and effect as if settled by the judge who tried the cause. Construed: The supreme court has no power to settle an entire bill of exceptions but its power is restricted to those cases where the trial court failed to allow an exception, and not where the court refused to settle the transcript as a whole. Hansen v. Boise Payette Lbr. Co. (1917) 30 I. 801, 168 P. 163.

Applications to supreme court: Where an application is made to the supreme court to settle exceptions under this section and the rules of the court, and the applicant prays for the settlement of such exceptions as are set out by a certain exhibit, but fails to submit such an exhibit, there is nothing on which the court may act, and the application will be denied. Dernham v. Lieuallen (1895) 4 I. 528, 43 P. 74.

Remedy for delay: If the judge in any case refuse to allow an exception in accordance with the facts the party desiring the bill settled may apply by petition to the supreme court to prove the same. Smith v. American Falls etc. Co. (1908) 15 I. 89, 95 P. 1059.

§ 6885. [4433] Same: Settlement by judicial officer. When the decision excepted to was made by any judicial officer other than a judge, the bill of exceptions shall be presented to such judicial officer and be settled and signed by him, in the same manner as it is required to be presented to, settled and signed by a court or judge. A judge or judicial officer may settle and sign a bill of exceptions after as well as before he ceases to be such judge or judicial officer. If such judge or judicial officer, before the bill of exceptions is settled, dies, is removed from office, becomes disqualified, is absent from the state, or refuses to settle the bill of exceptions, or if no mode is provided by law for the settlement of the same, it shall be settled and certified in such manner as the supreme court may, by its order or rules, direct. Judges, judicial officers, and the supreme court shall respectively possess the same power, in settling and certifying statements as is by this section conferred upon them in settling and certifying bills of exceptions. § 6886. Reporter's transcript. Any party desiring to procure a review on appeal to the supreme court of any ruling of the district court made during the trial, or the sufficiency of evidence to sustain the verdict or decision, in an action or special proceeding, may, in lieu of preparing, serving and procuring the settlement of a bill of exceptions as in this chapter provided, procure a transcript of the testimony and proceedings, including the instructions given or refused, and exceptions thereto, on the trial, or such part thereof as may be necessary, in the following manner:

1. He shall first procure from the district judge an order directing the reporter to prepare said transcript or specified portion thereof, which order shall limit the time within which the reporter shall complete and lodge the same. He shall then file said order with the clerk of the district court, and serve a copy thereof upon the reporter, paying to him at the time such sum as he shall demand, as the estimated cost of transcribing such part of his notes and of the proceedings as may be desired, at the rate of 10 cents per folio of 100 words, which fee shall be in full payment for all services of the reporter in preparing and certifying an original and four carbon copies of said transcript, and shall be covered into the state treasury as are other fees paid to the reporter, and any balance of the estimate shall be returned by the reporter to the party depositing the same, and said party shall likewise be liable to, and shall, on demand of the reporter, pay any deficiency not covered by said estimate. It shall be the duty of the reporter, upon service of said copy of order and receipt of his estimated fees, to forthwith prepare said transcript and to complete the same and lodge the original and copies with the clerk of the district court within the time allowed by said order or within such further time as the district judge may, by order, allow and the reporter shall append to the transcript his certificate that the same is a true and correct copy of the testimony taken at the trial, or of such part thereof as is designated by the order.

2. Upon receipt of said transcript, the clerk shall mark the original and two copies as lodged on the date of said receipt, and shall deliver the remaining copies to the party procuring the same to be made, or to his attorney, and such party or his attorney shall, within five days from receipt thereof, serve one copy, together with a notice particularly designated by page and line any errors or omissions which he claims to be disclosed by the transcript, in the event he claims that there are any such errors or omissions, upon the adverse party or his attorney, or if there be more than one adverse party appearing by separate attorney then on one of those attorneys, in which latter case, however, he shall notify, in the manner that notices are required to be served, the other adverse parties or their attorney, of the party on whom he has made such service. The adverse parties, or any of them, shall have 10 days after such service had been completed within which likewise to point out by notice any errors in said transcript and to file said notice with the clerk of the court, and serve a copy thereof on the party serving the transcript.

3. At the expiration of the time limited for designating errors, the transcript, with any notice designating errors shall be transmitted to the judge who tried the cause, by the clerk, on application of either party and such judge shall forthwith settle the same, notifying the parties by such notice as he deems adequate of the time and place of settlement in the event of any error designated by notice and not agreed to, and when so settled said transcript shall have the force and effect of a bill of exceptions duly settled and allowed, and shall be deemed adequate to present for review any ruling appearing therein to have been excepted to, or by statute deemed excepted to, or any question of insufficiency of evidence which may afterward be properly presented by specification of insufficiency in the brief on appeal, and the original transcript and copies thereof lodged with the clerk shall be by him marked filed and retained by him for transmission to the clerk of the supreme court in the event an appeal is afterward perfected.

4. Exhibits introduced in the trial may be certified to the supreme court by the clerk without incorporating the same in the transcript, or making any copies, unless said exhibits consist of some part of the public records, in which event the same shall be copied into the record at the appropriate place by the reporter, or a copy certified by the party having lawful custody of the records may be substituted and transmitted with the exhibits. Purpose: The transcription of the stenographer's notes prepared and settled in accordance with the provisions of this section is made for the purpose of being used as a part of the record on appeal, and takes the place of the statement and bill of exceptions prepared under the prior law. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 9[illegible].

On appeal from a final judgment, where appellant furnishes the supreme court with a copy of the notice of appeal, judgment roll, reporter's transcript as prepared and settled as provided by this section, and the insufficiency of the evidence is properly presented by specification in the brie[illegible] the court has full power under § 7163 to determine whether the evidence is sufficient. Buster v. Fletcher (1912) 22 I. 172, 125 P. 226.

This section, with others, was intended to cheapen and expedite appeals, transferring the duty of preparing appeals from the attorneys to the court officers. Fischer v. Davis (1913) 24 I. 216, 133 P. 910.

It was the intention of the legislature to render the preparation of records and transcripts on appeal less technical and perhaps in some instances to broaden the scope of review on appeal. Steinour v. Oakley State Bk. 32 I. —, 177 P. 843.

Strict compliance: Supreme court will require strict compliance in furtherance of speedy prosecution of appeals. Fischer v. Davis, supra.

Decision: The word "decision" means where a cause is tried to the court and includes the trial court's findings of fact and conclusions of law. Buster v. Fletcher, supra.

Transcripts: This section does not prohibit or forbid the printing of transcript on appeal, and costs may be taxed for printed transcripts. Ulbright v. Baslington (1911) 20 I. 546, 119 P. 294.

Where separate appeals by different parties are taken one of these parties can secure a transcript and the others avail themselves of it for the basing of their appeals, thus saving expense. Failure on part of officer to prepare and deliver transcript within stipulated time will not work a dismissal of the appeal, unless the appellant has been guilty of laches or contributed to the delay. Fischer v. Davis, supra.

Service: The service provided for in this section is mandatory, and failure to make such service divests the supreme court of jurisdiction to entertain the appeal. Bohannon Dredging Co. v. England (1917) 30 I. 721, 168 P. 12. The failure to make the service required by this section divests the supreme court of jurisdiction to consider on appeal the record or that portion thereof involved in the failure of service. Boise Payette Lbr. Co. v. McCarthy (1918) 31 I. 305, 170 P. 920.

Service of copies of the clerk's transcript of the record and the reporter's transcript of the testimony, bound together, within the time required by this section, is compliance with the mandatory requirements of this section and § 7166 as to service, and in case the respondent's attorney fails to return his copy to the clerk for completion prior to the time of settlement of the reporter's transcript by the trial judge, the appellant is not required to make any additional service of the record. Stine Lbr. & Shingle Co. v. Hemenway, 32 I. —, 179 P. 505.

Extension of time: Under this section district judge has authority to control the getting out of the reporter's notes and to grant necessary extensions of time for the reporter to transcribe his notes and to make all orders in relation thereto. Fischer v. Davis, supra. Junction Placer M. Co. v. Reed (1915) 28 I. 219, 153 P. 564.

Settlement of transcript: Reporter's transcript is not required to be settled or filed prior to hearing of motion for new trial. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 95; Bohannon Dredging Co. v. England (1917) 30 I. 721, 168 P. 12.

The statute has left it to the judge alone to settle the transcript, and the mere failure of counsel to designate errors does not limit the power of the judge or excuse the necessary statutory requirement of a settlement of such transcript. Grisinger v. Hubbard (1912) 21 I. 469, 122 P. 853, Ann. Cas. 1913E 87.

The transcript of the evidence certified to by the stenographer must be settled by the trial judge to have the same reviewed upon appeal to the supreme court. Furey v. Taylor (1912) 22 I. 605, 127 P. 676; Chapman v. A. H. Averill Mach. Co. (1915) 27 I. 213, 147 P. 785; Wells v. Culp (1917) 30 I. 438, 166 P. 218; Minn. Threshing Mach. Co. v. Peterson, 31 I. 745, 176 P. 99.

An order overruling a motion for a new trial can not be considered on appeal where the record fails to contain a transcript of the evidence, duly certified and settled. Wells v. Culp, supra.

Where the stenographer's transcript is not settled, on motion made within proper time the appeal must be dismissed. Edwards v. Anderson (1913) 23 I. 508, 130 P. 1001.

Transcript not settled by judge will be stricken on motion. Strand v. Crooked River etc. Co. (1913) 23 I. 577, 131 P. 5; Chapman v. A. H. Averill Mach. Co. (1915) 28 I. 121, 152 P. 593.

Order overruling motion for a new trial, which was based in part on the minutes of the court, cannot be reviewed in the absence of the trial judge's certificate to the transcript of evidence. Bumpas v. Moore, 31 I. 668, 175 P. 339.

ARTICLE 8.

NEW TRIALS.

§ 6887. [4438] New trial defined. A new trial is a reexamination of an issue of fact in the same court after a trial and decision by a jury or court or by referees. [R. S. § 4438.]

Hist. (See C. C. P. '81, § 410) R. S. § 4438, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, 656; Kerr's C. ib.

N. D. Identical: C. C. P. § 7659.

Definition: No new trial can be had unless there is to be a reexamination of an issue of fact; thus the supreme court will not entertain a motion for a new trial of mandamus proceedings instituted in that court and disposed of on an issue of law raised by demurrer. P. v. George (1891) 3 I. 108, 27 P. 680. Tucker v. Hypotheek etc. Co., 31 I. 466, 173 P. 749.

Decision defined: The "decision" here referred to means the findings of fact and conclusions of law, and not the judgment. Caldwell v. Wells (1909) 16 I. 459, 101 P. 812.

This and the following section authorize the granting of a new trial only in case former hearing has proceeded to a ver dict or a decision of an issue, or issue of fact by a court or referee. Tucker Hypotheek etc. M. Co., supra.

§ 6888. [4439] Grounds for new trial. The former verdict or othe decision may be vacated and a new trial granted on the application o the party aggrieved, for any of the following causes, materially affectin the substantial rights of such party:

1. Irregularity in the proceedings of the court, jury or adverse party or any order of the court or abuse of discretion by which either part was prevented from having a fair trial.

2. Misconduct of the jury; and when any one or more of the juror have been induced to assent to any general or special verdict, or to finding on any question submitted to them by the court, by a resort t the determination of chance, such misconduct may be proved by the af fidavit of any one of the jurors.

3. Accident or surprise, which ordinary prudence could not hav guarded against.

4. Newly discovered evidence, material for the party making th application, which he could not, with reasonable diligence, have dis covered and produced at the trial.

5. Excessive damages, appearing to have been given under the in fluence of passion or prejudice.

6. Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or other de cision, or that it is against law.

7. Error in law, occurring at the trial, and excepted to by the part making the application. [R. C. § 4439.]

Discretion of court: Appellate review: An order granting a new trial will not be disturbed in the absence of abuse of discretion. Jacksha v. Gilbert (1896) 4 I. 738, 44 P. 555; Brossard v. Morgan (1899) 6 I. 479, 56 P. 163; Wolfe v. Ridley (1909) 17 I. 173, 104 P. 1014; Say v. Hodgin (1911) 20 I. 64, 116 P. 410.

Where a motion for a new trial is heard before the successor of the judge who tried the case, the supreme court will pass upon the evidence in the same way that a nisi prius court would do. Van Camp v. Emery (1907) 13 I. 202, 89 P. 752.

An appellate court will not interfere with orders granting a new trial for newly discovered evidence in the absence of an abuse of discretion. Heilner v. Brown (1887) 2 I. 263, 12 P. 903. But such an application should be looked upon with suspicion and disfavor. Black v. Lewiston (1887) 2 I. 276, 13 P. 80.

Where a motion for a new trial has been made on several grounds and the trial court grants the same without designating the ground upon which the order is made, the order will not be disturbed on appe if it could have properly been granted o any ground mentioned in the motio Gray v. Pierson (1901) 7 I. 540, 64 P. 23 Penninger Lat. Co. v. Clark (1911) 20 166, 117 P. 764. But it would be in the i terest of good practice and the dispatch business if trial courts when making o ders granting new trials would specify t particular grounds on which such orde are made. Wolfe v. Ridley (1909) 17 173, 104 P. 1014.

Substituting new findings and decre Where findings of fact, conclusions of la and decree have been made and enter by the trial court and recorded, in fav of one of the parties, it is reversible err for the court upon motion for new tri and of its own motion to set aside pr vious judgment entered and substitute ne findings of fact, conclusions of law a decree in favor of the other party, witho granting a new trial. Lawrence v. C beille (1916) 28 I. 329, 154 P. 495.

Subd. 2. Misconduct of Jury.

This subdivision should be punctuat the same as Cal. C. C. P. § 657. Griffit v. Montandon (1895) 4 I. 377, 39 P. 54

Entertaining jury: The action of t father of plaintiff in liberally patronizi during the trial a saloon conducted by o of the jurors in the presence of the oth jurors in the case is such misconduct the adverse party as to require a new tri Palmer v. Utah N. R. Co. (1887) 2 I. 3 13 P. 425. The act of parties to an acti in entertaining the jury while the lat are viewing premises in controversy, w uncheon and refreshments, beer and cigars, is such misconduct as to require a new trial. Burke v. McDonald (1892) 3 I. 96, 29 P. 98. It is error to permit a juror o use intoxicating liquors during the trial of a case, or during the deliberations of he jury, unless it is done by permission of he court upon the prescription of a practicing physician. (Modifying S. v. Reed, I. 754, 35 P. 706) Bernier v. Anderson 1902) 8 I. 675, 70 P. 1027.

Quotient verdict: A quotient verdict obained by the addition of the several mounts to which each juror thinks the arty entitled, and division of the sum by 2, is a chance verdict and should be set side. Flood v. McClure (1893) 3 I. 587, 2 P. 254; Beakley v. Optimist P. Co. 1915) 28 I. 67, 152 P. 212. But where urors make a quotient determination of he amount of the verdict which they shall ender, and, after arriving at such determination, continue their discussions further and finally determine by majority ote the sum to be awarded, the verdict nally rendered is not a chance verdict. uch a verdict is, however, of doubtful ropriety. Giffin v. Lewiston (1898) 6 I. 31, 55 P 545; Newman v. Great Shoone etc. Co. (1916) 28 I. 764, 156 P. 111.

Proof of misconduct: Affidavits of jurrs should not be received to impeach the erdict except when the same has been obtined by a resort to chance. Affidavits of urors may not be received to show that quor was furnished to them. Berner v. nderson, supra. Griffiths v. Montandon, upra. The affidavits of jurors are cometent to impeach a verdict obtained by hance. Giffin v. Lewiston, supra. Beaky v. Optimist P. Co., supra. Affidavit of ttorney that jurors had told him verdict as result of chance, met by counter affiavits of two jurors that such was untrue, sufficient to show misconduct authorizing new trial. Graham v. Coeur d'Alene etc. o. (1915) 27 I. 454, 149 P. 509.

Subd. 3. Surprise.

In order to obtain a new trial on the ound of surprise, the surprise should be own by the best and most satisfactory idence within the reach of the applicant. illienthal v. Anderson (1877) 1 I. 673.

The facts constituting accident or surise must be set forth in the affidavit. all v. Jensen (1908) 14 I. 165, 93 P. 962.

Subd. 4. Newly Discovered Evidence.

It is not error to refuse a new trial on e ground of discovery of alleged evidence ntirely irrelevant to the issue. Gaffney Hoyt (1886) 2 I. 199, 10 P. 34; St. Regis Co. v. Turner etc. Co. (1917) 30 I. 555, 6 P. 254. Alleged newly discovered evince which is mainly cumulative and hich was not beyond the reach of the rties at the time of the trial, is not ound for a new trial. Knollin v. Jones 909) 7 I. 466, 63 P. 638; Heckman v. spey (1906) 12 I. 755, 88 P. 80; Hall v. nsen (1908) 14 I. 165, 93 P. 962.

The newly discovered evidence must be t forth and it must also appear from the affidavit that the party could not with reasonable diligence have discovered the same and produced it at the trial. Hall v. Jensen (1908) 14 I. 165, 93 P. 962; Stolz v. Scott (1916) 28 I. 417, 154 P. 982; Amonson v. Stone (1917) 30 I. 656, 157 P. 1029.

Subd. 5. Excessive Damages.

On an appeal from an order granting a new trial the record showing that there was only a difference of some $20 or $30 between the amount of damages shown by the defendant's proofs and that allowed by the jury, and that the expenses of a new trial would greatly exceed the amount of the difference, a new trial should not be granted. Wood etc. Co. v. Woodmansee (1900) 7 I. 250, 61 P. 1029.

Subd. 6. Insufficiency of Evidence.

Exceptions to findings of facts on the grounds that they are contrary to the evidence can only be reviewed on a motion for new trial. Toulouse v. Burkett (1866) 2 I. 184, 10 P. 26; Buster v. Fletcher (1912) 22 I. 172, 125 P. 226.

The trial court may and should grant a new trial regardless of the existence of a conflict in the evidence, if he concludes that the verdict of the jury is improper. Jones v. Campbell (1906) 11 I. 752, 84 P. 515. Where there is a substantial conflict in the evidence, an order of the trial judge granting a new trial will not be disturbed on appeal. Buckle v. McConaghy (1906) 12 I. 733, 88 P. 100; Wolfe v. Ridley (1909) 17 I. 173, 104 P. 1014; Penninger Lat. Co. v. Clark (1911) 20 I. 166, 117 P. 764.

A motion for a new trial should be directed at the verdict of the jury or the "decision" of the court, and not at the judgment; otherwise, the sufficiency of the evidence to support an order overruling such motion can not be reviewed on appeal. Caldwell v. Wells (1909) 16 I. 459, 101 P. 812.

Subd. 6. Decision Against Law.

Where a judgment is entered upon findings which do not determine all the material issues raised by the pleadings with respect to which evidence was introduced, the decision is against law and a new trial may be granted on that ground. Brown v. Macey (1907) 13 I. 451, 90 P. 339.

Indefiniteness of a verdict is not ground for granting a new trial under the provisions of this section. Trask v. Boise King Placers Co. (1914) 26 I. 290, 142 P. 1073.

Subd. 7. Errors in Law.

An error of the trial court in granting or refusing a new trial is an order made after trial, and is addressed to the discretion of the court, and is not an error occurring at the trial. Baillie v. Wallace (1912) 22 I. 702, 127 P. 908.

Nonsuit not ground: A motion for nonsuit presents only a question of law, and if it is granted and a judgment of dismissal is entered, it is error to grant a new trial. Tucker v. Hypotheek etc. M. Co., 31 I. 466, 173 P. 749.

§ 6889. Application for new trial: How made. When an applica tion is made for a cause mentioned in the first, second, third and fourth subdivisions of the last section it must be made upon affidavits; for any other cause it may be made, at the option of the moving party, either upon the records and files in the action or the minutes of the court. Motion for new trial: The statute does not require a formal motion to be made for a new trial; yet when such motion is put in writing and filed as a part of the records in the case the same will not be stricken. Storer v. Heitfeld (1909) 17 I. 113, 105 P. 55.

§ 6890. Same: Notice of intention. The party intending to move for a new trial must, within 10 days after the verdict of the jury, if the action were tried by a jury, or after notice of the decision of the court or referee, if the action were tried without a jury, file with the clerk and serve upon the adverse party a notice of his motion designating the grounds upon which the motion will be made, and whether the same will be made upon affidavits, or the records and files in the action, or the minutes of the court.

1. If the motion is to be made upon affidavits, the moving party must, within 10 days after serving the notice, or such further time as the court in which the action is pending, or a judge thereof, may allow, file such affidavits with the clerk and serve a copy upon the adverse party, who shall have 10 days to file counter affidavits, a copy of which must be served upon the moving party.

2. When the motion is to be made upon minutes of the court, and the ground of the motion is the insufficiency of evidence to justify the verdict or other decision, the notice of motion must specify the particulars in which the evidence is alleged to be insufficient; and, if the ground of the motion be errors in law occurring at the trial, and excepted to by the moving party or deemed excepted to, the notice must specify the particular errors upon which the party will rely. If the notice of motion does not contain the specifications herein designated the moving party may at any time within twenty days after filing such notice of motion, or within such further time as the court may allow, file a notice containing such specifications and serve a copy of the same upon the adverse party, and unless he do so the motion must be denied. Notice of intention: A notice of intention to move for a new trial need not contain specific assignments of the grounds wherein the decision is against law. Brown v. Macey (1907) 13 I. 451, 90 P. 339.

The fact that the trial court has entertained a motion for new trial, considered and passed upon same, implies that the proper notice of intention to make such motion has been served and filed. Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 384, 92 P. 363.

The statement in the notice of the grounds in the disjunctive does not render the notice insufficient where the notice does state that such motion is to be heard upon "either or all of them." Andregg v. O. S. L. Rr. Co. (1912) 22 I. 437, 126 P. 528.

The notice provided for by this section is a notice of the motion for a new trial, and such notice must designate the grounds upon which the motion will be made. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 95.

There is a substantial compliance with the provisions of this section as amended, even though the words "intends to move for a new trial" are used instead of the words "will move," provided the motion in other respects complies with the statute and adequately informs the defendant as to its grounds. Times Printing etc. Co. v. Babcock, 31 I. 770, 176 P. 776.

Motion for new trial: The motion for new trial follows after the notice and may be oral or in writing, and is not required to be in any particular form or to state the grounds upon which the same is made. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 95.

Extension of time: An order extending the time to move for a new trial does not extend the time for serving notice of intention to move for a new trial. Stevens v. N. W. Stage Co. (1875) 1 I. 604.

A judge of one district called into another district to try a case pending in that district, has all the powers of the judge of that district for the purposes of the case and may make an order extending the time for preparing and presenting statements and bills of exceptions or for filing affidavits on motion for a new trial. Morris v. Lemp (1907) 13 I. 116, 88 P. 761.

Where a decision is made in open court in the presence of counsel and at the request of counsel the time is extended to file his motion for a new trial, such order does not extend the time for filing the notice of intention to move for a new trial. Howes v. Dols (1915) 27 I. 576, 150 P. 38.

The filing of notice of motion for new trial within the time required by statute continues the jurisdiction of the trial court to rule upon the motion, which, in the absence of lack of diligence, is not affected by the expiration of the time within which an appeal may be taken from the judgment. Times Printing etc. Co. v. Babcock, 31 I. 770, 176 P. 776.

Hearing on affidavits: In order for a party to obtain a new trial on the ground of error in refusing a continuance for an absent witness it is necessary for him upon the motion for a new trial to produce the affidavit of the absent witness showing that he could testify to the facts sought to be proved by him, or to show that such an affidavit could not be procured. Lillienthal & Co. v. Anderson (1877) 1 I. 673.

An objection to an affidavit read on motion for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, predicated on the want of a proper jurat, must be made in the trial court and an exception be taken to the ruling, in order to be available on appeal. Heilner v. Brown (1887) 2 I. 263, 12 P. 903.

A motion for a new trial based on affidavits can not be heard and considered prior to the expiration of the 10 days allowed the adverse party in which to file and serve counter affidavits, and an order made pursuant to such a premature hearing will be reversed, although the order itself was not made until some time after counter affidavits were in fact filed. Peter v. Kalez (1905) 11 I. 553, 83 P. 526.

Where the notice of intention to move for a new trial does not state that the motion will be based upon affidavits, it is improper to file affidavits, and if filed, the same will be stricken from the records. Where the notice does so state such affidavits must be filed within 10 days after the service of such notice, unless the court or judge allow further time to file same. Storer v. Heitfeld (1909) 17 I. 113, 105 P. 55.

Court has discretionary power to allow counter affidavits to be filed at any time, under liberal construction, even after statutory time has expired. (Ailshie, J. dissents) Darling v. Fremstadt (1912) 22 I. 684, 127 P. 674.

Sufficiency of specifications: Specifications that the evidence does not support the "judgment" and that the "judgment" is contrary to law, can not be considered on a motion for a new trial. Curtis v. Walling (1888) 2 I. 416, 18 P. 54.

An assignment that the verdict is against law does not include an assignment of the insufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict. Young v. Tiner (1894) 4 I. 269, 38 P. 697.

Specifications of insufficiency of evidence which designate some particular fact and aver that it is not justified by or not sustained by or is contrary to the evidence are sufficient. Bernier v. Anderson (1902) 8 I. 675, 70 P. 1027; Palmer v. N. P. Ry. Co. (1905) 11 I. 583, 83 P. 947. On an issue as to whether a road was a private road or a public highway, a specification of insufficiency of evidence stating that "the evidence is undisputed that the road in question was a private road" is sufficient. Palmer v. N. P. Ry. Co. (1905) 11 I. 583, 83 P. 947. A specification that the evidence is insufficient and that the plaintiff is not entitled to 185 inches of water, but is entitled to 15 inches of water, is not a sufficient specification of the insufficiency of the evidence. Robson v. Colson (1903) 9 I. 215, 72 P. 951.

Notice of motion: A notice of motion for new trial need not designate the time when the motion will be made. The motion is a mere formality and may be made at any time prior to the hearing. Times Printing etc. Co. v. Babcock, 31 I. 770, 176 P. 776.

§ 6891. Hearing of motion. The application for a new trial shall be heard at the earliest practicable period after notice of the motion, if the motion is to be heard upon the minutes of the court, and in other cases, after the affidavits are filed, and may be brought to a hearing upon motion of either party. On such hearing reference may be had in all cases to the pleadings and orders of court on file, and when the motion is made on the minutes, reference may be had to any depositions, documentary evidence and phonographic report of the testimony on file. Babcock, 31 I. 770, 176 P. 776.

Time for hearing: A motion for new trial should not be heard until after the statement has been settled and filed, and an order granting a new trial prior to the settlement and filing of the statement will be set aside as premature. Buckle v. McConaghy (1905) 11 I. 533, 83 P. 525. (Not now applicable.)

Under this section an application for a new trial shall be heard at the earliest practicable time after the notice of the motion, if the motion is to be heard upon the minutes of the court, or in other cases after the affidavits are filed, and may be brought to a hearing upon motion of either party. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 95.

As a motion for a new trial may be brought to a hearing upon motion of either party, if appellant does not ask that the motion be heard until after the stenographer's notes are transcribed and the respondent makes no objection to the hearing of the motion at the time it is made on the ground of unreasonable delay, he waives such objection. Ib.

Notice of hearing: The adverse party is entitled to notice of hearing the motion for new trial, and has the right to be heard and to be present when the moving party is presenting his side of the case. Peter v. Kalez (1905) 11 I. 553, 83 P. 526. But where the attorneys for the parties sign a stipulation waiving notice of the time and place of hearing and passing upon a motion for a new trial, the trial judge may hear and pass on the motion without notice to the adverse party. Buckle v. McConaghy, supra.

Referring to evidence: Upon a hearing upon motion for a new trial, when made upon the minutes of the court, the sufficiency of the evidence and the questions arising during the trial and the matters contained in the reporter's notes may all be referred to, and the court may determine such questions from his recollection of what took place and from his own minutes kept of the proceedings, and by reference to the stenographer's notes, without waiting for a transcript of the proceedings and evidence as transcribed by the stenographer. Kelley v. Clark, supra.

Phonographic report: The phonographic report of the testimony on file, as the words are used in this section, means the stenographic report or shorthand notes of the stenographer and not the transcription of the testimony taken by such stenographer. Ib.

Unreasonable delay: Unless good cause for the delay is shown, an appeal from an order denying a new trial, taken more than a year after the entry of judgment, will be dismissed on motion. McCrea v. McGrew 9 I. 382, 75 P. 67. Smith v. American Falls Canal etc. Co. 15 I. 89, 95 P. 1059 Wood v. Tanner, 15 I. 689, 99 P. 123, 1053 Livingstone v. Aberdeen-Springfield C. Co 31 I. 592, 173 P. 1086.

§ 6892. Record on appeal. The judgment roll and the affidavits, or the records and files in the action, as the case may be, used on the hearing, with a copy of the order made, shall constitute the record to be used on appeal from the order granting or refusing a new trial, unless the motion be made on the minutes of the court, and in that case the judgment roll and a reporter's transcript prepared in the manner prescribed by section 6886 of these codes, with a copy of the order, shall constitute the record on appeal. Decisions before amendment: Where it does not appear that the motion for a new trial was made, or that any statement was filed in pursuance of this section, the supreme court, in reviewing the case, may consider only the judgment roll. W. & I. Rr. Co. v. Osborne (1889) 2 I. 557, 21 P. 421.

Where the order denying a new trial recites that a bill of exceptions was used on the hearing, the bill will be considered by the supreme court although not filed within the time required by statute, in the absence of any objection or exception by respondent to the settlement or submission of the bill to the trial court. Stufflebeam v. Montgomery (1891) 3 I. 20, 26 P. 125.

Under this section and § 7165, notice of intention to move for a new trial is not made a part of the record on appeal from the order granting or denying the motion, and it is not necessary that such notice be incorporated in the statement unless the adverse party objects to its sufficiency for some reason, and has his objection settled and incorporated in a bill of exceptions or statement. Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 384, 92 P. 363; Naylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 789, 96 P. 573.

All errors properly saved and assigned in a statement of the case, not used on motion for a new trial, may be reviewed upon appeal from the judgment although it be taken more than 60 days after the rendition of such judgment. (On rehearing) Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 392, 92 P. 363.

Specification of grounds for new trial: Where the record does not show the grounds upon which a new trial was granted, and no error warranting a new trial as apparent from the record, the order granting a new trial will be reversed. Lowe v. Long, 5 I. 122, 47 P. 93; Sweetzer v. Mellick (1898) 5 I. 783, 51 P. 985; Smith v. Wallace Nat. Bk. (1915) 27 I. 441, 150 P. 21.

The grounds upon which a new trial is granted should be stated in the order. Cox v. Cox (1912) 22 I. 692, 127 P. 679, and if not so stated, the supreme court in reviewing the order will examine the record and sustain the order if there is sufficient error to warrant the granting of a new trial. Bernier v. Anderson (1902) 8 I. 675, 70 P. 1027. Where the grounds on which the order is based are not stated, the supreme court will only examine the assignments of error made in the lower court so far as to ascertain whether or not the order can be sustained on any ground named in such assignments. Buckle v. McConaghy (1906) 12 I. 733, 88 P. 100.

What constitutes record: The judgment roll does not become a part of the record on appeal from an order granting or denying a motion for a new trial, unless the same was used on the hearing of the motion in the lower court. Johnston v. Bronson (1911) 19 I. 449, 114 P. 5.

Where the appellate court is unable to determine from the record what papers were used on the hearing in the lower court, and consequently unable to tell what papers, files and records should be contained in the transcript, the appeal from an order overruling a motion for a new trial will be dismissed. Ib.

The notice of motion for a new trial is a part of the files and part of the record required to be furnished to this court on appeal and is used upon the hearing. Kelley v. Clark (1912) 21 I. 231, 121 P. 95.

The action of trial court in overruling motion for new trial, based in part on minutes, can not be reviewed where record fails to contain a transcript of evidence duly settled by the trial judge. Wells v. Culp (1917) 30 I. 438, 166 P. 218.

Certificate of papers used: The certificate of the clerk of the district court that certain affidavits were used on the application for a new trial and that they were all the affidavits used, is not sufficient to authorize the supreme court to consider such affidavits; but such certificate must be made by the trial judge or in an authenticated record certified by the judge, showing what papers were used on the application. Crowley v. Croesus Gold etc. M. Co. (1906) 12 I. 530, 86 P. 536; Doust v. Rocky Mt. Bell Tel. Co. (1908) 14 I. 677, 95 P. 209.

§ 6893. New trial on motion of court. The verdict of a jury may also be vacated and a new trial granted by the court in which the action is pending, on its own motion, without the application of either of the parties when there has been such a plain disregard by the jury of the instructions of the court, or the evidence in the case, as to satisfy the court that the verdict was rendered under a misapprehension of such instructions or under the influence of passion or prejudice. The order of the court may be reviewed on appeal in the same manner as orders made on motions for a new trial, and a reporter's transcript to be used on such appeal may be prepared in the same manner as provided in section 6886. Baillie v. Wallace (1912) 22 I. 702, 709, 127 P. 908.

If the property has been delivered to the plaintiff, and the defendant claim a return thereof, judgment for the defendant may be for a return of the property or the value thereof, in case a return can not be had, and damages for taking and withholding the same. In an action on a contract or obligation in writing, for the direct payment of money, made payable in a specified kind of money or Campbell v. First Nat. Bk. of Rexburg (1907) 13 I. 95, 88 P. 639. But this provision is not mandatory and the court has a discretion to omit from the judgment an order for the return of the property, where the substantial rights of both parties may be subserved thereby. Johnson v. Fraser (1888) 2 I. 404, 18 P. 48.

If on the trial plaintiff shows that he is entitled to the possession of the property, a judgment in the alternative must be entered for the possession of the property or the value thereof in case a delivery can not be had, and for damages for the detention. 1. In case the complaint be not answered by any defendant, the summons with the affidavit or proof of service, and the complaint, with a memorandum indorsed thereon that the default of the defendant in not answering was entered, and a copy of the judgment.

2. In all other cases, the pleadings, a copy of the verdict of the jury, or findings of the court, or referee, a copy of any order made on demurrer, or relating to a change of the parties, and a copy of the judgment. Matters constituting judgment roll: Paragraphs of a pleading which are stricken out remain, nevertheless, a part of the judgment roll and of the record on appeal. Warren v. Stoddard (1899) 6 I. 692, 59 P. 540. But a notice of motion to strike out a part of a pleading and the order granting the motion, form no part of the judgment roll. Graham v. Linehan (1880) 1 I. 780; Swanson v. Groat (1906) 12 I. 148, 85 P. 384.

Where no statement of the case or bill of exceptions has been settled by the lower court, the notice of intention to move for a new trial, the notice of settlement of statement, the order refusing such settlement and the purported statement and affidavits on motion for a new trial will be stricken from the transcript. Rich v. French (1893) 3 I. 727, 35 P. 173.

Affidavits purporting to show errors in impaneling the jury, and the instructions given on the trial, are no part of the judgment roll and such matters can only be reviewed when saved by a bill of exceptions. Crowley v. Croesus Gold etc. Min. Co. (1906) 12 I. 530, 86 P. 536.

Where the record in a divorce suit in which service was made by publication, fails to show that a copy of the summons was mailed to the defendant, as required by the order of publication, the court has no jurisdiction to enter a decree of divorce. Strode v. Strode (1898) 6 I. 67, 52 P. 161.

This section names the specific papers that go to make up the judgment roll. Under subd. 1 the affidavit for the order of publication and the order of publication do not constitute a part of the roll. O'Neill v. Potvin (1907) 13 I. 721, 93 P. 20; Harpold v. Doyle (1909) 16 I. 671, 102 P. 158.

The minutes of the court, as such, are not properly a part of the judgment roll, except in so far as they may contain any order or judgment, a copy of which is by statute made a part of the judgment roll. (On petition for rehearing) Perkins v. Loux (1908) 14 I. 614, 95 P. 696.

A bill of exceptions is not now made a part of the judgment roll, but that fact does not prevent it from becoming a part of the transcript on appeal from the judgment. Haas v. Teters (1911) 19 I. 182, 113 P. 96.

An order entered on the minutes denying the relief prayed for is no part of the judgment roll and can be brought before the supreme court only by incorporation in a bill of exceptions. Bissing v. Bissing (1911) 19 I. 777, 115 P. 827.

The affidavit of attachment, undertaking on attachment, the writ of attachment and the return to the writ of attachment, and notice of levy on real estate under the attachment are no part of the judgment roll or of the transcript. Though they are included in the transcript on appeal, they are not properly a part thereof where they are not contained in a bill of exceptions, and must, on motion, be stricken out. King v. Seebeck (1911) 20 I. 223, 118 P. 292.

The order denying motion to strike respondent's cost bill can not be reviewed ecause it is not part of the judgment roll, or is it one of the papers required to be urnished to the court upon appeal, and it as not been incorporated in a bill of exceptions. Bell v. Stadler, 31 I. 568, 174 P. 29.

Copies of a motion for and of objections o the continuance of a trial, together with opies of affidavits in support and in opposition, and of the minutes of the court howing the motion was granted, are not art of the judgment roll. Bumpas v. Moore, 31 I. 668, 175 P. 339.

Instructions given or refused at the trial re not part of the judgment roll. Unless lleged errors in giving and refusing instructions are presented by the reporter's ranscript, they can only be reviewed when aved by a bill of exceptions. Crowley v. Croesus Min. Co., 12 I. 530, 86 P. 536; Minn. Threshing Machine Co. v. Peterson, 31 I. 745, 176 P. 99.

Collateral attack: In a collateral attack on a judgment the only evidence that is admissible in support of such attack is the judgment roll, and if that shows on its face the court had no jurisdiction to try the cause, the judgment is void. O'Neill v. Potvin (1907) 13 I. 721, 93 P. 20.

The default of the defendant in not answering should be indorsed upon the complaint; but if the clerk neglects to make such indorsement, it is a mere irregularity that can not be taken advantage of in a collateral attack on the judgment; and especially is that true where the judgment recites the fact that the default of the defendant was duly entered. Harpold v. Doyle (1909) 16 I. 671, 102 P. 158.

[4481] Execution of writ. The sheriff must execute the writ against the property of the judgment debtor by levying on a sufficient amount of property if there be sufficient; collecting or selling the things in action, and selling the other property, and paying to the plaintiff or his attorney so much of the proceeds as will satisfy the judgment. Any excess in the proceeds over the judgment and accruing costs must be returned to the judgment debtor unless otherwise directed by the judgment or order of the court. When there is more property of the judgment debtor than is sufficient to satisfy the judgment and accruing costs within the view of the sheriff, he must levy only on such part of the property as the judgment debtor may indicate, if the property indicated be amply sufficient to satisfy the judgment and costs. 1. In case of perishable property, by posting a written notice of the time and place of sale in three public places of the precinct or city where the sale is to take place, for such time as may be reasonable, considering the character and condition of the property.

2. In case of other personal property, by posting a similar notice in three public places in the precinct or city where the sale is to take place for not less than five nor more than 10 days before the time set for the sale, or by publishing a copy thereof at least one week, and not more than two weeks, in a newspaper published in the county, if there be one.

§ 6924. [4484] Conduct of sale. All sales of property under execution must be made at auction, to the highest bidder, between the hours of 9 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. After sufficient property has been sold to satisfy the execution, no more can be sold. Neither the officer holding the execution nor his deputy can become a purchaser or be interested in any purchase, at such sale. When the sale is of personal property, capable of manual delivery, it must be within view of those who attend the sale, and be sold in such parcels as are likely to bring the highest price; and when the sale is of real property, consisting of several known lots or parcels, they must be sold separately, or when a portion of such real property is claimed by a third person, and he requires it to be sold separately, such portion must be thus sold. The judgment debtor, if present at the sale, may also direct the order in which property, real or personal, shall be sold, when such property consists of several known lots or parcels, or of articles which can be sold to advantage separately, and the sheriff must follow such directions. The question as to whether or not several lots or tracts or parcels of land have been sold together under one bid instead of separately is a question properly to be presented to the court from which the execution issued and on motion to set aside the sale for the irregularity. It can not be raised for the first time on appeal either in the same or a collateral proceeding. Foore v. Simon Piano Co. (1910) 18 I. 167, 108 1038.

Order of sale: A defendant has the right to direct the order in which property levied upon shall be sold. An injunction order obtained in a proceeding to which the defendant was not a party, and which he had no notice, directing that property levied upon be sold in an order different from that directed by the defendant is void as to the defendant, and can not deprive him of his statutory right. Wood v. Jameson (1897) 5 I. 466, 50 P. 1008.

Setting aside sale: The proper remedy to set aside a judicial sale which has been wrongfully made, prior to the execution of the sheriff's deed, is by motion in the principal action. Notice of the motion should be served upon the adverse party and upon the purchaser. Ib.

[4485] Refusal to pay purchase money: Resale. If a purchaser refuse to pay the amount bid by him for property struck off to him at a sale under execution, the officer may again sell the property at any time to the highest bidder, and if any loss be occasioned thereby, the officer may recover the amount of such loss, with costs, from the bidder so refusing, in any court of competent jurisdiction. CHAPTER 258.

ACTIONS IN PARTICULAR CASES.

ARTICLE 1.

ACTIONS FOR THE FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES AND OTHER LIENS.

Note: The title of this article was changed in Compiled Laws to include other lien on the authority of Farnsworth v. Pepper (1915) 27 I. 159, 148 P. 48.

Cross ref: Attorney general to foreclose school fund mortgages: § 2973. Fore closure of water contracts on Carey act lands: § 3018-28. Foreclosure of chattel mort gages, action authorized: § 6379; by notice and sale: §§ 6380-4; contest of foreclosure § 6385. Judgment of foreclosure to be recorded with deeds: § 3639.

§ 6949. [4520] Proceedings in foreclosure. There can be but one action for the recovery of any debt, or the enforcement of any right se cured by mortgage upon real estate or personal property, which actio must be in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. In such ac tion the court may, by its judgment, direct a sale of the incumbered property (or so much thereof as may be necessary) and the applicatio of the proceeds of the sale to the payment of the costs of the court an the expenses of the sale, and the amount due to the plaintiff; and sale of real estate under judgments of foreclosure of mortgages and liens ar subject to redemption as in the case of sales under execution; and if i appear from the sheriff's return that the proceeds are insufficient, and balance still remains due, judgment can then be docketed for such bal ance against the defendant or defendants personally liable for the debt and it becomes a lien on the real estate of such judgment debtor, as i other cases on which execution may be issued.

No person holding a conveyance from or under the mortgagor of th property mortgaged, or having a lien thereon, which conveyance or lie does not appear of record in the proper office at the commencement o the action, need be made a party to such action; and the judgmen therein rendered, and the proceedings therein had, are as conclusiv against the party holding such unrecorded conveyance or lien as if h had been made a party to the action. Jurisdiction of court: Where court ha acquired jurisdiction of mortgagor, thereby acquired jurisdiction of all partie holding unrecorded conveyances or con tracts from mortgagor, so as to conclud them in foreclosure proceedings. Hardin v. Harker (1909) 17 I. 341, 105 P. 78 134 A. S. R. 259.

Mortgagor presumed to represent interests of grantee of unrecorded conveyance n suit to foreclose; and the same presumption would arise where the grantee is made a party, that he would represent the interests of a person holding an unrecorded conveyance from such grantee. Ib.

Deed construed as mortgage: A deed absolute on its face and a contemporaneous contract for reconveyance upon payment of he amount due the grantee, constitutes a nortgage and must be foreclosed under his section. Brown v. Bryan (1896) 5 I. 145, 51 P. 995. A trust deed executed to secure a given debt payable at a specified ime, is a mortgage, and cannot be foreclosed by notice and sale under a power contained in the deed, but only by proceedngs under this section. Ib.

Remedy exclusive: Where a chattel nortgagee elects to enforce his rights by foreclosure, that action becomes exclusive and he can not subsequently bring an action of claim and delivery for the possession of the property. Cederholm v. Loofborrow (1886) 2 I. 191, 9 P. 641.

A mortgagee may not file a complaint on a note secured by the mortgage alone, issue summons thereon only against the sureties on the note, and proceed to judgnent against them. First Nat. Bk. v. Williams (1890) 2 I. 670, 23 P. 552.

Holder of a note secured by mortgage, nay not maintain action at law, without foreclosing, unless security has become worthless. Clark v. Paddock (1913) 24 I. 42, 132 P. 795, 46 L. R. A. (N. S.) 475.

Where a deed and a separate agreement or a reconveyance on specified conditions re such as to constitute together in legal effect a mortgage, the mortgagee's remedy n case of default of the mortgagor, is by foreclosure and sale; he can not maintain ejectment. Kelly v. Leachman (1892) I. 392, 29 P. 849.

This section does not preclude a party rom maintaining an action of claim and delivery for the recovery of the property nortgaged, where the same has been wrongfully taken by a third party. O'Neil . Whitcomb (1893) 3 I. 624, 32 P. 1133.

This section must be construed with R. S. 3391, providing for foreclosure of chattel nortgages by affidavit and notice of sale, nd these two modes of foreclosure are exclusive; a power of sale given to the mortagee by the mortgage is void, and does not uthorize the summary foreclosure of the nortgage by the mortgagee under such ower. Rein v. Callaway (1901) 7 I. 634, 5 P. 63.

Limitations: If the remedy upon a note barred by the statute of limitations, the medy upon a mortgage securing the note also barred. Law v. Spence (1897) 5 I. 44, 48 P. 282.

Parties: One who has purchased mortaged land and has been in possession of he same and paid taxes thereon for a umber of years, need not be made a party foreclosure proceedings where he fails place his deed on record prior to the ommencement of such proceedings. Mills . Smiley (1903) 9 I. 317, 76 P. 783.

Judgment: It is essential to the validity f a decree foreclosing a mortgage that it scertain the amount due the plaintiff to be realized from the sale of the mortgaged property. The decree must be so specific that the clerk can issue an order of sale thereon without reference to other entries or papers. Vermont Loan & Trust Co. v. McGregor (1897) 5 I. 510, 51 P. 104.

Deficiency judgment: The provision of this section for docketing a deficiency judgment against the person liable for the debt, has no application to the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage by notice and sale. Advance Thresher Co. v. Whiteside (1891) 3 I. 64, 26 P. 660.

There can be no money judgment in an action to foreclose a mortgage, either real or chattel, until the exhaustion of the mortgage security, after which a money judgment may be entered for any deficiency. Barnes v. Buffalo Pitts Co. (1899) 6 I. 519, 57 P. 267.

Where a seller of an interest in certain mining claims retains title to the buyer's interest to secure payment of the price, the vendor is entitled to foreclose the lien so retained on the purchaser's default, and to recover a deficiency judgment against the purchaser on the failure of his interest to sell for enough to satisfy the debt. Ferguson v. Blood (1907) 152 F. 98, 82 C. C. A. 482.

A deficiency judgment is allowable on foreclosure of a vendor's lien. (On petition for rehearing) Farnsworth v. Pepper (1915) 27 I. 159, 148 P. 48.

On distribution by a federal court of equity in Idaho of the assets of an insolvent corporation, the trustee of a mortgage in the state is entitled to share as a creditor in the unmortgaged assets in the hands of a receiver on the basis of the amount of his deficiency judgment only. Westinghouse E. & M. Co. v. Idaho Ry. L. & P. Co. (1915) 228 F. 972.

Action for deficiency: Where it appears from the return of the officer made in pursuance to this section that there remains a deficiency after applying the proceeds of sale upon the mortgage debt, the mortgagee may maintain an action to recover the deficiency. Advance Thresher Co. v. Whiteside (1891) 3 I. 64, 26 P. 660.

Reformation of mortgage: A mortgage may be reformed and foreclosed in the same action. Christensen v. Hollingsworth (1898) 6 I. 87, 53 P. 211.

Attorney's fees: The action to foreclose a mortgage given to secure several notes is a separate and distinct action and but one fee can be allowed in such action. If such fee is stipulated by the mortgage to be reasonable, the court has no authority to allow a larger sum. Lewis v. Sutton (1912) 21 I. 541, 122 P. 911.

To entitle a plaintiff in a foreclosure proceeding to recover attorney's fees, where the same have been stipulated for in the mortgage, the plaintiff must tender evidence upon two propositions: First, that the plaintiff has agreed to pay his counsel a fixed or a reasonable sum for his services; second, the reasonableness of the fee. Ib.

Redemption: There is a right of redemption from a foreclosure sale under this section; from an execution sale under § 6932, and from other sales under the foreclosure of various liens; but the statute nowhere in express terms grants the right of redemption from a receiver's sale; and, where a sale made is not a sale on foreclosure but is a sale by the court's receiver, under the direct authority and supervision of the court, the direction may be that the sale be made without right of redemption and that a deed absolute be given; if such a decree is made and no appeal is prosecuted from this feature of it, the decree becomes final. Hewitt v. Walters (1911) 21 I. 1, 119 P. 705, Ann. Cas. 1913C 35.

§ 6950. [4521] Disposition of surplus money. If there be surplus money remaining after payment the amount due on the mortgage, lien or incumbrance, with costs, the court may cause the same to be paid to the person entitled to it, and in the meantime may direct it to be deposited in court. [4522] Partial sales. If the debt for which the mortgage, lien or incumbrance is held is not all due, so soon as sufficient of the property has been sold to pay the amount due, with costs, the sale must cease; and afterwards, as often as more becomes due, for principal or interest, the court may, on motion, order more to be sold. But if the property can not be sold in portions without injury to the parties, the whole may be ordered to be sold in the first instance, and the entire debt and costs paid, there being a rebate of interest where such rebate is proper. § 6953. Execution under foreclosure on property in more than one county. In all actions to foreclose a mortgage or other lien upon real property, where such real property is situated partly in one county and partly in another county, within the state of Idaho, the sheriff of the county in which such action is commenced and where the decree therein is rendered and entered, shall have the power and it is hereby made his duty to enforce execution issued upon such decree in the same manner as if the whole of such real property was situated in the county in which such action was commenced and where the decree therein was rendered and entered. Immediately after such execution and return has been so recorded, as such county recorder he shall prepare a copy of such execution and return and certify the same, which shall be sent by United States mail, postage prepaid, to the county recorder of the other county or counties in which a portion of such real property is situated, and the county recorder of such county or counties shall record such execution and return with the certificate thereto, as in other cases upon the return of executions where real property has been sold. ARTICLE 2.

ACTIONS FOR NUISANCE, WASTE AND WILFUL TRESPASS ON REAL PROPERTY.

§ 6956. Actions for nuisance. Anything which is injurious to health or morals, or indecent, or offensive to the senses, or an obstruction to the free use of property, so as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property, is a nuisance and the subject of an action. In the case of a moral nuisance, the action may be brought by any resident citizen of the county; in all other cases the action may be brought by any person whose property is injuriously affected, or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by the nuisance; and by the judgment the nuisance may be enjoined or abated, as well as damages recovered. Special injury: This section does not change the general rule that a private party to maintain an action to abate a public nuisance must show special injury to himself. Redway v. Moore (1892) 3 I. 312, 29 P. 104.

§ 6957. [4530] Actions for waste. If a guardian, tenant for life or years, joint tenant or tenant in common of real property, commit waste thereon, any person aggrieved by the waste may bring an action against him therefor, in which action there may be judgment for treble damages. Cited: (In brief of counsel) Dwyer v. Libert (1917) 30 I. 576, 167 P. 651.

Common law trespass: The fact that a party prays in his complaint for treble damages under this section, and before the trial waives his demand that the damages be trebled, does not preclude him from recovering a judgment for actual damages or entitle the defendant to a nonsuit. Gumaer v. White Pine etc. Co. (1905) 11 I. 591, 83 P. 771.

If a plaintiff alleges facts constituting a common law action for cutting and removing timber, etc., but amends, pleading the same facts and claiming treble damages under this section, the amendment does not constitute a new cause of action. The statute authorizing treble damages in no way affects the cause of action, but merely goes to the relief to be granted in case the plaintiff establishes his case. Ecklund v. B. R. Lewis Lbr. Co. (1907) 13 I. 581, 92 P. 532.

An action to recover treble damages under this section where it is not alleged that the damage was committed wilfully or intentionally, does not come within the purview of said section, but is good as an action at common law which may entitle the plaintiff to recover his actual damages. Menasha W. W. Co. v. Spokane etc. Ry. Co., supra.

Intention a necessary element: A defendant by his default admits the truth of an allegation in the complaint that the trespass was "wrongful, unlawful, willful and malicious." Ecklund v. B. R. Lewis Lbr. Co., supra.

This section is not applicable where it is not shown that the trespass was wilfully and intentionally committed. Menasha W. W. Co. v. Spokane etc. Ry., supra.

Abandonment: Possession and comp ance with this and following sections bei shown, abandonment thereof must made to appear conclusively by party lying on it to defeat the right of claim to have his possession in the land quiet Goldensmith v. Snowstorm M. Co. (19 28 I. 408, 154 P. 968.

Temporary absence from a homestead selected under this section and following sections to obtain a livelihood or for other legitimate reason, is not of itself sufficient to establish abandonment. Ib.

Otherwise, upon the requisite proofs being made, it must order a partition according to the respective rights of the parties as ascertained by the court, and appoint three referees therefor; and must designate the portion to remain undivided for the owners whose interests remain unknown, or are not ascertained. § 6990. [4574] Same: Confirmation: Judgment. The court may confirm, change, modify or set aside the report, and if necessary appoint new referees. Upon the report being confirmed, judgment must be rendered that such partition be effectual forever, which judgment is binding and conclusive:

1. On all persons named as parties to the action, and their legal representatives, who have at the time any interest in the property divided, or any part thereof, as owners in fee or as tenants for life or for years, or as entitled to the reversion, remainder, or the inheritance of such property, or of any part thereof, after the determination of a particular estate therein, and who by any contingency may be entitled to a beneficial interest in the property, or who have an interest in any undivided share thereof, as tenants for years or for life.

2. On all persons interested in the property, who may be unknown, to whom notice has been given of the action for partition by publication.

3. On all other persons claiming from such parties or persons or either of them. And no judgment is invalidated by reason of the death of any party before final judgment or decree; but such judgment or decree is as conclusive against the heirs, legal representatives or assigns of such decedent as if it had been entered before his death. Nature of proceeding: A proceeding in quo warranto is not a civil action but a quasi criminal proceeding. Therefore there can be no intervention in such proceeding. P. v. Green (1869) 1 I. 235.

The action of quo warranto to try title to an office is an action at law, and a territorial statute authorizing such action to be determined at chambers without the intervention of a jury was held to be in violation of the federal constitution. P. v. Havird (1889) 2 I. 531, 25 P. 294.

One remedy for reaching the ineligibility of a person to hold office is by an information in the nature of quo warranto; the other is by a contest under the express provisions of the statute. Toncray v. Budge (1908) 14 I. 621, 95 P. 638.

The writ of quo warranto was a common law remedy, and is now a statutory remedy in this state, being covered by and included in this section and following sections. The district courts of this state have original jurisdiction in proceedings by information in the nature of quo warranto, and the jurisdiction to be exercised falls within the category of cases both at law and in equity. Ib.

The remedy herein provided for an information in the nature of quo warranto, is for the protection of the public in its governmental and sovereign capacity, and for the benefit of the community or state at large rather than for the gratificatio satisfaction or protection of any partic lar individual, except it be one who is hi self entitled to the office. Ib.

Statutory proceedings for removal fr office are in the nature of quo warran and quasi criminal. S. v. Gooding (191 22 I. 128, 124 P. 791.

By whom prosecuted: It is contrary the spirit and purpose of the ancient w of quo warranto, and its modern form information in the nature of quo warran to allow the action to be prosecuted p miscuously by any and every elector. T action must be prosecuted in the name the people of the state against the usu er or intruder, and must be brought or on the relation of the district attor of the proper county or of the attor general of the state, except in the sin instance where a person claims hims to be originally entitled to the office, which case he may prosecute the act in his own name. Toncray v. Budge, sup

If an action in the nature of quo w ranto is not prosecuted by or on the re tion of the attorney general or the pro county attorney, it is necessary for plaintiff to show some good cause w the same is not so prosecuted, and obt the permission and consent of the co to act as the relator himself and pro cute the action. Ib.

What may be reviewed: Irregulari in the action of the board of county c missioners in establishing a justice cinct can not be reviewed in an ac of quo warranto to try title to the o of justice in such precinct. Johnsto Savidge (1905) 11 I. 204, 81 P. 616.

JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT.

§ 7093. Trial on default. When, in an action arising upon contract for the recovery of money or damages only, the defendant fails o appear and answer or demur at the time specified in the summons, or within one hour thereafter, the court must, upon the application of the plaintiff, enter the default of the defendant, and immediately thereafter enter judgment against the defendant for the mount specified in the summons, including costs, and in other actions where the defendant has so failed to answer or demur the court must likewise enter the default of the defendant, and the plaintiff may then offer proof of his claim, and the court must then render udgment in his favor for such sum, not exceeding the amount stated n the summons, as appears by such evidence to be just. § 7094. [4696] Same: Default after demurrer. In the following cases the same proceedings must be had, and judgment must be entered in like manner as if the defendant had failed to appear nd answer or demur:

1. If the complaint has been amended, and the defendant fails o answer it as amended, within the time allowed by the court.
2. If the demurrer to the complaint is overruled and the defendnt fails to answer at once.
3. If the demurrer to the answer is sustained and the defendant ails to amend the answer within the time allowed by the court. [R. . § 4696.]

TIME OF TRIAL AND POSTPONEMENTS.

§ 7095. [4701] Time of trial. Unless postponed as provided in this chapter, or unless transferred to another court, the trial of the action must commence at the expiration of one hour from the time specified in the summons for the appearance of defendant, and the trial must be continued, without adjournment for more than 24 hours at any one time, until all the issues therein are disposed of. [R. S. § 4701.]

Cited: Nadel v. Campbell (1910) 18 I. 335, 110 P. 262.

Effect of unauthorized postponement: Where a defendant failed to appear in a probate court at the hour fixed for appearance in the summons, and the court entered the defendant's default after the expiration of one hour after the time fixed for appearance and failed to make an order postponing the case, and three days thereafter heard the proofs submitted by plaintiff and entered judgment, the action of the court, though irregular, will not oust it of jurisdiction, nor will it render such judgment void for want of jurisdiction under this section. Zimmerman v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1908) 14 I. 681, 95 P. 825.

§ 7096. [4702] Postponement: By court. The court may, of its own motion, postpone the trial:

1. For not exceeding one day, if at the time fixed by law or by an order of the court for the trial, the court is engaged in the trial of another action.

2. For not exceeding two days, if by an amendment of the pleadings, or the allowance of time to make such amendment or to plead, a postponement is rendered necessary.

3. For not exceeding three days, if the trial is upon issues of fact, and a jury has been demanded. [R. S. § 4702.]

Cited: Nadel v. Campbell (1910) 18 I. 335, 110 P. 262.

§ 7098. [4704] Same: Upon application. The trial may be postponed upon the application of either party for a period not exceeding four months:

1. The party making the application must prove, by his own oath or otherwise, that he can not, for want of material testimony, which he expects to procure, safely proceed to trial, and must show in what respect the testimony expected is material, and that he has used due diligence to procure it, and has been unable to do so.

2. If the application is on the part of the plaintiff, and the defendant is under arrest, a postponement for more than three hours discharges the defendant from custody, but the action may proceed notwithstanding, and the defendant is subject to arrest on execution, in the same manner as if he had not been discharged.

3. If the application is on the part of the defendant under arrest, before it can be granted he must execute an undertaking, with two or more sufficient sureties, to be approved by, and in a sum to be fixed by the court, to the effect that he will render himself amenable to the process of the court during the pendency of the action, and to such as may be issued to enforce the judgment therein; or that the sureties will pay to the plaintiff the amount of any judgment which he may recover in the action, not exceeding the amount specified in the undertaking. On filing the undertaking specified in this subdivision, the court must order the defendant to be discharged from custody.

4. The party making the application must, if required by the adverse party, consent that the testimony of any witness of such adverse party, who is in attendance, may be then taken by deposition before the court, and that the testimony so taken may be read on the trial with the same effect, and subject to the same objections as if the witness was produced; but the court may require the party making the application to state, upon affidavit, the evidence which he expects to obtain, and if the adverse party thereupon admits that such evidence would be given, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial or offered and overruled as improper, the trial must not be postponed. Utah: Identical: C. L. § 3712. Nadel v. Campbell (1910) 18 I. 335, 110 P. 262.

Effect of improper postponement: The granting of a postponement of a trial by the probate court, upon an affidavit which fails to state a statutory ground, does not divest the court of jurisdiction of the cause; the granting of a continuance is largely in the sound discretion of the court, and if error is made it may be corrected but the court does not lose jurisdiction of the case. Holt v. Gridley (1900) 7 I. 416, 63 P. 188.

It is error for a justice to grant a continuance different from or in any other manner than that provided by this article; but such error, as in granting a continuance beyond the time limited, must be corrected by appeal or direct attack upon the judgment; it is not jurisdictional, and does not divest the justice of jurisdiction to proceed further in the case, where jurisdiction has been obtained. Nadel v. Campbell (1910) 18 I. 335, 110 P. 262.

§ 7099. [4705] Same: Undertaking. No adjournment must, unless by consent, be granted for a period longer than 10 days, upon the application of either party, except upon condition that such party file an undertaking in an amount fixed by the court, with two sureties, to be approved by the court, to the effect that they will pay to the opposite party the amount of any judgment which may be recovered against the party applying, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking. § 7150. [4801] Vacation of ex parte orders. An order made out of court, without notice to the adverse party, may be vacated or modified without notice by the judge who made it; or may be vacated or modified on notice in the manner in which other motions are made. [R. S. § 4801.]

Application of section: This is a general statute providing for vacating or modifying only such orders as are not specifically provided for elsewhere, and has no application to motions for the dissolution of injunctions which are provided for in § 4295. Thayer v. Bellamy (1903) 9 I. 1, 71 P. 544.

§ 7151. [4802] Who may appeal: Designation of parties. Any party aggrieved may appeal in the cases prescribed in this code. The party appealing is known as the appellant, and the adverse party as the respondent. [R. S. § 4802.]

Who may appeal: The state is the aggrieved party to an order denying a motion for judgment for the penalty prescribed in case of usurious contracts by R. S. § 1266, and may appeal from such order. S. v. Eves (1898) 6 I. 144, 53 P. 543.

A party who recovers a judgment for only part of his claim is aggrieved by such judgment and entitled to appeal therefrom. Phillips v. Salmon River M. Co. (1903) 9 I. 149, 72 P. 886.

It is not necessary for a person to be named as plaintiff or defendant or intervenor in the title to an action, or in the title of a judgment entered therein, in order to become a party thereto so as to be entitled to appeal under this section. Washington Co. Abstract Co. v. Stewart (1904) 9 I. 376, 74 P. 955.

Where a party recovers a judgment and collects the same and prosecuted an appeal in the hope of gaining a larger judgment but thereby incurs the hazard of recovering a less judgment, his appeal will be dismissed; but if the appeal is from such an order or judgment that he can in no event recover a less favorable judgment than that which he has collected, the appeal will be sustained. Betchel v. Evans (1904) 10 I. 147, 77 P. 212.

In an action by a county to recover a road poll tax an appeal from a judgment in favor of the defendant may be taken by the county and in the name of the county as the party in interest; it need not be taken in the name of the attorney general. Kootenai Co. v. Hope Lbr. Co. (1907) 13 I. 262, 89 P. 1054.

ARTICLE 2.

APPEALS TO SUPREME COURT FROM DISTRICT COURTS.

§ 7152. Time for taking appeals. An appeal may be taken to the supreme court from a district court:

1. From a final judgment in an action or special proceeding commenced in the court in which the same is rendered; from a judgment rendered on an appeal from an inferior court; from a judgment rendered on an appeal from an order, decision or action of a board of county commissioners; within 90 days after the entry of such judgment.

2. From an order granting or refusing a new trial; from an order granting or dissolving an injunction; from an order refusing to grant or dissolve an injunction; from an order dissolving or refusing to dissolve an attachment; from an order granting or refusing to grant a change of place of trial; from any special order made after final judgment; and from an interlocutory judgment in action for partition of real property; within 60 days after the order or interlocutory judgment is made and entered on the minutes of the court, or filed with the clerk. Appeals from judgments: The following judgments are appealable: A default judgment entered by the clerk, Hardiman v. South Chariot M. Co. (1878) 1 I. 704; a judgment of nonsuit, Lalande v. McDonald (1887) 2 I. 307, 13 P. 347; Spongberg v. First Nat. Bk. (1909) 15 I. 671, 99 P. 712; an order changing attorneys, Curtis v. Richards (1895) 4 I. 434, 40 P. 57; a judgment removing a public officer from office, Miller v. Smith (1900) 7 I. 204, 61 P. 824; Ponting v. Isaman (1900) 7 I. 283, 62 P. 680; a judgment ordering an election on the question of the removal of a county seat, Wilson v. Bartlett (1900) 7 I. 269, 62 P. 415; a judgment affirming the action of the county commissioners declining to require certain officers to turn fees into the county treasury, Rhea v. Comrs. Wash. Co. (1906) 12 I. 455, 88 P. 89; an order vacating a satisfaction of judgment and adjudging plaintiff's attorney entitled to execution to enforce his interest in the judgment, Dahlstrom v. Featherstone (1910) 18 I. 179, 110 P. 243; a judgment in a habeas corpus proceeding determining the custody of a child, Jain v. Priest (1917) 30 I. 273, 164 P. 364.

The fact that a judgment contains an unfilled blank for the insertion of costs which were never taxed, does not make said judgment any the less a final judgment from which an appeal may be taken. Cantwell v. McPherson (1892) 3 I. 321, 29 P. 102.

Appeals from orders: The following orders are appealable: An order denying a new trial. Scholtz v. Keeler (1887) 2 I. 333, 13 P. 481; an order confirming a receiver's sale which constitutes a final disposition of the assets of an insolvent estate, First Nat. Bk. v. Bunting & Co. (1900) 7 I. 387, 63 P. 694; an order made after appeal in a divorce case directing the further payment of suit money, Roby v. Roby (1903) 9 I. 371, 74 P. 957, 3 Ann. Cas. 50; an order after judgment refusing to release attached property claimed to be exempt, Coey v. Cleghorn (1904) 10 I. 162, 77 P. 331; an order granting or refusing the appointment of a receiver, Chemung M. Co. v. Hanley (1905) 11 I. 302, 81 P. 619; an order dissolving a temporary injunction, Dougal v. Eby (1906) 11 I. 789, 85 P. 102; an order, after judgment, decreeing a certain person to be the assignee of the judgment and declaring his claim to be a lien thereon, Dahlstrom v. The Portland M. Co. (1906) 12 I. 87, 85 P. 916; an order refusing to set aside a judgment of dismissal, Oliver v. Kootenai Co. (1907) 13 I. 281, 90 P. 107; an order made by a judge allowing or disallowing claims against an estate, and directing a receiver to pay out of the funds in his hands such claims as the judge has allowed. Canadian Bk. of Commerce v. Wood (1907) 13 I. 794, 93 P. 257.

The following orders are not judgments and are not appealable: A judgment rendered on an appeal from an order of the county commissioners declaring the result of an election. Rupert v. Comrs. Alturas Co. (1882) 2 I. 19, 2 P. 718; an order directing the entry of a judgment of dismissal, Durant v. Comegys (1891) 3 I. 67, 35 A. S. R. 267, 26 P. 755, Bissing v. Bissing (1911) 19 I. 777, 115 P. 827; an order for judgment, Hodgins v. Harris (1895) 4 I. 517, 43 P. 72; Santti v. Riggs (1896) 5 I. 21, 46 P. 829; a judgment fixing the amount of clerk's fees but failing to find the entire amount due, Potter v. Talkington (1897) 5 I. 317, 49 P. 14; an order appointing receiver of mortgaged property, order denying motion to vacate receivership, or order authorizing sale of property, Evans S. Bk. v. Skeen (1917) 30 I. 703, 167 P. 1165; an order of reference requiring accounts to be stated in accordance with principles therein fixed, S. v. Bruce (1909) 17 I. 1, 19, 102 P. 831, 134 A. S. R. 245; an order granting or denying an injunction, LaVeine v. Stack-Gibbs L. Co. (1909) 17 I. 51, 104 P. 666, 134 A. S. R. 253; an order after final judgment taxing costs, Keane v. Pittsburg Lead M. Co. (1909) 17 I. 179, 105 P. 60; an order made after judgment vacating such judgment, Shumake v. (1913) 24 I. 441, 134 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1915D 542; order granting injunction pendente lite, Ferrell v. Coeur d'Alene etc. Co. (1916) 29 I. 118, 157 P. 946; Alameda M. Co. v. Success M. Co. (1916) 29 I. 618, 161 P. 862; order disallowing certain items in cost-bill, after hearing organizing drainage district, the drainage district law making no provision for allowance of costs upon an order organizing a district, nor for an appeal, Rhodenbaugh v. Stingel, 31 I. 594, 174 P. 604.

The following orders are nonappealable: An order for alimony pendente lite, Wyatt v. Wyatt (1886) 2 I. 236, 10 P. 228; an order refusing to dismiss an appeal from an order of the probate court denying a motion to quash an execution, Connell v. Warren (1891) 3 I. 117, 27 P. 730; an order quashing an information in a proceeding to remove county officers, Mahoney v. Elliott (1902) 8 I. 356, 69 P. 108; an order dismissing an appeal from a judgment of the probate court and an order denying leave to amend the undertaking on such appeal, Matter of Paige (1906) 12 I. 410, 86 P. 273; an order granting an injunction in futuro (Stewart, J. dissents) Porter v. Speno (1907) 13 I. 600, 92 P. 367; an order denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, Cady v. Keller (1916) 28 I. 368, 371, 154 P. 629; an order refusing to bring in additional parties, Weiser Irr. Dist. v. Middle Valley etc. Co. (1916) 28 I. 548, 155 P. 484; a default entered by clerk of district court or an order of the court setting aside such default, Omaha Structural Steel Wks. v. Lemon (1917) 30 I. 363, 164 P. 1011.

Review of nonappealable orders: All orders or decisions of the district court or judges thereof that are not final judgments or orders or decisions specifically provided for by statute from which a direct appeal may be taken prior to final judgment, if duly excepted to or deemed to be excepted to as provided by law, will be reviewed by the supreme court on appeal from a final judgment, or from an order granting or denying a new trial. Weiser Irr. Dist. v. Middle Valley etc. Co. (1916) 28 I. 548, 155 P. 484; Maple v. Williams (1908) 15 I. 642, 98 P. 848; Richards v. Richards (1913) 24 I. 87, 132 P. 576. (See § 7170.)

Time for taking appeal: An appeal from a judgment must be taken within one year from the entry thereof (the time formerly fixed) or the same will be dismissed. Robson v. Colson (1903) 9 I. 215, 72 P. 591; McCrea v. McGrew (1903) 9 I. 382, 75 P. 67; Smith v. American Falls etc. Co. (1908) 15 I. 89, 95 P. 1059; Wood v. Tanner (1909) 15 I. 689, 99 P. 123.

An appeal from an order denying a new trial must be taken within 60 days after the entry of the order. Tootle v. French (1891) 3 I. 1, 25 P. 1091; Arthur v. Mounce (1895) 4 I. 487, 42 P. 509; Trull v. M. W. A. (1906) 12 I. 318, 85 P. 1081.

Unless good cause is shown for the delay, an appeal from an order denying a new trial taken more than a year after the entry of judgment, will be dismissed on motion. McCrea v. McGrew (1903) 9 I. 382, 75 P. 67; Livingstone v. Aberdeen-Springfield C. Co., 31 I. 592, 173 P. 1086.

An appeal from a judgment of the district court rendered on an appeal from an order of the board of commissioners may be taken within the 90 days allowed by this section, and need not be taken within the five days prescribed by '99, p. 249. Latah Co. v. Hasfurther (1907) 12 I. 797, 88 P. 433.

An appeal from an order made after final judgment must be taken within 60 days after the entry or filing of the order. Oliver v. Kootenai Co. (1907) 13 I. 281, 90 P. 107. This applies to an order taxing costs. Campbell v. First Nat. Bk. of Rexburg (1907) 13 I. 95, 88 P. 639; and to an order refusing to vacate a default judgment. Balfour v. Eves (1895) 4 I. 488, 42 P. 508.

An appeal from an interlocutory judgment in partition must be taken within 60 days after the judgment is made and entered or the same will be dismissed. Richardson v. Ruddy (1904) 10 I. 151, 77 P. 972.

The time within which an appeal may be taken is jurisdictional and the supreme court can neither extend the time nor cure a defect in failing to take the appeal within that time, although such defect is caused by the laches of the clerk. Moe v. Harger (1904) 10 I. 194, 77 P. 645; McElroy v. Whitney (1913) 24 I. 210, 133 P. 118; Chapman v. Boehm (1915) 27 I. 150, 147 P. 289.

Entry of judgment: No appeal can be taken from a judgment until the judgment has been entered, and if the clerk neglects to enter the same either party may compel him to do so by writ of mandate. Oliver

v. Kootenai Co. (1907) 13 I. 281, 90 P. 107; Santti v. Hartman (1916) 29 I. 490, 161 P. 249. Unless final judgment has been signed, filed and entered supreme court is without jurisdiction and no appeal can be taken. Santti v. Hartman, supra. An appeal taken before entry of judgment in the judgment book is premature, and the supreme court is without jurisdiction. Yeomans v. Lamberton (1917) 29 I. 801, 162 P. 674. An entry on the judgment docket raises prima facie presumption that the clerk has done his duty and that the judgment has actually been entered. Athey v. O. S. L. Ry. Co., 30 I. 318, 165 P. 1116. (But see § 6899 as now amended.)

Review of evidence: The evidence will not be reviewed in order to determine its sufficiency to sustain the verdict on an appeal from the judgment where such appeal is not taken within 60 days after the rendition of the judgment. Holt v. Spokane & Palouse Ry. Co. (1893) 3 I. 703, 35 P. 39; Brady v. Linehan (1898) 5 I. 732, 51 P. 761; Mahoney v. Board Co. Comrs. (1902) 8 I. 375, 69 P. 108; Moe v. Harger (1904) 10 I. 194, 77 P. 645; Cunningham v. Stoner (1905) 10 I. 549, 79 P. 228; Walker v. Elmore Co. (1909) 16 I. 696, 102 P. 389; Haas v. Teters (1910) 19 I. 182, 113 P. 96. Nor can the error be considered in such a case under an assignment that the verdict is against law which attempts to raise the same in a different form. Young v. Tiner (1894) 4 I. 269, 38 P. 697. Nor will the evidence be considered in order to determine whether the verdict is in accordance with the instructions. Trull v. M. W. A. (1906) 12 I. 318, 85 P. 1081.

But an appeal may be taken from an order denying a new trial within 60 days after the entry or filing of the order, and on such appeal the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict may be considered, although the appeal from the judgment is not taken within 60 days after its rendition. White v. Whitcomb (1907) 13 I. 490, 90 P. 1080, aff. 214 U. S. 15, 29 S. C. R. 599, 53 L. ed. 889.

Appeal after death: The supreme court has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal, all the proceedings in which were taken subsequent to the death of one of the parties and before any substitution of said party's representatives was made. Coffin v. Edgington (1890) 2 I. 627, 23 P. 80.

Appeal from commissioners: An appeal from the judgment of the district court rendered on an appeal from an order of the county commissioners is governed by the general statutes of appeal and an undertaking is essential to its validity. Foresman v. Comrs. Nez Perce Co. (1905) 11 I. 11, 80 P. 1131.

Appeal by third person: Where a writ of assistance is issued, a party to the suit at the time of its issuance must appeal direct from the order of issuance if he desires to contest the same, but one who is not a party at such time and whose interests are affected by the order, may appear and move to set the same aside, and in case of refusal, appeal from the order denying his motion. Mills v. Smiley (1903) 9 I. 317, 76 P. 783.

§ 7153. [4808] Mode of taking appeals. An appeal is taken by filing with the clerk of the court in which the judgment or order appealed from is entered, a notice stating the appeal from the same, or some specific part thereof, and serving a similar notice on the adverse party, or his attorney. The order of service is immaterial, but the appeal is ineffectual for any purpose unless within five days after service of the notice of appeal, an undertaking be filed, or a deposit of money be made with the clerk, as hereinafter provided, or the undertaking be waived by the adverse party in writing. [R. S. § 4808.]

Notice of appeal: An appeal is not taken until the notice is filed and served, both of which acts must be done within the statutory time allowed for taking the appeal. Moe v. Harger (1904) 10 I. 194, 77 P. 645. It was formerly held that the filing of notice must precede or be contemporaneous with the service of a copy on the adverse party. Slocum v. Slocum (1875) 1 I. 589. But it is now settled that the order of filing and serving the notice is immaterial, but both acts must be performed within the prescribed time. Arthur v. Mounce (1895) 4 I. 487, 42 P. 509.

Where notice of appeal is not filed until after time fixed by statute, this court acquires no jurisdiction. Glenn v. Aultman etc. Co. (1917) 30 I. 719, 167 P. 1163.

Waiver of notice. Defective service of notice of appeal is waived by an admission of service contained in the transcript. Wilson v. Wilson (1899) 6 I. 597, 57 P. 708.

Sufficiency of notice: The same notice of appeal may specify both the appeal from the judgment and the appeal from the order upon motion for a new trial. McCoy v. Oldham, 1 I. 465.

Orders from which the statute makes no provision for appeal may be reviewed on appeal from the judgment or order denying a new trial, without being specified in the notice of appeal. Warren v. Stoddart (1899) 6 I. 692, 59 P. 540.

A notice of appeal is defective in form which states that such appeal is from a judgment in favor of the plaintiffs, when in fact it is in favor of some of the defendants, but where such defect does not affect the substantial rights of the respondents it will be disregarded. Taylor v. McCormick (1901) 7 I. 524, 64 P. 239.

An attorney admitted to practice in the district court in which a cause is tried, but not in the supreme court can legally sign a notice of appeal and take all steps necessary to perfect such appeal, for until the appeal is perfected the case is in the trial court. Ib.

The right to appeal from a specific part of a judgment lies, without appealing from the entire judgment. McClain v. Lewiston Interstate etc. Assn. (1909) 17 I. 63, 104 P. 1015, 20 Ann. Cas. 39, 25 L. R. A. (N. S.) 691.

Same: To whom directed. It is not necessary that the notice of appeal be directed to the clerk of the lower court. Westheimer v. Thompson (1893) 3 I. 560, 32 P. 205.

A notice of appeal from a judgment and order denying a new trial is sufficient although it is entitled solely with the names of the original parties to the action, and is addressed only to the attorneys of the original adverse party, whereas other parties were brought in by way of cross complaint filed by appellant, where the additional parties appeared by the same counsel as the original adverse party to whose attorneys the notice is directed. Idaho Comstock etc. Co. v. Lundstrum (1903) 9 I. 257, 74 P. 975.

Where notice of appeal is addressed to the clerk of the court and to the attorney for the defendants, the fact that the attorney designated in the notice did not represent all the defendants is not sufficient to vitiate such notice. Frost v. Alturas Water Co. (1905) 11 I. 294, 81 P. 996.

Where a notice of appeal is addressed to certain parties, naming them, its legal effect is limited to such parties. Glenn v. Aultman etc. Co. (1917) 30 I. 727, 167 P. 1163.

Persons entitled to notice: Notice of appeal must be served on each party whose interest would be affected by modification or reversal of the judgment appealed from, whether such party be plaintiff, defendant or intervenor, and whether he appears or is in default. Titiman v. Alamance M. Co. (1903) 9 I. 240, 74 P. 529; Miller v. Wallace (1914) 26 I. 373, 143 P. 524; Bridgham v. Nat. Pole Co. (1915) 27 I. 214, 147 P. 1056; S. Bk. v. Watson (1915) 27 I. 211, 148 P. 470.

Adverse party, as used in this section, means any party who would be prejudicially affected by a reversal of the judgment, a party who has an interest in conflict with a reversal of the judgment. Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1907) 13 I. 767, 92 P. 980.

A safe rule to apply in determining whether a party to a judgment is adverse is, if the judgment be reversed and the cause again tried, could a judgment be entered which would injuriously affect the liability of such person by changing or increasing his liability or rights as fixed by the former judgment? If so, then such person is an adverse party within the meaning of the statute. The Diamond Bk. v. Van Meter (1910) 18 I. 243, 108 P. 1042, 21 Ann. Cas. 1273.

Where a joint judgment is rendered against two or more parties, and an appeal is taken by one of them then all other parties against whom such joint judgment has been rendered are adverse parties, and notice of appeal must be served upon each in order to give the appellate court jurisdiction. Jones v. Quantrell (1886) 2 I. 153, 9 P. 418; Coffin v. Edgington (1890) 2 I. 627, 23 P. 80; Lydon v. Goddard (1897) 5 I. 607, 51 P. 459; Lewiston Nat. Bk. v. Tefft (1898) 6 I. 104, 53 P. 271; Doust v. Rocky Mt. Bell Tel. Co. (1908) 14 I. 677, 95 P. 209; Diamond Bk. v. Van Meter, supra; Glenn v. Aultman etc. Co. (1917) 30 I. 727, 167 P. 1163.

Where a judgment is rendered in favor of the defendants, all the defendants must be served with notice of plaintiff's appeal although some of such defendants defaulted. Baker v. Drews (1903) 9 I. 276, 74 P. 1130.

Where there is a several judgment for a different amount against each defendant, one defendant is not an adverse party to an appeal by another defendant such as to be entitled to notice. Aulbach v. Dahler (1895) 4 I. 522, 43 P. 192. Defaulting defendants are not entitled to notice on an appeal by the other defendants. Ib.

Where a motion for nonsuit is sustained as to one of several defendants, and a verdict is rendered against the other defendants, the defendant in whose favor the judgment of nonsuit is entered is not an adverse party, and need not be served with notice of appeal. McClain v. Lewiston Interstate etc. Assn., supra.

Where the same counsel is attorney for three defendants and only one of them appeals, the notice of the appeal need not be served upon the nonappealing defendants or their counsel. (Sullivan, J., dissenting) Weeter L. Co. v. Fales (1911) 20 I. 255, 118 P. 289, Ann. Cas. 1913A 403.

Though a person may be named in the complaint as a party to the action, he is not an adverse party upon whom notice of appeal must be served, where he was not served with process, did not appear in the action, and no judgment was entered either for or against him. McKinnon v. McIlhargey (1913) 24 I. 720, 135 P. 826; Kissler v. Moss (1914) 26 I. 516, 144 P. 647.

On appeal from an order refusing to vacate a writ of assistance issued after judgment in foreclosure proceedings, the judgment of foreclosure is in no way reviewable and parties to the foreclosure proceedings who are not interested in the writ of assistance, need not be served with notice of appeal. Mills v. Smiley (1904) 9 I. 325, 76 P. 786.

Since under R. S. § 5701, the title to the property of an intestate passes to the heirs, such heirs are interested parties in the sale of the property, and where a sale has been confirmed by the probate court and the purchaser appeals from such confirmation, such heirs or their guardian ad litem are adverse parties and must be served with notice of appeal. Reed v. Stewart (1906) 12 I. 699, 87 P. 1002.

An intervenor is an adverse party within the meaning of this section and notice of appeal should be served on him. Berlin Mach. Wks. v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1912) 21 I. 669, 123 P. 637.

The husband is not an adverse party to his wife who intervenes in an attachment suit against him by a third party, where, if she can prosecute the action at all, she must do so for their joint benefit, and her appeal will not be dismissed for failure to serve on him. Holt v. Empey, 32 I. —, 178 P. 703.

Filing of undertaking: In order to perfect an appeal, a notice must be filed and copy thereof must be served and an undertaking must be filed within five days after the date of filing the notice. Shissler v. Crooks (1871) 1 I. 369.

The supreme court has no jurisdiction to permit an undertaking on appeal to be filed unless such an undertaking has first been filed in the court below within the time prescribed by this section. Brown v. Hanley (1891) 3 I. 219, 28 P. 425.

An undertaking must be given on an appeal from a judgment of the district court rendered on appeal from the board of county commissioners. Foresman v. Bd. of Comrs. (1905) 11 I. 11, 80 P. 1131.

An appeal is taken by filing and serving the notice, but the appeal is of no effect unless an undertaking is filed within five days after filing and serving the notice. Hattabaugh v. Vollmer (1896) 5 I. 23, 46 P. 831; Haas v. Teters (1910) 17 I. 550, 106 P. 305; Woodmansee & Webster Co. v. Woodmansee, 31 I. 747, 176 P. 148.

It is not sufficient that the undertaking is forwarded by mail to the clerk within five days after service of notice, but the undertaking must be placed in the hands of the clerk for filing within that time. Cole v. Fox (1907) 13 I. 123, 88 P. 561.

The undertaking can not be legally filed before the notice. Shissler v. Crooks (1871) 1 I. 369; People v. Hunt (1871) 1 I. 371; Clark v. Lowenberg (1877) 1 I. 654; Wilson v. Bartlett (1900) 7 I. 269, 62 P. 415. An undertaking on appeal from an order denying a new trial, executed and verified by the sureties on the day after the order was made, but before the same was filed by the clerk, is sufficient where it is shown that the undertaking was filed simultaneously with the notice of appeal, but after the order appealed from had been filed by the clerk. Zienke v. N. P. Ry. Co. (1901) 7 I. 746, 65 P. 431.

The appellate court is not authorized to extend the time for filing an undertaking on appeal. West v. Dygert (1907) 13 I. 641, 92 P. 753.

Where no undertaking on appeal has been filed in the lower court, the requirements of the statute can not be complied with by filing an undertaking on appeal in the supreme court, which is approved by a justice thereof, under § 7168. Hailey v. Riley (1907) 13 I. 749, 92 P. 756.

A stipulation extending the time for filing briefs, entered into after the time for filing the undertaking on appeal has expired, is not a waiver of the filing of the undertaking. Ib.

In so far as the filing of an undertaking is to be waived, it must be done within the time for filing; otherwise, the appeal is lost. Ib.

Whenever an action is brought by or against state, county or municipal officers, and such officers prosecute or defend in said action in their official capacity, acting for or defending the rights of the state, county or municipality, or any legal subdivision thereof, they are permitted to so act without furnishing costs or undertakings on appeal. (§ 7238.) Coon v. Sommercamp (1915) 26 I. 776, 146 P. 728.

Record must show service: It must affirmatively appear from the transcript that the notice of appeal has been served as required by this section, or the appeal will be dismissed. Anderson v. Knott (1876) 1 I. 626; Tootle v. French (1891) 3 I. 1, 25 P. 1091; Adams v. McPherson (1893) 3 I. 718, 34 P. 1095; Doust v. R. M. B. Tel. Co. (1908) 14 I. 677, 95 P. 209; Diamond Bk. v. Van Meter (1910) 18 I. 243, 108 P. 1042, 21 Ann. Cas. 1273; St. Bk. v. Watson (1915) 27 I. 211, 148 P. 470; Chapman v. Boehm (1915) 27 I. 150, 147 P. 289; Bridgham v. Nat. Pole Co. (1915) 27 I. 214, 147 P. 1056; Cook v. Miller (1917) 30 I. 749, 168 P. 911.

An affidavit filed subsequent to the transcript attempting to show timely service of the transcript will not be considered as sufficient proof of service. Coon v. Sommercamp, supra.

Loss of undertaking: Proof that an undertaking on appeal was duly filed in the court below and was lost should be addressed to the supreme court, as it is the only tribunal with jurisdiction to act. Woodmansee & Webster Co. v. Woodmansee, supra.

Nunc pro tunc order: A nunc pro tunc order of a district judge, requiring the clerk to file an undertaking on appeal as of date within the statutory period, can not render the appeal effectual. Ib.

§ 7154. Undertaking on appeal. The undertaking on appeal must be in writing, and must be executed on the part of the appellant, by at least two sureties, to the effect that the appellant will pay all damages and costs which may be awarded against him on the appeal, or on a dismissal thereof, not exceeding $300; or that sum must be deposited with the clerk with whom the judgment or order was entered, to abide the event of the appeal: Provided, That when more than one appeal in the same action, whether from the judgment and an appealable order or orders, or from two or more appealable orders, is taken at the same time, but one such undertaking or deposit for damages and costs need be filed or made. If any undertaking be insufficient or defective in any respect, such insufficiency or defect shall be deemed waived unless the respondent, within 20 days after the filing of such undertaking, shall file and serve upon the appellant or his attorney a notice, in writing, pointing out specifically the defects and insufficiencies of such undertaking. No defect or insufficiency not thus specifically pointed out shall subsequently be urged against the undertaking or the appeal. The appellant may, within five days after such service of said notice, file a new undertaking which shall be in lieu of the one previously filed. [C. L. § 4809.]

Applied: This section has no relation to the time within which a transcript shall be filed in the supreme court or proof of service of the transcript or insufficiency of the certificate of the clerk to the transcript. Coon v. Sommercamp (1915) 26 I. 776, 780, 146 P. 728.

Recitals of bond: An appeal bond conditioned to pay all damages and costs which may be awarded on the appeal but failing to mention a dismissal of the appeal, is insufficient. (Stockslager, C. J., dissents.) Jackson v. Barrett (1906) 12 I. 465, 86 P. 270.

Where a notice of appeal recites that the appeal is taken from the judgment and the whole thereof, while the undertaking recites that it is given on appeal from a judgment for costs, the appeal may be dismissed. Walker v. McGinness (1903) 9 I. 162, 72 P. 885. An undertaking on appeal intended to apply to several appeals in the same action, must specify each of such appeals and will not be construed to apply to appeals not mentioned therein, and such appeals will be dismissed. Young v. Tiner (1894) 4 I. 269, 38 P. 697.

Same: Double appeals: Where an appeal is taken both from a judgment and from an order denying a new trial, a bond reciting both appeals and conditioned to pay all costs and damages awarded on the appeal, without specifying on which appeal, is void as to both appeals, and both will be dismissed. Mathison v. Leland (1878) 1 I. 712; Motherwell v. Taylor (1886) 2 I. 148, 9 P. 417; Hoskins v. Wooden (1895) 4 I. 292, 38 P. 933; Schiller v. Small (1895) 4 I. 422, 40 P. 53; Weil v. Sutter (1896) 4 I. 748, 44 P. 555; Kelly v. Leachman (1897) 5 I. 521, 51 P. 407; Wallace v. McKinley (1898) 6 I. 95, 53 P. 104; Baker v. O. R. N. Ry, Co, (1901) 8 I. 36, 66 P. 806; Thum v. Bailey (1906) 12 I. 510, 86 P. 279.

An undertaking on appeal which specifically recites that the appeal is from both the judgment and the order denying a new trial, and obligates the sureties to pay the penalty of the bond in the event of a judgment against the appellants or a dismissal of the appeals, naming them, is sufficient. Vane v. Towle (1897) 5 I. 471, 50 P. 1004. An undertaking providing that the appellant will pay all damages that may be awarded on "either appeal", and reciting both the appeal from the judgment and the appeal from the order denying a new trial, is sufficient. Idaho Comstock etc. Co. v. Lundstrum (1903) 9 I. 257, 74 P. 975.

When an appeal is taken both from the judgment and from the order denying a new trial, and the undertaking refers only to the appeal from the judgment, the supreme court acquires no jurisdiction over the appeal from the order. McCoy v. Oldham (1873) 1 I. 465; Sebree v. Smith (1888) 2 I. 357, 16 P. 477; Stine Lumber and Shingle Co. v. Hemenway, 32 I. —, 179, P. 505.

Under the provisions of this section, when more than one appeal in the same action is taken at the same time, but one undertaking of $300 for damages and costs is required to be filed, and such undertaking should refer to both appeals. Nobach v. Scott (1911) 20 I. 558, 119 P. 295.

Breach of bond: A bond conditioned that the appellant shall prosecute the appeal to effect, requires the appeal to be prosecuted with success and the condition of the bond is broken whether the appeal is dismissed for want of jurisdiction or on other grounds. Ray v. Ray (1878) 1 I. 705.

Amendment of bond: An appeal bond which fails to bind the sureties to pay any damages that may be awarded on the dismissal of the appeal, may be amended upon seasonable application. Jackson v. Barrett (1906) 12 I. 465, 86 P. 270. But a void bond, such as one which is intended to apply to two appeals, and is conditioned merely to pay damages awarded on "the appeal," without specifying which appeal, can not be amended. Kelly v. Leachman (1897) 5 I. 521, 51 P. 407.

Waiver: Unless one raises the question of the sufficiency of an undertaking as provided herein, same is waived. King v. Seebeck (1911) 20 I. 223, 118 P. 292; (On rehearing) Martin v. Wilson (1913) 24 I. 363, 134 P. 532; Clear Lake P. and I. Co. v. Chriswell, 1918, 31 I. 339, 173 P. 326.

§ 7155. [4810] Same: Supersedeas: Money judgment. If the appeal be from a judgment or order directing the payment of money, it does not stay the execution of the judgment or order, unless a written undertaking be executed on the part of the appellant, by two or more sureties, to the effect that they are bound in double the amount named in the judgment or order, that if the judgment or order appealed from, or any part thereof, be affirmed or the appeal be dismissed, the appellant will pay the amount directed to be paid by the judgment or order, or the part of such amount as to which the judgment or order is affirmed, if affirmed only in part and all damages and costs which may be awarded against the appellant upon the appeal, and that if the appellant does not make such payment within 30 days after the filing of the remittitur from the supreme court in the court from which the appeal is taken, judgment may be entered, on motion of the respondent in his favor, against the sureties, for such amount together with the interest that may be due thereon, and the damages and costs which may be awarded against the appellant upon the appeal. If the judgment or order appealed from be for a greater amount than $2000, and the sureties do not state in their affidavits of justification accompanying the undertaking, that they are each worth the sum specified in the undertaking, the stipulation may be that the judgment to be entered against the sureties shall be for such amounts only as, in their affidavits, they may state they are severally worth, and judgment may be entered against the sureties by the court from which the appeal is taken pursuant to the stipulations herein designated. When the judgment or order appealed from is made payable in a specified kind of money or currency, the judgment entered against the sureties upon the undertaking must be made payable in the same kind of money or currency. Sufficiency of bond as stay: A judgment foreclosing a chattel mortgage is not a money judgment, within the meaning of this section, and consequently an undertaking in the sum of $300 stays the execution thereof pending appeal, and no further undertaking can be required. Barnes v. Buffalo Pitts Co. (1899) 6 I. 519, 57 P. 267.

A judgment and decree foreclosing a mechanic's or laborer's lien and directing the sale of the property on which the lien is claimed is not a money judgment within the meaning of this section. Naylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 722, 95 P. 827.

By reference to § 7420 the above sections apply to condemnation proceedings. The perfecting of an appeal from a judgment in the matter of condemning land for a railway stays all proceedings in the district court upon the judgment and order appealed from, and pending the appeal the commissioners have no jurisdiction to act. McLean v. Dist. Ct. (1913) 24 I. 441, 134 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1915D 542.

Judgment against sureties: No judgment can be issued against sureties on an appeal bond not authorized by statute, and which the court had no jurisdiction to require the appellant to give. Ib.

Where, after affirmance on appeal, appellee filed in the trial court a motion to proceed, containing a notice to the sureties on appellant's supersedeas bond that he would apply for a summary decree on the bond, service of which notice was admitted by the surety, such surety was a quasi party to the proceeding, and the court was authorized to render summary judgment against it, both under the provision of this section and independent thereof. Empire State-Idaho Min. & Dev. Co. v. Hanley (1905) 136 F. 99.

Not appeal bond: A supersedeas bond, given in accordance with the provisions of this section, cannot be construed to include the $300 undertaking on appeal required by secs. 7153 and 7154. Weiser River Fruit Ass'n v. Feltham, 31 I. 633, 175 P. 583.

§ 7156. [4811] Same: Judgment in replevin. If the judgment or order appealed from direct the assignment or delivery of documents or personal property, the execution of the judgment or order can not be stayed by appeal unless the things required to be assigned or delivered be placed in the custody of such officer or receiver as the court or judge thereof may appoint; or unless an undertaking be entered into on the part of the appellant, with at least two sureties, and in such amount as the court or judge thereof may direct, to the effect that the appellant will obey the order of the appellate court upon the appeal. § 7157. [4812] Same: Judgment for specific performance. If the judgment or order appealed from direct the execution of a conveyance or other instrument, the execution of the judgment or order can not be stayed by the appeal until the instrument is executed and deposited with the clerk with whom the judgment or order is entered, to abide the judgment of the appellate court. § 7158. [4813] Same: Judgment in ejectment. If the judgment or order appealed from direct the sale or delivery of possession of real property the execution of the same can not be stayed unless a written undertaking be executed on the part of the appellant with two or more sureties, to the effect that during the possession of such property by the appellant he will not commit, or suffer to be committed, any waste thereon, and that if the judgment be affirmed, or the appeal dismissed, he will pay the value of the use and occupation of the property from the time of the appeal until the delivery of possession thereof, pursuant to the judgment or order, not exceeding a sum to be fixed by the judge of the court by which the judgment was rendered or order made, and which must be specified in the undertaking. When the judgment is for the sale of mortgaged premises, and the payment of a deficiency arising upon the sale, the undertaking must also provide for the payment of such deficiency. [R. S. § 4813.]

Application of section: This section applies solely to appeals from judgments or orders directing the sale or delivery of possession of real property, and has no application to an appeal from a judgment foreclosing a chattel mortgage. Barnes v. Buffalo Pitts Co. (1899) 6 I. 519, 57 P. 267.

On an appeal from a judgment and decree foreclosing a mechanic's or laborer's lien, in order to stay further proceedings for the collection of the judgment appealed from, it is necessary that the amount of the stay bond to cover waste and the use and occupation of the premises directed to be sold, be fixed by the trial judge, and such a supersedeas bond is properly given under the provisions of this section. Naylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 722, 95 P. 827.

The closing sentence of this section, which provides that in cases of a mortgage foreclosure a supersedeas bond shall cover any deficiency that may arise on the sale of the property, does not apply to judgments and decrees foreclosing mechanics' and laborers' liens, and in the latter case a supersedeas bond is not required to cover any deficiency that may arise from the sale of the property. Ib.

§ 7159. [4814] Stay of proceedings: Preservation of attachment. Whenever an appeal is perfected, as provided in the preceding sections of this chapter, it stays all further proceedings in the court below upon the judgment or order appealed from, or upon the matters embraced therein, and releases from levy property which has been levied upon under execution issued upon such judgment; but the court below may proceed upon any other matter embraced in the action, and not affected by the order appealed from. And the court below may, in its discretion, dispense with or limit the security required by this chapter, when the appellant is an executor, administrator, trustee, or other person, acting in another's right. An appeal does not continue in force an attachment unless an undertaking be executed and filed on the part of the appellant, by at least two sureties, in double the amount of the debt claimed by him; that the appellant will pay all costs and damages which the respondent may sustain by reason of the attachment, in case the order of the court below be sustained; and unless within 20 days after the entry of the order appealed from such appeal be perfected. Proceedings after appeal: An execution issued pending an appeal perfected by service of notice and a filing of a supersedeas bond, is without authority of law and should be quashed on motion. Miller v. Pine Mining Co. (1893) 3 I. 603, 32 P. 207.

Applied: Where an appeal is taken from an order, the trial court has no jurisdiction to change or correct such order after the appeal therefrom has been taken, at least until the case is remanded and jurisdiction is again obtained. Richardson v. Bohney (1910) 18 I. 328, 109 P. 727.

An appeal from an order denying an application for a temporary restraining order does not operate as a supersedeas of the order appealed from, and at the same time in effect grant the restraining order pending the appeal. Roberts v. Kartzke (1910) 18 I. 552, 111 P. 1.

Court's discretionary power in equity: The trial court has the power and jurisdiction to suspend the operation of a judgment during the pendency of an appeal. The court has discretionary power to decline to enforce an injunctive judgment and to suspend its operation pending an appeal. Waters v. Dunn (1910) 18 I. 450, 110 P. 258.

The court has inherent power to preserve the property in litigation pending an appeal, and, if necessity requires it, may place the same in the hands of a receiver for that purpose. The giving of an appeal bond does not suspend the appointment of a receiver, or supersede his functions during the appeal. Morbeck v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1910) 18 I. 458, 110 P. 261.

§ 7163. Papers to be furnished on appeal. On an appeal from a final judgment the appellant must furnish the court with copy of the notice of appeal, of the judgment roll and of any bill of exceptions or reporter's transcript prepared and settled as prescribed in section 6886, upon which the appellant relies, and of all papers, records and files designated in the praecipe filed by appellant with the clerk of the district court. Rule of court: This section and the two following sections require the appellant to furnish a transcript of the record of the court below to the appellate court, and a rule of the supreme court which requires a respondent to furnish any part of said record, or to pay therefor, in the first instance, is in conflict with these sections, and in conflict with R. S. § 3863, and void. (Dis. op.) Lydon v. Godard (1897) 5 I. 607, 51 P. 459.

Final judgment: A judgment of nonsuit is a final judgment within the meaning of this section, and as a part of the record upon appeal from such judgment, the appellate court is to be furnished as required by such statute with the papers therein enumerated. Spongberg v. First Nat. Bk. (1909) 15 I. 671, 99 P. 712.

Printing of transcript: This section does not prohibit or forbid the printing of transcript on appeal, and costs may be taxed for printed transcripts. Ulbright v. Baslington (1911) 20 I. 546, 119 P. 294.

Record must contain notice: On an appeal from the judgment the record must contain a copy of the notice of appeal; it is insufficient for the clerk to certify that the notice was filed. Stevens v. Hall (1903) 9 I. 233, 73 P. 527; Caldwell v. Ruddy (1880) 1 I. 760.

Contents of record: The sections of the statute upon the subject of appeal specify the papers or documents which the transcript on appeal must contain and only those should be put in it. Taylor v. McCormick (1901) 7 I. 524, 63 P. 239. On appeal from a judgment on the judgment roll only the papers enumerated in R. S. § 4456, subd. 2, can be considered, and any other papers than those enumerated in that section will be stricken from the record. Williams v. Boise Basin M. Co. (1905) 11 I. 233, 81 P. 646.

Under this section a bill of exceptions forms no part of the judgment roll and is not necessarily brought up by an appeal on the judgment roll. Graham v. Linehan (1880) 1 I. 780.

A purported statement on motion for a new trial can not be considered by the supreme court, where no motion for a new trial was ever made or passed upon by the lower court. Steffy v. Esler (1898) 6 I. 228, 55 P. 239.

On appeal from a judgment a motion to strike certain matter from the complaint is not any part of the record in the absence of a statement or bill of exceptions. Swanson v. Groat (1906) 12 I. 148, 85 P. 384.

Contents of record: When papers are not contained in a bill of exceptions and are no part of the judgment roll they are not properly a part of the transcript on appeal and must be stricken out. King v. Seebeck (1911) 20 I. 223, 229, 118 P. 292.

The opinion of the trial court, although incorporated into the record, is not properly a part thereof. Corker v. Cowen (1917) 30 I. 213, 164 P. 85.

The statutes of this state require the appellant to furnish all the papers of which the judgment roll is constituted. Where the certificate of the clerk of the district court certifies that the transcript contains all of the papers provided in the praecipe, and the praecipe is not included in such transcript, such certificate is insufficient to certify to this court the judgment roll in such proceedings. Witt v. Beals (1917) 31 I. 84, 169 P. 182.

Same: Statements: A statement which is not properly certified by the trial judge and which should not have been regarded by him on the motion for new trial, can not be used on appeal from the judgment. Hyde v. Harkness (1876) 1 I. 623.

Where an appeal is taken within 60 days after the rendition of judgment as provided for in § 437 of the practice act, a statement settled after the denial of a motion for a new trial may be used on appeal for the purpose of reviewing the facts. Ainslie v. Idaho World Ptg. Co. (1877) 1 I. 641.

A statement can be used on appeal from a judgment only when first used on a motion for a new trial. Bradbury v. Idaho & Oregon L. I. Co. (1886) 2 I. 239, 10 P. 620.

A statement on motion for a new trial may be used as a bill of exceptions on an appeal from the judgment upon such questions as are authorized to be heard upon such appeal, regardless of whether the statement was used on a motion for a new trial or not. (On rehearing) Steve v. Bonners Ferry L. Co. (1907) 13 I. 392, 92 P. 363; Quayle v. Ream (1910) 17 I. 545, 106 P. 610.

Bill of exceptions: A bill of exceptions containing the evidence given on the trial may be used on appeal from the judgment in determining errors of law, although it may have been settled after the judgment roll was made up. Bk. of Com. v. Ada Co. Abstract Co. (1906) 11 I. 756, 85 P. 919.

Though a bill of exceptions is a part of the judgment roll it may be omitted from the transcript by stipulation of counsel where it has no bearing on questions presented on the appeal; but if not excluded, it is the duty of the appellant to include it in the transcript, and it will not be stricken therefrom on respondent's motion. Fouch v. Bates (1910) 18 I 374, 110 P. 265.

A bill of exceptions found in the transcript is properly there when appellant relies upon it on his appeal. Haas v. Teters (1911) 19 I. 182, 113 P. 96.

Review of evidence (before amendment): On appeal from a final judgment there are only two ways of bringing the evidence before the supreme court for review, viz: by incorporating the same in a bill of exceptions or by incorporating it into a statement on motion for a new trial. Stickney v. Hanrahan (1900) 7 I. 424, 63 P. 189.

Where evidence offered and refused by the court is not made a part of the judgment roll by a bill of exceptions, this court will not examine such evidence upon an appeal from the judgment. Olympia M. Co. v. Kerns (1908) 15 I. 371, 97 P. 1031.

Assignments of error when not made a part of bill of exceptions are no part of the transcript on appeal, and will be stricken out on motion. Humphrey v. Whitney (1909) 17 I. 14, 103 P. 389.

Same (after amendment): On appeal from a final judgment where appellant furnishes the supreme court with a copy of the notice of appeal, judgment roll, reporter's transcript as prepared and settled as provided by § 6886, and the insufficiency of the evidence is properly presented by specifications in the brief, the court has full power and authority to determine whether the evidence is sufficient. Buster v. Fletcher (1912) 22 I. 172, 125 P. 226.

§ 7164. [4819] Same: From judgment on appeal or order. On appeal from a judgment rendered on an appeal, or from an order, except an order granting or refusing a new trial, the appellant must furnish the court with a copy of the notice of appeal, of the judgment or order appealed from, and of papers used on the hearing in the court below. Papers to be furnished: On appeal to the supreme court from a judgment of the district court, rendered on appeal from the probate court, the appellant must furnish the clerk of the supreme court a copy of the notice of appeal, of the judgment or order appealed from, and of all papers used on the hearing in the court below, and the copies of such papers must be certified to be correct by the clerk or the attorneys; the minutes of the court need not be furnished, and, to properly present the same, they must be preserved by a bill of exceptions. Re Paige (1906) 12 I. 410, 86 P. 273.

Certificate: A certificate that a transcript contains the papers required by this section, enumerating them, and that "the said record constitutes a full, true and correct record of the above entitled action, with indorsements thereon as the same are now of record and on file in my office" is sufficient. Kootenai Co. v. Hope Lbr. Co. (1907) 13 I. 262, 89 P. 1054.

Where, upon an appeal from an order, dismissing a motion for a new trial because the same was not prosecuted with due diligence, the transcript contains no certificate showing that the papers and records therein were used by the judge upon the hearing of such motion, but merely contains a certificate from the clerk to the effect that it is a true and correct transcript of the proceedings therein contained, such certificate does not comply with the statutory requirement, and the rules of this court, and the appeal will be dismissed. Dudacek v. Vaught (1916) 28 I. 442, 154 P. 995.

§ 7165. [4820] Same: Order granting or refusing new trial. On an appeal from an order granting or refusing a new trial, the appellant must furnish the court with a copy of the notice of appeal, of the order appealed from, and of the papers designated in section 6892 of this code. § 7166. Same: Manner of procuring transcript. The copies which the appellant is required by sections 7163, 7164 and 7165 to furnish to the supreme court shall be procured and furnished in the manner following, to wit:

1. The appellant, within five days from the filing of the notice of appeal, shall file with the clerk a praecipe for a transcript of the papers which he desires, and shall pay to the clerk the sum of 10 cents a folio of 100 words for such papers as are required, which fee shall be in full payment for the services of the clerk in preparing an original and four carbon typewritten copies of the papers required, and a further fee of $5 for the service and expense of the clerk in certifying and transmitting the said transcripts to the clerk of the supreme court. He shall likewise at the same time deposit with the clerk such sum as may be required by the rules of the supreme court as a deposit to secure payment of appellant's costs on appeal.

2. Upon receipt of said fees the clerk shall prepare an original and four carbon typewritten copies of the papers designated by the praecipe, with the exception of any reporter's transcript prepared under section 6886. Upon the completion of said transcript the clerk shall deliver two copies to the appellant or his attorney, and shall bind the remaining three copies in substantial cardboard binding, suitably stapled or tied, binding therewith any reporter's transcript prepared under section 6886, and shall append thereto his certificate that the same is compiled and bound under his direction as a true and correct transcript of the proceedings therein contained. In the preparation of said transcript he shall omit the title of all papers subsequent to the first, inserting in place thereof the words "Title of court and cause," and shall, likewise, omit all verifications, inserting in place thereof the words "Duly verified," unless he is specifically directed to insert a designated title or verification.

3. The clerk shall complete said transcript and transmit the original and two copies to the clerk of the supreme court or to his deputy at the place where the appeal is to be heard, together with the fees of the clerk of the supreme court collected by him as aforesaid, within such time as is now or shall be designated by rule of the supreme court, and shall, within the said time, deliver the remaining two copies to the appellant or his attorney, who shall forthwith serve one copy upon the adverse party or his attorney, or if there be more than one adverse party appearing by separate attorneys, then on one of said parties or his attorney, and shall serve a notice, designating the party or attorney upon whom he has made such service, upon such other adverse parties or their attorneys, and shall file appropriate affidavit or admission of service with the clerk of the supreme court or his deputy, as the case may be.

4. Upon the receipt by the clerk of the supreme court of said transcripts and affidavits or admissions of service, the cause shall be docketed by him and shall be heard upon said typewritten transcripts without requirement of printed copies. The supreme court shall have power to make any rules, not inconsistent with the spirit and effect of this article, relating to the form and substance of said transcripts, with suitable provisions as to binding, margins, spacing, size of page, character of ribbon and the like, and may make appropriate regulations with respect to costs and penalties for failure to comply with said rules; but until such provision is made, no transcript shall be rejected for want of form or insufficiency which is neatly and clearly typewritten in any standard typewriter type on white paper of legal cap size and containing a margin of at least 1 inch on the left hand side, 2 inches at top and 1 inch at bottom, and divided into folios of 10 lines numbered on the left hand margin and consecutively paged by paging stamp or in writing. Diligence required: If the clerk fails to perform his duty with diligence relief may be had by application to the district or supreme court. Fischer v. Davis (1913) 24 I. 216, 133 P. 910.

It is appellant's duty to procure from the district judge the necessary order directing the court reporter to prepare a transcript of the evidence, or specified portions thereof. It is also incumbent upon counsel to file with the clerk within the time allowed under the statute a praecipe for a transcript of the papers which he desires to be used on appeal, and should such praecipe fail to contain a request for all necessary papers or transcript and they are not found in the transcript on appeal, the responsibility will rest in the first instance with the counsel for appellant. It must also affirmatively appear that service upon counsel for respondent has been duly made of the transcript and brief within the time prescribed by the rules of this court; otherwise, upon motion, said appeal may be dismissed. Coon v. Sommercamp (1915) 26 I. 776, 146 P. 728.

Extension of time for filing transcript, granted by justice of supreme court, is of no avail where time had already expired and party failed to use due diligence. Stout v. Cunningham (1917) 29 I. 809, 162 P. 928.

Filing of praecipe: The fact that an appellant does not file a praecipe designating the papers desired to be included in the transcript with the clerk within five days, as required by this section, is not a ground for dismissing an appeal, where the record shows that the attorneys certify that the transcript does contain all the papers desired to be included in the transcript, and the clerk certifies that the transcript contains all the files and records of the case. Strand v. Crooked River M. & M. Co. (1913) 23 I. 577, 131 P. 5; Bohannon Dredging Co. v. England (1917) 30 I. 721, 168 P. 12.

Service and jurisdiction: Failure to file and serve the transcript within the time fixed by rule is not jurisdictional, but filing the notice and undertaking on appeal within the time prescribed by statute gives jurisdiction. Stout v. Cunningham, supra.

The service provided for in this section and § 6886 is mandatory, and failure to make such service as required by the sections of the statute referred to divests this court of jurisdiction to entertain the appeal. Bohannon Dredging Co. v. England, supra.

The failure to make the service required by this section and § 6886 would divest this court of jurisdiction to consider on appeal the record or that portion thereof involved in the failure of service. Such failure of service might, in proper cases, be ground for a motion to strike. Boise-Payette Lbr. Co. v. McCarthy (1918) 31 I. 305, 170 P. 920.

Service of copies of the clerk's transcript of the record and the reporter's transcript of the testimony, bound together, within the time required by § 6886, is a compliance with the mandatory requirements of that section and this section as to service, and in case the respondent's attorney fails to return his copy to the clerk for completion prior to the time of settlement of the reporter's transcript by the trial judge, the appellant is not required to make any additional service of the record. Stine Lumber & Shingle Co. v. Hemenway, 32 I.—, 179 P. 505.

§ 7167. Same: Certificate of transcript. The copies provided for in sections 7163, 7164 and 7165 must be certified to be correct by the clerk or the attorneys, and must be accompanied with a certificate of the clerk or attorneys, that an undertaking on appeal in due form has been properly filed or a stipulation of the parties waiving an undertaking. Rule of court: A rule of the supreme court which requires the attorney of an adverse party on appeal to certify to the correctness of a transcript on appeal within a certain time after request to do so, and fixes, as a penalty for failure of said attorney so to do, that the cost of procuring a certificate from the clerk of the proper court shall be taxed against the party whose attorney has refused to so certify, is valid and does not conflict with the provisions of this section. Sullivan, C. J. dissents) Lydon v. Godard (1897) 5 I. 607, 51 P. 459.

Necessity of certificate: On an appeal from an order other than an order granting or refusing a new trial, the papers contained in the transcript must be identified by proper certificate showing that they are the papers used upon the hearing in the court below, and a certificate that the papers are true copies of the originals on file is not enough without showing that they are the papers used upon the hearing. Sandpoint v. Doyle (1903) 9 I. 236, 74 P. 861.

Where the record fails to show that an undertaking on appeal has been filed or that the same has been waived, the appeal will be dismissed. Rich v. French (1893) 3 I. 727, 35 P. 173.

An appeal will be dismissed where the transcript does not contain any certificate that the papers therein constitute all the records, papers and files used or considered by the judge on the hearing. Glenn v. Aultman & Taylor M. Co. (1917) 30 I. 719, 727, 167 P. 1163; Walsh v. Niess (1917) 30 I. 325, 164 P. 528, and may be dismissed on the court's own motion. Ib.

In the absence of such a certificate the orders complained of could not be reviewed. Bumpas v. Moore, 31 I. 668, 175 P. 339; Bell v. Stadler, 31 P. 568, 174 P. 129.

Conclusiveness of certificate: Only the record as certified by the clerk or attorneys of record can be considered by the supreme court, and a motion to strike a supplement from the record which was not called to the attention of the court, or was no part of the record in the case, will be sustained. First Nat. Bk. of Lewiston v. Sampson (1901) 7 I. 564, 64 P. 890.

Where it is shown by the certificate of the judge and clerk of the court in the transcript that such transcript contains all the papers, pleadings, etc., used on the hearing of a motion to release certain property from attachment after final judgment in the lower court, and thereafter the judge and deputy clerk furnish certificates or affidavits that other papers were used on the hearing, the supreme court will not dismiss the appeal, especially when it is shown that the missing paper was a part of the record evidence of the respondent; a certified copy should have been furnished for the record by the moving party. Coey v. Cleghorn (1904) 10 I. 162, 77 P. 331.

The supreme court on an appeal from an order dissolving an injunction can not consider affidavits found in the transcript where the trial judge certifies that certain papers (which do not include such affidavits) and no other were considered by the judge, and there is no showing that such affidavits were presented or called to the attention of the trial judge at the hearing. Dougal v. Eby (1906) 11 I. 789, 85 P. 102.

Who must certify: The clerk of the court or the attorney for the parties is the proper officer to certify to papers used on the hearings of a motion in the lower court. Simmons Hdw. etc. Co. v. Alturas Com. Co. (1895) 4 I. 386, 39 P. 553.

An affidavit of the parties or of the attorneys can not be substituted for the certificate of the clerk or attorneys. Hailey v. Riley (1907) 13 I. 749, 92 P. 756.

The certificates of the clerk of the district court that certain affidavits were used in the application for a new trial and that they were all the affidavits used, is not sufficient to authorize the supreme court to consider such affidavits; but such certificate must be made by the trial judge or in an authenticated record certified by the judge, showing what papers were used on the application. Crowley v. Croesus Gold etc. Co. (1906) 12 I. 530, 86 P. 536; overruled by Hall v. Jensen (1908) 14 I. 165, 93 P. 962.

Under this section the copies of the papers provided for by §§ 7163-65 to be used on appeal may be certified or identified by the clerk or by stipulation of attorneys, or may be certified and identified by the judge. On the question of the certification of papers or documents used on the hearing of a motion the case of Crowley v. Croesus M. Co., supra, is expressly overruled in so far as it applies to civil cases. Hall v. Jensen, supra.

The papers and documents considered by the trial court must be identified in an appeal either by certificate of the trial judge, a stipulation of counsel, or a certificate of the clerk of the district court. A certificate made by the trial judge and appearing in the record is a compliance with the statute. Libby v. Spokane Valley etc. Co. (1908) 15 I. 467, 472, 98 P. 715.

Sufficiency of certificate: A stipulation signed by the attorneys that the transcript contains true and correct copies, inter alia, of the "undertaking on appeal," is a sufficient certificate of the filing of the undertaking. Idaho Comstock etc. Co. v. Lundstrum (1903) 9 I. 257, 74 P. 975.

A clerk's certificate is insufficient where it appears therefrom that it is not a true and correct transcript of all of the proceedings had in the trial court. Coon v. Sommercamp (1915) 26 I. 776, 146 P. 728.

Amendment of certificate: Where no proper certificate of identification was attached to the transcript on appeal an amended certificate may be filed before the final submission of the case on appeal, and a motion to dismiss the appeal will be denied. Steensland v. Hess (1913) 25 I. 181, 136 P. 1124; Burgess v. Corker (1913) 25 I. 217, 136 P. 1127; Witt v. Beals (1917) 31 I. 84, 169 P. 182.

§ 7168. [4822] Failure to furnish papers: Dismissal. If the appellant fails to furnish the requisite papers the appeal may be dismissed; but no appeal can be dismissed for insufficiency of the undertaking thereon if a good and sufficient undertaking, approved by a justice of the supreme court, be filed in the supreme court before the hearing upon motion to dismiss the appeal. Construed: Where no undertaking on appeal is filed in the lower court the requirements of the statute can not be complied with by filing an undertaking on appeal in this court which is approved by a justice of this court, under this section. Hailey v. Riley (1907) 13 I. 749, 92 P. 756.

Grounds for dismissal: A motion to dismiss an appeal on the ground that certain papers, which are part of the record upon such appeal, are not included in the transcript is no ground for dismissal, the remedy being by suggestion of diminution of the record. Zienke v. N. P. Ry. Co. (1901) 7 I. 746, 65 P. 431.

Sufficiency of motion: A motion to dismiss an appeal must specify with particularity the precise ground upon which the moving party will base his right to the relief sought; a motion alleging "that no sufficient undertaking on appeal was ever filed in said cause" is insufficient. Jackson v. Barrett (1906) 12 I. 465, 86 P. 270.

Disposition of merits: An appeal from an order dissolving a preliminary injunction will be dismissed where the merits of the case have been determined by final judgment, and the time for appealing from such final judgment has expired without an appeal having been taken. Wallace v. Deane (1902) 8 I. 344, 69 P. 62.

An appeal from an order denying a new trial will be dismissed where all the questions involved therein have been disposed of on appeal from the judgment. Coats v. Harris (1904) 9 I. 470, 75 P. 246.

Amendment of undertaking: This section does not authorize the filing of a sufficient undertaking in place of one which is void. Motherwell v. Taylor (1886) 2 I. 148, 9 P. 417.

§ 7169. [4823] Same: Effect of dismissal. The dismissal of an appeal is in effect an affirmance of the judgment or order appealed from, unless the dismissal is expressly made without prejudice to another appeal. [R. S. § 4823.]

Dismissal without prejudice: The court may order the dismissal of an appeal without prejudice to another appeal, and will do so where the appeal is absolutely void so that the court is without jurisdiction over the appellants and can make no order that will be binding upon them. Coffin v. Edgington (1890) 2 I. 627, 23 P. 80.

Effect of dismissal: The dismissal of an appeal for failure to file the requisite papers, unless expressly made without prejudice, is in effect an affirmance of the judgment and bars a subsequent appeal. Fahey v. Belcher (1893) 3 I. 644, 32 P. 1135; West v. Dygert (1908) 15 I. 350, 97 P. 961.

Where there is no issue or controversy presented to the court the appeal should, in conformity with the statute and rules of the court, be dismissed, which would in effect affirm the judgment. (Con. op.) Sunnyside Irr. Dist. v. Stephens (1911) 21 I. 94, 120 P. 169; Crane Creek Irr. Dist. v. Martin (1911) 21 I. 96, 120 P. 169.

New appeal: Where a respondent moves to dismiss the appeal and the motion is confessed by appellant and allowed by the court, and an order is entered dismissing the appeal without prejudice, a new appeal may ge taken as soon as the order of dismissal is made and prior to the filing of the remittitur in the lower court. Jackson v. Barrett (1906) 12 I. 465, 86 P. 270.

§ 7170. [4824] What may be reviewed on appeal. Upon an appeal from a judgment the court may review the verdict or decision and any intermediate order or decision, if excepted to, which involves the merits or necessarily affects the judgment, except a decision or order from which an appeal might have been taken: Provided, That whenever there is substantial evidence to support a verdict the same shall not be set aside. Same: Criminal Cases: The same rule applies to criminal cases. S. v. Silva (1912) 21 I. 247, 120 P. 835; S. v. Downing (1913) 23 I. 540, 130 P. 461; S. v. Hopkins (1915) 26 I. 741, 145 P. 1095; S. v. Bouchard (1915) 27 I. 500, 149 P. 464.

Same: Equity cases: This rule applies as well in equity cases heard upon oral testimony as in law cases. Snowy Peak etc. M. Co. v. Tamarack etc. M. Co. (1910) 17 I. 630, 107 P. 60; Panhandle Lbr. Where the trial court has heard and determined a case solely on depositions and documentary evidence, and an appeal is taken from the judgment on the ground that it is not supported by the evidence, the appellate court will examine and weigh the evidence the same as if the case were being tried de novo. Spofford v. Spofford (1910) 18 I. 115, 108 P. 1054.

Where evidence not substantial: If it is found upon review that there is no substantial conflict in the evidence there may be a reversal of the judgment where the evidence is insufficient to sustain the verdict. Quayle v. Ream (1909) 15 I. 666, 99 P. 707.

Where affidavits made prima facie evidence by statute are flatly contradicted by positive proof, such affidavits do not make a substantial conflict in the evidence. Dickens-West M. Co. v. Crescent etc. Co. (1914) 26 I. 153, 141 P. 566.

Where there is a substantial conflict in the evidence the trial court has the authority to set aside the verdict if such court concludes that substantial justice has not been done, whereas the supreme court is prohibited from setting aside a verdict whenever there is substantial evidence to support the verdict. Buster v. Fletcher (1912) 22 I. 172, 181, 125 P. 226.

§ 7171. [4825] Remedial powers of appellate court: Damages for delay. When the judgment or order is reversed or modified the appellate court may make complete restitution of all property and rights lost by the erroneous judgment or order, so far as the restitution is consistent with the protection of a purchaser of property at a sale ordered by the judgment, or had under process issued upon the judgment on the appeal from which the proceedings were not stayed; and for relief in such cases the appellant may have his action against the respondent enforcing the judgment for the proceeds of the sale of the property, after deducting therefrom the expenses of the sale. When it appears to the appellate court that the appeal was made for delay, it may add to the costs such damages as may be just. [R. S. § 4825.]

Damages for delay: A party who takes an appeal but fails to furnish a record of the case within the time prescribed by law and the rules of the court, is liable to damages for delay. Day v. Gridley (1899) 6 I. 489, 56 P. 77.

§ 7172. [4826] Remittitur. When the judgment is rendered upon the appeal it must be certified by the clerk of the supreme court to the clerk with whom the judgment roll is filed, or the order appealed from is entered. In cases of appeal from the judgment, the clerk with whom the roll is filed must attach the certificate to the judgment roll, and enter a minute of the judgment of the supreme court on the docket, against the original entry. In cases of appeal from an order, the clerk must enter at length in the records of the court the certificate received, and minute against the entry of the order appealed from, a reference to the certificate, with a brief statement that such order has been affirmed, reversed or modified by the supreme court on appeal. § 7173. [4831] Appealable judgments and orders. An appeal may be taken to the district court of the county from a judgment or order of the probate court in probate matters:

1. Granting, refusing or revoking letters testamentary, or of administration, or of guardianship.
2. Admitting, or refusing to admit, a will to probate.

Nature of right of appeal: The constitution does not confer any absolute and unqualified right of appeal from an order or judgment of a probate court; on the contrary, the matter of appeals in such cases is left to the discretion of the legislature, which may either confer or withhold the right of appeal in any and all matters coming before the probate court. Re Sharp (1909) 15 I. 120, 96 P. 563, 18 L. R. A. (N. S.) 886.

The right of appeal in probate matters is purely statutory, and can be taken only from the judgments, orders, decrees and proceedings enumerated in the statute. Estate of Coryell, 16 I. 201, 101 P. 723.

An order of the probate court refusing to admit a will to probate is appealable. Re Paige (1906) 12 I. 410, 86 P. 273.

A parent or guardian is not bound by the order of the probate court in adjudging a child delinquent and sending him to the industrial training school unless such parent or guardian appeared or was brought into the proceeding. If he was a party he has a right of appeal under this section. Re Sharp, supra.

An order which in effect amounts to a disallowance of the respondent's claims against an estate is an appealable order. Miller v. Lewiston Nat. Bk. (1910) 18 I. 124, 108 P. 901.

Orders not appealable: An appeal does not lie from the order of the probate judge vacating a settlement or continuing part of an administrator's account for future consideration. Est. of Coryell, supra.

There is no provision for an appeal from an order of the probate court made subsequent to the closing of the estate. Chandler v. Probate Court (1914) 26 I. 173, 141 P. 635.

Scope of review: An appeal from an order directing a conveyance of property will not authorize a review of the action of the court in directing a sale, since appeals are specifically authorized from each of said orders. Reed v. Stewart (1907) 12 I. 707, 87 P. 1152.

§ 7174. [4832] Undertaking not required of executor. When an executor, administrator or guardian who has given an official bond, appeals from a judgment or order of the probate court made in the proceedings had upon the estate of which he is administrator, executor or guardian, his official bond stands in the place of an undertaking on appeal, and the sureties therein are liable as on such undertaking. § 7176. [4834] Manner of taking appeal. An appeal from the probate court in probate matters is taken by filing with the clerk of the probate court in which the judgment or order appealed from is made or entered, a notice stating the appeal from the same, or some specific part thereof, and serving a similar notice upon the administrator, administratrix, executor or executrix (unless they be the appellants), and upon all other parties interested who appeared upon the motion or proceeding which the appellant desires to have reviewed, or upon their attorneys. The notice of appeal must be filed and served within 60 days after the order, decree or judgment is entered. The order of service is immaterial, but the appeal is ineffectual for any purpose unless within 10 days after service of the notice of appeal an undertaking be filed, or a deposit of money be made with the clerk, as hereinafter provided, or the undertaking be waived by the adverse party in writing. Persons entitled to notice: A proceeding for the sale of the property of an intestate to pay debts, constitutes a single proceeding from the time of filing the petition for the sale until the confirmation thereof and delivery of the deed, and heirs who appear by their guardian ad litem on the hearing of the petition for the sale are entitled to have the guardian served with notice of appeal by the purchaser from an order confirming the sale, although the guardian did not appear at the hearing of the confirmation of the sale. Reed v. Stewart (1907) 12 I. 707, 87 P. 1152.

Undertaking or deposit: Where the probate court in a probate matter enters one judgment and includes therein more than one order, and the appeal is taken from the judgment, only one bond or one deposit of $100 under this section is required. (On rehearing) Est. of McVay (1908) 14 I. 64, 93 P. 31.

Where an appeal is taken from two orders, which are in proper form and which are specifically referred to, the undertaking on appeal is not insufficient for its failure to specify which appeal the undertaking was intended to secure; the undertaking is sufficient if the amount of the penalty of the bond is sufficient for both appeals. Re Blackinton's Est., supra.

§ 7177. [4835] Undertaking. The undertaking on appeal must be in writing and must be executed on the part of the appellant by at least two sureties, to the effect that the appellant will pay all damages and costs which may be awarded against him on the appeal or on a dismissal thereof, not exceeding $100, or that sum must be deposited with the clerk with whom the judgment or order was entered to abide the event of the appeal. Where an appeal is taken both from a decree and an order denying motion to reopen decree, and both are specifically referred to in the undertaking on appeal in the form into which the statute imports every condition required by law, and the amount of penalty is sufficient for both appeals, the legal effect is to comprise two bonds in one instrument, and it must be so construed. Blackinton's Est. (1916) 29 I. 310, 158 P. 492.

§ 7178. [4836] Hearing of appeal. The appeal may be taken upon questions of law or upon questions of both law and fact. If taken upon questions of law alone, the district court may review any such question which sufficiently appears upon the face of the record or proceeding, without the aid of a bill of exceptions, and no bill of exceptions shall be allowed or granted in the probate court in probate matters. If the appeal be upon questions of both law and fact, the trial in the district court shall be de novo. ['03, p. 372, § 3.]

Constitutionality: This section is in harmony with Const. V. 21, giving original jurisdiction to probate courts in probate matters, and confers appellate jurisdiction only upon district courts in conformity to Const. V. 20, Est. of McVay (1907) 14 I. 56, 93 P. 28.

Trial de novo: Issues: Trial de novo, as used in this section, means to try anew, or a second time; that is, to retry the case upon the original papers and upon the same issues as the case was tried in the probate court. (On rehearing) Est. of McVay (1908) 14 I. 64, 93 P. 31.

When an appeal is taken to the district court upon issues of law and fact, it is the duty of the district judge to pass upon the same issues tried in the probate court, and the refusal to pass upon such questions is reversible error. Kent v. Dalrymple (1913) 23 I. 694, 132 P. 301.

Same: Procedure: Under this statute and the constitution, if an appeal is taken upon a probate matter upon questions of law alone, the district court may review such questions of law which appear upon the face of the record, and may affirm or reverse the decision of the probate court. (On rehearing) Est. of McVay, supra.

Where an appeal is taken from the probate court to the district court in a probate matter on both questions of law and fact, if the district court reverses the probate court on questions of law, the issues of fact are not to be tried. Kent v. Dalrymple, supra.

When an appeal is taken upon both questions of law and fact, if the court should affirm the action of the probate court upon questions of law, the cause may then be tried upon the same questions of fact as were raised in the probate court in the same way as other cases are tried in the district court. (On rehearing) Est. of McVay, supra; Kent v. Dalrymple, supra.

And whatever judgment may be entered in the district court shall be certified back to the probate court for execution in accordance therewith. Fraser v. Davis (1916) 29 I. 70, 156 P. 913.

Same: Evidence. While the failure to offer proof upon the hearing in the district court would be a matter to be considered by that court, yet the failure to offer such proof in the probate court is not a matter which in any way concerns the district court upon the hearing upon appeal, as the hearing in the district court is de novo upon the issues made in the probate court. Est. of Christensen (1909) 15 I. 692, 99 P. 829.

On an appeal from an order confirming a sale, if it appears that the proceedings were fair and the sum bid not disproportionate to the value of the property, it is the duty of the district court to affirm the order of the probate court. McGregor v. Jensen (1910) 18 I. 320, 109 P. 729.

APPEALS FROM PROBATE AND JUSTICE'S COURTS TO DISTRICT COURTS.

§ 7179. [4838] Time and manner of taking appeal. Any party dissatisfied with a judgment rendered in a civil action in a probate or justice's court may appeal therefrom to the district court of the county at any time within 30 days after the rendition of the judgment. The appeal is taken by filing a notice of appeal with the justice or judge, and serving a copy on the adverse party. The notice must state whether the appeal is taken from the whole or a part of the judgment, and if from part, what part, and whether the appeal is taken on questions of law or fact, or both. [R. S. § 4838.]

Appealable judgments: An entry made by the probate judge in his docket, "damages, $310.00," is not a judgment within the meaning of this section from which an appeal will lie to the district court. Gray v. Cederholm (1884) 2 I. 34, 3 P. 12.

Perfection of appeal: The order in which the various steps in the perfection of an appeal are taken is immaterial and there is no objection to filing the bond and notice prior to service of notice. Salt Lake Br. Co. v. Gillman (1886) 2 I. 195, 10 P. 32; Reynolds v. Corbus (1901) 7 I. 481, 63 P. 884.

This section gives the right of appeal from any judgment, whether in a contested case or upon default for want of an answer. Smith v. Clyne (1908) 15 I. 254, 97 P. 40.

Where a notice of appeal states that it is taken upon both questions of law and fact, and it appears that no questions of fact were presented or tried in the lower court, the appeal will be treated upon questions of law alone, as the appellant can not change or alter the nature of the appeal or the questions to be determined on appeal by any statement contained in the notice of appeal. Ib.

Waiver of notice: Where notice of appeal is not served but party opposing voluntarily appears and asks leave to file answer and proceeds to trial, such procedure amounts to waiver of notice of appeal. Bates v. Price (1917) 30 I. 521, 166 P. 261.

Time of filing undertaking: Where an appeal is taken from the decision of the district court, dismissing an appeal from the probate court, on the ground that the appeal was not perfected within 30 days after the rendition of the judgment in the probate court, and the transcript fails to show that the appeal was perfected by filing the required undertaking on appeal within the 30 days, the order of the court will be sustained. Watt v. Decker (1909) 16 I. 184, 101 P. 253.

Right to appeal: Justices of the peace and probate courts are not vested with any discretion as to granting or refusing appeals. Hanson v. Weniger, 31 I. 540, 173 P. 1085.

§ 7180. [4839] Appeals on questions of law. When a party appeals to the district court on questions of law alone, unless the question arises upon the pleadings or files in the action, or appears from the docket of the court, he must, within 10 days from the rendition of the judgment, prepare a statement of the case, and file the same with the justice or judge. The statement must contain the grounds upon which the party intends to rely on the appeal, and so much of the evidence as may be necessary to explain the grounds and no more. Within 10 days after he receives notice that the statement is filed, the adverse party, if dissatisfied with the same, may file amendments. The proposed statement and amendments must be settled by the justice or judge, and if no amendment be filed, the original statement stands as adopted. The statement thus adopted, or as settled by the justice or judge, with a copy of the docket of the justice or judge, and all motions filed with him by the parties during the trial, and the notice of appeal, may be used on the hearing of the appeal before the district court. When statement not required: When questions of law arise upon the pleadings or files in the action or appear from the docket of the court, no statement is required. It is the duty of the district court to hear and try such questions of law as arise upon the pleadings or files in the action or as appear from the docket of the court. Smith v. Clyne (1908) 15 I. 254, 97 P. 40; Smith v. Peterson (1917) 31 I. 34, 169 P. 290.

Erroneous judgment by probate judge: Where an appeal is taken from the probate court in a civil matter to the district court, upon questions of law alone, the district court is called upon not only to pass upon the issues of law presented to the probate court, but also the question of law as to whether the probate judge erred in entering judgment. Smith v. Clyne (1909) 16 I. 466, 101 P. 819.

§ 7181. [4840] Same: Questions of law and fact. When a party appeals to the district court on questions of fact, or on questions of both law and fact, no statement need be made, but the action must be tried anew in the district court. [R. S. § 4840.]

Appeal from default judgment: Where a defendant fails to appear and answer or raise any issue of fact in a justice or probate court, and appeals from a judgment entered by default to the district court on questions of both law and fact, he will not be allowed to file an answer in the district court and raise an issue of fact for the first time. A trial de novo as provided in this section implies and signifies the trying anew of an issue that has been previously tried. Where no issue has been previously raised, there is no issue to try anew. Zimmerman v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1908) 14 I. 681, 95 P. 825.

Review by supreme court: Since the trial is de novo in the district court, the supreme court can not, on appeal from that court, consider any proceedings anterior to those in the district court. Chase v. Hagood (1893) 3 I. 682, 34 P. 811.

§ 7182. [4841] Transcript of docket. Upon receiving the notice of appeal, and on payment of the fees of the court or justice and filing an undertaking as required in the next section, and after settlement or adoption of a statement, if any, the clerk or justice must, within five days, transmit to the clerk of the district court, if the appeal be on questions of law alone, the pleadings and files in the action, a certified copy of his docket, the statement, if any, as admitted or as settled, the notice of appeal and the undertaking filed; or, if the appeal be on questions of fact, or both law and fact, a certified copy of his docket, the pleadings, all notices, motions and other papers filed in the cause, the notice of appeal and the undertaking filed; and the justice or judge may be compelled by the district court, by an order entered upon motion, to transmit such papers, and may be fined for neglect or refusal to transmit the same. A certified copy of such order may be served on the justice or judge by the party or his attorney. In the district court either party may have the benefit of all legal objections made in the probate or justice's court. And the district court has the same power to grant relief by amendment and otherwise, as in actions commenced in the district court. [R. S. § 4841.]

Waiver of objections: Where a party moves to quash summons in the probate court, he does not by demurring and answering in that court, preclude himself from again moving to quash in the district court, before answering in that court. Chase v. Hagood (1893) 3 I. 682, 34 P. 811. Where a defendant in probate court denies generally and files answer after his motion to quash summons has been overruled, he thereby waives defects in the summons and can not take advantage of the same either on appeal to the district court or to the supreme court. Morris v. Miller (1895) 4 I. 454, 40 P. 60.

Allowance of amendments: Amendments to an answer may be allowed on appeal from the probate to the district court, as well as in suits originally commenced in the latter court. Sebree v. Smith (1888) 2 I. 359, 16 P. 915.

Summary remedy: This section provides a summary remedy. It is plain and speedy and mandamus will not lie when the relief afforded by it is available. Hanson v. Weniger, 31 I. 540, 173 P. 1085.

§ 7183. Undertaking. An appeal from a justice's or probate court is not effectual for any purpose unless an undertaking be filed, with two or more sureties, in the sum of $100, for the payment of the costs on the appeal; and, if a stay of proceedings be claimed, in a sum equal to twice the amount of the judgment, including costs, when the judgment is for the payment of money; or twice the value of the property, including costs, when the judgment is for the recovery of specific personal property, and must be conditioned, when the action is for the recovery of money, that the appellant will pay the amount of the judgment appealed from and all costs, if the appeal be withdrawn or dismissed, or the amount of any judgment and all costs that may be recovered against him in the action in the district court.

When the action is for the recovery of specific personal property, the undertaking must be conditioned that the appellant will pay the judgment and costs appealed from, and obey the order of the court made therein, if the appeal be withdrawn or dismissed, or any judgment and costs that may be recovered against him in said action in the district court, and will obey any order made by the court therein.

When the judgment appealed from directs the delivery of possession of real property, the execution of the same can not be stayed unless a written undertaking be executed on the part of the appellant, with two or more sureties, to the effect that during the possession of such property by the appellant he will not commit, or suffer to be committed, any waste thereon, and that if the appeal be dismissed or withdrawn, or the judgment affirmed, or judgment be recovered against him in the action in the district court, he will pay the value of the use and occupation of the property from the time of the appeal until the delivery of possession thereof; or that he will pay any judgment and costs that may be recovered against him in said action in the district court, not exceeding the sum to be fixed by the judge or justice of the court from which the appeal is taken, and which sum must be specified in the undertaking.

A deposit of the amount of the judgment, including all costs, appealed from, or of the value of the property, including all costs, in actions for the recovery of specific personal property, with the justice or judge, is equivalent to the filing of the undertaking; and in such cases the justice or judge must transmit the money to the clerk of the district court, to be by him paid out on the order of the court.

The adverse party may except to the sufficiency of the sureties within five days after the filing of the undertaking, and unless they or other sureties justify before the justice or judge from whom the appeal is taken, within five days thereafter, upon notice to the adverse party, to the amounts stated in their affidavits, the appeal must be regarded as if no such undertaking had been given. Time of filing undertaking. The appeal must be perfected by filing the undertaking within the 30 days provided in § 7179. Watt v. Decker (1909) 16 I. 184, 101 P. 253.

Sufficiency of bond: An undertaking "for the payment of costs on the appeal to the district court and for a stay of execution" which binds the sureties in a sum exceeding $100, but not in an amount sufficient to stay the proceedings, and which contains all the obligations required in an appeal bond, is sufficient to protect the appeal. Edminston v. Steele (1906) 12 I. 613, 87 P. 677.

Supersedeas: This statute requires in cases of appeal from justice's courts to the district court, where execution of the judgment is to be stayed, two obligations (which may be in the same undertaking), one in the sum of $100, to cover cost of appeal, the other for double the amount of judgment and costs in the justice court, to secure the payment of whatever judgment and costs may finally be recovered by respondent against appellant. Numbers v. Rocky Mountain Bell Tel. Co. (1900) 7 I. 408, 63 P. 381. An undertaking in twice the amount of the judgment, including costs for the stay of proceedings, is ineffectual for any purpose where there is no obligation for the payment of the costs on appeal. Wilson v. Doyle (1906) 12 I. 295, 85 P. 928; Libby v. Spokane Valley etc. Co. (1908) 15 I. 467, 98 P. 715.

Exception to sureties: This section does not in terms require notice of the filing of exception to the sufficiency of sureties to be served upon appellant or his attorney, but professional courtesy and the better practice require such notice to be served. Holcomb v. Reed (1896) 5 I. 60, 46 P. 1019.

It is intimated that the provisions of this statute authorizing an exception to the sufficiency of sureties within five days after filing the undertaking, is merely directory, and an insufficient undertaking may be objected to when a substantial defect is ascertained or that the defect may be waived. Salt Lake Br. Co. v. Gillman (1886) 2 I. 195, 10 P. 32.

Justification of sureties: Where exception to the sufficiency of sureties is made, they or other sureties must appear and justify within the time stated upon notice to the adverse party; the appearance of the sureties in making affidavit without notice to the adverse party is insufficient. Davelin v. Post Falls Woolen Mills (1896) 4 I. 735, 44 P. 554.

On appeal from a justice court to the district court, respondent excepted to the sufficiency of the sureties; within five days thereafter, appellant filed a new undertaking executed by a surety company, but did not give respondents notice of the filing of said new undertaking with prima facie evidence of its sufficiency; held that the appeal was ineffectual and should be dismissed. Numbers v. Rocky Mt. Bell Tel. Co. (1900) 7 I. 408, 63 P. 381.

In case sureties to whom exception is taken fail to appear and justify, the undertaking signed by them is void, but the appellant may file a new undertaking at any time prior to the expiration of the 30 day period allowed by § 7179 for the taking of an appeal; notice of the filing of such undertaking should be given to the adverse party. Perkins v. Bridges (1904) 10 I. 189, 77 P. 329.

An undertaking may be filed any time within the 30 days allowed for an appeal after the entry of the judgment, and the respondent may except to the sufficiency of the sureties within five days thereafter, whereupon the appellant is given a further period of five days in which to cause the sureties, or other sureties, to justify. Snyder v. Wooden (1905) 11 I. 150, 81 P. 377.

Where exception is taken to the original undertaking and a substitute undertaking is drawn, the respondent may waive the justification of the substitute sureties, and if he does so the appeal will be effectual without such justification. Ib.

When other sureties than those who signed the original undertaking justify, after exception being taken to the sufficiency of the original sureties, it is better practice to execute a new undertaking and have the sureties justify thereto. Ib.

Amendment of bond: It is too late to apply for leave to amend a defective undertaking on appeal from the probate to the district court after a motion to dismiss the appeal has been made and sustained. Re Paige (1906) 12 I. 410, 86 P. 273.

If the action of the district court on appeal from a judgment of the probate court, in refusing to permit the appellant to file an amended undertaking on appeal, is assigned as error, and the transcript does not contain the original undertaking, the judgment of the district court, dismissing the appeal from the probate court on the ground that the undertaking did not comply with the statute, must be sustained. Watt v. Decker (1909) 16 I. 184, 101 P. 523.

§ 7184. [4843] Same: Stay of proceedings. If an execution be issued, on the filing of the undertaking staying proceedings, the justice or judge must, by order, direct the officer to stay all proceedings on the same. Such officer must, upon payment of his fees for services rendered on the execution, thereupon relinquish all property levied upon and deliver the same to the judgment debtor, together with all moneys collected from sales or otherwise. If his fees be not paid, the officer may retain so much of the property or proceeds thereof as may be necessary to pay the same. [R. S. § 4843.]

Mandamus to justice: Mandamus is an appropriate remedy to compel the performance of this duty by the justice or judge. Hanson v. Weniger, 31 I. 540, 173 P. 1085.

§ 7185. [4844] Hearing of appeal: Judgment. Upon an appeal on questions of law alone, the district court may review all orders affecting the judgment appealed from, and may set aside, or confirm, or modify, any or all of the proceedings subsequent to, and dependent upon such judgment, and may, if necessary or proper, order a new trial in the district court. When the action is tried anew on appeal, the trial must be conducted in all respects as trials in the district court. The provisions of this code as to changing the place of trial, and all the provisions as to trial in the district court, are applicable to trials on appeal in the district court. For a failure to prosecute on appeal, or unnecessary delay in bringing it to a hearing, the district court, after notice, may order the appeal to be dismissed with costs, and if it appear to such court that the appeal was made solely for delay, it may add to the costs such damages as may be just, not exceeding 25 per cent of the judgment appealed from. Judgments rendered in the district court on appeal have the same force and effect, and may be enforced in the same manner as judgments in actions commenced in the district court. [R. S. § 4844.]

Appeal on law questions: When an appeal is taken on questions of law alone, the district court is not authorized to try the case de novo after deciding the questions of law, unless it is made to appear that it is necessary or proper to try such case anew. If the record fails to show the grounds for ordering a new trial, the district court being a court of general jurisdiction, the proper showing will be presumed to have been made. Holt v. Gridley (1900) 7 I. 416, 63 P. 188.

Where there has been no trial of facts in probate or justice court, it can not be tried in the first instance in the district court on appeal, but must, if reversed, be remanded to the tribunal in which it originated. Smith v. Clyne (1908) 15 I. 254, 97 P. 40; Zimmerman v. Bradford-Kennedy Co. (1908) 14 I. 681, 95 P. 825; Gaiser v. Steele (1914) 25 I. 412, 137 P. 889; Smith v. Peterson (1917) 31 I. 34, 169 P. 290.

An order of the probate court sustaining respondent's motion to strike appellant's motion from the files is such an order as contemplated by this section. Smith v. Peterson, supra.

When the record of a probate court fails to show what disposition was made of a demurrer and motion filed, but does show a default entered against the defendant, the presumption on appeal is that the judgment and motion were overruled and that the defendant was in default. Smith v. Clyne (1909) 16 I. 466, 101 P. 819.

Trial de novo: On appeal from a justice's judgment, taken on questions of law and fact, the case stands for trial de novo, and it is error to render judgment without trial, affirming the judgment of the justice's court. Swinehart v. Pocatello Meat etc. Co. (1902) 8 I. 710, 70 P. 1054.

A new trial implies that the cause has been once tried, and if there was no issue of fact and no trial of the same in the lower court, there can be no new trial of such issue in the district court, on appeal. The appellate power includes not only the power to reserve a judgment, but also to control and direct the subsequent action of the subordinate court. Smith v. Clyne (1908) 15 I. 254, 97 P. 40.

It is not necessary to file a new complaint. [R. S. § 4861.]

OFFER OF THE DEFENDANT TO COMPROMISE.

§ 7192. [4870] Offer of judgment. The defendant in any action may at any time before the trial or judgment serve upon the plaintiff an offer to allow judgment to be given against him for the sum or property, or to the effect therein specified. If the plaintiff accept the offer and give notice thereof within five days, he may file the offer, with proof of notice of acceptance, and the clerk must thereupon enter judgment accordingly. If the notice of acceptance be not given, the offer is to be deemed withdrawn and can not be given in evidence upon the trial, and if the plaintiff fail to obtain a more favorable judgment, he can not recover costs accruing subsequently to the offer but must pay the defendant's costs from the time of the offer. INSPECTION OF WRITINGS.

§ 7193. [4875] Judge may order inspection. Any court in which an action is pending, or a judge thereof, may, upon notice, order either party to give to the other, within a specified time, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy, of entries of account in any book or of any document or paper in his possession or under his control, containing evidence relating to the merits of the action or the defense therein. If compliance with the order be refused, the court may exclude the book, document or paper from being given in evidence, or if wanted as evidence by the party applying, may direct the jury to presume them to be such as he alleges them to be, and the court may also punish the party refusing, for a contempt. This section is not to be construed to prevent a party from compelling another to produce books, papers or documents when he is examined as a witness. [R. S. § 4875.]

§ 7195. [4881] Same: Where made. Motions must be made in the county in which the action is pending or in any county in the same judicial district. Orders made out of court may be made by the judge of the court in any part of the state. [R. S. § 4881.]

§ 7196. [4882] Notice of motion. When a written notice of a motion is required by this code, it must be given, unless a different time is prescribed, if the hearing is had in the same district in which the action is pending or the proceeding had, five days before the time appointed for the hearing; otherwise, 10 days. When the notice is served by mail, the number of days before the hearing must be increased one day for every 25 miles of distance between the place of deposit and the place of service, such increase, however, not to exceed in all 30 days, but the court or judge may prescribe a shorter time. Copies of all the moving papers, except records of the court and files in the action, must be served with the notice or with an order to show cause. But no written notice of any motion affecting the pleadings or for judgment, or for any motion made during the progress of the trial shall be required. [R. S. § 4882.]

SERVICE OF PAPERS, NOTICE AND APPEARANCE.

§ 7199. [4889] Service of notices and papers. The service of notice or other paper may be personal, by delivery to the party or attorney on whom the service is required to be made, or it may be as follows:

1. If upon an attorney, it may be made during his absence from his office by leaving the notice or other papers with his clerk therein, or with a person having charge thereof; or, when there is no person in the office, by leaving them, between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the afternoon, in a conspicuous place in the office, or if it be not open so as to admit of such service, then by leaving them at the attorney's residence, with some person of suitable age and discretion; and if his residence be not known, then by putting the same, inclosed in an envelope, into the post office, directed to such attorney.

2. If upon a party, it may be made by leaving the notice or other paper at his residence, between the hours of eight in the morning and six in the evening, with some person of suitable age and discretion; and if his residence be not known, by putting the same, inclosed in an envelope, into the post office, directed to such party. Service by mail: Service of transcript under certain circumstances may be made by mail. Hattabaugh v. Vollmer (1896) 5 I. 23, 46 P. 831. A nonresident defaulting defendant may be served with a notice of appeal by depositing the same in the post office. Titiman v. Alamance M. Co. (1903) 9 I. 240, 74 P. 529.

Service on attorneys: An affidavit of service of notice of appeal "upon the attorney for respondent by leaving a true copy thereof at his office in Boise City, Ada county, Idaho territory, on the 21st day of May, 1883," is insufficient to show service. Warner v. Teachenor, supra.

In order to justify service of notice on any one else than the attorney personally it must be shown that the attorney was absent from his office, and that the person served, if any, was the clerk of the attorney, or a person having charge of his office. Peter v. Kalez (1905) 11 I. 552, 83 P. 526.

§ 7201. [4891] Same: How made. In case of service by mail the notice or other paper must be deposited in the post office, addressed to the person on whom it is to be served, at his office or place of residence, and the postage paid. The service is complete at the time of the deposit, but if within a given number of days after such service, a right may be exercised or an act is to be done by the adverse party, the time within Appearance: The written notice of appearance contemplated by this section is a statement in writing by the defendant or his attorney whereby the plaintiff is informed that the defendant has appeared, generally or specially, in the case and has submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the court. Domer v. Stone (1915) 27 I. 279, 149 P. 505.

General appearance: A plaintiff, in demurring to a cross complaint filed against him by the defendant, appears thereto, and can not withdraw or affect such appearance by assuming to make a special appearance when he files his answer. Willman v. Friedman (1894) 4 I. 209, 38 P. 937.

The making of a motion to quash summons and dismiss action is a general appearance. (Ailshie, J. dissents) Shaw v. Martin (1911) 20 I. 168, 175, 117 P. 853.

Special appearance: Illegality in the service of process by which jurisdiction is to be obtained is not waived by the special appearance of defendant to move that the service be set aside nor after such motion is denied, by his answering to the merits. Objection to the illegal service is considered as abandoned only when the party pleads to the merits in the first instance. Harkness v. Hyde (1879) 98 U. S. (8 Otto) 476, 25 L. ed. 237.

No appearance: A stipulation that the defendant have until a certain date to make settlement of the amount claimed by plaintiff and containing a promise on the part of the defendant that in the event the settlement is not made by that time, it will confess judgment in the action then pending between the parties, is not an appearance contemplated by this section. Washington etc. Co. v. Weiser Nat. Bk. (1915) 26 I. 717, 146 P. 116.

A motion to require nonresident to give security for costs is not an appearance and where granted, unless there is a further appearance, default may be entered. A nonresident plaintiff is not required to advise the defendant when the required bond has been given, and defendant is entitled to no further notice than that contained in the summons. Domer v. Stone, supra.

Right to notice: After an action is commenced and the defendant has appeared, the court has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver without notice to the defendant, except in case of emergency when the defendant has absconded and material injury will result to the plaintiff unless the order is made. Cummings v. Steele (1899) 6 I. 666, 59 P. 15.

A respondent is not entitled to notice of application by appellant for an extension of time within which to prepare and file a statement of the case. White v. Whitcomb (1907) 13 I. 490, 90 P. 1080, aff. 214 U. S. 15, 29 S. C. R. 599, 53 L. ed. 889.

This section does not modify or change the mandatory provisions of § 7153. The requirement that notice of appeal shall be served on the adverse party or his attorney is jurisdictional. Diamond Bk. v. Van Meter (1910) 18 I. 243, 108 P. 1042, 21 Ann Cas. 1273.

Where a defendant has been served by process, and within the time allowed for answer files a demurrer and thereafter withdraws the demurrer and is given five days in which to further plead, and fails to make any further appearance within the time granted, he is thereafter in default, the same as he would have been had he not appeared within the time originally allowed under the statute after the service of summons, and the clerk or court may properly enter his default, and he is not entitled to any notice of application or motion for default. Hall v. Whittier (1911) 20 I. 120, 116 P. 1031.

Service on attorneys: It is the proper practice to serve papers in an action upon the resident attorney. Beck v. Lavin (1908) 15 I. 363, 97 P. 1028.

Where a defendant files a cross complaint and all the parties to be affected thereby have appeared in the main action and are represented by counsel, it is a sufficient service of such cross complaint to serve the same upon the attorneys who have appeared for the respective parties affected thereby. Collins v. Brown (1911) 19 I. 360, 114 P. 671.)

Nonresident service: Service of motion to amend decree of divorce need not be personal upon party who has appeared in action and thereafter departed from and resides out of state. Keller v. Keller (1917) 30 I. 79, 162 P. 927.

§ 7205. [4895] Service by telegraph. Any summons, writ or order in any civil suit or proceeding, and all other papers requiring service may be transmitted by telegraph for service in any place, and the telegraphic copy of such writ or order, or paper so transmitted, may be served or executed by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose, and returned by him, if any return be requisite, in the same manner, and with the same force and effect in all respects as the original thereof might be if delivered to him, and the officer or person serving or executing the same has the same authority and is subject to the same liabilities as if the copy were the original. The original, when a writ or order, must also be filed in the court from which it was issued, and a certified copy thereof preserved in the telegraph office from which it was sent. In sending it either the original or the certified copy may be used by the operator for that purpose. Whenever any document to be sent by telegraph bears a seal, either private or official, it is not necessary for the operator, in sending the same, to telegraph a description of the seal, or any words or devices thereon, but the same may be expressed in the telegraphic copy by the letters "L. § 7218. [4912] Taxation of costs. The party in whose favor the judgment is rendered and who claims his costs, must, within five days after the verdict or notice of the decision of the court or referee, file with the clerk, and serve upon the adverse party or his attorney, a copy of a memorandum of the items of his costs and necessary disbursements in the action or proceeding, which memorandum must be verified by the oath of the party or his attorney or agent, or by the clerk of his attorney, stating that to the best of his knowledge and belief the items are correct and that the disbursements have been necessarily incurred in the action or proceeding.

A party dissatisfied with costs claimed may within five days after the service upon him of the copy of the memorandum, file and serve upon the adverse party or his attorney, a notice of a motion to have the same taxed by the court in which the judgment was rendered, or by the judge thereof at chambers. Decision defined: Decision of the court refers to a formal decision or findings of fact, conclusion of law and decree or judgment. Smith v. Faris-Kesl Const. Co. (1915) 27 I. 407, 150 P. 25.

Filing and service of cost bill: This provision is mandatory in its terms and unless a cost bill is filed within the required time such bill will be stricken from the files. Stickney v. Berry (1900) 7 I. 302, 62 P. 925.

A party who fails to file with the clerk a memorandum of costs within the time limited by this section waives his right thereto, whether they are clerk's or sheriff's fees or other costs, and, in the absence of such a memorandum the clerk has no power to include the costs in the judgment. Cantwell v. McPherson (1892) 3 I. 321, 29 P. 102.

Where the jury returns an advisory verdict in an equitable action the memorandum of costs may be filed within five days after the judge announces that he adopts the findings of the jury. Peters v. Leflang (1898) 6 I. 364, 55 P. 857.

While this section does not provide for giving notice to the opposite party of the filing of a cost bill, yet where no such notice is given the failure of the opposite party to file his motion to tax costs within three days after the filing of the cost bill does not deprive him of all remedy against an exorbitant cost bill, and he may apply for relief under § 6726 as in case of an order taken against him through surprise or excusable neglect. McDonald v. Burke (1892) 3 I. 266, 28 P. 440, 35 A. S. R. 276.

Where the plaintiff dismisses it is necessary for the defendant to file his cost bill within five days after a notice of the dismissal. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Trueman (1910) 18 I. 687, 694, 112 P. 210.

A failure to both serve and file the same within the time prescribed by the statute is fatal and costs can not be allowed where the statute is not complied with. Filing and service of cost bill is jurisdictional. It is the evident purpose of the statute to require the party claiming costs to furnish the adverse party with an itemized statement of the same so as to enable him to file his objections to any item therein contained or to the whole cost bill for any cause which may appear to be good grounds for disallowing the same. Steensland v. Hess (1913) 25 I. 181, 136 P. 1124.

Memorandum of costs and disbursements filed before making of formal decision is prematurely filed and will be stricken on motion. Smith v. Faris-Kesl. Const. Co., supra.

Contents of bill: A memorandum of costs should not only show the amount due each witness but should show the number of days that each attended court and the number of miles traveled by each. Stickney v. Berry, supra.

A motion to strike plaintiff's cost bill from the files, or failing in that, that the court tax the costs, on the ground that the sheriff's fees are excessive, and given in said bill in a lump sum, if denied by the court as to the first prayer should be granted as to the second, and the costs should be taxed and such legal costs allowed to plaintiff as he had necessarily incurred in the action and no more. Berry v. G. V. B. Mining Co. (1897) 5 I. 691, 51 P. 746.

Burden of proof: Where none of the items on the face of a cost bill appear to be illegal such bill with the affidavit verifying the same is sufficient to prevail against a motion to tax the costs, unsupported by any affidavit controverting the cost bill. Thiessen v. Riggs (1897) 5 I. 487, 51 P. 107; Elliott v. Collins (1898) 6 I. 157, 53 P. 453. But where a cost bill is contested none of the contested items should be allowed unless the court is satisfied from the evidence produced on the hearing that the contested items have been necessarily incurred. Griffith v. Montandon (1894) 4 I. 75, 35 P. 704.

Hearing and review: Where a motion to tax costs is heard upon evidence within the knowledge of the judge such evidence should be presented on the hearing. Griffith v. Montandon (1895) 4 I. 329, 39 P. 195.

The supreme court in reviewing an order taxing costs can only consider the evidence contained in the record, and can not consider facts dehors the record which it is claimed the trial judge took into consideration in making the order. Griffith v. Montandon (1894) 4 I. 75, 35 P. 704.

An order made by the trial court after judgment taxing costs is an order from which a separate appeal is allowed, and an appeal from the judgment does not present to the appellate court for review the action of the trial court in taxing costs. The memorandum of costs and the motion to retax are not properly a part of the record on appeal from the judgment. Keane v. Pittsburg L. M. Co. (1909) 17 I. 179, 195, 105 P. 60.

Items.

Briefs: Where the custom of the supreme court is to receive typewritten briefs in all original proceedings, it is not necessary to have a brief printed; hence the cost of a printed brief is not a necessary disbursement and can not be taxed as a part of the costs in the case. (Stewart, J. dissents) Cronan v. Dist. Ct. (1908) 15 I. 462, 98 P. 614.

Certified copies of records: The successful party is not entitled to recover for the fee paid the clerk of the district court for certifying certain papers that he desires to attach to his complaint or petition, at least until after opposing counsel has denied the correctness of such copies. Ib.

Elisor's fees: Where an elisor appointed by the court makes no charge for services performed by him, the fees to which the elisor would be entitled had he claimed them, can not be taxed as costs against the losing party. Griffith v. Montandon, supra.

Land office proceedings: This section refers only to such costs and disbursements as are occasioned in an action or proceeding in the courts of this state and does not contemplate costs occasioned by proceedings in the United States land office. Golden Marguerite Co. v. Nat. M. Co. (1915) 28 I. 290, 154 P. 207.

Stenographer's fees: In order to entitle a party to tax stenographer's fees as costs it must appear that such services were rendered by the court stenographer and incurred under the provisions of the statute in relation thereto. McDonald v. Burke, supra.

Survey in water adjudication: The expenses of a survey made under § 7032 are not properly included in the cost bill, but should be apportioned to the several parties. Farmers' etc. Ditch Co. v. Nampa & Meridian Irr. Dist. (1908) 14 I. 450, 94 P. 761.

Witness fees: The fees of expert witnesses in excess of the regular witness fees are not a necessary disbursement within this section and are not taxable as costs. McDonald v. Burke, supra.

The successful party can not charge in his cost bill more for the witnesses than they are entitled to under the statute providing for their compansation, nor can he tax costs for witnesses who do not testify (unless there is some legal excuse for their not testifying) nor for witnesses who make no charge for their fees. Griffith v. Montandon, supra.

Parties to an injunction suit are not entitled to tax as costs fees for witnesses produced by them on the hearing of an order to show cause or on an application for dissolution of the injunction, unless the witnesses are produced either by consent, and their testimony is taken in place of affidavits, or such witnesses are affiants in the affidavits and are produced for cross examination pursuant to notice, under § 6778. Raft River etc. Co. v. Langford (1898) 6 I. 30, 51 P. 1027.

The fact that witnesses who were subpoenaed by the prevailing party were not sworn and examined does not necessarily deprive the party of the right to tax costs for such witnesses, but in order to tax such costs, he must satisfactorily show the reasons for the attendance of such witnesses and the causes which made it unnecessary for them to testify. Betchel v. Evans (1904) 10 I. 147, 77 P. 212.

The prevailing party has a right to tax witness fees and mileage for a witness who attended from another county and traveled more than 30 miles to the place of trial, although such witness was not obliged to attend and his testimony could have been taken by deposition. Anderson v. Ferguson-Bach Sheep Co. (1906) 12 I. 418, 86 P. 41.

Costs may be taxed for witness fees and mileage of the wife of the prevailing party. Ib.

Mileage for the distance necessarily traveled by the witness within the state in attending the trial is taxable as costs, although the witness resided out of the state so that he could not be required to attend. S. v. Baird (1907) 13 I. 126, 89 P. 298.

Costs allowing witnesses five days' attendance when their entire testimony was given in one day upheld on ground that trial court was conversant with all the facts of the case. Zilka v. Graham (1914) 26 I. 163, 141 P. 639.

§ 7219. Same: Costs on appeal in supreme court. Whenever costs are awarded to a party by an appellate court, if he claims such costs he must tax the same before the clerk of the supreme court, subject to exception and review by the supreme court or the judges thereof, within such time and subject to such regulations as the supreme court shall by rule direct, and the same when taxed shall be certified by the clerk of the supreme court to the clerk of the court from which the appeal was taken, to be there entered as a judgment and to be enforced by execution as in the case of other judgments. Beloit (1911) 20 I. 592, 604, 119 P. 55.

§ 7221. [4915] Security for costs. When the plaintiff in an action resides out of the state, or is a foreign corporation, security for the costs and charges which may be awarded against such plaintiff may be required by the defendant. When required, all proceedings in the action must be stayed until an undertaking, executed by two or more persons, is filed with the clerk to the effect that they will pay such costs and charges as may be awarded against the plaintiff by the judgment, or in the progress of the action, not exceeding the sum of $300. A new or an additional undertaking may be ordered by the court or judge upon proof that the original undertaking is insufficient security, and proceedings in the action stayed until such new or additional undertaking is executed and filed. Leonard v. Brady (1915) 27 I. 78, 147 P. 284.

§ 7226. [4924] Papers with defective titles. An affidavit, notice or other paper, without the title of the action or proceeding in which it is made, or with a defective title, is as valid and effectual for any purpose as if duly entitled, if it intelligibly refers to such action or proceeding. Defective title: The fact that a party in interest in a matter pending before the board of county commissioners is not named in the title of the notice of appeal to the district court, nor in the other papers, nor in the judgment of the district court, does not divest him of his interest and consequent right to sue out a writ of error to review the judgment. Nature of action: The action provided for in this section is an action at law and triable in the ordinary course of law and by jury unless waived. Ada Co. v. Bullen Bridge Co. (1896) 5 I. 79, 47 P. 818.

This section provides a remedy which is adequate, certain and complete. It may be invoked in behalf of a county and protects a county from any mistake of holders of due and payable warrants in bringing suit upon such warrants and any legal defense which the county has against the payment of such warrants may be interposed. Ada Co. v. Bullen Bridge Co. (1897) 5 I. 188, 47 P. 824.

An action brought to prevent a board of county commissioners from changing nonnegotiable instruments, whose validity is questioned, into negotiable instruments, does not come under the provisions of this section, as the relief is purely equitable and there is no remedy at law to prevent such act. Dunbar v. Board of Comrs. (1897) 5 I. 407, 49 P. 409.

In an action under this section the plaintiff must prove the allegations of his complaint and has the right to open and close the case, as the action is not one to require the defendant to bring suit upon his pretended claim or obligation, but is purely a statutory action in which the adverse claim may be adjudicated and determined. Harrison v. Russell & Co. (1909) 17 I. 196, 105 P. 48.

[4933] Actions against sheriffs: Notice to indemnitors. If an action is brought against a sheriff for an act done by virtue of his office, and he gives written notice thereof to the sureties on any bond of indemnity received by him, the judgment recovered therein is conclusive evidence of his right to recover against such sureties; and the court, or judge in vacation, may, on motion, upon notice of five days, order judgment to be entered up against them for the amount so recovered, including costs. Such undertaking may be in form as follows:

(Title of court. Title of cause.)

Whereas, the.....desires to give an undertaking for (state what).....; now, therefore, we the undersigned sureties, do hereby obligate ourselves jointly and severally, to (name who).....under said statutory obligations in the sum of.....dollars.

Sufficiency of undertaking: An undertaking on attachment which recites that the "plff." desires to give the undertaking and obligating the sureties to the "deft." is sufficient. Finney v. Moore (1903) 9 I. 284, 74 P. 866.

Where an appeal is taken both from a decree and an order denying motion to reopen decree, and both are specifically referred to in the undertaking on appeal, in the form into which the statute imports every condition required by law, and the amount of penalty is sufficient for both appeals, the legal effect is to comprise two bonds in one instrument, and it must be so construed. Est of Blackinton, supra.

§ 7237. [4934] Justification of sureties. In all cases where an undertaking, with sureties, is required by the provisions of this code, the officer taking the same must require the sureties to accompany it with an affidavit that they are each residents and householders or freeholders within the state, and each are worth the sum specified in the undertaking, over and above all their just debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution; but when the amount specified in the undertaking exceeds $2000, and there are more than two sureties thereon, they may state in their affidavits that they are severally worth amounts less than that expressed in the undertaking, if the whole amount be equivalent to that of two sufficient sureties. § 7243. [4962] When granted. A writ of review may be granted by any court except a probate or justice's court, when an inferior tribunal, board or officer exercising judicial functions, has exceeded the jurisdiction of such tribunal, board or officer, and there is no appeal, nor, in the judgment of the court, any plain, speedy and adequate remedy. When issued: In order that a writ of certiorari may be granted under this section it must appear: 1. That the lower court exceeded its jurisdiction; 2. That there was no appeal; 3. That there was no other plain, speedy or adequate remedy. People v. Lindsay (1871) 1 I. 394; Dahlstrom v. Portland Min. Co. (1906) 12 I. 87, 85 P. 916.

Writ will only issue where officer or board has exceeded jurisdiction, not for erroneous action. First Nat. Bk. v. Washington Co. (1909) 17 I. 306, 105 P. 1053.

The writ will lie: To review an order appointing a receiver, Sweeny v. Mayhew (1899) 6 I. 455, 56 P. 85; Cummings v. When not issued: The writ will not issue: To review a judgment while the case is still pending on motion for a new trial. People v. Lindsay (1871) 1 I. 394; to review an order denying a change of venue in disbarment proceedings, S. v. Goode (1896) 4 I. 730, 44 P. 640; to review a ministerial act on the part of the city council, such as the letting of a paving contract, Adelman v. Pierce (1898) 6 I. 294, 55 P. 658; to review an order made after judgment, from which an appeal will lie, Porter v. Steele (1900) 7 I. 414, 63 P. 187; Dahlstrom v. Portland Min. Co. (1906) 12 I. 87, 85 P. 916; to review illegal acts of the board of county commissioners from which an appeal will lie, Rogers v. Hays (1893) 3 I. 597, 32 P. 259; Bobbitt v. Blake (1913) 25 I. 53, 136 P. 211; to review decision of district judge appointing commissioners in eminent domain proceedings unless he has exceeded his jurisdiction, Coeur d'Alene M. Co. v. Woods (1908) 15 I. 26, 96 P. 210; to review a judgment of conviction in police court appeal from which is pending, S. v. Hosford (1915) 27 I. 185, 147 P. 286; to review exercise of discretion or judgment in performance of official duties by state elective officers, Northwest L. & W. Co. v. Alexander (1916) 29 I. 557, 160 P. 1106.

An allegation in a petition for writ of certiorari that if an appeal be taken the expense will be heavy and disproportionate to the amount the plaintiff will recover, is not a reason why the appeal will not be a plain, speedy and adequate remedy, and does not warrant this court in reviewing the judgment by writ of certiorari. Canadian Bk. of Commerce v. Wood (1907) 13 I. 794, 93 P. 257.

An order made by a district court within the jurisdiction of such court and after having acquired jurisdiction of the person and subject matter, however erroneous it may have been, is not an excess of jurisdiction that can be corrected by writ of review. Utah Assn. of Credit Men. v. Budge (1909) 16 I. 751, 102 P. 691; Shumake v. Shumake (1910) 17 I. 649, 658, 107 P. 42.

The state board of canvassers in canvassing election returns sent up by the boards of canvassers of the several counties and computing the total vote received by each candidate and certifying to the secretary of state the names of the persons who received the majority or plurality, as the case may be, of all votes cast for each respective office, is discharging a ministerial duty rather than a judicial function. Mathematical computation and calculation does not constitute the exercise of judicial functions. Lansdon v. S. Bd. of Canvassers (1910) 18 I. 596, 111 P. 133.

The supreme court is without power under the constitution to issue the writ mentioned in § 2504 for the purpose of having the lawfulness of an original order or decision of the public utilities commission inquired into and determined. Neil v. Public Utilities Commission, 32 I. —, 178 P. 271. (Budge, J. dissents.)

The constitutional writ is not available when there is a plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law. Ib.

Distinguished from prohibition: If a court undertakes to proceed in a matter without or in excess of its jurisdiction, the remedy of one who is affected by such contemplated action is by writ of prohibition, not by writ of review. Gunderson v. Dist. Ct. (1908) 14 I. 478, 94 P. 166.

§ 7244. [4963] Application and order to show cause. The application must be made on affidavit by the party beneficially interested, and the court may require a notice of the application to be given to the adverse party, or may grant an order to show cause why it should not be allowed, or may grant the writ without notice. Who entitled to writ: One who is not a party to a cause has no right to ask for a writ of review as to any matters occurring in said cause. Gold Hunter Min. etc. Co. v. Holleman (1891) 3 I. 99, 27 P. 413; Washington Co. Abstract Co. v. Stewart (1904) 9 I. 376, 74 P. 955.

An insolvent debtor is "beneficially interested" in the review of an order requiring him to account for certain property in such sense as to be entitled to a writ of review. Madison v. Piper (1898) 6 I. 137, 53 P. 395.

§ 7245. [4964] Writ: How directed. The writ may be directed to the inferior tribunal, board or officer, or to any other person having the custody of the record or proceedings to be certified. Scope of review: The writ of review is not a remedy for correcting errors and mistakes of judgment, nor for the purpose of reviewing the facts upon which the inferior tribunal, board or officer acted, but its province is limited entirely to a review of questions of law, confined to the specific question as to whether or not the action complained of was beyond and in excess of the jurisdiction conferred on the tribunal, board or officer. McConnell v. Board etc. (1905) 11 I. 652, 83 P. 494.

On certiorari to review an order appointing a receiver, the court may review the evidence introduced in the district court, so far as is necessary to determine whether the jurisdictional facts authorizing such appointment were or were not proved. Sweeny v. Mayhew (1899) 6 I. 455, 56 P. 85.

On certiorari to review an order of the board of equalization raising an assessment, the only question which can be considered is the jurisdiction of the board; mere irregularities will not be reviewed. Murphy v. Board of Equalization (1899) 6 I. 745, 59 P. 715.

On certiorari this statute limits the inquiry of the appelate court to the question of the jurisdiction of the judge to make the order complained of. Coeur d'Alene M. Co. v. Woods (1908) 15 I. 26, 96 P. 210.

Writ does not lie to review facts, except in so far as the facts are essential to determine the jurisdictional question. First Nat. Bk. of Weiser v. Washington Co. (1909) 17 I. 306, 105 P. 1053; Lansdon v. S. Bd. of Canvassers (1910) 18 I. 596, 111 P. 133.

Where state elective officers are invested with certain discretion, involving the exercise of judgment in the performance of their official duties, no court has the right by writ of certiorari to interpose its judgment or influence their action. Northwest L. & W. Co. v. Alexander (1916) 29 I. 557, 160 P. 1106.

In proceedings upon writ of review, the constitutionality of the statute upon which the inferior tribunal, the action of which is reviewed, based its authority can not be passed upon. Weiser Nat. Bk. v. Washington Co. (1917) 30 I. 332, 164 P. 1014.

When discharged: Where the writ of review is asked upon the ground that the judge of the district court had exceeded his jurisdiction in hearing and determining the cause at chambers, and the return, which contains a copy of the court record, shows that the cause was heard and determined by the court at a regular term thereof, the writ will be discharged. Porter v. Steele (1900) 7 I. 414, 63 P. 187.

§ 7250. [4969] Defective return: Hearing. If the return of the writ be defective the court may order a further return to be made. When a full return has been made, the court must hear the parties, or such of them as may attend for that purpose, and may thereupon give judgment, either affirming, or annulling, or modifying the proceedings below. or office to which he is entitled, and from which he is unlawfully precluded by such inferior tribunal, corporation, board or person. [R. S. § 4977.]

Conclusiveness of judgment: A judgment in a mandamus action is as conclusive as a judgment in any other, and operates as an estoppel against further investigation in another action between the same parties of any facts necessarily in issue or which were pleaded and decided therein. Lawrence v. Corbeille, 32 I. —, 178, P. 834.

Prerequisite to issuance: Before a writ of mandate will issue commanding certain acts to be done there must be a demand and a refusal. Pfirman v. Success M. Co. (1917) 30 I. 468, 166 P. 216.

Scope of writ: The writ of mandate can not be used to correct errors of the district court or inferior tribunal, in passing upon questions regularly submitted to it in the course of a judicial proceeding or to control the exercise of its discretion. (Sullivan, C. J., dissents.) Bd. of Comrs. v. Mayhew (1897) 5 I. 572, 51 P. 411.

A writ of mandate will not issue where the officer against whom the same is prayed for has performed the acts sought to be compelled before the issuance of the writ. Chemung Min. Co. v. Morgan (1905) 11 I. 232, 81 P. 384.

On application for a writ of mandate to compel the district court to comply with an order of the supreme court, the latter court will construe its own order in connection with its opinion and if it finds that the district court has erred or acted beyond its power in construing such order or opinion the error will be corrected by issuance of the writ. Am. Hydraulic Placer Co. v. Rich (1902) 8 I. 570, 69 P. 280.

The writ of mandate can be used to compel a court to act in a matter where the law enjoins a duty but not to control its discretion or direct its decision. Connolly v. Woods (1907) 13 I. 591, 92 P. 573; Blackwell L. Co. v. Flynn (1915) 27 I. 632, 150 P. 42; St. Michael's Monastery v. Steele (1917) 30 I. 609, 107 P. 349.

Where a statute or city ordinance vests in a city official discretion in the performance of a duty, and no provision is made for reviewing such action, the determination of such matter by such official is final, and can not be controlled by mandamus. Darby v. Pence (1910) 17 I. 697, 107 P. 484, 27 L. R. A. (N. S. 1194.) A citizen has a right to a writ of mandate to compel public officers to perform a statutory public duty, even though he may have a right of action against a private individual which would redress the private injury to himself. Beem v. Davis, 31 I. 730, 175 P. 959.

To whom issued: In an action for a writ of mandate to compel the enforcement of a village ordinance, members of the board of trustees of the village and the chairman thereof are the officers to whom the writ should be directed. Ib.

When issued: Mandamus will issue: To require a water company to deliver water after the court has fixed the reasonable compensation which must be paid for the use of the water, Wilterding v. Green (1896) 4 I. 773, 45 P. 134; to compel the mayor of a city to sign warrants allowed and ordered by the council, Rice v. Gwin (1897) 5 I. 394, 49 P. 412; to compel the board of examiners to pass upon a claim, Pyke v. Steunenberg (1897) 5 I. 614, 51 P. 614; to compel an administrator to execute a conveyance pursuant to an order of the court confirming a sale, State v. Cunningham (1898) 6 I. 113, 53 P. 451; to compel the secretary of state to file and certify a proper political nominating ticket, Williams v. Lewis (1898) 6 I. 184, 54 P. 619; to require the district court to proceed with a criminal case triable in such court, Hays v. Stewart (1900) 7 I. 193, 61 P. 591; to compel a county auditor to file a ticket duly nominated by a legal county convention, Addle v. Davenport (1900) 7 I. 282, 62 P. 681; to compel a court to consider a cause after it has erroneously determined that it has no jurisdiction, Hill v. Morgan (1904) 9 I. 718, 76 P. 323; to require a trial court to try a cause in accordance with a prior opinion of the supreme court after the trial court has nonsuited the plaintiff in disregard of such opinion, Kroetch v. Morgan (1904) 10 I. 172, 77 P. 19; to compel the clerk of the district court to enter judgment, Oliver v. Kootenai Co. (1907) 13 I. 281, 90 P. 107; to compel the clerk of the district court to file an information presented by the prosecuting attorney, S. v. Quarles (1907) 13 I. 252, 89 P. 636; against public service water company to regulate charges and rates, Hatch v. Consumers Co. (1909) 17 I. 204, 210, 104 P. 670, 40 L. R. A. (N. S.) 263, 224, U. To compel public officers to perform their official duties, though the details of such performance are left to their discretion. Beam v. Davis, supra.

To compel the state board of land commissioners to allow an entry on a Carey Act land segregation, by a person possessing the statutory qualifications and who has complied with the statutory conditions precedent. Furbee v. Alexander, 31 I. 738, 176 P. 97.

When not issued: Mandamus will not lie: To compel county commissioners to act on a claim against the county, Wright v. Kelley (1895) 4 I. 624, 43 P. 565; to compel a county auditor to draw his warrant for a claim prior to the allowance thereof by the board of commissioners, Jolly v. Woodward (1895) 4 I. 496, 42 P. 512; to compel the state board of examiners to allow a claim (Sullivan, J. dissents). Pyke v. Steunenberg (1897) 5 I. 614, 51 P. 614; to compel the issuance of an order to show cause why a decedent's real estate should not be sold to pay debts, S. v. (1901) 8 I. 175, 67 P. 318; to require a trial judge to proceed with a term of court in one county where it is shown that a regular term for another county convenes immediately after the date set for the hearing of the application for the writ. (Sullivan, J. dissents.) Heitman v. Morgan (1905) 10 I. 562, 79 P. 225; to correct or alter the records of the legislature, Clough v. Curtis and Burkhart v. Reed (1890) 134 U. (1913) 24 I. 106, 115, 132 P. 975; to litigate or determine a permanent or perpetual water right, Lewis v. Mountain Home Coop. Irr. Co. (1916) 28 I. 682, 156 P. 419; to compel the holding of an election (Budge, J., dissents.) Perrault v. Robinson (1916) 29 I. 267, 158 P. 1074; to punish for contempt officer using his best and honest judgment. Potlatch L. Co. v. Comrs. Latah Co. (1916) 29 I. 516, 160 P. 260; to compel an officer to perform his duties generally. It must be directed to a specific act or actions. Evans v. Van Deusen, 31 I. 614, 174 P. 122.

§ 7255. [4978] Absence of adequate remedy. The writ must be issued in all cases where there is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. It must be issued upon affidavit, on the application of the party beneficially interested. [R. S. § 4978.]

Adequacy of remedy: The remedy which a claimant whose claim is disallowed, or not acted upon, by the board of examiners, has, of petitioning some future legislature for the payment of his claim is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy at law within the meaning of this section such as to preclude him from proceeding against the board by writ of mandate. (Dis. op.) Pyke v. Steunenberg (1897) 5 I. 614, 51 P. 614.

Where an appeal is given by law and such appeal is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the due course of law, a resort may be had to mandamus. Fenton v. Comrs. of Ada Co. (1911) 20 I. 392, 119 P. 41.

While the court calendar may be congested, the court can not take into consideration the annoyance, expense or delay incident to the prosecution of the usual remedies provided by law in determining whether or not a writ of mandamus or prohibition should issue. Blackwell L. Co. v. Flynn (1915) 27 I. 632, 150 P. 42.

The court, in a case that does not involve the private rights of litigants, can not be required to determine whether or not particular bodies of persons constituted a lawful legislative assembly. Clough v. Curtis and Burkhart v. Reed (1890) 134 U. S. 361, 33 L. ed. 945, 10 S. Ct. 573, aff. 2 I. 503 and 523.

The existence of an adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law, either legal or equitable in its nature, will prevent the issuance of the writ. Beem v. Davis, 31 I. 730, 175 P. 959.

Mandamus will not lie as a remedy for a state of facts coming within the purview of sec. 7182 in regard to appeals from justices' courts, since that section provides a summary remedy which is plain and speedy. Hanson v. Weniger, 31 I. 540, 173 P. 1085.

§ 7256. [4979] Form of writ. The writ may be either alternative or peremptory. The alternative writ must state generally the allegation against the party to whom it is directed, and command such party immediately after the receipt of the writ, or at some other specified time, to do the act required to be performed, or to show cause before the court at a specified time and place why he has not done so. The peremptory writ must be in a similar form except that the words requiring the party to show cause why he has not done as commanded must be omitted, and a return day inserted. [R. S. § 4979.]

ARTICLE 3.

WRITS OF PROHIBITION.

§ 7267. [4994] Definition. The writ of prohibition is the counterpart of the writ of mandate. It arrests the proceedings of any tribunal, corporation, board or person, when such proceedings are without or in excess of the jurisdiction of such tribunal, corporation, board or person. [R. S. § 4994.]

Hist. (See C. C. P. '81, § 751) R. S. § 4994, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, § 1102; similar as amended: Kerr's C. ib. Perrault v. Robinson (1916) 29 I. 267, 289, 158 P. 1074 (Dis. op.)

N. D. Similar: C. C. P. § 8470.

Cited: Bragaw v. Gooding (1908) 14 I. 288, 94 P. 438; Gunderson v. Dist. Ct. (1908) 14 I. 478, 94 P. 166; Little v. Broxon (1918) 31 I. 303, 170 P. 918.

Nature of writ: The writ of prohibition is an extraordinary remedy, which is sometimes granted, not as a matter of right, but in the sound discretion of the court, to restrain an inferior tribunal from exceeding its jurisdiction, and where an inferior court has jurisdiction expressly conferred upon it by statute, the supreme court will not presume in advance that such court will exceed its jurisdiction; being an extraordinary writ it will not issue in doubtful cases, nor in any case where a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law exists. And where it appears that the act sought to be prohibited may speedily be reviewed in the supreme court by appeal from the order of the inferior tribunal, or if an appeal will not lie then upon a writ of error or certiorari, the writ of prohibition will not issue. Rust v. Stewart (1901) 7 I. 558, 64 P. 222.

This section must be construed with § 7268, and when so construed it is clear that two contingencies must arise before a writ of prohibition will issue, namely, that the tribunal, corporation, board or person is proceeding without or in excess of the jurisdiction of such tribunal, corporation, board or person, and that there is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. Olden v. Paxton (1915) 27 I. 597, 150 P. 40.

When issued: A writ of prohibition will lie to restrain illegal action of a ministerial officer, such as the action of the secretary of state in certifying to county auditors a political nominating ticket which is not entitled to be certified. (Overruled, Stein v. Morrison, post.) Williams v. Lewis (1898) 6 I. 184, 54 P. 619.

The writ will issue against the state board of land commissioners, as such, even though the governor is a member of the board. Balderston v. Brady (1910) 17 I. 567, 575, 107 P. 493.

The writ of prohibition lies to restrain county commissioners from proceeding in cases without or in excess of their jurisdiction. Baker v. Gooding Co. (1914) 25 I. 506, 138 P. 342.

The writ will issue to prohibit the holding of an illegal, unauthorized, invalid election. (Budge, J. dissents) Perrault v. Robinson (1916) 29 I. 267, 158 P. 1074.

When not issued: Prohibition will not lie to restrain the district court from proceeding to try a cross complaint, a demurrer to which has been overruled. Willman v. Dist. Ct. (1894) 4 I. 11, 35 P. 692. The writ will not issue to restrain an act which has been performed. Bellevue Water Co. v. Stockslager (1895) 4 I. 636, 43 P. 568.

The supreme court will hesitate to issue a writ of prohibition to prevent further proceedings before the district court, unless it is claimed that that court is acting outside of its jurisdiction and there is no reasonable doubt of the fact. Re Miller (1896) 4 I. 714, 43 P. 870.

The writ of prohibition authorized by the constitution is the common law writ and the same will not issue to restrain purely ministerial acts. (Williams v. Lewis, 6 I. 184, 54 P. 619, overruled) Stein v. Morrison (1904) 9 I. 426, 75 P. 246.

Writ will not issue to restrain district court from hearing an appeal from probate court in probate matters. Fraser v. Davis (1916) 29 I. 70, 156 P. 913.

The legitimate scope and purpose of the writ of prohibition is to restrict inferior courts within the limits of their own jurisdiction, and it can not be extended to officers, boards or tribunals whose functions are not judicial. (Dis. op. by Budge, J.) Perrault v. Robinson, supra.

Writ will not issue to restrain district court from appointing a receiver in foreclosing a chattel mortgage. Only question is whether district court is acting within jurisdiction. Skéen v. Dist. Ct. (1916) 29 I. 331, 158 P. 1072.

§ 7268. [4995] When and how issued. It may be issued by any court except probate or justice's courts, to an inferior tribunal, or to a corporation, board or person in all cases where there is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. It is issued upon affidavit on the application of the person beneficially interested. [R. S. § 4995.]

Who may apply: The same degree of strictness in regard to parties is not maintained in prohibition as in mandate. A writ of prohibition may be issued on the application of any person shown to be interested in the litigation. He need not necessarily be named as a party in the original action. He may make himself a party by showing that he has an interest in the controversy and by moving to set aside a judgment or order made without or in excess of jurisdiction. Cronan v. Dist. Ct. (1908) 15 I. 184, 96 P. 768.

Adequacy of remedy: The adequacy of a remedy is not to be tested by the convenience or inconvenience of the parties to a particular case. Willman v. Dist. Ct. (1894) 4 I. 11, 35 P. 692.

The writ of prohibition will issue whenever proper facts are shown for its issuance, even though there be an appeal, if such appeal is not a plain, speedy and adequate remedy in the ordinary course of law. Cronan v. Dist. Ct., supra.

Absence of interest: The writ of prohibition will not issue to restrain a judge from holding court at a certain place, on the ground that the act purporting to create the county of which such place is the county seat is unconstitutional, where the petitioner has no interest in the question of the constitutionality of such act, but his interest depends on his being a litigant in a case pending in the court of such judge, and no reason is apparent from the petition why the case in which he is interested can not as well be tried at the place in question as at any other place. Bellevue Water Co. v. Stockslager (1895) 4 I. 636, 43 P. 568.

§ 7269. [4996] Alternative and peremptory writs. The writs must be either alternative or peremptory. The alternative writ must state generally the allegation against the party to whom it is directed, and command such party to desist or refrain from further proceedings in the action or matter specified therein until the further order of the court from which it is issued, and to show cause before such court, at a specified time and place, why such party should not be absolutely restrained from any further proceedings in such action or matter. The peremptory writ must be in a similar form, except that the words requiring the party to show cause why he should not be absolutely restrained, etc., must be omitted and a return day inserted. [R. CONTESTING CERTAIN ELECTIONS.

Cross ref. Jurisdiction and proceedings in contest of state, executive and legislative offices: §§ 80-98.

Nature of contest proceedings: An election contest is of purely statutory origin, and is within the direction, control and management of the political power of the state, and the manner of conducting such a contest and of determining the questions arising thereunder is within the authority and control of the political power of the state government as distinguished from the judicial power and authority thereof. Toncray v. Budge (1908) 14 I. 621, 95 P. 26.

§ 7274. [5026] Grounds of contest. The election of any person to any public office, the location or relocation of a county seat, or any proposition submitted to a vote of the people may be contested:

1. For malconduct, fraud, or corruption on the part of the judges of election in any precinct, township or ward, or of any board of canvassers, or any member of either board sufficient to change the result.
2. When the incumbent was not eligible to the office at the time of the election.
3. When the incumbent has been convicted of felony, unless at the time of the election he shall have been restored to civil rights.
4. When the incumbent has given or offered to any elector, or any judge, clerk or canvasser of the election, any bribe or reward in money, property or anything of value for the purpose of procuring his election.
5. When illegal votes have been received or legal votes rejected at the polls sufficient to change the result.
6. For any error in any board of canvassers in counting votes or in declaring the result of the election, if the error would change the result.
7. When the incumbent is in default as a collector and custodian of public money or property.
8. For any cause which shows that another person was legally elected. ['90-91, p. 57, § 132.]

What may be contested: Directors of an irrigation district are public officers whose election may be contested under this section. Hertle v. Ball (1903) 9 I. 193, 72 P. 953.

Sufficiency of complaint: A complaint in an election contest which charges a number of omissions by the judges in permitting certain things to be done, but fails to charge that such acts were done with the knowledge or consent of the judges, is insufficient. Ball v. Campbell (1899) 6 I. 754, 59 P. 559.

CHAPTER 266.

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS.

ARTICLE 1.

CONFESSION OF JUDGMENT WITHOUT ACTION.

§ 7301. [5060] Judgment by confession. A judgment by confession may be entered without action, either for money due or to become due, or to secure any person against contingent liability on behalf of the defendant, or both, in the manner prescribed by this chapter. Such judgment may be entered in any court having jurisdiction for like amounts. [R. S. § 5060.]

Judgment upon stipulation: The general rule, that where judgment is entered upon the agreement and consent of parties appeal will not lie, does not apply to a case where such agreement and judgment is in contravention of the positive provisions of a statute. Ocobock v. Nixon (1899) 6 I. 552, 57 P. 309.

§ 7302. [5061] Statement to be filed. A statement in writing must be made, signed by the defendant and verified by his oath, to the following effect:

1. It must authorize the entry of judgment for a specified sum.
2. If it be for money due or to become due, it must state concisely the facts out of which it arose, and show that the sum confessed therefor is justly due or to become due.
3. If it be for the purpose of securing the plaintiff against a contingent liability, it must state concisely the facts constituting the liability, and show that the sum confessed therefor does not exceed the same. [R. S. § 5061.]

Definition: A judgment entered pro forma by consent of the defendant, reserving the right of appeal, given in writing by his attorney, is not a judgment by confession within the meaning of this section. Harvey v. Bunker Hill etc. Co. (1890) 2 I. 765, 24 P. 30.

§ 7303. [5062] Entry of judgment. The statement must be filed with the clerk of the court in which the judgment is to be entered, who must indorse upon it and enter in the judgment book, a judgment of such court for the amount confessed, with $5 costs. The statement and affidavit with the judgment indorsed thereupon becomes the judgment roll. [R. S. § 5062.]

§ 7304. [5063] Same: In probate or justice's court. In a probate or justice's court, where the court has the authority to enter the judgment, the statement may be filed with the court or justice, who must thereupon enter in his docket a judgment of his court for the amount confessed with $3 costs. If a transcript of such statement be filed with the clerk of the district court, a copy of the statement must be filed with it. [R. S. § 5063.]

SUBMITTING A CONTROVERSY WITHOUT ACTION.

§ 7305. [5068] Mode of submission. Parties to a question in difference which might be the subject of a civil action, may, without action, agree upon a case containing the facts upon which the controversy depends, and present a submission of the same to any court which would have jurisdiction if an action had been brought; but it must appear, by affidavit, that the controversy is real and the proceedings in good faith, to determine the rights of the parties. The court must thereupon hear and determine the case and render judgment thereon, as if an action were pending. [R. S. § 5068.]

Application of statute: This statute only applies to a controversy that is real, and is brought in good faith to determine the rights of the party; until the rights of the party have been settled by a judgment of the district court the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court can not be invoked. Potter v. Talkington (1897) 5 I. 317, 49 P. 14.

Bringing in strangers: An order by which a stranger to a suit is made a party to an agreed case without his consent is void. Potter v. Talkington (1899) 6 I. 649, 59 P. 362.

§ 7306. [5069] Entry of judgment. Judgment must be entered in the judgment book as in other cases, but without costs for any proceeding prior to the trial. The case, the submission and a copy of the judgment constitute the judgment roll. [R. S. § 5069.]

SUMMARY PROCEEDINGS FOR OBTAINING POSSESSION OF REAL PROPERTY.

§ 7320. [5091] Forcible entry defined. Every person is guilty of a forcible entry who either:

1. By breaking open doors, windows or other parts of a house, or by any kind of violence or circumstances of terror, enters upon or into any real property; or,

2. Who, after entering peaceably upon real property, turns out, by force, threats or menacing conduct, the party in possession. [R. S. § 5091.]

§ 7321. [5092] Forcible detainer defined. Every person is guilty of a forcible detainer who either:

1. By force, or by menaces and threats of violence, unlawfully holds and keeps possession of any real property, whether the same was acquired peacefully or otherwise; or,

2. Who, in the night time, or during the absence of the occupant of any lands, unlawfully enters upon real property, and who, after demand made for the surrender thereof, for the period of five days, refuses to surrender the same to such former occupant. The occupant of real property, within the meaning of this subdivision, is one who, within five days preceding such unlawful entry, was in the peaceable and undisturbed possession of such lands. [R. S. § 5092.]

§ 7322. [5093] Unlawful detainer defined. A tenant of real property, for a term less than life, is guilty of an unlawful detainer:

1. When he continues in possession, in person or by subtenant, of the property, or any part thereof, after the expiration of the term for which it is let to him, without the permission of his landlord, or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be; but in case of a tenancy at will, it must first be terminated by notice, as prescribed in the Civil Code.

2. Where he continues in possession, in person or by subtenant, without permission of his landlord, or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be, after default in the payment of rent, pursuant to the lease or agreement under which the property is held, and three days' notice, in writing, requiring its payment, stating the amount which is due, or possession of the property, shall have been served upon him, and if there be a subtenant in actual occupation of the premises, also upon such subtenant. Such notice may be served at any time within one year after the rent becomes due. In all cases of tenancy upon agricultural lands, where the tenant has held over and retained possession for more than 60 days after the expiration of his term without any demand of possession or notice to quit by the landlord, or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be, he shall be deemed to be holding by permission of the landlord, or the successor in estate of his landlord, if any there be, and shall be entitled to hold under the terms of the lease for another full year, and shall not be guilty of an unlawful detainer during said year, and such holding over for the period aforesaid shall be taken and construed as a consent on the part of a tenant to hold for another year.

3. Where he continues in possession in person, or by subtenants, after a neglect or failure to perform other conditions or covenants of the lease or agreement under which the property is held, including any covenant not to assign or sublet, than the one for payment of rent, and three days' notice, in writing, requiring the performance of such conditions or covenants, or the possession of the property, shall have been served upon him, and if there be a subtenant in actual occupation of the premises, also upon such subtenant. Within three days after the service of the notice, the tenant, or any subtenant in actual occupation of the premises, or any mortgagee of the term, or other person interested in its continuance, may perform the conditions or covenants of the lease, or pay the stipulated rent, as the case may be, and thereby save the lease from forfeiture: Provided, If the covenants and conditions of the lease, violated by the lessee, can not afterward be performed, then no notice, as last prescribed herein, need be given to said lessee or his subtenant demanding the performance of the violated covenant or conditions of the lease. A tenant may take proceedings similar to those prescribed in this chapter, to obtain possession of premises let to an undertenant, in case of his unlawful detention of the premises underlet to him.

4. A tenant or subtenant, assigning or subletting, or committing waste upon, the demised premises contrary to the covenants of his lease, thereby terminates the lease, and the landlord, or his successor in estate, shall, upon service of three days' notice to quit upon the person or persons in possession, be entitled to restitution of possession of such demised premises under the provisions of this chapter. Right to serve notice: The fact that a lease reserves to the landlord an option to terminate the same upon service of a 30-day notice after breach of covenant by the tenant does not preclude the landlord from resorting to the remedy prescribed by this section in case the tenant fails to pay rent when due. Hunter v. Porter (1904) 10 I. 72, 77 P. 434.

Sufficiency of notice: A notice directed to a tenant signed by his landlord requiring the tenant to pay rent in the sum specified for a certain term or to deliver up possession of the .premises, .describing them, and stating that the landlord will institute legal proceedings to recover possession with treble rent in case of noncompliance with the notice, is sufficient under this section. Ib.

Effect of notice: The service of notice under this section together with the commencement of action for unlawful detainer, based on the tenant's failure to pay rent when due, does not primarily terminate or forfeit the lease, but the payment of rent due, together with interest, damages and costs at any time within five days after judgment, as provided, in § 7335, keeps the lease alive and saves it from forfeiture. Ib.

§ 7323. [5094] Same: Service of notice. The notices required by the preceding section may be served either:

1. By delivering a copy to the tenant personally; or,

2. If he be absent from his place of residence and from his usual place of business, by leaving a copy with some person of suitable age and discretion at either place, and sending a copy through the mail addressed to the tenant at his place of residence; or, if such place of residence and business can not be ascertained, or a person of suitable age or discretion can not be found there, then by affixing a copy in a conspicuous place on the property, and also delivering a copy to a person there residing, if such person can be found; and also sending a copy through the mail addressed to the tenant at the place where the property is situated. Service upon a subtenant may be made in the same manner. [R. S. § 5094.]

Any person who shall become a subtenant of the premises or any part thereof after the service of notice as provided in this chapter shall be bound by the judgment. In case a married woman be a tenant or a subtenant, her coverture shall constitute no defense; but in case her husband be not joined, or unless she be doing business as a sole trader, an execution issued upon a personal judgment against her can only be enforced against property on the premises at the commencement of the action. § 7332. [5103] Trial by jury. Whenever an issue of fact is presented by the pleadings it must be tried by a jury, unless such jury be waived as in other cases. The jury shall be formed in the same manner as other trial juries in the court in which the action is pending. [R. S. § 5103.]

The defendant may show in his defense that he or his ancestors, or those whose interest in such premises he claims, have been in the quiet possession thereof for the space of one whole year together next before the commencement of the proceedings, and that his interest therein is not then ended or determined; and such showing is a bar to the proceedings. Such amendment must be without any imposition of terms. No continuance shall be permitted upon account of such amendment unless the defendant, by affidavit filed, shows to the satisfaction of the court good cause therefor. [R. S. § 5105.]

The jury, or the court, if the proceeding be tried without a jury, shall also assess the damages occasioned to the plaintiff by any forcible entry, or by any forcible or unlawful detainer, alleged in the complaint and proved on the trial, and find the amount of any rent due, if the alleged unlawful detainer be after default in the payment of rent, and the judgment shall be rendered against the defendant guilty of the forcible entry, or forcible or unlawful detainer, for three times the amount of the damages thus assessed, and of the rent found due. When the proceeding is for an unlawful detainer after default in payment of rent, and the lease or agreement under which the rent is payable has not by its terms expired, execution upon the judgment shall not be issued until the expiration of five days after the entry of the judgment, within which time the tenant, or any subtenant, or any mortgagee of the term, or other party interested in its continuance, may pay into court, for the landlord, the amount found due as rent, with interest thereon, and the amount of the damages found by the jury or the court for the unlawful detainer, and the costs of the proceeding, and thereupon the judgment shall be satisfied and the tenant be restored to his estate; but if payment as here provided be not made within the five days, the judgment may be enforced for its full amount, and for the possession of the premises. LIENS OF MECHANICS AND MATERIAL MEN.

Cross ref. Employers to post and record statements for protection of mechanics: § 2311 et seq.

§ 7339. [5110] Right to lien. Every person performing labor upon, or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any mining claim, building, wharf, bridge, ditch, dike, flume, tunnel, fence, machinery, railroad, wagon road, aqueduct to create hydraulic power, or any other structure, or who performs labor in any mine or mining claim, has a lien upon the same for the work or labor done or materials furnished, whether done or furnished at the instance of the owner of the building or other improvement or his agent; and every contractor, subconstractor, architect, builder or any person having charge of any mining claim, or of the construction, alteration or repair, either in whole or in part, of any building or other improvement, as aforesaid, shall be held to be the agent of the owner for the purpose of this chapter: Provided, That the lessee or lessees of any mining claim shall not be considered as the agent or agents of the owner under the provisions of this chapter. Nature of lien. The owner of a building can not be personally bound by the act of the contractor under this section. The charge becomes one purely in rem and runs against the buildings or structure only. Valley Lumber Co. Ltd. v. Nickerson (1907) 13 I. 682, 683, 93 P. 24.

This statute is based on the theory that whoever contributes labor or material whereby the real property of another is enhanced in value, shall be entitled to a lien upon the whole property in the sum due. The extent of the lien when he comes to foreclose it must be measured by the amount found due him on his contract at the time of filing his lien. Stoltz v. Armory Co. (1908) 15 I. 551, 99 P. 98, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 872.

The material man or laborer is given an absolute lien upon the structure or improvement in which the material was used or the labor done, if he files his claim within the time required by law. Weeter L. Co. v. Fales (1911) 20 I. 255, 118 P. 289, Ann. Cas. 1913A 403.

The intention of the parties with reference to the question of a lien is immaterial and nonessential. The essential fact is: Was the material furnished or the labor performed, and if so, was it furnished or performed in the manner and under the terms and conditions designated by the statute? If so, the party is entitled to a lien as a matter of law. Mine etc. Co. v. Idaho Con. Mines Co. (1911) 20 I. 300, 118 P. 301.

An absolute lien is granted direct upon the property, to the person who performs labor upon or furnishes materials to be used in the building, structure or other improvement, without reference to whether such person is an original contractor, a subcontractor, a laborer or a material man. Hill v. Twin Falls etc. Co. (1912) 22 I. 274, 125 P. 204.

Property subject to lien: A party constructing a branch or section of a new canal or performing labor thereon in its construction under a contract with the owner, is entitled to a lien upon such branch for any balance due him for such labor and need not claim a lien on the whole system of canals of which the branch is a part. Creer v. Cache Valley Canal Co. (1894) 4 I. 280, 38 P. 653.

In order to entitle one to a lien for materials furnished, the same must have been used on a particular building; there can be no lien for materials furnished under a general sale. Colo. Iron Wks. v. Riekenberg (1896) 4 I. 705, 43 P. 681.

The term "mining claims" as used in this section, includes patented as well as unpatented mining ground. (Dis. op.) Salisbury v. Lane (1900) 7 I. 370, 63 P. 383.

Where a quartz mill is located upon and belongs to a mine and is worked as a part of the same, a laborer who works as an amalgamator in the mill and is employed generally in keeping the machinery in order, is entitled to a lien on the mine for the labor which he performs. Thompson v. Wise Boy Min. etc. Co. (1903) 9 I. 363, 74 P. 958.

Where material is furnished a contractor for work done on a city lot, under this section construed with § 5112, the lien therefor attaches to the lot, as the contractor is the agent of the owner. Shaw v. Johnston (1910) 17 I. 676, 107 P. 399.

Irrigation works constructed under the Carey act are subject to the mechanic's lien law. Continental etc. Bk. v. Corey Bros. Const. Co. (1913) 208 F. 976, 126 C. C. A. 64.

The performance of labor upon irrigation works authorizes a lien thereon. Hill v. Twin Falls etc. Co., supra.

The fact that the labor performed and material furnished for the construction, alteration and repair of any building, structure or other works was carried away by floods and high water without any fault of the man who performed the labor and furnished the material does not deprive the laboring man or material man from preferring his lien under the statute and such lien attaching to the real estate on which the work was done or improvement made. Chamberlain v. Lewiston (1912) 23 I. 154, 129 P. 1069.

Extent of lien: The rights of the lien claimant who is a contractor or subcontractor under the person, company or association which has a Carey act contract from the state will extend to all the rights, interests, claim and title of such company in and to the works and irrigation system and lands thereunder, but the lien claimant can not by foreclosure of his lien acquire any greater right than that possessed by such company or association. Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1908) 14 I. 5, 93 P. 789.

Lien extends only to such right, title and interest as the owner had in the property at the time the lien attached. Smith v. Faris-Kesl Const. Co. (1915) 27 I. 407, 150 P. 25.

Owners' interest in mining claims is not lienable for work done at the instance of their tenant, unless they made him their agent within the meaning of the provisions of this section. Nicholson v. Smith, 31 I. 544, 174 P. 1008.

Nature of contract as affecting lien: A material man who furnished material for the erection of a building under two separate contracts can not tack one contract to the other by filing his claim of lien within the required time from the date of furnishing material pursuant to one of the contracts. Valley L. & Mfg. Co. v. Driessel (1907) 13 I. 662, 93 P. 765, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 299, 13 Ann. Cas. 63; Mine etc. Co. v. Idaho Con. Mines Co., supra.

Where materials are furnished for the same building or improvement in installments and at intervals, and the parties intend them to be included in one account and settlement, the entire account will be treated as a continuous and connected transaction, and the time in which to file the lien begins to run from the date of the last item of the account. Valley L. & Mfg. Co. v. Driessel, supra.

The contractor being only a special agent of the owner, with limited power, his authority to bind the property benefited for the payment of the value of the material extends only to such material as is reasonably and ordinarily sufficient properly to construct or repair the building in accordance with the plans and specifications thereof, or in pursuance of the agreement and contract entered into between the owner and the builder. Valley Lumber Co. Ltd. v. Nickerson (1907) 13 I. 682, 683, 93 P. 24.

Lienable items: A lien may be filed to secure profits upon a contract when such profits are included in the contract. Naylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 789, 96 P. 573.

A charge for the use of tools in construction work, for which the employer agrees to pay, is a lienable item. Ib.

Services performed as superintendent in superintending the construction of railroad work constitutes a lienable item. Ib.

A person employed as foreman and watchman of a mine does not perform services of a professional or supervisory character, so as to preclude him from being entitled to a lien for his services under this section. Ida. M. etc. Co. v. Davis (1903) 123 F. 396, 59 C. C. A. 200.

Lien will be allowed for material furnished and actually used and consumed in the construction of the building or other structure, irrespective of the fact that such use and consumption may not be in the main building or structure itself, but was necessarily incident to the carrying on of the principal work and discharging the contract. Chamberlain v. Lewiston (1912) 23 I. 154, 129 P. 1069.

A lien can not be allowed for tools and appliances which are the property of the contractors and may be used from time to time in other works and upon other contracts, and which are not consumed in the work or which do not go as a part of the building or improvement and necessarily enter therein. Ninneman v. Lewiston (1912) 23 I. 169, 129 P. 1073.

Waiver of lien: Where credit is given to a party in possession of a mining claim under an option to purchase and not to the owner, no lien is enforceable against the owner or his property. Steel v. Argen. Min. Co. (1895) 4 I. 505, 42 P. 585.

The intention to waive must clearly appear, and will not be presumed or implied. Smith v. Faris-Kesl Const. Co. (1915) 27 I. 407, 150 P. 25.

Attempted creation by trespasser: One who unlawfully goes into possession of mining property against the consent of the owner, can not create liens against it, under this section. Idaho Gold Min. Co. v. Winchell (1899) 6 I. 729, 59 P. 533.

Parties defendant: Other lienors need not be made parties to a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien unless the plaintiff claims priority over their liens. Continental etc. Bk. v. Corey Bros. Const. Co. (1913) 208 F. 976, 126 C. C. A. 64.

§ 7340. [5111] Liens on public buildings. Every subcontractor, laborer or other person, who performs labor, or furnishes material for any original contractor or subcontractor, to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any building, machinery or other structure, for any county, city, town or school district, has a lien upon such building, machinery or structure, and all the provisions of this chapter respecting the securing and enforcing of mechanics' liens shall apply thereto, so far as applicable. Not repealed: '09, p. 165, S. B. 68 (§§ 5111a-b) in no way conflicts with this statute, but is merely an additional and cumulative remedy. Chamberlain v. Lewiston (1912) 23 I. 154, 129 P. 1069.

§ 7341. Contracts for public work: Bond for protection of laborers and material men. Any person or persons entering into a formal contract with the state, any county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or any quasi public corporation of the state, for the construction, alteration or repair of any public building, public work, or quasi public work, the contract price of which exceeds the sum of $200, shall be required before commencing such work, to execute the usual penal bond, in a sum equaling 60 per cent at least, of the contract price, to be approved by the officer, board or body authorized to make such contract, with the additional obligation that such contractor or contractors shall promptly make payments to all persons supplying him or them with labor and materials in the prosecution of the work provided for in such contract.

Any person, company or corporation who has furnished labor or material used in the construction, alteration or repair of any public building, public work or quasi public work, and payment for which has not been made, shall have the right to intervene and be made a party to any action instituted by the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, on the bond of the contractor, and to have their rights and claims adjudicated in such action and judgment rendered thereon, subject, however, to the priority of the claim and judgment of the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be.

If the full amount of the liability of the surety on said bond is insufficient to pay the full amount of said claims and demands, then, after paying the full amount due to the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, the remainder shall be distributed pro rata among said interveners.

If no suit should be brought by the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, within six months from the completion and final settlement of said contract, then the person or persons supplying the contractor with labor and materials shall, upon application therefor, and furnishing affidavit that labor or materials for the prosecution of such work has been supplied by him or them, and payment for it has not been made, be furnished, without cost to him or them, with a certified copy of said contract and bond, upon which he or they shall have a right of action, and shall be and are hereby authorized to bring suit in the name of the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, for his or their use and benefit, against said contractor and his surety, and to prosecute the same to final judgment and execution.

Provided, That where suit is instituted by any of such creditors on the bond of the contractor it shall not be commenced until after the complete performance of said contract and final settlement thereof, and shall be commenced within one year after the performance and final settlement of said contract, and not later.

Provided, further, That where a suit is so instituted by a creditor or by creditors, only one action shall be brought, and any creditor may file his claim in such action and be made party thereto within one year from the completion of the work under said contract, and not later.

If the recovery on the bond should be inadequate to pay the amount found due to all of said creditors, judgment shall be given to each creditor pro rata of the amount of the recovery. The surety on said bond may pay into court for distribution among said claimants and creditors, the full amount of the surety's liability, to-wit: the penalty named in the bond, less any amount which said surety may have had to pay to the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, by reason of the execution of said bond, and upon so doing, the surety will be relieved from further liability.

Provided, further, That in all suits instituted under the provisions of this section such personal notice of the pendency of such suits, informing them of their right to intervene as the court may order, shall be given to all known creditors, and in addition thereto, notice by publication in some newspaper of general circulation, published in the county where the contract is being performed, for at least three successive weeks, the last publication to be at least one month before the time limited therefor. Cumulative remedy: The remedy herein provided is cumulative to § 7340. Chamberlain v. Lewiston (1912) 23 I. 154, 129 P. 1069.

§ 7342. Same: Penalty for violation by public officers. Except when the contract price is $200 or less, it shall be unlawful for any officer of the state, county, city, town, school or irrigation district, or quasi public corporation, as the case may be, to allow any claim for money, or to pay out and disburse any money to any person on account of any contract for the construction, alteration or repair of any public building, public work, or quasi public work, until a good and sufficient bond, as provided in the foregoing section is furnished and provided. [5112] Lien for improving lots. Any person who, at the request of the owner of any lot in any incorporated city or town, grades, fills in, or otherwise improves the same, or the street in front of or adjoining the same, has a lien upon such lot for his work done or material furnished. Applied: If a contractor constructs a sidewalk in front of a city lot, on a street, he is, under § 7339, to be deemed the agent of the owner, and under this section a lien for materials furnished the contractor attaches to the lot. Shaw v. Johnston (1910) 17 I. 676, 107 P. 399.

§ 7344. [5113] Land subject to lien. The land upon which any building, improvement or structure is constructed, together with a convenient space about the same, or so much as may be required for the convenient use and occupation thereof, to be determined by the court on rendering judgment, is also subject to the lien, if, at the commencement of the work or of the furnishing of the material for the same, the land belonged to the person who caused said building, improvement or structure to be constructed, altered or repaired, but if such person owns less than a fee simple estate in such land, then only his interest therein is subject to such lien. Determination of necessary land: It is error for the court in decreeing the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien to fail to find the amount of land necessary for the convenient use of the property to be sold. Robertson v. Moore (1904) 10 I. 115, 77 P. 218.

Extent of lien: A lien may be foreclosed against an interest in real property less than that of a fee simple title, as whatever interest the debtor may have in the property may be foreclosed in an action brought for that purpose. Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1908) 14 I. 5, 93 P. 789; Naylor v. Lewiston etc. Ry. Co. (1908) 14 I. 789, 96 P. 573.

§ 7345. [5114] Liens preferred claims. The liens provided for in this chapter are preferred to any lien, mortgage or other incumbrance, which may have attached subsequent to the time when the building, improvement or structure was commenced, work done, or materials were commenced to be furnished; also to any lien, mortgage, or other incumbrance of which the lien holder had no notice, and which was unrecorded at the time the building, improvement or structure was commenced, work done, or materials were commenced to be furnished. Priorities: When mortgages and other liens are involved in the foreclosure of mechanic's and material men's liens, the time or date when the building was commenced, or the laborer began to work, or the material men commenced to furnish the material, must be taken into consideration in determining the priority of such liens over such mortgage lien. All liens for labor commenced, or materials commenced to be furnished prior to recording said mortgages, are subordinate to said mortgages, when such work is done and material furnished by persons not theretofore connected with the construction of the building. (Ailshie, J. dissents) Pacific States etc. Co. v. Dubois (1905) 11 I. 319, 83 P. 513.

Where the owner of property, after entering into a contract for the construction of certain irrigation works thereon, executes a trust deed to the property, securing bonds to raise funds wherewith to meet the obligation of the contract, work upon which had already been commenced, a mechanic's lien claimed by such contractor is superior in rank to the trust deeds securing the bonds, and there is no estoppel from claiming such priority where the construction company has done nothing to lead the bondholders to believe that their lien should be first. Continental etc. Bk. v. Corey Bros. Const. Co. (1913) 208 F. 976, 126 C. C. A. 64.

§ 7346. [5115] Claim of lien. Every original contractor claiming the benefit of this chapter must, within 90 days, and every other person must, within 60 days, after the completion of any building, improvement or structure, or after the completion of the alteration or repair thereof, or in case he cease to labor thereon before the completion thereof, then after he so ceases to labor or after he has ceased to labor thereon for any cause, or after he has ceased to furnish materials therefor, or after the performance of any labor in a mine or mining claim, file for record with the county recorder for the county in which such property or some part thereof is situated, a claim containing a statement of his demand, after deducting all just credits and offsets, with the name of the owner, or reputed owner, if known, and also the name of the person by whom he was employed or to whom he furnished the materials, and also a description of the property to be charged with the lien, sufficient for identification, which claim must be verified by the oath of the claimant, his agent or attorney, to the effect that the affiant believes the same to be just. Time to file lien: A material man who contracts direct with the owner and has no privity of interest or contract with the contractor, is an original contractor and entitled to the time given to such contractors within which to file his lien. Colo. Iron Wks. v. Riekenberg (1894) 4 I. 262, 38 P. 651.

The fact that it was not shown that a claimant had ceased to perform his duties at the time of the filing of his claim for lien did not invalidate his claim. Ida. M. etc. Co. v. Davis (1903) 123 F. 396, 59 C. C. A. 200.

The time for filing a lien can not be extended by furnishing on a new contract or request additional articles and adding them to a completed account and statement of material furnished. Valley L. & Mfg. Co. v. Driesel (1907) 13 I. 662, 93 P. 765, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 299, 13 Ann. Cas. 63.

Sufficiency of notice: The notice of lien must contain a direct and unequivocal allegation of the name of the owner; a notice headed "A and B, subcontractors and claimants, v. C. contractor, and D, owner," is insufficient. White v. Mullins (1892) 3 I. 434, 31 P. 801. A statement in a lien notice that the work was performed and the materials furnished upon a certain mining claim, "the property of the defendant," is not a sufficient compliance with this section. Steel v. Argen. Min. Co. (1895) 4 I. 505, 42 P. 585. A notice of claim of lien for the construction of a canal which states that a certain company is the name of the owner and is the reputed owner of the premises therein described, and caused the said canal to be constructed and excavated, is sufficient. Creer v. Cache Valley Canal Co. (1894) 4 I. 280, 38 P. 653.

A mechanic's lien for the construction of a canal need not charge or claim a lien upon the land or right of way. Ib. Where work is done upon a group of placer mining claims owned by the same person and commonly known under the same name, a description of the claims under such common name, together with a description of the place of location, is sufficient in a notice of lien. Phillips v. Salmon River Min. etc. Co. (1903) 9 I. 149, 72 P. 886.

The notice of lien should contain a statement of the demand, the name of the owner or reputed owner, if known, the name of the person by whom employed, a description of the property and must be verified. Robertson v. Moore (1904) 10 I. 115, 77 P. 218.

Description: The description is sufficient where the property can be identified by it. Shaw v. Martin (1911) 20 I. 168.

§ 7347. [5116] Claims against two buildings. In every case in which one claim is filed against two or more buildings, mines, mining claims, or other improvements, owned by the same person, the person filing such claim must, at the same time, designate the amount due him on each of said buildings, mines, mining claims, or other improvement; otherwise the lien of such claim is postponed to other liens. The lien of such claim does not extend beyond the amount designated as against other creditors having liens by judgment, mortgage, or otherwise, upon either of such buildings, or other improvements, or upon the land upon which the same are situated. ['93, p. 49, c. 1, § 7.]

Filing blanket liens: Where a company owns three mining claims and a lien is filed against all of them without specifying the amount due on each, such lien is postponed to other liens but is not void. Phillips v. Salmon River Min. etc. Co. (1903) 9 I. 149, 72 P. 886.

Where several claims and locations were owned and operated as one mine, as against the parties so uniting them, they would be treated as a single claim, and hence a lien for services was not ineffective for failure to describe the particular claim relative to which the services were rendered. Ida. M. etc. Co. v. Davis (1903) 123 F. 396, 59 C. C. A. 200.

§ 7348. [5117] Record of lien claims. The county recorder must record the claims mentioned in this chapter in a book kept by him for that purpose, which record must be indexed, as deeds and other conveyances are required by law to be indexed, and for which he may receive the same fees as are allowed by law for recording deeds or other instruments. [5118] Duration of lien. No lien provided for in this chapter binds any building, mining claim, improvement or structure for a longer period than six months after the claim has been filed, unless proceedings be commenced in a proper court within that time to enforce such lien; or if a credit be given, then six months after the expiration of such credit; but no lien shall continue in force under this chapter for a longer period than two years from the time the work is completed, or credit given, unless proceedings to enforce the same shall have been commenced. Right as affected by limitation: This section and §§ 6670-1 provide the only limitations in the foreclosure of mechanics' liens, which are, first, that the proceedings must be commenced for the foreclosure of liens within six months after the claim of lien is filed, and, second, that a summons may be issued at any time within one year after the commencement of the action. Shaw v. Martin (1911) 20 I. 168, 117 P. 853.

The time limitation prescribed by this section makes the remedy a part of and conditions the right created. Unless suit is brought within the time limited, the lien itself ceases to exist. Continental etc. Bk. v. Pac. Coast P. Co. (1915) 222 F. 781, 138 C. C. A. 329.

Effect on lien holders not joined: Construed to mean that lien shall not continue unless proceedings are commenced in proper court "against the person against whose interest the lien is asserted." A mortgagee not made a party to the foreclosure suit is not bound by the judgment nor is the lien after the expiration of the statutory period of any effect as against the mortgagee's interest. Utah Implement Vehicle Co. v. Bowman, 209 F. 942.

The statute does not prescribe in terms who shall be made parties to the suit, but it necessarily means suit must be brought against all whose rights, estates or interests are claimed to be adverse and subordinate; otherwise they are not affected by it, and as to them the lien ceases to be effective after the expiration of the six months' limitation period. Continental etc. Bk. v. Pac. Coast P. Co., supra; D. W. Standrod & Co. v. Utah Implement-Vehicle Co. (1915) 223 F. 517, 139 C. C. A. 65.

§ 7350. [5119] Recovery by contractor: Deduction of debts to subcontractors. The original or subcontractor shall be entitled to recover, upon the claim filed by him, only such amount as may be due to him according to the terms of his contract, after deducting all claims of other parties for work done and materials furnished to him as aforesaid, of which claim of lien shall have been filed as required by this chapter, and in all cases where a claim shall be filed under this chapter for work done or materials furnished to any subcontractor, he shall defend any action brought thereupon at his own expense; and during the pendency of such action, the person indebted to the contractor may withhold from such contractor the amount of money for which claim is filed; and in case of judgment upon the lien, the person indebted in the contract shall be entitled to deduct from any amount due or to become due by him to such contractor, the amount of such judgment and costs; and if the amount of such judgment and costs shall exceed the amount due from him to such contractor, if the person indebted in the contract shall have settled with such contractor in full, he shall be entitled to recover back from such contractor any amount so paid by him in excess of the contract price, and for which such contractor was originally the party liable. § 7351. [5120] Judgment to declare priority. In every case in which different liens are asserted against any property, the court in the judgment must declare the rank of each lien or class of liens which shall be in the following order:

1. All laborers, other than contractors or subcontractors.
2. All material men, other than contractors or subcontractors.
3. Subcontractors.
4. The original contractor.

And in case the proceeds of sale under this chapter shall be insufficient to pay all lienholders under it:

1. The liens of all laborers, other than the original contractor and subcontractor, shall first be paid in full, or pro rata if the proceeds be insufficient to pay them in full.

2. The lien of material men, other than the original contractor or subcontractor, shall be paid in full, or pro rata if the proceeds be insufficient to pay them in full.

3. Out of the remainder, if any, the subcontractors shall be paid in full, or pro rata if the remainder be insufficient to pay them in full, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid to the original contractor; and each claimant shall be entitled to execution for any balance due him after such distribution; such execution to be issued by the clerk of the court upon demand, at the return of the sheriff or other officer making the sale, showing such balance due. § 7352. [5121] Joinder of actions: Attorney's fees. Any number of persons claiming liens against the same property may join in the same action, and when separate actions are commenced the court may consolidate them. The court shall also allow as part of the costs the moneys paid for filing and recording the claim, and reasonable attorney's fees. ['93, p. 49, c. 1, § 12.]

Constitutionality: The provision of this section which authorizes the recovery of attorney's fees is not class legislation and does not violate Const. I, 18, providing that justice shall be administered without sale, etc. Thompson v. Wise Boy M. etc. Co. (1903) 9 I. 363, 74 P. 958.

Parties: Though parties are joined under this section, if the actions are individual, the parties will be recognized as separate in their respective rights. Hill v. Twin Falls etc. Co. (1912) 22 I. 274, 125 P. 204; Nelson Bennett Co. v. Twin Falls L. & W. Co. (1908) 14 I. 5, 93 P. 789; Shaw v. Martin (1911) 20 I. 168, 117 P. 853.

Allowance of fees: Attorneys' fees are allowed in the foreclosure of mechanics' and laborers' liens. Robertson v. Moore (1904) 10 I. 115, 77 P. 218. But the lien can not be extended beyond the items specified by statute so as to include damages for protesting an acceptance of the balance due. Bradbury v. Idaho & Ore. L. I. Co. (1886) 2 I. 239, 10 P. 620.

Attorney's fees are not a part of the costs, and therefore recoverable, even though the amount of the judgment is less than $100. Shaw v. Johnston, supra.

Attorney's fees are an incident of the judgment and defendant is liable therefor. Smith v. Faris-Kesl Const. Co. (1915) 27 I. 407, 150 P. 25.

Nature of action: An action to foreclose a mechanic's lien is equitable in its nature and the court is not bound to submit any issue of fact to the jury; if it does so, it may disregard the verdict and findings and may enter a decree according to its own view of the evidence in the case. Idaho & Ore. L. I. Co. v. Bradbury (1889) 10 S. C. R. 177, 132 U. S. 509, 33 L. ed. 433, aff. 2 I. 239; Jensen v. Bumgarner (1913) 25 I. 355, 137 P. 529.

Sufficiency of complaint: A complaint for the foreclosure of a laborer's lien that sufficiently describes the property, fixes the time and manner of labor, the amount due, and that the lien was filed within the statutory time, together with the necessary requirements in ordinary suits in equity, is sufficient. Robertson v. Moore (1904) 10 I. 115, 77 P. 218.

FARM LABORERS' LIENS.

§ 7372. [5141] Right to lien. Any person who does any labor on a farm or land in tilling the same, or in cultivating, harvesting, threshing, or housing any crop or crops raised thereon, has a lien on such crop or crops for such labor. Such lien shall be a preferred and prior lien thereon to any crop or chattel mortgage placed thereon, and any mortgagee taking a chattel or crop mortgage on any crop or crops, upon which any person shall perform labor in cultivating, harvesting, threshing or housing said crop, shall take such mortgage subject to, and such mortgage shall be a subsequent lien to, the lien of the person or persons performing such labor as to a reasonable compensation for such labor: Provided, That the interest in any crop of any lessor or lessors of land where the premises are leased in consideration of a share in the crop raised thereon is not subject to such lien. ['03, p. 93, § 1.]

Hist. '93, p. 49, c. 3, § 1; am. '95, p. 137, § 1, reen. '99, p. 147, c. 3, § 1; am. '03, p. 93, § 1, reen. R. C. § 5141, reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Wash. See Bal. Ann. C. § 5957.

Definitions: The word "all" as used in this section means the entire quantity, and the section, in stating that the laborer shall have a lien on all the crop produced does not require him to file his lien on any particular or specified portion of the crop, or to designate any particular stack or stacks of hay or on what particular portion of the land the crop was produced or in what month it was harvested. Beckstead v. Griffith (1906) 11 I. 738, 83 P. 764.

The term "reasonable compensation" means: That which will fairly compensate the laborer when the character of the work and the effectiveness and ability entering into the service are considered. It can make no difference whether the service has been performed under an agreement for payment by the day, or the ton, or the acre, or any other standard of measurement. Chapman v. A. H. Averill Mach. Co. (1915) 28 I. 121, 152 P. 573.

Nature of work: One who performs labor in producing an agricultural crop is entitled to a lien, no matter what the work, labor or service may have been, so long as it is shown that such work is for a useful purpose, that the charges were reasonable and that he has not been paid, and such lien takes precedence over all other liens of whatever nature or description. Ib.

One employing his teams and machinery in harvesting and threshing a crop is entitled to a lien for the reasonable compensation for their use, as well as for his own labor. Ib.

§ 7373. Claim of lien: Enforcement. Any person claiming the benefit of this article must, within 60 days after the close of said work or labor, file for record with the county recorder of the county in which said work and labor was performed, a claim which shall be in substance in accordance with the provisions of section 7362, so far as the same may be applicable, which said claim shall be verified as in the said section provided, and said liens may be enforced in civil actions, in the same manner, as near as may be, as provided in section 7366: Provided, That where farm products are removed from the premises upon which the same were grown, and sold to shippers, wholesale dealers or manufacturers upon the open market in the ordinary course of trade before the filing of any such lien, such shippers, wholesale dealers or manufacturers shall not be liable for any farm laborer's lien, unless notice has been given them of persons holding claims described in this article; and said vendee shall be required to demand and receive a sworn, written statement from the vendor giving the names and the amounts due to laborers entitled to liens, as provided in this article. Any such vendor who shall fail to make such statement when demanded or who shall make any false or misleading statement therein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, moreover, be liable to any laborer thus deprived of his lien for double the full value thereof, and to reasonable attorney's fees in case suit is instituted to recover the amount his due. ['15, c. 79, p. 192.]

Hist. '93, p. 49, c. 3, § 3, reen. '99, p. 147, c. 3, § 2, reen. R. C. § 5142; am. '15, c. 79, p. 192, reen. C. L. § 5142.

Comp. leg.—N. D. Analogous: Civ. C. § 6858.

Wash. Analogous: Bal. Ann. C. § 5959.

Sufficiency of description: A description in a farm laborer's lien notice which states that it is intended to cover the entire crop of hay produced for the year is sufficient and is not void for uncertainty. Beckstead v. Griffith (1906) 11 I. 738, 83 P. 764.

§ 7374. [5143] Action to recover debt not impaired. Nothing contained in this article or in article 2 shall be construed to impair or affect the right of any person to whom any debt may be due for work done, or for the price of any saw logs, spars, piles, cord wood or other timber to maintain a personal action to recover such debt against the person liable therefor. Constitutionality: This law is a legitimate exercise of the police power of the state, and is not an infringement upon the liberty of contract in respect of labor, and does not deprive the employer or the employee of the liberty or right to enter into any contract, nor take property from the employer without due process of law, nor single out any particular class of debtors or individuals, and is not unconstitutional as being in contravention of art. 1, § 10 of the constitution of the United States, or of § 1 of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States, or of art. 1, §§ 13 and 16 of the constitution of this state. Olson v. Idora Hill M. Co. (1916) 28 I. 504, 155 P. 291.

Construed: This and the following section must be reasonably construed. It was not the intention of the legislature to penalize the employer for failing to pay an unjust debt, nor for the failure to pay when the discharged laborer, after demanding payment, prevents compliance with the demand by his own conduct, nor to deny or preclude the right of the employer to interpose any valid counterclaim or defense to the claim of such laborer. Ib.

It does not create a lien in favor of boardinghouse keeper, or person furnishing feed to horses, or for horse hire, to contractor, on property of railroad. Ib.

12. Disobedience, by an inferior tribunal, magistrate or officer of the lawful judgment, order or process of a superior court, or proceeding in an action or special proceeding contrary to law, after such action or special proceeding is removed from the jurisdiction of such inferior tribunal, magistrate or officer. CHAPTER 270.

EMINENT DOMAIN.

§ 7404. [5210] Uses for which authorized. Subject to the provisions of this title, the right of eminent domain may be exercised in behalf of the following public uses:

1. Public buildings and grounds for the use of the state, and all other public uses authorized by the legislature.

2. Public buildings and grounds for the use of any county, incorporated city, village, town or school district; canals, aqueducts, flumes, ditches or pipes for conducting water for the use of the inhabitants of any county, incorporated city, village or town or for draining any county, incorporated city, village or town, raising the banks of streams, removing obstructions therefrom and widening, deepening or straightening their channels, roads, streets, alleys, and all other public uses for the benefit of any county, incorporated city, village or town or the inhabitants thereof.

3. Wharves, docks, piers, chutes, booms, ferries, bridges, toll roads, byroads, plank and turnpike roads, steam, electric and horse railroads, reservoirs, canals, ditches, flumes, aqueducts and pipes, for public transportation supplying mines and farming neighborhoods with water, and draining and reclaiming lands, and for storing and floating logs and lumber on streams not navigable.

4. Roads, tunnels, ditches, flumes, pipes and dumping places for working mines; also outlets, natural or otherwise, for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from mines; also, an occupancy in common by the owners or possessors of different mines of any place for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from their several mines.

5. Byroads leading from highways to residences and farms.

6. Telephones, telegraph and telephone lines, and lines used in transmitting electric current for power, lighting, heating or other purposes.

7. Sewerage of any incorporated city. ['03, p. 203, § 1.]

Constitutionality: This section is not subject to the constitutional objection of depriving persons of property without due process of law. Baillie v. Larson (1905) 138 F. 177.

Purpose of condemnation and character of improvement: The condemnor must disclose the purpose for which he is seeking to condemn the property and the general nature and character of the improvement or structure he expects to erect to entitle him to maintain his condemnation proceedings. Idaho etc. Ry. v. Columbia etc. Synod (1911) 20 I. 568, 119 P. 60, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 497.

Public Uses.

Additional uses defined in constitution: This section, which limits the exercise of the right of eminent domain to the public uses therein enumerated, was an act of the territorial legislature, which did not specifically mention all the necessary uses of lands declared to be such by the constitution. The uses defined in the constitution can be enforced regardless of whether the legislature repeats the provisions of the constitution in defining for what public uses the right of eminent domain may be exercised. (Morgan, J. dissents) Blackwell Lbr. Co. v. Empire Mill Co. (1916) 28 I. 556, 155 P. 680.

Electric lines: The furnishing of electricity for lighting, transportation, power and other purposes is a public use for which land may be taken. Hollister v. State (1903) 9 I. 8, 71 P. 541.

A corporation organized to generate and furnish electric energy is a public service corporation authorized to exercise the right of eminent domain, though it does not render a service directly to the public, but furnishes electricity for distribution to the consumers by other persons and corporations. Wash. W. P. Co. v. Waters (1910) 186 F. 572.

This section recognizes that somewhere exists the power of condemning lands for power sites and power stations, for generating electrical current and electrical energy, and with it runs the implied power to do those things necessary to generate the electrical current that is to be transmitted over the lines. W. W. P. Co. v. Waters (1911) 19 I. 595, 115 P. 682.

Electric railroad: Electric railroad has power of eminent domain to acquire right of way. Boise Valley etc. Co. v. Kroeger (1909) 17 I. 384, 105 P. 1070, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 968.

Logging road: Where a temporary logging road is necessary to the complete development of the material resources of the state, the necessary use of land for a right of way is a public use and may be acquired as provided by the statute. Blackwell L. Co. v. Empire Mill Co., supra.

Reservoir: The construction of a dam to reservoir the waters for storage to be used for power purposes is a public use. Wash. W. P. Co. v. Waters, supra.

Sewerage system: A sewerage system is a public use within the meaning of this section. Twin Falls v. Stubbs (1908) 15 I. 68, 96 P. 195.

Stream floatability: The necessary use of lands for storage basins and the improvement of the floatability of nonnavigable streams may be obtained by the exercise of the power of eminent domain. Potlatch Lbr. Co. v. Peterson (1906) 12 I. 769, 88 P. 426. The phrase "streams not navigable" means all streams not navigable in fact, and the legislature can not impress the character of navigability on a stream that is not navigable. Ib.

This section supplements a special act authorizing clearing and straightening of channels of navigable stream without specific provision for compensation. St. Joe Imp. Co. v. Laumierster (1910) 19 I. 66, 112 P. 683.

Telegraph right of way: This provision, standing alone, unaffected by other statutory enactments, confers upon a telegraph company the authority to condemn a right of way upon a right of way of a railway company, provided that it does not in any way interfere with the use to which the right of way is already dedicated. O. S. L. R. R. Co. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. of Ida. (1900) 111 F. 842, 49 C. C. A. 663.

Use in another state: Condemnation can not be had in this state for the purpose alone of serving a public use in another state, but where the use for which the condemnation is sought is a public use in this state, and will serve the citizens of this state, the fact that it may incidentally also benefit the citizens and industries of a neighboring state will not defeat the right of condemnation. Wash. W. P. Co. v. Waters, supra.

Right acquired: One who exercises the right of eminent domain in the improvement of nonnavigable streams in the state for the purpose of floating logs and timber products, does not thereby secure the exclusive use and control of such streams but they are open to the use of any one who may have occasion to use them for any purpose. Potlatch Lbr. Co. v. Peterson (1906) 12 I. 769, 88 P. 426.

A person or corporation who exercises the power of eminent domain assumes certain obligations to the public, and the granting of that right carries with it the right of public supervision and reasonable control. Ib.

§ 7405. [5211] What may be taken. The following is a classification of the estates and rights in lands subject to be taken for public use:

1. A fee simple, when taken for public buildings or grounds, or for permanent buildings, for reservoirs and dams and permanent flooding occasioned thereby, or for an outlet for a flow, or a place for the deposit of debris or tailings of a mine.

2. An easement, when taken for any other use.

3. The right of entry upon, and occupation of, lands, and the right to take therefrom such earth, gravel, stones, trees and timber as may be necessary for some public use. [R. S. § 5211.]

Fee Simple: When taken: Since a dam is a permanent structure a fee simple title must be taken in condemnation proceedings against the land on which the dam is to be located. (Dis. op.) Hollister v. State (1904) 9 I. 651, 77 P. 339.

In condemnation of state school lands for reservoir, condemnor may take a fee simple title, but he is not compelled to. (Morgan, J., in con. op. holds only easement may be taken; Budge, J., dissents.) Idaho-Iowa etc. Co. v. Fisher (1915) 27 I. 695, 151 P. 998.

Limitation of time of use: Where condemnor will not use logging road more than year, court will limit the use of property taken. Blackwell L. Co. v. Empire Mill Co. (1916) 29 I. 421, 160 P. 265.

§ 7406. Private property defined. The private property which may be taken under this title includes:

1. All real property belonging to any person.

2. Lands belonging to the government of the United States, to this state, or to any county, incorporated city, or city and county, village or town, not appropriated to some public use.

3. Property appropriated to public use; but such property shall not be taken unless for a more necessary public use than that to which it has been already appropriated.

4. Franchises for toll roads, toll bridges and ferries, and all other franchises; but such franchises shall not be taken unless for free highways, railroads or other more necessary public use.

5. All rights of way for any and all the purposes mentioned in section 7404, and any and all structures and improvements thereon, and the lands held or used in connection therewith, shall be subject to be connected with, crossed or intersected by any other right of way or improvements or structures thereon. They shall also be subject to a limited use, in common with the owners thereof, when necessary, but such uses, crossings, intersections and connections shall be made in the manner most compatible with the greatest public benefit and least private injury.

6. All classes of private property not enumerated may be taken for public use when such taking is authorized by law. ['11, c. 75, § 1, p. 229.]

Condemnation of state lands: This section taken in conjunction with '99, p. 381, § 13, authorizes an action in the district court to condemn state lands for a public use. Hollister v. State (1903) 9 I. 8, 71 P. 541; Tobey v. Bridgewood (1912) 22 I. 566, 127 P. 172.

Condemnation of another right of way: The use of that portion of a railway right of way which is idle or vacant ground by a telegraph company for the erection of a telegraph line is of greater public utility than the use to which such portion of the right of way is put by the railroad company, and authorizes the condemnation thereof by the telegraph company. Postal Tel. Cable Co. of Ida. v. O. S. L. Co. (1900) 104 F. 623.

Where the effort is to condemn that part of a right of way not being actually used as a canal for carrying water, so that a larger canal may be constructed the question as to the proposed work being a more necessary public work does not arise. Portneuf Irr. Co. v. Budge (1909) 16 I. 116, 100 P. 1046, 18 Ann. Cas. 674.

Proceedings in equity: In a suit in equity to compel the joint use of a right of way already condemned by another, and to obtain the benefits thereof, on the theory that the condemnation was made for a public use, and that appellants are members of the public for whom such condemnation has been adjudged, there being no allegation showing the necessity for such common use, and nothing to show that appellants can not proceed and condemn a right of way, the relief prayed for will be denied. Headrick et al v. Larson et al (1907) 152 F. 93, 81 C. C. A. 317.

§ 7407. [5213] What must appear to authorize condemnation. Before property can be taken it must appear:

1. That the use to which it is to be applied is a use authorized by law.

2. That the taking is necessary to such use.

3. If already appropriated to some public use, that the public use to which it is to be applied is a more necessary public use. [R. S. § 5213.]

Necessity: The use, necessity and other requirements of this section should be tried and found by the court before the commissioners are appointed. Portneuf Irr. Co. v. Budge (1909) 16 I. 116, 100 P. 1046, 18 Ann. Cas. 674.

Question of necessity is one of fact, and findings based on substantial conflict in the evidence will not be disturbed. Blackwell L. Co. v. Empire Mill Co. (1916) 29 I. 421, 160 P. 265.

Necessity is not measured by extent to which use is applied. Property devoted to or held for a public use is subject to power of eminent domain if right is given by constitutional provision or legislative enactment but it can not be taken to be used in same manner and for same purpose to which it is already applied or held if by so doing that purpose will be defeated. Marsh M. Co. v. Inland Empire M. & M. Co. (1916) 30 I. 1, 165 P. 1128.

Subsequent condemnations: This section by implication authorizes a second condemnation, and under it a telegraph company may condemn a right of way for its line over the right of way of a railroad, where the court finds that it is necessary and that it will not interfere with the use of the property for the purpose of the railroad, and that the second use is more necessary than the first. O. S. L. R. Co. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co. of Idaho (1901) 111 F. 842, 49 C. C. A. 663; Pac. Postal etc. Co. v. O. & C. R. Co. (Ore. 1908) 163 F. 972.

Necessity: If a reasonable although not an absolute necessity exists to take property for public use, it is sufficient. Marsh M. Co. v. Inland Empire M. & M. Co., supra.

§ 7408. [5214] Survey and location of land required. In all cases where land is required for public use the state or its agents in charge of such use may survey and locate the same, but it must be located in the manner which will be most compatible with the greatest public good and the least private injury, and subject to the provisions of this title. The state or its agents in charge of such public use, may enter upon the land and make examinations, surveys and maps thereof, and such entry shall constitute no cause for action in favor of the owners of the land, except for injuries resulting from negligence, wantonness or malice. § 7409. [5215] Jurisdiction in district court. All proceedings under this title must be brought in the district court for the county in which the property is situated. They must be commenced by filing a complaint and issuing a summons thereon. [R. S. § 5215.]

1. The name of the corporation, association, commission or person in charge of the public use for which the property is sought, who must be styled plaintiff.

2. The names of all owners and claimants of the property, if known, or a statement that they are unknown, who must be styled defendants.

3. A statement of the right of the plaintiff.

4. If a right of way be sought, the complaint must show the location, general route and termini, and must be accompanied with maps thereof.

All parcels lying in the county, and required for the same public use, may be included in the same or separate proceedings, at the option of the plaintiff, but the court may consolidate or separate them to suit the convenience of the parties.

6. In all cases where the owner of the lands sought to be taken resides in the county in which said lands are situated, a statement that the plaintiff has sought, in good faith, to purchase the lands so sought to be taken, or settle with the owner for the damages which might result to his property from the taking thereof, and was unable to make any reasonable bargain therefor, or settlement of such damages; but in all other cases these facts need not be alleged in the complaint, or proved. Nature of condemnation action: The action in condemnation is purely an action to determine the value of the property sought to be taken. No title can pass to the condemner until after the payment of the value of the property has been made. Ryan v. Weiser Valley Land etc. Co. (1911) 20 I. 288, 118 P. 769.

Sufficiency of complaint: In general: The complaint in condemnation proceedings must substantially comply with the requirements of this section, but in ascertaining whether or not there is such a compliance the same rule will be applied as in the consideration of the sufficiency of other pleadings. Hollister v. S. (1904) 9 I. 651, 77 P. 339. Unless the complaint in condemnation proceedings contains substantially every fact required by this section, the court acquires no jurisdiction over a defaulting defendant. (Dis. op.) Ib.

Same: Description of land: The description of the land sought to be taken for a public use must be such that from it the number of square feet, yards or rods or the number of acres sought to be taken may be ascertained. (Dis. op.) Ib.

In an action brought to condemn a right of way through a farm or a legal subdivision, such right of way should be described in the complaint by such subdivision, but in an action to condemn a right of way on an established railroad right of way, the locus of which is accurately fixed by survey of which there are accessible records, a complaint is sufficiently specific when it describes the railroad right of way in general terms, giving the termini and the counties through which it runs. Postal Tel. Cable Co. of Idaho v. O. S. L. Rr. Co. (1900) 104 F. 623.

Same: Designation of owners: A complaint in condemnation proceedings which fails to allege that the defendants are the owners of the land sought to be taken, or that the names of the owners are unknown, is fatally defective. (Dis. op.) Hollister v. S. (1904) 9 I. 651, 77 P. 339.

Same: Purpose of condemnation: The condemnor must disclose the purpose for which he is seeking to condemn the property and the general nature and character of the improvement or structure he expects to erect to entitle him to maintain his condemnation proceedings. Idaho etc. Ry. v. Columbia etc. Synod (1911) 20 I. 568, 581, 582, 119 P. 60, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 497.

§ 7411. [5217] Summons. The clerk must issue a summons, which must contain the names of the parties, a general description of the whole property, a statement of the public use for which it is sought, and a reference to the complaint for descriptions of the respective parcels, and a notice to the defendants to appear and show cause why the property described should not be condemned as prayed for in the complaint. In all other particulars it must be in the form of a summons in civil actions, and must be served in like manner. [R. S. § 5217.]

§ 7412. [5218] Who may defend. All persons in occupation of, or having or claiming an interest in, any of the property described in the complaint, or in the damages for the taking thereof, though not named, may appear, plead and defend, each in respect to his own property or interest, or that claimed by him, in like manner as if named in the complaint. 1. To regulate and determine the place and manner of making connections and crossings, or of enjoying the common use mentioned in the fifth subdivision of section 7406.
2. To hear and determine all adverse or conflicting claims to the property sought to be condemned, and to the damages therefor.

§ 7414. [5220] Assessment of damages. The court, jury or referee must hear such legal testimony as may be offered by any of the parties to the proceedings, and thereupon must ascertain and assess:

1. The value of the property sought to be condemned, and all improvements thereon pertaining to the realty, and of each and every separate estate or interest therein; if it consists of different parcels, the value of each parcel and each estate or interest therein shall be separately assessed.
2. If the property sought to be condemned constitutes only a part of a larger parcel, the damages which will accrue to the portion not sought to be condemned, by reason of its severance from the portion sought to be condemned, and the construction of the improvement in the manner proposed by the plaintiff.

3. Separately, how much the portion not sought to be condemned, and each estate or interest therein, will be specially and directly benefited, if at all, by the construction of the improvement proposed by the plaintiff; and if the benefit shall be equal to the damages assessed, under subdivision 2, the owner of the parcel shall be allowed no compensation except the value of the portion taken; but if the benefit shall be less than the damages so assessed, the former shall be deducted from the latter, and the remainder shall be the only damages allowed in addition to the value.

4. If the property sought to be condemned be for a railroad, the cost of good and sufficient fences along the line of such railroad, and the cost of cattle guards where fences may cross the line of such railroad.

5. As far as practicable, compensation must be assessed for each source of damages separately. [R. S. § 5220.]

Nature of condemnation action: The action in condemnation is purely an action to determine the value of the property sought to be taken. Ryan v. Weiser Valley Land etc. Co. (1911) 20 I. 288, 118 P. 769.

It is the duty of the court, jury or referee, before whom a hearing is had, to ascertain and assess the damages under the provisions of this section, and to make findings upon each of the elements of damages as described herein; in assessing such damages, if the benefits shall be less than the damages so assessed, the benefits should be deducted from the damages. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson (1912) 21 I. 160, 121 P. 88.

Separate parcels: It is not necessary that the jury find the value of each legal subdivision of the tract sought to be condemned. If, however, there is more than one parcel of land, or several separate parcels of tracts, each separated from the other, then it is necessary for the jury to determine the value of each separate tract or parcel. But where the tract is a single or consolidated tract, the value may be fixed as a single parcel or tract. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson, supra.

Value: This section contemplates assessment of damages upon the basis of the market value of the property sought to be condemned. Portneuf-Marsh etc. Co. v. Portneuf Irr. Co. (1911) 19 I. 483, 114 P. 19; Tyson Creek R. Co. v. Empire Mill Co., 31 I. 580, 174 P. 1004.

"Value" is not what any one person would give for the land for his own particular use, but what could probably be obtained for it if a sale was desirable and a purchaser sought, applying the ordinary business methods to find him and to dispose of the property. Weiser Valley L. & W. Co. v. Ryan (1911) 190 F. 417, 111 C. C. O. 221.

While evidence of the value for a specific purpose as an independent fact is inadmissible, a witness may in arriving at an estimate of the value take into consideration the most advantageous use to which the land may be applied, including the purpose for which it is sought. Ib.

Judgment: Upon damages being assessed by the court, jury or referee, under the provisions of this section, a judgment should be rendered by the court in the common, ordinary form for the recovery of money in favor of the defendant against the plaintiff, where damages are allowed. Such judgment is the final judgment mentioned in § 5223 and is a judgment in personam against the plaintiff for such damages. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson, supra.

Compensatory benefits: Under this section increased transportation facilities are not special and direct benefits to the land not taken. Benefits which may be set off against lands not sought to be condemned must be such as relate to the land and not to the owner. Tyson Creek R. Co. v. Empire Mill Co., 31 I. 580, 174 P. 1004.

§ 7415. [5221] Same: Date of accrual. For the purpose of assessing compensation and damages, the right thereto shall be deemed to have accrued at the date of the summons, and its actual value, at that date, shall be the measure of compensation for all property to be actually taken, and the basis of damages to property not actually taken, but injuriously affected, in all cases where such damages are allowed, as provided in the last section. No improvements put upon the property subsequent to the date of the service of summons shall be included in the assessment of compensation or damages. [R. S. § 5221.]

Measure of damages: The value of the land at the time it is taken, and not its value at the time of the trial, is the measure of damages, and it is error to admit evidence as to its value at the latter date. Spokane etc. Ry. Co. v. Lieuallen (1892) 3 I. 381, 29 P. 854.

Evidence of the discovery of mineral deposits upon lands sought to be condemned for railroad right of way after the issuance of summons is admissible for the purpose of enabling the jury to determine whether the market value of the land was affected thereby at the time of the issuance of the summons. In such cases it is not permissible to draw a distinction between actual value and market value. Tyson Creek R. Co. v. Empire Mill Co., 31 I. 580, 174 P. 1004.

Improvements: The improvements appertaining to the land sought to be condemned are assessed as a part of the realty, and the finding of the value of the realty includes the improvements. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson (1912) 21 I. 160, 121 P. 88.

A prospect hole on a placer claim is not an improvement in the sense in which the word is used in this section. Tyson Creek R. Co. v. Empire Mill Co., supra.

Interest. Under this section the owner is entitled to interest on the damages awarded for land taken from the date of the summons. Weiser Valley L. & W. Co. v. Ryan (1911) 190 F. 417, 111 C. C. A. 221.

Subsequent damage: If the damages sustained are fixed as of the date of the issuance of the summons and the landowner receives that compensation it can make no difference to him how much damage or waste may thereafter be committed upon the property. [5223] Payment of damages. The plaintiff must, within 30 days after final judgment, pay the sum of money assessed, but may, at the time of or before payment, elect to build the fences and cattle guards, and, if he so elect, shall execute to the defendant a bond, with sureties to be approved by the court, in double the assessed cost of the same, to build such fences and cattle guards within eight months from the time the railroad is built on the land taken, and, if such bond is given, need not pay the cost of such fences and cattle guards. In an action on such bond the plaintiff may recover reasonable attorney's fees. [R. S. § 5223.]

Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson, supra.

§ 7418. [5224] Same: Failure to make payment. Payment may be made to the defendants entitled thereto, or the money may be deposited in court for the defendants, and be distributed to those entitled thereo. If the money be not so paid or deposited, the defendants may have execution as in civil cases; and if the money can not be made on execution, the court, upon a showing to that effect, must set aside and annul the entire proceedings, and restore possession of the property to the defendant, if possession has been taken by the plaintiff. The plaintiff is not left to his own discretion as to whether or not he will pay the judgment and leave the defendant's property charged with a liability to be taken, and the judgment paid at the will or convenience of the plaintiff, and to guard against such possible condition the legislature provided for a personal judgment and for means by which the same could be enforced. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson, supra.

§ 7419. [5225] Final order of condemnation. When payments have been made and the bond given, if the plaintiff elects to give one, as required by the last two sections, the court must make final order of condemnation, which must describe the property condemned and the purposes of such condemnation. Judgments in condemnation proceedings: Under the provisions of this section and §§ 7417 and 7418 there are two judgments to be entered by the trial court; the first in favor of defendant for damages as assessed under the provisions of § 7414, and the second in favor of plaintiff for condemnation, describing the property and the purpose of condemnation, entered after the payment of the first judgment, as prescribed under this section. Big Lost River Irr. Co. v. Davidson, supra.

It is improper to render judgment of condemnation until the award of compensation has been paid. Weiser Valley L. & W. Co. v. Ryan (1911) 190 F, 425. 111 C. C. A. 229.

Title passes when: No title can pass the condemnor until after the payment of the value of the property has been made. Ryan v. Weiser Valley Land etc. Co. (1911) 20 I. 288, 118 P. 769.

§ 7420. [5226] Possession by plaintiff: Payment of damages: Appointment of commissioners. At any time after trial and judgment entered, or pending an appeal from the judgment to the supreme court, whenever the plaintiffs shall have paid into the court for the defendant the full amount of the judgment, and such further sum as shall be required by the court as a fund to pay any further damages and costs that may be recovered in said proceedings, as well as all damages that may be sustained by the defendant, if for any cause the property shall not be finally taken for public use, the district court in which the proceeding was tried may, upon notice of not less than 10 days, authorize the plaintiff, if already in possession, to continue therein, and if not, to take possession of and use the property during the conclusion of the litigation, and may, if necessary, stay all actions and proceedings against the plaintiff on account thereof.

The defendant who is entitled to the money paid into court for him upon any judgment, shall be entitled to demand and receive the same at any time thereafter, upon obtaining an order therefor from the court. It shall be the duty of the court, or the judge thereof, upon application being made by such defendant, to order and direct that the money so paid into court for him, be delivered to him upon his filing a satisfaction of the judgment, or upon his filing a receipt therefor, and an abandonment of all defenses to the action or proceeding, except as to the amount of damages that he may be entitled to in the event that a new trial shall be granted. A payment to a defendant as aforesaid shall be held to be an abandonment by such defendant of all defenses interposed by him, excepting his claim for greater compensation. The court may order the money to be deposited in the county treasury, and in such case it shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive all such moneys, duly receipt for, and safely keep the same, and to pay out such moneys in such manner, and at such times, as the court or judge thereof may direct, and for such duty he shall be liable to the plaintiff upon his official bond: Provided further, That at any time after the commencement of proceedings in the district court, as provided for in this title, to condemn property, and upon 10 days' notice to the adverse party, the district court or the judge thereof may appoint three disinterested persons, who shall be residents of the county in which the land is situated, as commissioners to assess and determine the damages that the defendant will sustain by reason of the condemnation and appropriation of the property described in the complaint, and the said commissioners shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, take and subscribe an oath to faithfully and impartially discharge their duties as such commissioners. Such commissioners shall give at least five days' notice in writing of the time and place where they will meet for the purpose aforesaid, which place, unless agreed upon between the two parties, shall be within five miles of the premises aforesaid. At the time and place mentioned in such notice they may administer oaths to witnesses, and hear the evidence offered by the parties, and, after viewing the premises, shall report in writing their proceedings and the damages which they find the defendant will sustain by reason of the condemnation and appropriation of said property, which report shall be signed by said commissioners, or a majority thereof, and be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court in which such action shall be pending; and at any time after payment to the defendant of the amount so assessed and found by said commissioner as damages, or in case the defendant shall refuse to receive the same, then at any time after such amount shall be deposited with the clerk of the said court to abide the result of said action, the plaintiff may enter upon, and take possession of and use, the property mentioned in the complaint, until the final conclusion of the litigation concerning the same: Provided further, That at the time of making such payment to the defendant of the amount so assessed and found by said commissioners as damages, or in case the defendant shall refuse to receive the same, then at any time after such amount shall be deposited with the clerk of the said court to abide the result of said action, the plaintiff may elect to build the fences, cattle guards and other structures by said commissioners found to be necessary, and may execute to the defendant a bond as provided in section 7417. Constitutionality: This section is not in violation of either Const. I. 14, or Const. 1, 7. Under the constitution, private property can not be taken for a public use without payment, in advance of the taking, of a just compensation therefor; but a tender of the amount assessed, in the manner prescribed by law; or, in case of his refusal to accept the same, a payment thereof into court to await the determination of the action is a sufficient compliance with the constitutional requirement as to payment to authorize the court in letting a party into possession of the property that he seeks to condemn. Portneuf Irr. Co. v. Budge (1909) 16 I. 116, 100 P. 1046, 18 Ann. Cas. 674.

Jurisdiction: Under our statute granting the power of eminent domain, the district court, or judge thereof, has jurisdiction to determine the right or necessity for the exercise of that right. It may pass on the competency of the testimony offered and order the appointment of commissioners; and its action may be reviewed on an appeal, but can not be reviewed on certiorari. Coeur d'Alene M. Co. v. Woods (1908) 15 I. 26, 96 P. 210.

This section confers all the jurisdiction necessary to a hearing and assessment of damages; and the means necessary to carry the proceedings into effect are given by § 6511. Pyle v. Woods (1910) 18 I. 674, 111 P. 746.

Same: Condition precedent: The use, necessity and all the requirements of § 7407, should be tried and found by the court before commissioners are appointed. Pyle v. Woods, supra; Portneuf Irr. Co. v. Budge, supra.

Service of notice: Where defendants reside outside jurisdiction of district court, service of notice by mail as provided in § 7200, was under § 7422 sufficient. Empire Mill Co. v. Dist. Ct. (1915) 27 I. 383, 149 P. 499; 27 I. 400, 149 P. 505.

Service on March 31 for hearing April 10 was sufficient. Ib.

Right to jury: Primarily the right of trial by jury is accorded equally to both parties to the action. As a substitute therefor there is accorded to the plaintiff the right of having commissioners appointed to assess the damages that will be sustained by the defendant, and if the plaintiff pays such award and the defendant accepts the same, the right of trial by jury is ended. If, on the other hand, the plaintiff pays the award and the defendant refuses to accept it, the plaintiff may no longer demand a jury, but the defendant may still demand a jury to assess the damages that he will sustain. Pyle v. Woods, supra.

Judgment: Upon an award of commissioners in condemnation proceedings, if the amount awarded is paid by the plaintiff and accepted by the defendant, a decree confirming such action of the parties will be in substance a decree by consent or confession, and will come as fully within the purview of the statute as if the case had gone to trial before a jury and judgment and decree had been entered on the verdict. Ib.

Injunction: A condemnor, proceeding under this statute, may be enjoined from possession upon refusal to pay the award. Weiser Valley L. & W. Co. v. Ryan (1911) 190 F. 425, 111 C. C. A. 229, and in other cases where the ends of justice require it. (Budge, J. dissenting) Blackwell L. Co. v. Empire Mill Co. (1916) 29 I. 236, 158 P. 792.

§ 7421. [5227] Costs. Costs may be allowed or not, and, if allowed, may be apportioned between the parties on the same or adverse sides in the discretion of the court. [R. S. § 5227.]

Applied: It would clearly be an abuse of the discretion of the trial court, under this statute, to refuse to allow a defendant costs where the plaintiff had procured the appointment of commissioners and had a hearing, entailed all the costs incident to the production of witnesses and attendance on the meeting of the commissioners, and then had dismissed the action. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Trueman (1910) 18 I. 687, 112 P. 210.

In a suit in condemnation, under the constitution and statutes of this state, the costs of the proceeding and cost of appeal should be taxed against the condemnor where the appeal has been prosecuted by the party seeking condemnation. (On rehearing) Rawson-Works L. Co. v. Richardson (1914) 26 I. 45, 141 P. 74.

§ 7422. [5228] Rules of practice and appeals. Except as otherwise provided in this title, the provisions of this code relative to civil actions and new trials and appeals are applicable to, and constitute, the rules of practice in the proceedings in this title. [R. S. § 5228.]

Right to dismiss: In civil actions, under § 6830, the plaintiff may dismiss, upon payment of costs, at any time before trial, provided a counterclaim has not been made or affirmative relief sought. This provision is applicable to proceedings in eminent domain. C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Trueman (1910) 18 I. 687, 112 P. 210.

Service of notice: Where defendants resided outside jurisdiction of district court, service of notice provided for in § 7420, by mail in accordance with § 7200 was sufficient. Empire Mill Co. v. Dist. Ct. (1915) 27 I. 383, 400, 149 P. 499, 500.

Appealable orders: An order or judgment in a condemnation proceeding allowing commissioners to be appointed and authorizing the taking of land is an appealable order. McLean v. Dist. Ct. (1913) 24 I. 441, 134 P. 536, Ann. Cas. 1915D 542.

§ 7423. Application to municipalities. Nothing in this code must be construed to abrogate or repeal any statute provided for the taking of property in any municipality for street purposes. Any municipality at its option may exercise the right of eminent domain under the provisions of this chapter for any of the uses and purposes mentioned in sections 3963 and 3964, in like manner and to the same extent as for any of the purposes mentioned in section 7404. Few changes have been made since.

test made by an attorney appointed by the court does not bar a contest after probate, by the party so represented, if commenced within the time provided in this chapter; nor does the nonappointment of an attorney by the court of itself invalidate the probate of a will. [R. S. § 5305.]

[5308] Procedure in contests. If any one appears to contest the will he must file written grounds of opposition to the probate thereof, and serve a copy on the petitioner and other residents of the county interested in the estate, any one or more of whom may demur thereto upon any of the grounds of demurrer to a complaint in civil actions. If the demurrer is sustained the court must allow the contestant a reasonable time, not exceeding 10 days, within which to amend his written opposition. If the demurrer is overruled, the petitioner and others interested may jointly or separately answer the contestant's grounds, traversing, or otherwise obviating or avoiding the objections. Any issues of fact thus raised involving:

1. The competency of the decedent to make a last will and testament.
2. The freedom of the decedent at the time of the execution of the will from duress, menace, fraud or undue influence.
3. The due execution and attestation of the will by the decedent or subscribing witnesses; or,
4. Any other questions substantially affecting the validity of the will,

Must, on request of either party, in writing filed three days prior to the day set for the hearing, be tried by a jury. If no jury is demanded, the court must try and determine the issues joined. On the trial the contestant is plaintiff, and the petitioner is defendant. [R. S. § 5308.]

Jury trial on appeal: Where a written demand for a jury trial is made in the probate court and filed with the other papers in the district court on appeal, either party may enforce the demand for a jury in the district court without renewing the same by another writing and without giving notice of his intention to do so. Pine v. Callahan (1902) 8 I. 684, 71 P. 473.

Evidence: There is no provision in this statute which prescribes the evidence required upon a hearing of a contest of a will except the general rule, which applies to all actions brought in a court having jurisdiction, that the facts alleged in the pleadings are true. Head v. Nixon (1912) 22 I. 765, 128 P. 557.

Where a petition for probation of a will and a contest are tried at the same time, the proponent should first present his preliminary proof in support of his petition, on which he has the burden of proof: and when other evidence is also introduced in favor of the contestant, the burden of proof then shifts to the contestant. Persons entitled to nominate: Only persons designated in subdivision 1 of this section are entitled to nominate some other person for appointment, and thereby have such person advanced to the rank and class of the one making the request or nomination. Persons falling under subdivisions

Administration by creditor: Where the widow, next of kin and public administrator neglect to take out letters, a creditor desiring to do so must exercise reasonable diligence, and can not without good cause defer making application until the statute of limitations has run, and then enforce his claim on the theory that the statute was suspended on account of the nonappointment of the administrator. § 7500. [5364] Proof required on hearing. Before letters of administration are granted on the estate of any person who is represented to have died intestate, the fact of his dying intestate must be proved by the testimony of the applicant or others; and the court may also examine any other person concerning the time, place and manner of his death, the place of his residence at the time, the value and character of his property, and whether or not the decedent left any will, and may compel any person to attend as a witness for that purpose. Discretion of court: This section means to provide for the appointment of any competent person upon the request of some one entitled thereto, where no application has been made by some person entitled to administer under the statute. It is a matter addressed to the sound discretion of the court and is not an arbitrary or mandatory provision or requirement. Est. of Daggett, supra.

But when the conditions provided for in § 7502 are presented to the court at the original hearing and it appears that the appointment if made under this section would immediately be subject to revocation the discretion vested in the court under this statute ceases to be a discretion, and the duty becomes absolute to appoint the person belonging to the class, or the nominee of such person, mentioned in § 7502. Est. of Daggett (On petition for rehearing, 1908) supra.

Request necessary: One who is not within the line of succession can be appointed to administer upon the estate of an intestate only on application of the person entitled; and, by revoking the application, this person may prevent the appointment, if not actually made at the time. McCormick v. Brownell (1913) 25 I. 11, 136 P. 613.

Nonresident: This section does not authorize a nonresident to nominate since he is himself not entitled to administer. Wright v. Merrill, supra.

§ 7502. [5366] Revocation of letters. When letters of administration have been granted to any other person than the surviving husband or wife, child, father, mother, brother or sister of the intestate, any one of them who is competent, or any competent person at the written request of any of them, may obtain the revocation of the letters and be entitled to the administration, by presenting to the court a petition praying the revocation, and that letters of administration may be issued to him. its effect is such that if several petitions for letters are presented, and one is by a preferred person under §§ 7487 and 7501, who could under this section cause the revocation of the letters granted to any of the others, such preferred person is entitled to nominate and it is the court's duty to appoint the person so nominated. Est. of Daggett (1908) 15 I. 504, 512, 98 P. 849.

Revocation by other person: A person entitled to administration other than those specifically named in this section may revoke a nomination made by him before the same has been acted upon by the probate judge. McCormick v. Brownell (1913) 25 I. 11, 136 P. 613.

If none has been selected, designated and recorded, the judge or the court must select, designate, set apart and cause to be recorded, a homestead for the use of the persons hereinbefore named in the manner provided in this chapter, out of the real estate belonging to the decedent. Sufficiency of petition: A petition to set aside a homestead under this section which sets forth the making and return of the inventory of the decedent, the description and ownership of the real property returned in the inventory, that such property was the property of the deceased and that its face value did not exceed $5000, and that no homestead had ever been designated or selected by deceased or his widow during his lifetime, is sufficient to entitle the widow to have the property therein described set off as a probate homestead. (On rehearing) Est. of McVay (1908) 14 I. 64, 93 P. 31.

Out of what property: Under the provisions of §§ 7564 and 7565 a probate homestead is one to be created by the probate court out of real property belonging to the decedent which was subject to a homestead at the time of the death of the decedent, and its value is less than $5000, and was of such property as might have been occupied as a home at the time of the decedent's death. Ib.

§ 7566. [5442] Additional allowance to family. If the amount set apart be insufficient for the support of the widow and children, or either, the probate court or judge must make such reasonable allowance out of the estate as shall be necessary for the maintenance of the family, according to their circumstances, during the progress of the settlement of the estate; which, in case of an insolvent estate, must not be longer than one year after granting letters testamentary or of administration. If the decedent left also a minor child or children, the one-half of such property shall belong to the widow or surviving husband and the remainder to the child, or in equal shares to the children, if there be more than one. If there be no widow or surviving husband, the whole belongs to the minor child or children. If the property set apart be a homestead, selected from the separate property of the deceased, the court can only set it apart for a limited period, to be designated in the order, and the title vests in the heirs of the deceased, subject to such order. Notice thereof shall be given and proceedings had in the same manner as upon the settlement of accounts of executors and administrators. If, upon the hearing, the court finds that the value of the estate does not exceed the sum of $1500, it shall, by a decree for that purpose, assign for the use and support of the widow and minor children, if there be a widow and minor children, and if no widow, then for the children, if there be any, and if no children, then for the widow, the whole of the estate, after the payment of the expenses of the last illness of the deceased, funeral charges and expenses of administration, and there must be no further proceedings in the administration, unless further estate be discovered; and when it so appears that the value of the whole estate does not exceed the sum of $1500, it is in the discretion of the probate court to dispense with the regular proceedings, or any part thereof, prescribed in this title, and there must be had a summary administration of the estate, and an order of distribution thereof at the end of six months after the issuing of letters; the notice to creditors must be given to present their claims within four months after the first publication of such notice, and those not so presented are barred as in other cases. If the claim be not due when presented, or be contingent, the particulars of such claim must be stated. When the affidavit is made by a person other than the claimant, he must set forth in the affidavit the reason why it is not made by the claimant. The oath may be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths. The executor or administrator may also require satisfactory vouchers or proofs to be produced in support of the claim. If he allows the claim, it must be presented to the probate judge for his approval, who must, in the same manner, indorse upon it his allowance or rejection. If the executor, administrator, or judge reject the claim, or disallow any part thereof, he shall within 10 days thereafter notify the claimant, his agent or attorney, by mail or personal notice of such rejection or disallowance. If the claim be presented to the executor or administrator before the expiration of the time limited for the presentation of claims, the same is presented in time, though acted upon by the executor or administrator, and by the judge, after the expiration of such time. Purpose of indorsement: The indorsement of the time of presentation and the allowance or rejection of a claim is a requirement for the purpose of fixing the time from which the statute of limitations begins to run, but is not a requirement which in any way affects the validity of the claim. Miller v. Lewiston Nat. Bk. (1910) 18 I. 124, 108 P. 901.

Judgments ex parte: The action of both the administrator and the probate judge is ex parte. The judgment allowing such claim is an ex parte judgment. Est. of Coryell (1909) 16 I. 201, 212, 101 P. 723.

Vacation of allowance: Where a claim against an estate has been allowed by the probate judge, and thereafter objections and exceptions are filed by an heir of such estate, the probate judge has power and jurisdiction to set aside his former allowance of such claim and to hear and determine the objections and exceptions filed. Until the issue thus presented is heard the matter is pending in such court. Ib.

Where claims are pending against an estate before the probate court, upon an order setting aside their former allowance by the administrator and the probate judge upon objections by the heirs, the probate judge is not required to indorse upon said claims his allowance or rejection of the same within 10 days after such order, nor does his failure to do so amount to a rejection of said claims and defeat his jurisdiction to set said claims for hearing upon the objections made by the heirs. Miller v. Lewiston Nat. Bk., supra.

Extension of time: "Refuse" implies an attitude toward some demand. "Neglect" means nothing but a failure to perform, due to negligence. The reasonable definitions of "refuse" and "neglect" can not apply where a necessary extension of time is agreed upon by parties or where a promise to hold open must be necessarily inferred from facts of case. Powell-Sanders Co. v. Carssow (1915) 28 I. 201, 152 P. 1067.

§ 7585. [5467] Same: Filing and exhibits. Every claim allowed by the executor or administrator and approved by the probate judge, or a copy thereof, as hereinafter provided, must, within 30 days thereafter, be filed in the probate court, and be ranked among the acknowledged debts of the estate, to be paid in due course of administration. If the claim is founded on a bond, bill, note or any other instrument, a copy of such instrument must accompany the claim, and the original instrument must be exhibited if demanded, unless it is lost or destroyed, in which case the claimant must accompany his claim by his affidavit, containing a copy or particular description of such instrument, and stating its loss or destruction. If the claim or any part thereof is secured by a mortgage or other lien which has been recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the land affected by it lies, it is sufficient to describe the mortgage or lien, and refer to the date, volume and page of its record. If, in any case, the claimant has left any original voucher in the hands of the executor or administrator, or suffered the same to be filed in court, he may withdraw the same when a copy thereof has been already, or is then, attached to his claim. A brief description of every claim filed must be entered by the clerk in the register, showing the name of the claimant, the amount and character of the claim, rate of interest and date of allowance. Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: C. C. P. 1872, § 1497; similar as amended: Kerr's C. ib.

N. D. Similar: Prob. C. § 8741.

Effect of allowance of claim: Where a claim is presented to the administrator and by him allowed, and afterward to the probate judge and by him allowed, the effect of such allowance is merely to rank the claim among the acknowledged debts of the estate to be paid in due course of administration. Est. of Coryell (1909) 16 I. 201, 101 P. 723.

Filing of claims: A claim that has been rejected by the administrator need not be reported by him to, or filed by him in, the probate court; it is only claims that have been allowed that must be filed in the probate court. Chandler v. Probate Court (1914) 26 I. 173, 141 P. 635.

Gives no right of action: The filing of a claim, secured or unsecured, with the administrator, gives to the claimant no right of action, but leaves the selling of the property and the payment of the debt in the discretion of the administrator, in the manner prescribed by law. Kendrick State Bank v. Barnum, 31 I. 562, 173 P. 1144.

Mortgage claim: Mistake in filing: The fact that a mortgagee files his claim against a decedent's estate in probate as an unsecured claim does not, ipso facto, operate as a waiver of his mortgage lien. Kendrick State Bank v. Barnum, supra.

§ 7586. Suit on rejected claim. When a claim is rejected, either by the executor or administrator, or the probate judge, the holder must bring suit in the proper court against the executor or administrator, within three months after notice of its rejection, if it be then due, or within two months after it becomes due, otherwise the claim is forever barred. Proper court defined: The "proper court" referred to is the court having civil jurisdiction to try such matter. Idaho Trust Co. v. Miller, supra.

Effect of rejection of claim: The action required to be brought under the provisions of this section to recover the rejected claim, if it be a demand for money, is an action at law, and the rejection of the same by the administrator does not change the character of the claim or of the action required to be brought. Ib.

When action not barred: Limitation held not to apply where administratrix did not reject claim but requested its amendment. Powell-Sanders Co. v. Carssow (1915) 28 I. 201, 152 P. 1067.

No right of action: The refusal of an executor to make a conveyance of real property to decedent's grantee without the decree of the probate court authorized by section 7673 does not create a right of action against the estate in favor of the grantee for money paid by the latter on the purchase price of the property, and a claim therefor is not a valid claim against the estate. Blake v. Lemp, 32 I. —, 179 P. 737.

§ 7587. [5469] Claims barred by limitations. No claim must be allowed by the executor or administrator, or by the probate judge, which was barred by the statute of limitations, at the time of the death of the decedent. When a claim is presented to the probate judge for his allowance, he may, in his discretion, examine the applicant and others, on oath, and hear any other legal evidence touching the validity of the claim. Application: This section applies to the United States as a claimant as well as to an individual, and the failure of the United States to present its claim to the administrator precludes it from successfully maintaining an action thereon. U. S. v. Hailey (1882) 2 I. 22, 3 P. 263.

The presentation of a claim to an administrator and the rejection thereof by him need not be alleged in the complaint in an action on such claim, but may be proved on the trial without such allegation. Ib.

[5483] Payment of interest on claims. If there be any debt of the decedent bearing interest, whether presented or not, the executor or administrator may, by order of the court, pay the amount then accumulated and unpaid, or any part thereof, at any time when there are sufficient funds properly applicable thereto, whether said claim be then due or not; and interest shall thereupon cease to accrue upon the amount so paid. This section does not apply to existing debts unless the creditor consent to accept the amount. [R. S. § 5483.]

SALES AND CONVEYANCES OF PROPERTY OF DECEDENT.

§ 7602. [5490] Personal property to be first exhausted. The personal estate of the decedent which comes into the hands of the executor or administrator is first chargeable with the payment of the debts and expenses. If the goods, chattels, rights and credits in the hands of the executor or administrator are not sufficient to pay the debts of the decedent, the expenses of administration and the allowance to the family, the whole of the real estate may be sold for that purpose by the executor or administrator. [5491] Sales to be reported and confirmed. No sale of any property of an estate of a decedent is valid unless made under order of the probate court, except as otherwise provided in this chapter. All sales must be reported under oath and confirmed by the probate court before the title of the property sold passes. [R. S. § 5491.]

§ 7604. [5492] Petition for order of sale. All petitions for orders of sale must be in writing, setting forth the facts showing the sale to be necessary, and, upon the hearing, any person interested in the estate may file his written objections which must be heard and determined. A failure to set forth the facts showing the sale to be necessary will not invalidate the subsequent proceedings, if the defect be supplied by the proofs at the hearing, and the general facts showing the necessity be stated in the order directing the sale. The probate court, when a petition for the sale of any property, for any of the purposes herein named, is presented, must inquire fully into the probable amount required to make all such payments, and if there be no more estate than sufficient to pay the same, may require but one proceeding for the sale of the entire estate. In such case the petition must set forth substantially the facts required in a petition for the sale of real estate. [R. S. § 5493.]

Upon filing his petition, notice of at least five days must be given of the hearing of the application, either by posting notices or by advertising. He may also make a similar application from time to time, so long as any personal property remains in his hands and sale

In making orders and sales for the payment of debts or family allowance, the court or judge must so direct; and such articles as are not necessary for the support and subsistence of the family of the decedent, or are not specially bequeathed, must be first sold. When the decedent, at the time of his death, was not a citizen of this state, but had mining interests herein, the probate court of any county in this state in which such mining interests are situated, may, upon a proper petition of an heir at law of such decedent, or of any of his coowners or mining partners in any of said mining interests, or of any person having any interest in such mining properties, or in the estate, appoint an administrator, who shall give bonds as required by the court. The probate court first acquiring jurisdiction has exclusive jurisdiction of the administration of all of decedent's mining interests in this state, and after such appointment of an administrator of such nonresident decedent, creditors may present and prove their claims as in other cases, but within such time as the court may order.

The probate court may, when it shall appear that the decedent has no creditors in this state, or when for other causes it shall seem best to the court, permit decedent's foreign administrator or representative to file certified copies of his letters of authority to represent the estate, and thereafter he has all the authority of an administrator appointed under the laws of this state. 3. The debts outstanding against the decedent, as far as can be ascertained or estimated.
4. The amount due upon the family allowance, or

10. Whether the same be community or separate property.

11. The names and ages of the legatees and devisees, if any, and of the heirs of the decedent, so far as known to the petitioner, and

§ 7628. [5516] Time and place of sale. Sales at public auction must be made in the county where the land is situated, but when the land is situated in two or more counties, it may be sold in either. The sale must be made between the hours of nine o'clock in the morning and the setting of the sun on the same day, and must be made on the day named in the notice of sale, unless the same is postponed. § 7629. [5517] Private sale of real estate. When a sale of real estate is ordered to be made at private sale, notice of the same must be posted up in three of the most public places in the county in which the land is situated, and published in a newspaper, if there be one printed in the same county—if none, then in such paper as the court may direct—for two weeks successively next before the day on or after which the sale is to be made, in which the lands and tenements to be sold must be described with common certainty. The notice must state a day on or after which the sale will be made, and a place where offers or bids will be received. The day last referred to must be at least 15 days from the first publication of notice, and the sale must not be made before that day, but must be made within six months thereafter. The bids or offers must be in writing, and may be left at the place designated in the notice, or delivered to the executor or administrator personally, or may be filed in the office of the clerk of the probate court, to which the return of sale must be made, at any time after the first publication of the notice, and before the making of the sale. If it is shown that it will be for the best interest of the estate, the court or judge may, by an order, shorten the time of notice, which shall not, however, be less than one week, and may provide that the sale may be made on or after a day less than 15, but not less than eight days from the first publication of the notice, in which case the notice of sale and the sale may be made to correspond with such order. [5518] Same: Sufficiency of bid: Appraisement. No sale of real estate at private sale shall be confirmed by the court unless the sum offered is at least 90 per cent of the appraised value thereof, nor unless such real estate has been appraised within one year of the time of such sale. If it has not been so appraised, or if the court is satisfied that the appraisement is too high or too low, appraisers must be appointed and they must make an appraisement thereof in the same manner as in case of an original appraisement of an estate. This may be done at any time before the sale or the confirmation thereof. [R. S. § 5518.]

§ 7632. [5520] Return of sale: Proceedings. The executor or administrator, after making any sale of real estate, must make a return of his proceedings to the court, which must be filed in the office of the clerk at any time subsequent to the sale. A hearing upon the return of the proceedings may be asked for in the return or by petition subsequently, and thereupon the court or judge must fix the day for the hearing, of which notice of at least 10 days must be given by the clerk by notices posted in three public places in the county, or by publication in a newspaper, or both, as the court or judge shall direct, and must briefly indicate the land sold, the sum for which it was sold, and must refer to the return for further particulars. Upon the hearing, the court must examine the return and witnesses in relation to the same, and if the proceedings were unfair, or the sum bid disproportionate to the value, and if it appear that a sum exceeding such bid at least 10 per cent, exclusive of the expenses of a new sale, may be obtained, the court may vacate the sale and direct another to be had, of which notice must be given, and the sale in all respects conducted as if no previous sale had taken place; if an offer of 10 per cent more in amount than that named in the return be made to the court in writing by a responsible person it is in the discretion of the court to accept such offer and confirm the sale to such person, or to order a new sale. N. D. Analogous: Prob. C. § 8775.

Discretion defined: The "discretion" referred to is a legal discretion, but before the court can exercise that discretion an offer by a responsible person of 10 per cent more than that named in the return must be made. McGregor v. Jensen (1910) 18 I. 320, 109 P. 729.

Time of offer: The provisions of this section clearly contemplate that the offer there referred to must be made in the probate court at the time of the hearing of the confirmation, and not a long time after said hearing and after an appeal has been taken to the district court. And there must be evidence showing that the proceedings were unfair and that the sum bid was "disproportionate" to the value of the claim at the time the bid was made. Ib.

§ 7633. [5521] Objections to confirmation. When return of the sale is made and filed, any person interested in the estate may file written objections to the confirmation thereof and may be heard thereon when the return is heard by the court or judge, and may produce witnesses in support of his objections. When written objections are filed, the return to the order of sale and the objections made thereto constitute the issues to be tried and determined by the probate court, from a judgment on which an appeal lies to the district court. Ib.

Objections may be made to the confirmation of the sale by any one interested. McGregor v. Jensen (1910) 18 I. 320, 109 P. 729.

§ 7634. [5522] Confirmation of sale: Resale. If it appears to the court that the sale was legally made and fairly conducted, and that the sum bid was not disproportionate to the value of the property sold, and that a greater sum, as above specified can not be obtained, or if the increased bid before mentioned be made and accepted by the court, the court must make an order confirming the sale, and directing conveyances to be executed. The sale, from that time, is confirmed and valid, and a certified copy of the order confirming it and directing conveyances to be executed must be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county within which the land sold is situated. If, after the confirmation, the purchaser, neglects or refuses to comply with the terms of the sale, the court may, on motion of the executor or administrator, and after notice to the purchaser, order a resale to be made of the property. If the amount realized on such resale does not cover the bid and the expenses of previous sale, such purchaser is liable for the deficiency to the estate. [R. S. § 5522.]

Hearing on objections: If objections are made to the confirmation of the sale, and on a hearing it appears to the probate court that the sale was fair, and that the sum bid was a reasonable and fair value for the property sold, it is the duty of the probate court to confirm the sale; and where the case has been tried anew, on its appeal to the district court, it is equally the duty of that court to confirm the sale, where the same elements of fairness appear. McGregor v. Jensen (1910) 18 I. 320, 109 P. 729.

§ 7635. [5523] Execution of conveyances. Conveyances must thereupon be executed to the purchaser by the executor or administrator, and they must refer to the orders of the probate court authorizing and confirming the sale of the property of the estate, and directing conveyances thereof to be executed, and to the record of the order of confirmation in the office of the county recorder, either by the date of such recording, or by the date, volume and page of the record, and such reference shall have the same effect as if the orders were, at large, inserted in the conveyance. Conveyances so made convey all the right, title, interest and estate of the decedent in the premises at the time of his death; if, prior to the sale, by operation of law or otherwise, the estate has acquired any right, title or interest in the premises other than, or in addition to, that of the decedent at the time of his death, such right, title or interest also passes by such conveyances. CHAPTER 281.

PROCEEDINGS TO MORTGAGE OR LEASE PROPERTY OF DECEDENTS, MINORS OR INCOMPETENTS.

§ 7668. Power of court. Whenever, in any estate now being administered, or that may hereafter be administered, or in any guardianship proceeding now pending, or that may hereafter be pending, it shall appear to the probate court, or the judge thereof, to be for the advantage of the estate to raise money upon a note or notes to be secured by a mortgage of the real property of any decedent, or of a minor, or an incompetent person, or any part thereof, or to make a lease of said real property, or any part thereof, or to mortgage, pledge or hypothecate personal property, including notes secured by real estate mortgage, or to make a lease of said personal property, or any part thereof, the court or judge, as often as occasion therefor shall arise in the administration of any estate, or in the course of any guardianship matter, may, on a petition, notice and hearing as provided in this chapter, authorize, empower and direct the executor or administrator, or guardian of such minor or incompetent person, to mortgage such real or personal property, or any part thereof, and to execute a note or notes to be secured by such mortgage, or to lease such real estate or personal property or some part thereof. ['19, c. 57, § 1, p. 167.]

§ 7669. Mortgage of realty. To obtain an order to mortgage such realty, or to mortgage, pledge or hypothecate personal property, including notes secured by real estate mortgages, the proceedings to be taken and the effect thereof shall be as follows:

1. The executor or administrator of any estate, or guardian of any minor or incompetent person, or any person interested in the estates of such decedents, minors, or incompetent persons, may file a verified petition showing:

a. The particular purpose or purposes for which it is proposed to make the note or notes and mortgages which shall be either to maintain the ward and his family, or to maintain and educate the ward when a minor, or to pay, reduce, extend or renew some lien or mortgage already subsisting on the realty of said ward, or some part thereof, and in the case of decedents' estates, to pay the debts, legacies, or charges of administration, or to pay, reduce, extend, or renew some lien or mortgage already subsisting on said realty or some part thereof.

b. A statement of the facts and circumstances showing the insufficiency of the income of the estate under guardianship to maintain the ward and his family, or to maintain and educate the ward, when a minor, and the liens or mortgages to be paid, reduced, extended, or renewed, as the case may be; and in the case of the decedents' estates, to pay the debts, legacies, or charges of administration, and the liens or mortgages to be paid, reduced, extended, or renewed, as the case may be.

c. The advantage that may accrue to the estate from raising the required money by note or notes and mortgage, or providing for the payment, reduction, extension, or renewal of the subsisting liens or mortgages, as the case may be.

d. The amount to be raised, with a general description of the property proposed to be mortgaged; and

e. The names of the legatees and devisees, if any, and of the heirs of the deceased, or of the minor, or of the incompetent person, as the case may be, so far as known to the petitioner.

2. Upon filing such petition, an order shall be made by the court or judge, requiring all persons interested in the estate to appear before the court or judge, at a time and place specified, not less than four nor more than ten weeks thereafter, then and there to show cause why the realty (briefly indicating it), or some part thereof, should not be mortgaged for the amount mentioned in the petition (stating such amount), or such lesser amount as to the court or judge shall seem meet, and referring to the petition on file for further particulars.

3. The order to show cause may be personally served on the persons interested in the estate, at least ten days before the time appointed for hearing the petition, or may be published for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county.

4. At the time and at the place appointed in the order to show cause, or at such other time and place to which the hearing may be postponed (the power to make all needful postponements being hereby vested in the court or judge), having first received satisfactory proof of personal service or publication of the order to show cause, the court or judge must proceed to hear the petition and any objections that may be filed or presented thereto.

Upon such hearing, witnesses may be compelled to attend and testify, in the same manner, and with like effect, as in other cases; and if, after a full hearing, the court or judge is satisfied that it will be for the advantage of the estate to mortgage the whole or any portion of the real estate, an order must be made authorizing, empowering, and directing the executor or administrator, or the guardian of such minor or incompetent person, to make such mortgage, and a promissory note or notes to the lender, for the amount of the loan, to be secured by said mortgage; the order may direct that a lesser amount than that named in the petition be borrowed, and may prescribe the maximum rate of interest and period of the loan, which shall not exceed five years, and may direct in what coin or currency it shall be paid, and require that the interest and the whole or any part of the principal be paid, from time to time, out of the whole estate or any part thereof, and that any buildings on the premises to be mortgaged shall be insured for further security of the lender, and the premiums paid from such income.

5. After the making of the order to mortgage, the executor, administrator, or guardian of a minor or of an incompetent person shall execute and deliver a promissory note or notes for the amount and period specified in the order, and shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver a mortgage of the premises, setting forth in the mortgage that it is made by authority of the order, and giving the date of such order. A certified copy of the order shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of every county in which the encumbered land, or any portion thereof, lies. The note or notes and mortgage shall be signed by the executor, administrator, or guardian as such, and shall create no personal liability against the persons so signing.

6. Every note or notes and mortgage so made shall be effectual to mortgage and hypothecate all the right, title, interest and estate which the decedent, minor or incompetent person had in the premises described therein at the time of the death of such decedent, or at the time of the appointment of the guardian of such minor or of such incompetent person, or prior thereto, and any right, title, or interest in said premises acquired by the estate of such decedent, minor, or incompetent person, by operation of law or otherwise, since the time of the death of such decedent, or the appointment of the guardian of such minor or incompetent person.

Jurisdiction of the court to administer the estate of such decedent, minor, or incompetent person shall be effectual to vest such court and judge with jurisdiction to make the order for the note or notes and mortgage, and such jurisdiction shall conclusively inure to the benefit of the mortgagee, named in the mortgage, his heirs and assigns. No irregularity in the form of the proceedings shall impair or invalidate the same or the note or notes and mortgage given in pursuance thereof, and the mortgagee, his heirs and assigns, shall have and possess the same rights and remedies on the note or notes and mortgage as if it had been made by the decedent prior to his death, the minor after reaching the age of maturity, or the incompetent person when legally competent.

Provided, That upon any foreclosure, if the proceeds of the encumbered property are insufficient to pay the note or notes and mortgage, no judgment or claim for any deficiency of such proceeds to satisfy the note or notes and mortgage, or the costs or expenses of sale, shall be had or allowed, except in cases where the note or notes and mortgage were given to pay, reduce, extend, or renew a lien or mortgage subsisting on the realty, or some part thereof, at the time of the death of the decedent, and the indebtedness secured by such lien or mortgage was an allowed and approved claim against his estate, or a lien upon the interest of the minor in said real estate at the time it vested in him, or upon the estate of the incompetent at the time the incompetency of the incompetent person was so declared by the court; and Provided also, That in cases affecting the estate of the deceased person, the part of the indebtedness remaining unsatisfied must be classed and paid with other demands against the estate, as provided in chapters 278 and 283 with respect to mortgages subsisting at the time of death. ['19, c. 57, § 2, p. 167.]

§ 7670. Mortgage of personal property. To obtain an order to mortgage, pledge or hypothecate personal property the same showing shall be made as required by section 7669 relating to mortgages of real property: Provided, That notice of such application shall be given in compliance with the provisions of section 7607, instead of as provided by section 7669, and that such mortgages shall not be for a longer period than three years. ['19, c. 57, § 3, p. 170.]

§ 7671. Lease of realty. To obtain an order to lease the realty, the proceedings to be taken and the effect thereof shall be as follows:

1. The executor, administrator, guardian of a minor or an incompetent person, or any persons interested in the estate of such decedents, minors or incompetent persons, must file a verified petition showing:

a. The advantage or advantages that may accrue to the estate from giving a lease, and the reasons therefor.

b. A general description of the property proposed to be leased.

c. The term, rental and general conditions of the proposed lease.

d. The names of the legatees and devisees, if any, and of the heirs of the deceased, or of the minor, or of the incompetent person, so far as known to the petitioner.

2. Upon filing such petition an order shall be made by the court or judge requiring all persons interested in the estate to appear before the court or judge, at a time and place specified, not less than two nor more than four weeks thereafter, then and there to show cause why the realty (briefly indicating it) should not be leased for the period (stating it), at the rental mentioned in the petition (stating it), and referring to the petition on file for further particulars.

3. The order to show cause may be personally served on the persons interested in the estate at least ten days before the time appointed for hearing the petition, or it may be published for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county.

4. At the time and place appointed to show cause, or at such other time and place to which the hearing may be postponed (the power to make all needful postponements being hereby vested in the court or judge), the court or judge having first received satisfactory proof of personal service or publication of the order to show cause, must proceed to hear the petition, and any objection that may have been filed or presented thereto. Upon such hearing witnesses may be compelled to attend and testify in the same manner and with like effect as in other cases, and the court may, in its discretion, appoint one or more, not exceeding three, disinterested persons to appraise the rental value of the premises, and direct that a reasonable compensation for the services, not exceeding $5 per day, be paid by the estate. If, after a full hearing, the court or judge is satisfied that it will be for the advantage of the estate to lease the whole or any portion of the real estate, an order must be made authorizing, empowering, and directing the executor, administrator, or the guardian, to make such lease. The order may prescribe the minimum rental or royalty to be received for the premises, and the period of the lease, which must in no case be longer than for five years, and may prescribe the other terms and conditions of such lease.

5. After the making of the order to lease, the executor, administrator, or guardian of a minor or of an incompetent person, shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver a lease of the premises for the term and period and with the conditions specified in the order, setting forth in the lease that it is made by authority of the order, and giving the date of such order. A certified copy of the order shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of every county in which the leased land or any portion thereof lies.

6. Every lease so made shall be effectual to demise and let, at the rent, for the term, and upon the conditions therein prescribed, the premises described therein. Jurisdiction of the court to administer the estate of the decedent, the minor, or of the incompetent person shall be effectual to vest such court and judge with jurisdiction to make the order for the lease, and such jurisdiction shall conclusively inure to the benefit of the lessee, his heirs and assigns. No omission, error, or irregularity in the proceedings shall impair or invalidate the same, or the lease made in pursuance thereof. ['19, c. 57, § 4, p. 171.]

§ 7672. Lease of personal property. To obtain an order to lease personal property the same showing shall be made as required by section 7671 relating to leases of real property: Provided, That notice of such application shall be given in compliance with the provisions of section 7607 instead of as provided by section 7671, and that such leases shall not be for a longer period than three years. ['19, c. 57, § 5, p. 172.]

CHAPTER 282.

CONVEYANCE OF REAL ESTATE IN PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS.

§ 7673 [5565] Performance of decedent's contract. When a person who is bound by contract in writing to convey any real estate, dies before making the conveyance, where such decedent, if living, might be compelled to make such conveyance, the probate court may make a decree authorizing and directing his executor or administrator to convey such real estate to the person entitled thereto. Construed: An executor has no statutory authority to make the conveyance referred to in this section in the absence of a decree of the probate court directing him to do so, and where decedent's grantee seeks such a conveyance the proper procedure is by application to the probate court for such a decree, and not by filing a claim with the executor against the estate. The refusal of the executor to make the conveyance without a decree of the court does not create a right of action against the estate in favor of the grantee for money paid by the latter on the purchase price of the property. Blake v. Lemp, 32 I.—, 179 P. 737.

§ 7674. [5566] Petition for conveyance. On the presentation of a verified petition by any person claiming to be entitled to such conveyance from an executor or administrator, setting forth the facts upon which the claim is predicated, the probate court must appoint a time and place for hearing the petition, at a regular term of the court, and must order notice thereof to be published at least four successive weeks before such hearing in such newspaper in this state as he may designate. Postponement: If exceptions and objections are filed to the allowance of a claim against an estate, in the manner directed by statute, the issue thus presented should be heard and tried by the probate judge, and, until heard and tried, is pending in such court. Est. of Coryell (1909) 16 I. 201, 101 P. 723.

Where there has been a postponement of the hearing on the administrator's report and account it is the duty of the court, at the time to which the postponement has been made, to try and determine the issues of law and fact presented by such report and account. Kent v. Dalrymple (1913) 23 I. 694, 132 P. 301.

Failure to file exception: It is the duty as well as the right of anyone opposed to the final settlement of an administrator's account and final distribution of the estate, in a case where the proper statutory notice is given, to appear in the probate court, file his exceptions in writing, and contest the same. If an interested party neglects to do this he is not entitled to have the order settling the account and the decree of final distribution set aside under § 6726. Chandler v. Prob. Ct. (1914) 26 I. 173, 141 P. 635.

§ 7705. [5601] Same: Hearing. All matters, including allowed claims not passed upon on the settlement of any former account, or on rendering an exhibit, or on making a decree of sale, may be contested by the heirs for cause shown. The hearings and allegations of the respective parties may be postponed from time to time, when necessary, and the court may appoint one or more referees to examine the accounts and make report thereon, subject to confirmation; and may allow a reasonable compensation to the referees, to be paid out of the estate of the decedent. Effect of previous allowance: The fact of previous allowance of a claim would not affect such claim upon a hearing under this section except to cast upon the heir the burden of proof. Est. of Coryell (1909) 16 I. 201, 101 P. 723.

§ 7706. [5602] Conclusiveness of settlement. The settlement of the account and the allowance thereof by the court, or upon appeal, is conclusive against all persons in any way interested in the estate, saving, however, to all persons laboring under any legal disability, their rights to proceed against the executor or administrator, either individually or upon his bond, within two years after their respective disabilities cease; and in any action brought by any such person, the allowance and settlement of the account is prima facie evidence of its correctness. § 7707. [5603] Proof of notice of settlement. The account must not be allowed by the court until it is first proved that notice has been given as required by this chapter, and the decree must show that such

§ 7711. [5607] Same: Preference of mortgage. The preference given in the preceding section to a mortgage only extends to the proceeds of the property mortgaged. Erroneous distribution: Where mortgagee presents his claim as unsecured, and the administrator inadvertently includes him in a pro rata distribution of assets among creditors, and the trial court directs that the amount so paid the mortgagee be refunded to the administrator, the mortgagee cannot be deemed to have participated in the general assets of the estate, and his measure of relief in an action for foreclosure is limited to the security, all right to a deficiency judgment having been waived. If the whole property of the estate be exhausted by such payment or distribution, such account must be considered as a final account, and the executor or administrator is entitled to his discharge, on producing and filing the necessary vouchers and proofs showing that such payments have been made, and that he has fully complied with the decree of the court. If any creditor whose claim has been allowed, but is not yet due, appears and assents to a deduction therefrom of the legal interest for the time the claim has yet to run, he is entitled to be paid accordingly. 1. Each heir, legatee or devisee obtaining such order, before receiving his share or any portion thereof, to execute and deliver to the executor or administrator a bond, in such sum as shall be designated by the probate judge, with sureties to be approved by the judge, payable to the executor or administrator, and conditioned for the payment, whenever required, of his proportion of the debts due from the estate, not exceeding the value or amount of the legacy or proportion of the estate to which he is entitled.

2. The executor or administrator to deliver to the heir, legatee or devisee the whole portion of the estate to which he may be entitled, or only a part thereof, designating it. If, in the execution of the order, a partition is necessary between two or more of the parties interested, it must be made in the manner hereinafter prescribed. At the hearing, the court, if satisfied of the necessity of such payment, must make an order accordingly, designating the amount and giving a time within which it must be paid. If the money is not paid within the time allowed, an action may be maintained by the executor or administrator on the bond. [R. S. § 5625.]

Effect of decree: A decree of distribution is a final judgment and decree to the extent of determining that all the interest that the state had in certain property shall pass and be distributed to the heirs of the deceased. It determines who are the heirs and their respective shares and interests in the estate, but it is not a decree affecting or adjudicating the title to the property as between the estate or the heirs to the estate and any third party. Miller v. Mitcham (1912) 21 I. 741, 123 P. 141.

§ 7731. [5628] Settlement of ancillary administration. Upon application for distribution, after final settlement of the accounts of administration, if the decedent was a nonresident of this state, leaving a will which has been duly proved or allowed in the state of his residence, and an authenticated copy thereof has been admitted to probate in this state, and it is necessary, in order that the estate or any part thereof may be distributed according to the will, that the estate in this state should be delivered to the executor or administrator in the state or place of his residence, the court may order such delivery to be made, and if necessary, order a sale of the real estate, and a like delivery of the proceeds. The delivery, in accordance with the order of the court, is a full discharge of the executor or administrator with the will annexed, in this state, in relation to all property embraced in such order which, unless reversed on appeal, binds and concludes all parties in interest. Sales of real estate ordered by virtue of this section, must be made in the same manner as other sales of real estate of decedents by order of the probate court. [R. S. § 5628.]

§ 7732. [5629] Petition for distribution and notice thereof. The order or decree may be made on the petition of the executor or administrator, or of any person interested in the estate. Notice of the application must be given by posting or publication, as the court may direct, and for such time as may be ordered. A certified copy of the order of their appointment, and of the order or decree assigning and distributing the estate, must be issued to them as their warrant, and their oath must be indorsed thereon. Upon consent of the parties, or when the court deems it proper and just, it is sufficient to appoint one commissioner only, who has the same authority and is governed by the same rules as if three were appointed. [R. S. § 5631.]

SUCCESSION.

Note: This chapter is devoted to the specific subject of "Succession," and commencing with § 7791, which defines succession, the chapter proceeds step by step to define the interest which passes to heirs and to enumerate the heirs in the order in which they shall be entitled to succeed to the estates of deceased persons and such other matters as naturally pertain to the devolution of estates. § 7793. [5702] Succession to property. When any person having title to any estate not otherwise limited by marriage contract, dies without disposing of the estate by will, it is succeeded to, and must be distributed, unless otherwise expressly provided in this code, subject to the payment of his debts, in the following manner:

1. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife and more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the surviving husband or wife and the remainder in equal shares to his children and to the lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation; but if there be no child of the deceased living at his death, the remainder goes to all of his lineal descendants; and if all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the decedent, they share equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation. If the decedent leave no surviving husband or wife, but leave issue, the whole estate goes to such issue; and if such issue consists of more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, then the estate goes in equal shares to the children living or to the child living, and the issue of the deceased child or children by right of representation.

2. If the decedent leave no issue, the estate goes, one-half to the surviving husband or wife, and the other half to the decedent's father and mother in equal shares, and if either be dead, the whole of said half goes to the other. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, the estate must go to his father and mother, in equal shares, or if either be dead, then to the other.

3. If there be neither issue, husband, wife, father nor mother, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation.

4. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife and neither issue, father nor mother, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife.

5. If the decedent leave neither issue, husband, wife, father, mother, brother nor sister, the estate must go to the next of kin in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor must be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote.

6. If the decedent leave several children, or one child and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent, descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation.

7. If, at the death of such child who dies under age not having been married, all the other children of his parents are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parents descends to the issue of all other children of the same parents; and if all the issues are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

8. If the decedent be a widow or widower and leave no kindred, and the estate, or any portion thereof, was common property of such decedent, and his or her deceased spouse, while such spouse was living, such common property shall go to the father and mother of such deceased spouse, in equal shares, or if either be dead, then to the other. If there be no father nor mother, then such property shall go to the brothers and sisters of such deceased spouse, in equal shares, and to the lawful issue of any deceased brother or sister of such deceased spouse, by right of representation.

9. If the decedent leave no husband, wife or kindred, and there be no heirs to take his estate, or any portion thereof, under subdivision 8 of this section, the same shall be paid into the state treasury for the support of common schools. ['07, p. 338, § 1.]

children are considered brothers and sisters, and on the death of either of them, intestate and without issue, the others inherit his estate and are heirs as hereinbefore provided, in like manner as if all the children had been legitimate; saving to the father and mother, respectively, their rights in the estates of all the children in like manner as if all had been legitimate. Purpose of amendment: The undoubted general purpose of the amendment of 1911 was to reduce the number of cases where community estates would be dissolved (with the consequent confusion in business and uncertainty of titles) upon the death of one member of the community. The principle of absolute equality between husband and wife is retained, but the right of succession is practically abolished, and the burden of dividing up the estate is imposed upon the husband or wife, in that his or her wishes can be given effect only by affirmative action, namely, the execution of a will. Scott v. Scott (1917) 247 F. 983.

Title of survivor: This section recognizes the husband and wife as equal partners in the community estate, and it authorizes each to dispose of his or her half by will. It also provides that the survivor shall continue to be the owner of half of such property subject only to the payment of the community debts. This statute clearly and unmistakably provides that the surviving spouse takes his or her half of the community property, not by succession, descent or inheritance, but as survivor of the marital community or partnership. Kohny v. Dunbar (1912) 21 I. 258, 121 P. 544, Ann. Cas. 1913D 492,

Devolution of personal property: This section must be construed with other sections of the statutes in regard to devolution of the property. This section does not change the general rule that the succession to, and disposition and distribution of, personal property, wherever situated, is governed by the lex domicilii of the owner or intestate at the time of his death, without regard to the location of the property or the place of his death. Vansickle v. Hazeltine (1916) 29 I. 228, 158 P. 326.

Succession of adopted child: In view of the fact that an adopted child is given all the rights and made subject to all the burdens of a natural child he is entitled to equality of succession with a child by birth. Scott v. Scott, supra.

Succession by alien: A nonresident foreigner can not take real estate by succession unless he appears and claims succession within five years after the death of the decedent, and if he fails to claim succession within that time the real estate of the decedent escheats to the state. State v. Stevenson (1898) 6 I. 367, 55 P. 886; Connolly v.Prob. Ct. (1913) 25 I. 35, 136 P. 205.

Manner of making claim: It is necessary for a nonresident alien claiming property in the possession or custody of the state or third party, to institute an appropriate proceeding in a court of competent jurisdiction to adjudicate his right of succession within five years from the death of the decedent. Filing a suit in the federal court is not an appearance and claim of the right of succession to an estate as contemplated herein, such action must be in the proper probate court. Connolly v. Reed (1912) 22 I. 29, 125 P. 213.

§ 7806. [5716] Disposition of unclaimed property. When the succession is not claimed as provided in the preceding section, the district court, on information, must direct the attorney general to reduce the property to his or the possession of the state, or to cause the same to be sold, and the same, or the proceeds thereof, to be deposited in the state treasury for the benefit of such nonresident foreigner, or his legal representative, to be paid to him whenever, within five years after such deposit, proof, to the satisfaction of the state auditor and treasurer, is produced that he is entitled to succeed thereto. Applied: If parties through fraud or deceit obtain possession of property, which no other rightful heirs may lawfully claim, such escheats to the state. Connolly v. Reed (1912) 22 I. 29, 125 P. 213.

§ 7807. [5717] Same. When so claimed, the evidence and the joint order of the auditor and treasurer must be filed by the treasurer as his voucher, and the property delivered or the proceeds paid to the claimant on filing his receipt therefor. If no one succeeds to the estate or the proceeds, as herein provided, the property of the decedent is placed by the state treasurer to the credit of the school fund. [R. S. § 5717.]

Her will must be attested, witnessed, and proved in like manner as all other wills. [R. S. § 5726.]

1. It must be subscribed at the end thereof by the testator himself, or some person in his presence and by his direction must subscribe his name thereto;

2. The subscription must be made in the presence of the attesting witnesses or be acknowledged by the testator to them, to have been made by him or by his authority;

3. The testator must, at the time of subscribing or acknowledging the same, declare to the attesting witnesses that the instrument is his will; and

CHAPTER 289.

GUARDIAN AND WARD.

Cross ref. Service of process on guardians: § 7773.

§ 7842. [5770] Appointment of guardians. The probate court of each county, when it appears necessary or convenient, may appoint guardians for the persons and estates, or either of them, of minors who have no guardian legally appointed by will or deed, and who are inhabitants or residents of the county, or who reside without the state and have estate within the county. Such appointment may be made on the petition of a relative or other person on behalf of the minor, or on the petition of the minor, if 14 years of age. Before making such appointment, the court must cause such notice as such court deems reasonable to any person having the care of such minor, and to such relatives of the minor in the county as the court may deem proper. Presumptions: Probate courts are, in matters of guardianship, courts of general jurisdiction, and every intendment is in favor of the regularity of their proceedings, so that in a petition for the settlement of a guardian's account, it is not necessary to allege the steps taken in procuring the appointment of the guardian. Re Arva and Elmer Brady (1904) 10 I. 366, 79 P. 75.

Jurisdiction: By this section the power of the court to appoint a guardian is limited to cases of minors who have no guardian legally appointed by will or deed. Re Crocheron (1909) 16 I. 441, 101 P. 741, 33 L. R. A. (N. S.) 868.

§ 7843. [5771] Nomination of guardian. If the minor is under the age of 14 years, the probate court may nominate and appoint his guardian.

If he is above the age of 14 years, he may nominate his own guardian, who, if approved by the court, must be appointed accordingly. [R. S. § 5771.]

[5772] Same : Failure of minor to nominate. If the guardian nominated by the minor is not approved by the court or if the minor resides out of the state, or if, after being duly cited by the court, he neglects for 10 days to nominate a suitable person, the court may nominate and appoint the guardian, in the same manner as if the minor were under the age of 14 years. Parent's right: It is only where the legal right of the parent to the custody of his child is not clear that the child can be committed to the custody of another on the ground of welfare: if the parent is competent to transact his or her own business, and is not otherwise unsuitable, the custody of the child is not to be given to another even though such other may be a more suitable person. Jain v. Priest (1917) 30 I. 273, 164 P. 364.

Abandonment of right: While the parent being competent and not unsuitable, is absolutely entitled to the guardianship of a minor child, yet the right of a parent may be abandoned or forfeited by act or conduct on his part and if his right is not clear, the best interest of the child will govern the decision of the court. Andrino v. Yates (1906) 12 I. 618, 87 P. 787.

Where a child has resided with its aunt from the time it was two and one-half years old until it was nearly twelve years of age, without having seen its mother during that time, and the conditions are such, in view of the conduct of the mother, and the absence of parental care on her part during that period, that the custody cannot be changed without endangering the happiness and welfare of the child, the mother will be deemed "unsuitable" to have the custody of the child and the child will be left with its aunt, notwithstanding an application of the mother for its custody. Ib.

Surrender of right: Parents when suitable are absolutely entitled to the guardianship of their minor children and the surrender of such right may be made only in the manner provided by law. Re Martin (1916) 29 I. 716, 161 P. 573.

[5777] Bond and letters of guardian. Before the order appointing any person guardian under this chapter takes effect, and before letters issue, the judge must require of such person a bond to the minor, with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the judge, and in such sum as he shall order, conditioned that the guardian will faithfully execute the duties of his trust according to law; and the following conditions shall form a part of such bond, without being expressed therein:

1. To make an inventory of all the estate, real and personal, of his ward that comes to his possession or knowledge, and to return the same within such time as the judge may order.

2. To dispose of and manage the estate according to law and for the best interest of the ward, and faithfully to discharge his trust in relation thereto, and also in relation to the care, custody, and education of the ward.

3. To render an account, on oath, of the property, estate and moneys of the ward in his hands, and all proceeds or interests derived therefrom, and of the management and disposition of the same, within three months after his appointment, and at such other times as the court directs; and at the expiration of his trust to settle his accounts with the court or with the ward, if he be of full age, or his legal representatives, and to pay over and deliver all the estate, moneys, and effects remaining in his hands, or due from him on such settlement, to the person who is lawfully entitled thereto. Upon filing the bond, duly approved, letters of guardianship must issue to the person appointed. In form, the letters of guardianship must be substantially the same as letters of administration; and the oath of the guardian must be indorsed thereon that he will perform the duties of his office, as such guardian, according to law. § 7905. Same: Petition for taking of children from parents. Any person may file a verified petition in writing in the probate court showing that there is within the county a child falling within one of the classes described in section 7902, subdivision b, (naming it) or stating that its name is unknown to petitioner and that it is for the interest of the child and of this state that such child shall be taken from its parents, guardian or custodian and placed under the guardianship of some reputable person of good moral character or some suitable institution or under the care and custody of some society organized and existing under the laws of this state having as one of its objects the receiving, caring for, placing out for adoption and consenting to the adoption of children or for the improving of the condition of the homeless and neglected children, such person, institution or society to be designated by the court. In addition to the showing of the place where the child is kept and of the facts bringing it within one of the classes defined in section 7902, subdivision b, the petition should set forth the name and residence of the parents, guardian or custodian of such child, if known to the petitioner, and all persons, if any,

§ 7906. Notice and citation. Upon the filing of such a petition the judge or clerk of the probate court shall issue a notice and citation, requiring the person having custody or control of the child or with whom the child may be, to appear with the child at a place and time stated in the notice and citation. Service thereof shall be made upon such person and upon the parents of the child, if living and the residence known, and upon its legal guardian, if there is known to be one, and if his residence be known or if there is neither parent nor guardian, or if their residence is not known, then on some relative in the county, if there is known to be one, and his residence is known. If the person having custody or charge of the child shall, without reasonable cause, fail to appear and abide the order of the court or bring the child, he shall be proceeded against as for contempt of court. And the court may, in its discretion, take possession and charge of such child during the pendency of the proceeding and may enjoin its removal from the county, and to that end it may issue and enforce such orders, writs and process as may be deemed appropriate and necessary to or against the child and the custodian thereof and all persons related thereto or having any rights or interest therein. Final hearing upon such petition shall not be had until at least five days after the service of such notice and citation, which may be made anywhere in the state by handing a copy thereof personally to the person to be served, and if the original is not served upon any or all the parties, other notices and citations may be issued by the judge or clerk of the probate court and served. Such notice and citation may be served by any sheriff, probation officer or constable or by any other person over the age of 21 years and a citizen of this state. The return of such notice and citation with the indorsement of service thereon by any such officer or with an affidavit of service by the person so designated, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter to make service, shall be deemed sufficient proof of service thereof. Such notice and citation shall be directed to the parent, parents, guardian, custodian or other person or persons claiming the right to the custody and control of the child, if their names are known and if not known, the phrase "To whom it may concern" shall be used and applied to and be binding upon such persons whose names are unknown. The name of the court, the name of the child or children, if of one family, the date of filing the complaint or petition and the date for appearance and answer, which shall not be less than five or more than 15 days from the date of personal service or of the last publication, and the object of the proceedings in general terms shall be set forth and the whole shall be subscribed by the probate judge.

The notice and citation shall require all persons interested, who shall be known as defendants, to answer the petition within such time (but not less than five nor more than 15 days) after service, as may be prescribed in the notice and citation. ['19, c. 161, § 5, p. 522.]

§ 7907. Same: Publication. In any case where it appears by affidavit that a parent or guardian or other person having the custody and control of the person of any child or any other proper defendant is a nonresident of this state or has departed from this state or cannot, after due diligence, be found within this state, (an affidavit setting forth in ordinary and concise language any of the grounds as above set forth upon which the publication of the notice and citation is asked for shall be sufficient without setting forth or showing what efforts have been made or what diligence has been exerted in attempting to find the parties) or conceals himself therein to avoid the service of the notice and citation as provided by this chapter, the probate court may make an order for the publication of such notice and citation for a period of not less than 10 days, if published in a daily newspaper, and not less than two consecutive issues, if published in a weekly newspaper printed in the county and having a general circulation therein, if there be one printed in the county, if none, then in such paper as the court may direct.

There shall be filed with said court an affidavit of the printer or his foreman or principal clerk showing due publication of the notice and citation as provided herein, and the cost of the publication shall be paid by the county at not to exceed the rate paid by the county for other legal notices.

Such publication of such notices and citation shall be deemed equivalent to personal service upon the persons known or unknown who have been designated as provided herein and the service of the notice and citation is complete at the expiration of the time prescribed by the order for publication.

In addition to the publication of the notice and citation, the court must direct a copy of the notice and citation or petition to be forthwith deposited in the postoffice, directed to the person or persons to be served at their last known place of residence, if their names and postoffice addresses are known. ['19, c. 161, § 6, p. 523.]

§ 7908. Hearing: Order for removal of child. On the date set for the hearing of such petition or as soon thereafter as may be the court shall proceed to hear and dispose of the case without a jury, and if it appears to the court that the child comes within one of the classes defined in section 7902, subdivision b, then the court may make an order removing such child from the custody and control of its parent or parents, guardian or other custodian and committing it to the care of some reputable person of good moral character or to some suitable institution or to some society organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of this state embracing as one of its objects the purpose of caring for, placing out for adoption and consenting to the adoption of any such child, as provided in this chapter.

Pending the final disposition of the case the child may, by order of the court, remain in the possession of the person having control of the same or may be kept in some suitable home under the supervision of the probation officer or any other suitable person or may be placed with some society having for its object the care and disposition of homeless and dependent children, as herein provided. ['19, c. 161, § 7, p. 524.]

§ 7909. Order for commitment: Order for permanent adoption. In every case where the court shall make an order, as provided in the foregoing sections, removing a child from its parents, guardian or custodian and committing it to the care of some person, institution or to some society, as herein provided, the child shall, unless otherwise ordered, become a ward of and be subject to the guardianship of such person, institution or society until it shall have reached the age of eighteen years, and all the rights and powers of the parents, guardian or custodian in respect to the care and disposition of such child shall be vested in such person, institution or society, who shall have the authority to care for, control, educate, place out temporarily or for adoption in some suitable home as approved by such person, institution or society and to consent to its adoption: Provided, That no order for permanent adoption of such child shall be made until the expiration of three months after the date of the order of commitment, and the court making the commitment may, in the order of commitment, but not otherwise, extend this time to not exceed altogether the period of six months. And at any time within such period, upon petition filed for that purpose, said probate court of original jurisdiction may, for good cause shown and upon such terms as it may deem just as to reimbursement for the care of such child in the meantime, vacate the order of commitment and direct the return of the child to its parents or guardian or other custodian. Such petition must be verified and must be filed within the specified period and must show that since the order of commitment was made the condition and disposition and status of the parents or the custodian had so changed that it would be for the best interests of the child to return to its parents or such custodian. Notice of ten days of the hearing of such petition must be given to the person, institution or society having the custody and possession of the child. If upon the hearing the court finds that the well being of the child will be subserved by revoking the commitment, an order may be made to that effect: Provided, That reimbursement be first made to the person or society for the care and keeping of the child.

Such petition or a copy thereof must be served upon the person, institution or society having the care and custody of said children, and such person, institution or society shall have at least ten days in which to answer the same.

The order of adoption made by the court having jurisdiction will be binding upon the child, its parents, guardians and other persons the same as if such persons were in court and consented thereto, whether made a party to the proceedings or not. ['19, c. 161, § 8, p. 525.]

§ 7910. Hearings. The hearings of such cases either for commitment or adoption may be conducted in any room provided for the purpose in the court house or building where sessions of the court are held, and in so far as practicable such cases shall not be heard in conjunction with the other business of the court. At the hearing of any case involving a child, as herein provided, the court shall have power to exclude the general public from the room where the hearing is had, admitting thereto only such persons as may have direct interest in the case. Any child may have a private hearing on the question of its dependency upon the request of said child or either of its parents, guardian or custodian. The investigation and record in each case shall be withheld from public inspection, but such record shall be open to inspection of such child, its parents or guardian or its attorney or to such other persons who may secure a special order of the court therefor. ['19, c. 161, § 9, p. 526.]

§ 7911. Duties of peace officers. When any officer or agent of such institution or society as designated in this chapter or any citizen of this state shall request a police officer or other peace officer or probation officer in this state to investigate or assist in the investigation of any alleged case of neglected or abused child, such officer must immediately make or assist in such investigation, and if he deem it proper shall forthwith take such child into custody without warrant and report such case at once to the probate judge for such proceedings as may be proper under the provisions of this chapter. ['19, c. 161, § 10, p. 526.]

§ 7912. Suspension of sentence. When any minor child under eighteen years of age shall be convicted of any charge the punishment for which may be imprisonment or confinement in the industrial training school the probate judge, if he finds that the good of such minor child demands it or such minor child is an orphan or a homeless, neglected or abused minor child, within the terms of this chapter, or is a county charge or the parents or guardian of such minor child consent thereto, may suspend sentence and surrender the custody of such minor child to any institution or society as is contemplated in this chapter when such institution or society is willing to receive such minor child until such time such minor child shall attain the age of eighteen years or for the term of years to be fixed in the order of surrender and such society may find a home for such minor child and surrender his custody to the person providing such home for the fixed term in such order of surrender, which surrender by said society shall be approved by the order of said court: Provided, That nothing in this chapter shall be held to affect the natural rights of said minor child or his parents or guardians except in the matter of his custody: Provided, further, That if said minor child shall fail to conform to the order of the court fixing custody, he may be apprehended and brought before the court and the court may sentence said minor child as provided by law or surrender him as the court may deem best for the interest of said minor child. ['19, c. 161, § 11, p. 526.]

§ 7914. Habeas corpus: Evidence. Upon the hearing of any writ of habeas corpus for the custody of any such child if it appears that such child has been surrendered or committed to any such person, institution or society, under the provisions of this chapter, such surrender or commitment shall be taken as prima facie evidence that the child was legally and properly surrendered or committed to such person, institution or society and that such person, institution or society is entitled to the custody and control of such child under the provisions of this chapter. ['19, c. 161, § 13, p. 527.]

§ 7915. County aid. The board of county commissioners of any county, upon the application of any society contemplated in this chapter and incorporated and existing under the laws of this state and having an institution in this state and none other, may make an order for the payment by the county of $10 per month for each child so cared for or aided to such society for the receiving, aiding, caring for or placing out for adoption and consenting to the adoption or improving the condition of the orphan, homeless, neglected or abused children of this state coming from said county. Said provision shall apply to all cases where the child is either surrendered under subdivision a or committed under subdivision b of section 7902.

The board of county commissioners shall pay the expense of bringing the child before the court and caring for it pending a hearing under the provisions of this chapter.

When a child is surrendered or committed to a society under the provisions of this chapter by the probate court of any county the county shall pay to such society the sum of $25 to cover the incidental expenses of taking such child, and in addition to such sum the railroad fare to the home of such society.

No clerk, sheriff, police officer, probation officer or county commissioner or any agent of such society shall charge or be allowed any costs whatever in any proceedings herein provided for, except where a petition shall be judged to be without probable cause and malicious, in which event all the costs shall be taxed against the complainant.

Any child shall be deemed to belong to the county in which said child has been a bona fide resident for a period of thirty days immediately preceding said surrender or commitment, but in the absence of evidence to the contrary residence of thirty days in the county from which the child was taken in custody shall be presumed. ['19, c. 161, § 14, p. 527.]

§ 7916. Investigation officers. In the trial of cases under this chapter the court shall have the right to select a discreet man or woman as an officer of the court who shall have the power to visit the home the child or children may be in and investigate the conditions and report to the court his or her findings. ['19, c. 161, § 15, p. 528.]

§ 7917. Probation officers have powers of peace officers. Probation officers are hereby vested with all powers and authority of sheriffs, constables and other peace officers to make arrests or investigations and perform other duties incident to the office of probation officers in carrying out the provisions of this chapter. ['19, c. 161, § 16, p. 528.]

§ 7918. Inducing dependent children to leave legal custody. It shall be unlawful for any person to induce any child or for any child so surrendered or committed to leave the person, institution or society or for any person to induce or attempt to induce a child to leave such person, institution or society who has the care, custody and control of such child as provided herein, and any person who violates the provisions of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Any violation of this section shall be considered a crime subject to extradition. ['19, c. 161, § 17, p. 528.]

§ 7919. Appeals. All orders of final judgment made by any court or the judge thereof, adverse to the parents, guardian or custodian of the child, as provided by this chapter, may be appealed to the district court, such appeal to be governed by the laws relating to appeals from probate and justices' courts to the district courts in civil actions, provided by article 4 of chapter 261, excepting there shall be no bond or costs required of the appellant. The trial in the district court shall be anew and without a jury.

During such appeal the child shall be subject to the order of the probate court and such order of the court shall remain in full force and effect until the matter has been finally adjudicated, unless otherwise ordered by the judge of the district court. ['19, c. 161, § 18, p. 528.]

§ 7922. Construction of law. This chapter shall be liberally construed to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to-wit: That the care, custody and control of the child shall be approximately that which should be given by its parents, and that in all cases of dependency the child shall, when such cases are practicable, be placed in some suitable and approved family home and become a member of a home and family by legal adoption or otherwise. ['19, c. 161, § 21, p. 529.]

§ 7923. Validity of law. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this chapter is for any reason held to be unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, the validity of the remaining parts of this chapter shall not thereby be effected or impaired. ['19, c. 161, § 22, p. 529.]

§ 7924. Repeal: Interpretation. This chapter is intended and shall be considered to repeal all existing laws in conflict with this chapter, but as to all other laws it shall be considered accumulated and not exclusive. ['19, c. 161, § 23, p. 529.]

§ 7934. [5951] Questions of law addressed to court. All questions of law arising upon the trial, including the admissibility of testimony, the facts preliminary to such admission, and the construction of statutes and other writings, and other rules of evidence, are to be decided by the court when submitted and before the trial proceeds, and all discussions of law are to be addressed to the court. Whenever the knowledge of the the court is by this chapter made evidence of a fact, the court is to declare such knowledge to the jury, who are bound to accept it. [R. S. § 5951.]

WITNESSES.

§ 7935. [5956] Who may be witnesses. All persons, without exception, otherwise than is specified in the next two sections, who, having organs of sense, can perceive, and, perceiving, can make known their perceptions to others, may be witnesses. Therefore, neither parties nor other persons who have an interest in the event of an action or proceeding are excluded; nor those who have been convicted of crime; nor persons on account of their opinions on matters of religious belief; although in every case the credibility of the witness may be drawn in question, by the manner in which he testifies, by the character of his testimony, or by evidence affecting his character for truth, honesty or integrity, or his motives, or by contradictory evidence; and the jury are the exclusive judges of his credibility. Impeaching evidence: This section adds nothing to the established rule of impeaching the credibility of witnesses; it does not authorize incompetent impeaching questions such as whether the witness is truthful and whether he has repeatedly told falsehoods. P. v. Barnes (1886) 2 I. 161, 9 P. 532.

§ 7936. [5957] Same: Who may not testify. The following persons can not be witnesses:

1. Those who are of unsound mind at the time of their production for examination.

2. Children under 10 years of age, who appear incapable of receiving just impressions of the facts respecting which they are examined, or of relating them truly.

3. Parties or assignors of parties to an action or proceeding, or persons in whose behalf an action or proceeding is prosecuted against an executor or administrator, upon a claim or demand against the estate of a deceased person, as to any matter of fact occurring before the death of such deceased person. Competency of witness: Insane person: A person who can apprehend the obligation of an oath and is capable of giving a fairly accurate account of the things he has seen or heard, is competent as a witness, although he may be afflicted with some form of insanity; thus a female who is ravished is not necessarily disqualified from testifying in a prosecution for the rape, although such prosecution is based on her mental incapacity to consent to the act complained of, but in such case the question of her competency to testify in view of her insanity is to be determined in the same manner as the competency of other witnesses. S. v. Simes (1906) 12 I. 310, 85 P. 914.

Same: Actions against administrators: This subdivision does not apply to an action brought to establish a trust. (Overruled, Rice v. Ridgley, post.) Nasholds v. McDonnell (1898) 6 I. 377, 55 P. 894.

An action by A and B against the estate of C to enforce specific performance of an alleged oral prospector's contract and seeking to hold the estate of C as trustee of an interest in a mining claim, is a claim or demand against said estate and the plaintiffs are disqualified from being witnesses as to matters of fact occurring before the death of C. Rice v. Ridgley (1900) 7 I. 115, 61 P. 290, overruling Nashold v. McDonnell, supra.

In an action brought against a bank by a depositor to recover the amount of a deposit made by the plaintiff's father in the name of the plaintiff, the cashier of the bank is not rendered incompetent to testify that, by the terms of the deposit made by the plaintiff's father, since deceased, the plaintiff's father was to be permitted to check against the account. Greene v. Bk. of Camas Prairie (1901) 7 I. 576, 64 P. 888.

A party to a trust agreement with a person since deceased can not testify to the terms of such agreement in an action involving title to the property covered thereby. Coats v. Harris (1904) 9 I. 458, 75 P. 243.

An action in claim and delivery to which an administrator is a party, and in which certain of the parties claim the right to possession as assignees of a claim against the estate represented by the administrator, which is secured by mortgage upon the property in question, and in which action no relief is sought against the estate, is not an action "upon a claim or demand against the estate of a deceased person" such as to preclude a party thereto from testifying. Cunningham v. Stoner (1905) 10 I. 549, 79 P. 228.

Harmless error: The admission of testimony in violation of this section is not ground for reversal when it only goes to the proof of facts admitted in the pleadings. Toulouse v. Burkett (1886) 2 I. 184, 10 P. 26.

§ 7937. [5958] Confidential relations and communications. There are particular relations in which it is the policy of the law to encourage confidence and to preserve it inviolate; therefore, a person can not be examined as a witness in the following cases:

1. A husband can not be examined for or against his wife, without her consent, nor a wife for or against her husband, without his consent; nor can either, during the marriage or afterwards, be, without the consent of the other, examined as to any communication made by one to the other during the marriage; but this exception does not apply to a civil action or proceeding by one against the other nor to a criminal action or proceeding for a crime committed by violence of one against the person of the other.

2. An attorney can not, without the consent of his client, be examined as to any communication made by the client to him, or his advice given thereon in the course of professional employment.

3. A clergyman or priest can not, without the consent of the person making the confession, be examined as to any confession made to him in his professional character in the course of discipline enjoined by the church to which he belongs.

4. A physician or surgeon can not, without the consent of his patient, be examined in a civil action as to any information acquired in attending the patient which was necessary to enable him to prescribe or act for the patient.

5. A public officer can not be examined as to communications made to him in official confidence, when the public interests would suffer by the disclosure. [R. S. § 5958.]

Testimony of spouses: The wife of a defendant may be examined as a witness on the part of the plaintiff without the consent of her husband, where there are other defendants than the husband against whom a separate judgment may be rendered; but in such case the court should instruct the jury that the testimony of the wife should only apply to such other defendants. Shields v. Ruddy (1891) 3 I. 148, 28 P. 405.

A party to a divorce action by calling the other as a witness, under § 8035, consents to his testifying. Boeck v. Boeck (1916) 29 I. 639, 161 P. 576.

The rule precluding the husband or wife from testifying for or against the other without the latter's consent admits of no exceptions other than those expressly specified in the statute. Watkins v. Lord (1918) 31 I. 352, 171 P. 1133.

Communications with attorney: A third person who, by accident or by design of the attorney, overhears confidential communications between the client and the attorney, may be compelled to divulge what he so hears. (Huston, C. J. dissents) S. v. Perry (1894) 4 I. 224, 38 P. 655.

Communications which pass between one who is merely a conveyancer or friendly adviser of the grantor or grantee in a deed are not privileged communications under this subdivision. Later v. Haywood (1906) 12 I. 78, 85 P. 494.

When an attorney is called as a witness and declines to answer a question or produce letters or documents, on the ground that the same are privileged under the provisions of subd. 2 of this section, the burden is upon him to show sufficient facts and circumstances to establish the general privileged character of the communications or documents. The rule does not necessitate the attorney disclosing the contents of the documents or import of the communications, but rather devolves upon him the necessity of showing the relation existing between him and his client at the time the communications or documents were received, and the circumstances under which he came into possession of the same, and that they were obtained by him while acting as attorney for the client. Re Niday (1908) 15 I. 559, 98 P. 845.

Communications with physician: A stipulation for life insurance waiving the provision of this section disqualifying a physician from testifying to any information acquired by him while attending his patient, is invalid, and entitles both the beneficiary in the policy and the insurer, in an action on the policy, to call and examine the physician who attended insured during his last sickness, and to exact information which, except for such waiver, would be regarded as a privileged communication. Trull v. M. W. of A. (1906) 12 I. 318, 85 P. 1081.

A patient may, under the provisions of this section waive her right to secrecy in respect to one of her physicians; such waiver does not operate as a waiver of her right to object to the testimony of another of her physicians called by the opposing party in the action. Jones v. Caldwell (1911) 20 I. 5, 116 P. 110, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 119.

Any information acquired by the attending physicians at an operation or gathered from an examination of the diseased parts removed by the operation a considerable time afterwards is privileged information and can not be given in evidence without the consent of the patient. (Sullivan, J., dissents.) Jones v. Caldwell (1913) 23 I. 467, 130 P. 995.

A consulting physician employed to take and interpret an X-ray picture of a fractured arm comes within the terms of the statute. Shaw v. Nampa (1918) 31 I. 347, 171 P. 1132.

All statements made to physician by patient for purpose of determining patient's condition, are privileged, although they have nothing to do with patient's treatment. Brayman v. Russell etc. Co. (1917) 31 I. 140, 169 P. 932.

It is immaterial in application of this statute that physician was not hired by patient but patient's employer. Ib.

Patient does not waive privilege of statute by testifying he followed physician's advice. Ib.

Plaintiff servant, by testifying that one of the results of the accident was hernia, did not waive privilege, where he did not testify that a physician had attended him. Fed. M. & S. Co. v. Dalo, 252 F. 356.

§ 7938. [5959] Judge or juror may testify. The judge himself, or any juror, may be called as a witness by either party, but in such case it is in the discretion of the court to order the trial to be postponed or suspended, and to take place before another judge or jury. [R. S. § 5959.]

§ 7956. [5981] Same: Certificate of justice and clerk. There must be attached to the transcript a certificate of the justice that the transcript is in all respects correct, and that he had jurisdiction of the action, and also a further certificate of the clerk or prothonotary of the county in which the justice resided at the time of rendering the judgment, under seal of the county, or the seal of the court of common pleas, or county court, or court of general jurisdiction thereof, certifying that the person subscribing the transcript was, at the date of the judgment, a justice of the peace in the county, and that the signature is genuine. Such judgment, proceedings and jurisdiction may also be proved by the justice himself, on the production of his docket, or by a copy of the judgment, and his oral examination as a witness. [R. 2. When the original is in the possession of the party against whom the evidence is offered, and he fails to produce it after reasonable notice.
3. When the original is a record or other document in the custody of a public officer.
4. When the original has been recorded, and a certified copy of the record is made evidence by this code or other statutes.
5. When the original consists of numerous accounts or other documents which can not be examined in court without great loss of time, and the evidence sought from them is only the general result of the whole.

Verbal contracts: A verbal contract for the sale or transfer of real estate is not admissible in evidence to establish title against a stranger to the contract. McGinness v. Stanfield (1898) 6 I. 372, 55 P. 1020.

A written contract for the sale of real property may be modified by a subsequent oral agreement, but where it is claimed that an oral agreement modifies the terms of a written contract, the evidence to establish such oral agreement should be clear and satisfactory. Prairie Dev. Co. v. Leiberg (1908) 15 I. 379, 98 P. 616.

Extended agreements: A written contract, giving an option to purchase real estate within a specified time, cannot be legally extended by a verbal agreement. Lawyer v. Post (1901) 109 F. 512, 47 C. C. A. 491.

Sufficiency of writing: A deed properly executed and left with the attorney of the grantor of real estate for the inspection of the grantee, who has already paid the purchase price, is a sufficient writing to remove the bar of the statute of frauds and the conveyance may be specifically enforced. Robbins v. Porter (1906) 12 I. 738, 88 P. 86.

To comply with this section, the writing must state the contract with such certainty that its essentials will be known from the memorandum itself or by reference contained in it to some other writing, without recourse to parol evidence. Thompson v. Burns (1908) 15 I. 572, 99 P. 111.

Agency: When agency is denied it is necessary to show such agency in writing subscribed by owner of the land. Thompson v. Burns, supra.

Right of way: A right of way for a ditch over land is an easement or interest in real property, which, under this section, can be created only by operation of law, or a conveyance or other instrument in writing, subscribed by the party granting such easement or right of way. McReynolds v. Harrigfeld (1914) 26 I. 26, 140 P. 1096.

Powers of equity courts: Courts of equity have power to so reform an executory contract valid and binding on its face, as to make the statements speak the truth as it was intended, but have no power to construct an executory agreement for the parties or to insert therein new and essential elements or matter that is required by the statute to be reduced to writing in order to make the contract valid and binding. Allen v. Kitchen (1909) 16 I. 133, 100 P. 1052, 18 Ann. Cas. 914.

An executory contract for the sale of real estate, which fails to designate the state, county, civil or political district in which the land is situated, and fails to disclose the municipal or other subdivision to which the tract of land is an "addition," is an insufficient and void description and cannot be supplied or aided by parol evidence. Ib.

Under the provisions of § 7975, the provisions of this section must not be construed to abridge the power of any court to compel the specific performance of an agreement made in regard to the sale of real estate in case of part performance thereof. King v. Seebeck (1911) 20 I. 223, 118 P. 292.

A court will not by operation of law declare a parol license an easement where licensee has mere naked possession and can be placed in statu quo. McReynolds v. Harrigfeld, supra.

§ 7975. [6008] Same: Exceptions. The preceding section must not be construed to affect the power of a testator in the disposition of his real property by a last will and testament, nor to prevent any trust from arising or being extinguished by implication or operation of law, nor to abridge the power of any court to compel the specific performance of an agreement, in case of part performance thereof. Resulting trust: A resulting trust arises by operation of law in favor of a person who advances the purchase money for land, though the title be taken in the name of another; or in favor of a person for whom it is advanced by way of a loan, the title being taken in the name of the lender. Such a trust, being one which results by implication or construction of law, does not fall within the provisions of the statute of frauds, and may be established by parol evidence. Pittock v. Pittock (1908) 15 I. 426, 98 P. 719; Coughanour v. Grayson (1911) 19 I. 255, 113 P. 724.

Specific performance of oral agreements partly performed: An oral contract for the conveyance of real property or under which the title thereto is acquired may be enforced, and is binding upon the parties thereto, and is not within the statute of frauds, where there is partial or complete performance of the same. Stowell v. Tucker (1900) 7 I. 312, 62 P. 1033; Feeney v. Chester (1900) 7 I. 324, 63 P. 192; Male v. Leflang (1900) 7 I. 348, 63 P. 108; Francis v. Green (1901) 7 I. 668, 65 P. 362; Barton v. § 7976. Certain agreements to be in writing. In the following cases the agreement is invalid, unless the same or some note or memorandum thereof, be in writing and subscribed by the party charged, or by his agent. Evidence therefore, of the agreement cannot be received without the writing or secondary evidence of its contents:

1. An agreement that by its terms is not to be performed within a year from the making thereof.

2. A special promise to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another, except in the cases provided for in the next section.

3. An agreement made upon consideration of marriage, other than a mutual promise to marry.

4. An agreement for the sale of goods, chattels, or things in action, at a price not less than five hundred dollars, unless the buyer accept and receive part of such goods and chattels, or the evidences, or some of them of such things in action, or pay, at the time, some part of the purchase money; but when a sale is made by auction, an entry by the auctioneer in his sale book, at the time of the sale, of the kind of property sold, the terms of the sale, the price, and the names of the purchaser and person on whose account the sale is made, is a sufficient memorandum.

5. An agreement for the leasing, for a longer period than one year, or for the sale, of real property, or of an interest therein, and such agreement, if made by an agent of the party sought to be charged, is invalid, unless the authority of the agent be in writing, subscribed by the party sought to be charged. Substantive law: Notwithstanding the decisions generally to the contrary, this section announces more than a mere rule of evidence. It is a substantive law dealing with contracts affecting personal property and commercial transactions. It deals with the origin and basis of a cause of action, and the rule of evidence it embodies is only an incident to the remedy under the statute. Kerr v. Finch (1913) 25 I. 32, 135 P. 1165.

Execution required of both parties: Where the consideration of such contracts consists of the mutual promises of each, the memorandum must be signed by both parties, and it must be complete in all essentials and leave nothing to parol. Houser v. Hobart (1912) 22 I. 735, 127 P. 997, 43 L. R. A. (N. S.) 410.

A contract within the purview of this section, executed as required by law by one party but not by the other is invalid and cannot be enforced by either party at any time. Kerr. v. Finch, supra.

Parol proof inadmissible: To render an oral contract that falls within the statute of frauds enforceable by action, the memorandum thereof must state the contract with such certainty that its essentials can be known from the memorandum itself, or by a reference contained in it to some other writing, without recourse to parol proof to supply them. Blumauer-Frank Drug Co. v. Young (1917) 30 I. 501, 167 P. 21.

Performance within one year: A contract whereby a corporation agrees to employ a man at a specified salary so long as he continues to own and hold his stock in the corporation does not come within the purview of the statute of frauds on the ground that the same was not in writing, for the reason that such contract is capable of being fully performed, completed and terminated within a year. Darknell v. Coeur d'Alene etc. Co. (1910) 18 I. 62, 108 P. 536.

The first subdivision of this section will not prevent the recovery of an agreed and stipulated price contracted to be paid for services and labor which have been rendered by the employee during a period exceeding one year, simply because the contract was not reduced to writing. Ib.

Debt of another: One who has property of a debtor in his hands and agrees to sell it and to apply the proceeds of the sale to the payment of the debtor's debt, does not thereby promise to answer for the debt of another, within the meaning of this section. Smith v. Caldwell (1899) 6 I. 436, 55 P. 1065.

When the consideration of a party's promise is for money to be furnished to or received by a third person, if the transaction be such that the third person remains responsible to the person who furnishes him with such money, such promise is collateral, and under the statute of frauds will not bind the party unless it be in writing. Storer v. Heitfeld (1910) 19 I. 170, 113 P. 80.

Sales of goods: Where none of the requirements of this section are complied with at the time the sale is made, the contract can only be enforced against a purchaser if he afterwards receives and accepts the goods; but in case he does afterwards so receive and accept them, the contract becomes executed and the statute has no application. Coffin v. Bradbury (1894) 3 I. 770, 35 P. 715.

Where the seller orders goods for the buyer from a third person according to specifications furnished by the latter, and the goods are shipped by the third person and stored in a warehouse for the buyer, who, on being informed of the fact, makes a payment on the purchase price and states that he will remove the goods in a few days, the transaction is not a sale from the seller to the buyer within the provisions of this section, but the seller is rather an agent for the buyer. Shaw v. Manville (1895) 4 I. 369, 39 P. 559.

Where W sues F and procures an attachment, and F by way of cross-complaint claims damages against A, resulting from the wrongful issuance of the attachment, and orally assigns to C, for a consideration already paid, any judgment that he may recover on his cross-complaint, such assignment is not within the statute of frauds. McCornick v. Friedman (1904) 9 I. 754, 76 P. 762.

Where the evidence is conflicting, the question of what constitutes such a receipt and acceptance of the goods as to take the contract out of the statute, is a question for the jury. Coffin v. Bradbury, supra.

Where an essential part of a contract for the sale of mining stock for more than $200 rests in parol, and there has been no delivery of any part of the property and no payment of any part of the purchase price, such contract is void. Snow Storm M. Co. v. Johnson (1911) 186 F. 745, 108 C. C. A. 615.

The act of a buyer of goods under a contract in offering to sell the goods which he has contracted to purchase is such an act as constitutes an acceptance of the goods so as to take the contract out of the operation of the statute. Bicknell v. Owyhee Sheep & Land Co., 31 I. 696, 176 P. 782.

Sales of realty: A receipt or memorandum in the following language: "Lowe, Idaho, March 7, 1902. Received from S. C. Kurdy, one hundred and ninety dollars on land, Sec. 25, Ts. 32 R. 2 E. 160 acres," signed by the parties sought to be charged, is insufficient upon which to enforce specific performance. Kurdy v. Rogers (1904) 10 I. 416, 79 P. 195.

Effect of part performance: Part performance of an oral agreement for the lease of property for longer than a year takes the same out of the statute and renders it enforcible. Deeds v. Stephens (1902) 8 I. 514, 69 P. 534.

See also annotations under § 7975.

§ 7977. [6010] Same: Original obligations. A promise to answer for the obligation of another, in any of the following cases, is deemed an original obligation of the promisor, and need not be in writing:

1. Where the promise is made by one who has received property of another upon an undertaking to apply it pursuant to such promise; or by one who has received a discharge from an obligation in whole or in part, in consideration of such promise.

2. Where the creditor parts with value, or enters into an obligation, in consideration of the obligations in respect to which the promise is made, in terms or under circumstances such as to render the party making the promise the principal debtor, and the person in whose behalf it is made, his surety.

3. Where the promise, being for an antecedent obligation of another, is made upon the consideration that the party receiving it cancels the antecedent obligation, accepting the new promise as a substitute therefor; or upon the consideration that the party receiving it releases the property of another from a levy, or his person from imprisonment under an execution on a judgment obtained upon the antecedent obligation; or upon a consideration beneficial to the promisor, whether moving from either party to the antecedent obligation, or from another person.

4. Where a factor undertakes, for a commission, to sell merchandise and guarantee the sale.

5. Where the holder of an instrument for the payment of money, upon which a third person is, or may become, liable to him, transfers it in payment of a precedent debt of his own, or for a new consideration and in connection with such transfer, enters into a promise respecting such instrument. [R. S. § 6010.]

Original agreements: An agreement by one who has the property of a debtor in his possession to sell it and apply the proceeds in payment of the debt, is within this section. Smith v. Caldwell (1899) 6 I. 436, 55 P. 1065.

Where D works for R and on settlement of his work R agrees to pay C and S, to whom D is indebted, the debt thus assumed becomes the debt of R and is not within the statute of frauds. Sherer v. Rubedew (1905) 11 I. 536, 83 P. 512.

Under subd. 3 a promise to answer for the obligation of another is deemed an original obligation of the promisor, and need not be in writing where the promise is for an antecedent obligation of another, and is made upon the consideration that the party receiving it cancels the antecedent obligation and accepts the new promise as a substitute therefor. McCallum v. McClarren (1908) 15 I. 374, 98 P. 200.

Where one corporation has purchased all the property and rights of another corporation, and as a part of the consideration for such purchase and transfer the purchaser has agreed to assume and pay the outstanding debts and liabilities of the old corporation, such a transaction constitutes the liability of the new company to pay such indebtedness an original obligation, which is not required to be in writing under the statute of frauds. Mineau v. Imperial Dredge etc. Co. (1911) 19 I. 458, 114 P. 23.

Collateral agreement. If the consideration of a party's promise is for money to be furnished to or received by a third person, such promise is collateral, where the transaction is such that the third person remains answerable to the person who furnishes him with such money; such promise will not, therefore, bind the party unless it is in writing. Storer v. Heitfeld (1910) 19 I. 170, 113 P. 80.

§ 7978. [6011] Representations of credit. No evidence is admissible to charge a person upon a representation as to the credit of a third person, unless such representation, or some memorandum thereof, be in writing, and either subscribed by, or in the handwriting of, the party to be charged. CHAPTER 293.

PRODUCTION OF EVIDENCE.

BY WHOM TO BE PRODUCED.

§ 7980. [6030] Explanation of alterations. The party producing a writing as genuine which has been altered, or appears to have been altered, after its execution, in a part material to the question in dispute, must account for the appearance or alteration. He may show that the alteration was made by another without his concurrence, or was made with the consent of the parties affected by it, or otherwise properly or innocently made, or that the alteration did not change the meaning or language of the instrument. If he do that he may give the writing in evidence, but not otherwise. [R. S. § 6030.]

Cited: S. v. Baird (1907) 13 I. 126, 89 P. 298.

Explanation of alteration: A party presenting a written instrument in evidence which, upon its face, shows that it has been altered, is required to explain such alteration or at least to show that such instrument has not been altered since it came into his hands. The party who made or executed the instrument may have made or assented to the alteration before its execution and yet the holder be unable to prove that fact. Therefore, the exigency of the statute is complied with when the party presenting the instrument shows that there has been no alteration since it came into his hands. Mulkey v. Long (1897) 5 I. 213, 47 P. 949.

An altered bail bond is admissible in evidence where it is explained that the alteration appearing thereon was made with the consent of the obligors, and it is shown that no alterations were made since the delivery of the bond to the proper authorities. S. v. Baird (1907) 13 I. 126, 89 P. 298.

ARTICLE 2.

MEANS OF PRODUCTION.

§ 7981. [6035] Subpoena defined. The process by which the attendance of a witness is required is a subpoena. It is a writ or order directed to a person and requiring his attendance at a particular time and place to testify as a witness. It may also require him to bring with him any books, documents, or other things under his control which he is bound by law to produce in evidence. [R. S. § 6035.]

1. To require attendance before a court, or at the trial of an issue therein, it is issued in the name of the court before which the attendance is required, or in which the issue is pending.

2. To require attendance out of the court, before a judge, justice, or other officer authorized to administer oaths or take testimony in any matter under the laws of this state, it is issued by the judge, justice or any other officer before whom the attendance is required.

The service must be made so as to allow the witness a reasonable time for preparation and travel to the place of attendance. Such service may be made by any person. [R. S. § 6037.]

But in such case the writing must be produced, and may be seen by the adverse party, who may, if he choose, cross-examine the witness upon it, and may read it to the jury. So also a witness may testify from such a writing, though he retain no recollection of the particular facts, but such evidence must be received with caution. [R. S. § 6078.]

Scope of cross-examination: The cross-examination of a witness should be confined to facts stated by the witness in his direct examination, or connected therewith. S. v. Anthony (1899) 6 I. 383, 55 P. 884.

A defendant in a criminal action who has testified in his own behalf can only be cross-examined by the state as to the facts stated in his direct examination, or in connection therewith. S. v. Larkin (1897) 5 I. 200, 47 P. 945.

The defendant in a criminal case can not be compelled to testify in such action, but if he voluntarily takes the stand and testifies for himself, he does so subject to the rule that he may be cross-examined in regard to any facts material to the issue. Ib.

In the trial of a criminal action the defendant should be permitted to cross-examine the prosecuting witness as to any matters in connection with the transaction, as, for example, to the acts of the prosecuting witness during the interim between the meeting of the prosecuting witness and the defendant in the morning and the time of the commission of the offense in the evening. S. v. Webb (1899) 6 I. 428, 55 P. 892.

This section does not preclude a person separately charged with the same offense with which the accused is charged from refusing to answer in cross-examination any questions that would tend to incriminate him. S. v. Bond (1906) 12 I. 424, 86 P. 43.

§ 8035. Cross-examination of adverse party. A party to the record of any civil action or proceedings, or person for whose immediate benefit such action or proceedings is prosecuted or defended, or the directors, officers, superintendent or managing agents of any corporation which is a party to such record, may be examined by the adverse party as if under cross-examination, subject to the rules applicable to the examination of other witnesses; and the testimony given by such witnesses may be rebutted by the party calling him for such examination by other evidence. Such witness when so called may be examined by his own counsel, but only as to matters testified to on such examination.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed in such manner as to compel the husband or wife to testify against the other, nor to compel a witness to disclose information or communications which are privileged by law. ['09, p. 334, S. B. 28, §§ 1, 2.]

Construed: This statute permits the examination of the persons designated according to the liberal rules governing cross-examination. Leading questions may be propounded and the witness' testimony may be rebutted. Ib.

Persons who may be called: Three classes may be examined; first, a party to the record of any civil proceeding; second, the person for whose immediate benefit such action is prosecuted or defended; third, directors, officers, superintendent or managing agent of any corporation which is a party to the record. A locomotive engineer comes in none of these classes in a suit against a railroad. Burrow v. Idaho etc. Rr. Co. (1913) 24 I. 652, 135 P. 838.

Under this section either party to a divorce action may call the other as a witness. Boeck v. Boeck (1916) 29 I. 639, 161 P. 576.

Not applicable to quasi criminal proceedings: A proceeding for the removal of an officer under § 8684 while in form a civil action is in substance and effect a criminal prosecution within Const. I, 13, and a defendant in such an action can not be compelled to become a witness against himself under the provisions of this section. Daugherty v. Nagel (1915) 28 I. 302, 154 P. 375.

Court's discretion: Trial courts have the same discretion to limit an examination under this section that they have of cross-examination generally, and should exercise this discretion to the end that the purpose of the law be not abused. Darry v. Cox, supra.

It is an abuse of judicial discretion and of the privilege granted by this section to permit a party calling his adversary as a witness to inquire into the entire controversy and to examine him with respect to matters about which other evidence is readily available. Boeck v. Boeck, supra.

This statute was not intended to enable an adverse party to call an opposing party as an expert and seek to establish his side of the case by such expert evidence nor by irrelevant examination to create bias or prejudice. Osborn v. Carey (1913) 24 I. 158, 132 P. 967.

§ 8036. [6080] Impeachment of party's own witness. The party producing a witness is not allowed to impeach his credit by evidence of bad character, but he may contradict him by other evidence, and may also show that he has made, at other times, statements inconsistent with his present testimony. Showing contradictory statements: Where a witness for the state testifies contrary to his testimony at the coroner's inquest, such testimony may be introduced to contradict him. S. v. Corcoran (1900) 7 I. 220, 61 P. 1034.

While the party producing a witness may contradict him by other evidence and may show that he has made statements inconsistent with his testimony, yet the prosecutor in a criminal case should not ask a witness if he had made conflicting statements for the purpose of prejudicing him before the jury, and then fail to produce evidence of such statements, and if he does so, the court should specifically instruct the jury to disregard such questions. S. v. Fowler (1907) 13 I. 317, 89 P. 757.

§ 8037. [6081] Reexamination and recalling of witnesses. A witness once examined can not be reexamined as to the same matter without leave of the court, but he may be reexamined as to any new matter upon which he has been examined by the adverse party. And after the examinations on both sides are once concluded, the witness can not be recalled without leave of the court. Leave is granted or withheld, in the exercise of a sound discretion. [R. S. § 6081.]

Recalling witnesses: Upon a proper showing, the court may permit the recall of a witness for further examination. S. v. Anthony (1899) 6 I. 383, 55 P. 884.

Particular acts: A witness can not be impeached by evidence of particular wrongful acts having no connection with the matter on trial. S. v. Anthony (1899) 6 I. 383, 55 P. 884. Labonte v. Davidson, 31 I. 644, 175 P. 588.

Unchastity: While a lewd woman is less likely to be truthful than a chaste woman, still there is not such an immediate connection between unchastity and untruthfulness as to permit a woman's chastity to be called in question every time she goes on the witness stand. S. v. Hammock (1910) 18 I. 424, 110 P. 169.

In a prosecution for statutory rape it is not permissible for the defendant to impeach the evidence of the prosecutrix by introducing in evidence particular acts of her unchastity with other persons. S. v. Henderson (1911) 19 I. 524, 114 P. 30.

Improper question: Questions may be asked to show business, occupation, manner and place of living, though not for impeachment or to show commission of another offense. (Morgan, J. dissents) S. v. Fong Loon, supra.

§ 8039. [6083] Same. A witness may also be impeached by evidence, that he has made, at other times, statements inconsistent with his present testimony; but before this can be done, the statements must be related to him, with the circumstances of times, places and persons present, and he must be asked whether he made such statements, and if so, allowed to explain them. If the statements be in writing, they must be shown to the witness before any question is put to him concerning them. [R. S. § 6083.]

Statute mandatory: The requirements of this section must be complied with before an impeaching question can be put to a witness. Hilbert v. Spokane etc. Rr. Co. (1911) 20 I. 54, 116 P. 1116.

Impeaching statements: A witness can not be impeached by testimony that he previously had stated that the shooting for which the defendant was on trial "was as cold blooded a murder as could be," as such a statement is merely an opinion of the witness. S. v. Crea (1904) 10 I. 88, 76 P. 1013.

For the purpose of impeaching a witness by proof of contradictory statements they must have reference to some fact that has become material in the case. Hilbert v. Spokane etc. Rr. Co., supra.

§ 8040. [6084] Evidence of good character. Evidence of the good character of a party is not admissible in a civil action, nor of a witness in any action, until the character of such party or witness has been impeached, or unless the issue involves his character. [R. S. § 6084.]

TAKING TESTIMONY OUT OF COURT.

§ 8042. [6086] Taking testimony out of court. In all actions in the district court which are triable by the court, or in which a jury is waived, where the parties are numerous and the convenience of the witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted thereby, the court, or the judge thereof at chambers, may at any time after the service is complete and the time for appearance has expired, order testimony taken at such time and place as shall be designated in such order, before the judge of said court or before a referee appointed by said court or the judge thereof, or before a special judge agreed upon by the parties to the action, and the testimony so taken shall be transcribed by the court reporter and transmitted, without findings, to the clerk of the court of the county where said action is pending, and shall be received in court as evidence in said action with the same force and effect as if taken upon a trial of said cause in open court.

A copy of said order, designating the time and place for taking such testimony, shall be mailed by the clerk to each of the attorneys who shall have appeared in the action, and shall be published for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper to be designated in such order.

The taking of testimony may be continued from day to day, and adjourned by order of the judge of the court, or by the referee or special judge before whom the testimony shall be taken; and the judge of said court shall make such order as he may deem proper as to payment of costs incurred in taking and transcribing such testimony. All objections made at the time to the relevancy or admissibility of evidence shall be noted, and the same may be renewed in the district court upon the final hearing. ['01, p. 132, § 1.]

will have a tendency to subject him to punishment for a felony; nor need he give an answer which will have a direct tendency to degrade his character, unless it be the very fact in issue, or to a fact from which the fact in issue would be presumed. But a witness must answer as to the fact of his previous conviction for felony. [R. S. § 6091.]

2. That he has not thus been served by his own procurement, with the intention of avoiding an arrest.

MISCELLANEOUS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ARTICLE 1.

TENDER AND RECEIPT.

§ 8049. [6110] Written offer equivalent to tender. An offer in writing to pay a particular sum of money, or to deliver a written instrument or specific personal property, is, if not accepted, equivalent to the actual production and tender of the money, instrument or property. [R. S. § 6110.]

Machold v. Farnan (1911) 20 I. 80, 117 P. 408.

§ 8050. [6111] Debtor may demand receipt. Whoever pays money, or delivers an instrument or property, is entitled to a receipt therefor from the person to whom the payment or delivery is made, and may demand a proper signature to such receipt as a condition of the payment or delivery. § 8052. [6117] Application. The applicant must produce to a district judge, or to a probate judge, a petition verified by the oath of the applicant, stating:

1. That the applicant expects to be a party to an action in a court in this state, and, in such case, the names of the persons whom he expects will be adverse parties; or,

2. That the proof of some fact is necessary to perfect the title to property in which he is interested, or to establish marriage, descent, heirship, or any other matter which it may hereafter become material to establish, though no suit may at the time be anticipated, or, if anticipated, he may not know the parties to such suit; and,

3. The name of the witness to be examined, his place of residence, and a general outline of the facts expected to be proved. The judge to whom such petition is presented must make an order allowing the examination and designating the officer before whom the same must be taken, and prescribing the notice to be given, which notice, if the parties expectant are known and reside in this state, must be personally served, and if unknown, such notice must be served on the recorder of the county where the property to be affected by the evidence is situated, or the judge making the order resides, as may be directed by him, and by pub-

If such parties are unknown, notice of the settlement of the interrogatories shall be published in some newspaper for such time as the judge may designate. The deposition, when completed, must be carefully read to and subscribed by the witness, then certified by the officer or person taking the same, and shall then be sealed up and delivered or transmitted to the recorder of the county designated in the order of the judge allowing the examination, who shall file the same when received. Who entitled to fees: A witness is entitled to fees and the same may be taxed as costs, although such witness is the wife or mother of the party calling her. Griffith v. Montandon (1894) 4 I. 75. 35 P. 704; Anderson v. Ferguson-Bach Sheep Co. (1906) 12 I. 418, 86 P. 41.

Anderson v. Ferguson-Bach Sheep Co., supra.

A witness is entitled to fees and mileage for the distance actually traveled within the state in going to the place of trial, although he resides out of the state and is not obliged to attend. S. v. Baird (1907) 13 I. 126, 89 P. 298.

Amount of compensation: Where a trial lasts more than one day. and a witness is subpoenaed to be present at the trial. and makes arrangements to be called when needed and actually attends only on the day he testifies, he is entitled to per diem compensation for one day only. CHAPTER 296.

PRELIMINARY PROVISIONS.

§ 8074. [6301] Definition of terms. The following words have in this code the signification attached to them in this section, unless otherwise apparent from the context:

1. The word "wilfully," when applied to the intent with which an act is done or omitted, implies simply a purpose or willingness to commit the act or make the omission referred to. It does not require any intent to violate law, or to injure another, or to acquire any advantage.

2. The words "neglect," "negligence," "negligent," and "negligently," import a want of such attention to the nature of probable consequences of the act or omission as a prudent man ordinarily bestows in acting in his own concerns.

3. The word "corruptly," imports a wrongful design to acquire or cause some pecuniary or other advantage to the person guilty of the act or omission referred to, or to some other person.

4. The words "malice," and "maliciously," import a wish to vex, annoy, or injure another person, or an intent to do a wrongful act, established either by proof or presumption of law.

5. The word "knowingly," imports only a knowledge that the facts exist which bring the act or omission within the provisions of this code. It does not require any knowledge of the unlawfulness of such act or omission.

6. The word "bribe," signifies anything of value or advantage, present or prospective, or any promise or undertaking to give any, asked, given, or accepted, with a corrupt intent to influence, unlawfully, the person to whom it is given, in his action, vote or opinion, in any public or official capacity.

7. Where the word "person" is used in this code to designate the party whose property may be the subject of any offense, it includes this state, any other state, any territory, government, or country, which may lawfully own property within this state, and all public and private corporations or joint associations, as well as individuals. TITLE LIX. CRIMES AND PUNISHMENTS.

CHAPTER 297.

PERSONS LIABLE TO PUNISHMENT FOR CRIME.

§ 8090. [6330] Persons capable of committing crimes. All persons are capable of committing crimes, except those belonging to the following classes:

1. Children under the age of 14 years, in the absence of clear proof that at the time of committing the act charged against them, they knew its wrongfulness.
2. Idiots.
3. Lunatics and insane persons.
4. Persons who committed the act or made the omission charged, under an ignorance or mistake of fact which disproves any criminal intent.
5. Persons who committed the act charged without being conscious thereof.
6. Persons who committed the act or made the omission charged, through misfortune or by accident, when it appears that there was no evil design, intention or culpable negligence.

7. Married women (unless the crime be punishable with death) acting under the threats, command, or coercion of their husbands.

8. Persons (unless the crime be punishable with death) who committed the act or made the omission charged, under threats or menaces sufficient to show that they had reasonable cause to and did believe their lives would be endangered if they refused. [R. S. § 6330.]

Fleming (1910) 17 I. 471, 490, 106 P. 305.

Proof of insanity: Where the defense of insanity is raised in a prosecution for murder, the burden is on the defendant to create a reasonable doubt as to his responsibility at the time of the homicide. S. v. Shuff (1903) 9 I. 115, 72 P. 664. An instruction that to establish the defense it must be "clearly proven" that the accused was insane is erroneous. S. v. Wetter (1905) 11 I. 433, 83 P. 341.

HOMICIDE.

§ 8209. [6560] Murder defined. Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being with malice aforethought. [R. S. § 6560.]

N. D. Analogous: Pen. C. § 9462.

Cited: S. v. Fleming (1910) 17 I. 471, 106 P. 305.

Malice aforethought necessary: The element of malice aforethought required by this section must be found to exist in order to sustain a conviction of murder in the first degree accomplished by the administration of poison. S. v. Phinney (1907) 13 I. 307, 89 P. 634, 12 Ann. Cas. 1079, 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 935.

Sufficiency of indictments: Indictments for murder are set out and held sufficient in the following cases: S. v. Walters (1869) 1 I. 271; S. v. Perry (1894) 4 I. 224, 38 P. 655; S. v. Ellington (1895) 4 I. 529, 43 P. 60; S. v. Shuff (1903) 9 I. 115, 72 P. 664; S. v. Sly (1905) 11 I. 110, 80 P. 1125; S. v. Squires (1908) 15 I. 545, 98 P. 413; S. v. Gruber (1911) 19 I. 692, 115 P. 1; Re McLeod (1913) 23 I. 257, 128 P. 1106, 43 L. R. A. (N. S.) 813; S. v. Lundhigh (1917) 30 I. 365, 164 P. 690.

Instructions: The giving of additional instructions which in no way modify the definitions contained in this and following sections is not error. S. v. Willis (1913) 24 I. 252, 132 P. 962.

§ 8210. [6561] Express and implied malice. Such malice may be express or implied. It is express when there is manifested a deliberate intention unlawfully to take away the life of a fellow creature. It is implied when no considerable provocation appears, or when the circumstances attending the killing show an abandoned and malignant heart. [R. S. § 6561.]

Hist. (See Cr. and P. '64, §§ 15, 16, 17) R. S. § 6561, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: Pen. C. 1872, § 188; Kerr's C. ib.

Instructions: Implied malice: An instruction that malice is to be implied when the circumstances show an abandoned and malignant heart but failing to state "or when no considerable provocation appears" is erroneous. P. v. McDonald (1881) 2 I. 10, 1 P. 345.

The failure of the court to follow the language of this section so as to include the word "all" before the words "circumstances of the killing show an abandoned and malignant heart" is not a reversible error. Ib.

An instruction that if the jury believe from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant killed deceased on account of a desire for revenge for some real or imagined injury, then defendant is guilty of murder, is proper. P. v. Pierson (1884) 2 I. 76, 3 P. 688.

An instruction "that if, without such provocation as is apparently sufficient to excite irresistible passion, a person shoots another, and by such shooting occasions death, although he had no previous malice or ill will toward the person shot, yet he is presumed to have had such malice at the time of the shooting, and the person shooting will be guilty of murder," will sustain a verdict of murder in the second degree. T. v. Evans (1888) 2 I. 425, 17 P. 139.

Malice is implied for any deliberate and cruel act against another, however sudden, which shows an abandoned and malignant heart. S. v. Willis (1913) 24 I. 252, 132 P. 962.

Threats made by accused are inadmissible when they were made generally and not directed against the deceased. S. v. Buster (1915) 28 I. 110, 152 P. 196.

§ 8211. [6562] Degrees of murder. All murder which is perpetrated by means of poison, or lying in wait, torture, or by any other kind of wilful, deliberate and premeditated killing, or which is committed in the perpetration of, or attempt to perpetrate arson, rape, robbery, burglary or mayhem, is murder of the first degree. All other kinds of murder are of the second degree. [R. S. § 6562.]

Conviction of second degree murder: S. v. Marren (1910) 17 I. 766, 107 P. 993.

Common law undistinguished: At common law all murder was of the first degree and no such distinction was recognized as that incorporated in this section, designating degrees. P. v. O'Callaghan (1886) 2 I. 156, 9 P. 414; S. v. Phinney (1907) 13 I. 307, 89 P. 634, 12 Ann. Cas. 1079, 12 L. R. A. (N. S.) 935.

Indictment: The failure of an indictment to allege that the killing was deliberate and premeditated is not fatal where it alleges the same to have been done with malice aforethought. P. v. Ah Choy (1870) 1 I. 317.

A premeditated killing must be charged in order to sustain a conviction of murder in the first degree. P. v. O'Callaghan, supra, overruling P. v. Ah Choy, above.

It is not requisite or essential that the words defining the degrees of murder should be set forth in the indictment to constitute a good indictment for murder in the first degree. S. v. Ellington (1895) 4 I. 529, 43 P. 60, overruling P. v. O'Callaghan, above.

An indictment charging a wounding done with felonious intent, in consequence of which death resulted, charges murder without charging an intent to kill. T. v. Evans (1888) 2 I. 425, 17 P. 139.

Instructions: On a trial for murder it is the duty of the court to give an instruction to the jury, if requested, that they can find the defendant guilty of a less grade of offense than murder in the first degree, if warranted by the evidence; and a refusal to give such instruction is error. P. v. Dunn (1866) 1 I. 74.

In a prosecution for murder this instruction was given: "It is claimed that this is murder in the first degree, as being unlawful, malicious, wilful, deliberate and premeditated. There need be no appreciable space of time between the intention to kill and the act of killing; they may be as instantaneous as successive thoughts of the mind. It is only necessary that the act of killing be preceded by a concurrence of will, deliberation and premeditation on the part of the slayer, and if such is the case the killing is murder of the first degree, no matter how rapidly these acts of the mind may succeed each other or how quickly they may be followed by the act of killing." Held, that the omission of the word "malice" in the last sentence did not vitiate the instruction. S. v. Shuff (1903) 9 I. 115, 72 P. 664.

Abortion: A criminal operation resulting in death, an abortion not being necessary to save the life of the woman, is murder in the second degree. An instruction that such act constitutes murder in the second degree or manslaughter is erroneous. S. v. Alcorn (1901) 7 I. 599, 64 P. 1014, 97 A. S. R. 252.

Deliberation and premeditation: To constitute murder in the first degree there must be deliberation and premeditation. (Dis. op.) P. v. Pierson (1884) 2 I. 76, 3 P. 688.

Attempt to rob: A killing in attempting to commit robbery is murder in the first degree. P. v. Mooney (1882) 2 I. 17, 2 P. 876.

Robbery in lieu of premeditation: Proof that the murder was committed in the perpetration of, or attempt to perpetrate, robbery brings the case within the definition of murder in the first degree, and such proof supplies the place of proof of deliberation and premeditation. S. v. Gruber (1911) 19 I. 692, 115 P. 1.

Poisoning: Construing this section with § 8209, murder committed by means of poison is not murder in the first degree unless the element of malice aforethought is present; the mere fact that the killing has been accomplished by means of poison does not of itself establish "malice aforethought." S. v. Phinney, supra.

§ 8212. Punishment for murder. Every person guilty of murder in the first degree shall suffer death or be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for life, and the jury may decide which punishment shall be inflicted. Every person guilty of murder in the second degree is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison not less than 10 years and the imprisonment may extend to life. ['11, c. 68, § 1, p. 190.]

1. Voluntary—upon a sudden quarrel or heat of passion.
2. Involuntary—in the commission of an unlawful act, not amounting to felony; or in the commission of a lawful act which might produce death, in an unlawful manner, or without due caution and circumspection. [R. S. § 6565.]

Insufficient information: Information insufficient because of its failure to state the means by which the death was accomplished (in this case by starving). S. v. Smith (1914) 25 I. 541, 138 P. 1107.

Erroneous instruction: It is error to instruct the jury that one who kills another while resisting an attempt to commit a serious injury on his person is guilty of manslaughter, such killing being justifiable under § 8219. S. v. Crea (1904) 10 I. 88, 76 P. 1013.

Means of death: The statute does not circumscribe the means or agency causing the death. A prosecution for manslaughter may be had where the death of a human being has been caused or accomplished through fright, fear, terror or nervous shock produced by the accused while in the commission of an unlawful act, even though the accused made no hostile demonstration and directed no overt act at the person of the deceased. In some instances force or violence may be applied to the mind or nervous system as effectually as to the body. Re Heigho (1910) 18 I. 566, 110 P. 1029, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 877, Ann. Cas. 1912A 138.

Abortion: A criminal operation resulting in death, an abortion not being necessary to save the woman's life, is murder in the second degree. An instruction that such act is murder in the second degree or manslaughter is erroneous. S. v. Alcorn (1901) 7 I. 599, 64 P. 1014, 97 A. S. R. 252.

2. When committed in defense of habitation, property or person, against one who manifestly intends or endeavors, by violence or surprise, to commit a felony, or against one who manifestly intends and endeavors, in a violent, riotous or tumultuous manner, to enter the habitation of another for the purpose of offering violence to any person therein; or,

3. When committed in the lawful defense of such person, or of a wife or husband, parent, child, master, mistress or servant of such person, when there is reasonable ground to apprehend a design to commit a felony or to do some great bodily injury, and imminent danger of such design being accomplished; but such person, or the person in whose behalf the defense was made, if he was the assailant or engaged in mortal combat, must really and in good faith have endeavored to decline any further struggle before the homicide was committed; or,

4. When necesarily committed in attempting, by lawful ways and means, to apprehend any person for any felony committed, or in lawfully suppressing any riot, or in lawfully keeping and preserving the peace. [R. S. § 6570.]

Applied: The law of self defense only requires that a person must act as a reasonable and prudent man would be likely to act under similar conditions and circumstances. S. v. McGreevey (1909) 17 I. 453, 467, 105 P. 1047.

Defense of wrongdoer: A private citizen can not interfere between two persons, both of whom are in the wrong, and slay one to save the other. T. v. Evans (1888) 2 I. 425, 17 P. 139.

Evidence: Under a plea of self defense character evidence for the defendant is admissible bearing on the question of his honest and conscientious belief that his acts were necessary to protect his life or person. S. v. McGreevey, supra.

Protection of property: A person has at least as much and possibly more protection in law in defending his property as he does in the protection of his person. (Dis. op.) P. v. Pierson (1884) 2 I. 76, 3 P. 688.

A mere civil trespass on land, unaccompanied by any act amounting to a crime, or any intention to commit a crime, will not justify the shooting of the trespasser. S. v. Dixon (1901) 7 I. 518, 63 P. 801.

Instructions approved: An instruction on self defense, that the conditions under which it may be asserted are "that the party himself was not the first aggressor, or, if the aggressor, that he had in good faith withdrawn from the contest before he struck the blow or fired the fatal shot; second, that the striking or shooting was necessary to prevent the infliction upon himself of a great bodily injury by the party stricken or shot," correctly states the law. S. v. Lyons (1901) 7 I. 530, 65 P. 236.

In a prosecution for murder in which the defendant pleaded self defense it was not error to instruct the jury that they could consider the fact of defendant's flight after the killing in determining the probabilities of his guilt or innocence. Ib.

The following instruction substantially states the correct rule of law and should ordinarily be given in a murder case where the plea is self defense: "The court instructs the jury as a matter of law that a person need not be in actual, imminent peril of his life or of great bodily harm before he may assault his assailant; it is sufficient if in good faith he has a good and reasonable belief from the facts as they appear to him at the time that he is in such imminent peril. S. v. Fondren (1913) 24 I. 663, 135 P. 265.

§ 8220. [6571] Fear not sufficient justification. A bare fear of the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in subdivisions 2 and 3 of the preceding section, to prevent which homicide may be lawfully committed, is not sufficient to justify it. But the circumstances must be sufficient to excite the fears of a reasonable person, and the party killing must have acted under the influence of such fears alone. [R. S. § 6571.]

Indictment or information: In an indictment for robbery the words "felonious" and "rob" carry with them the intent, and are sufficient. P. v. Butler (1869) 1 I. 231.

An information for robbery is sufficient if it charges the offense in the words of this section. An information for robbery is sufficient, though not in the exact language of the statute, if the words used convey the same idea. S. v. Brill (1912) 21 I. 269, 121 P. 79.

Instructions: An instruction that if a man stealthily filch the pocket of another the force necessary to remove the property is all the force that the statute requires, is erroneous as it ignores all distinction between robbery and larceny from the person. T. v. McKern (1891) 3 I. 15, 26 P. 123.

An instruction to the jury "that if they believe from the evidence that the defendants feloniously took possession of the United States mail, or any part thereof, by force or intimidation of or from a carrier of the mail, then the offense of robbery is complete," is not erroneous. U. S. v. Mays (1880) 1 I. 763.

Evidence of ownership: On a prosecution for robbery the fact that the money taken was in the possession of the prosecuting witness was sufficient evidence of ownership to sustain a conviction. S. v. Brill, supra.

Larceny: Although robbery includes larceny, defendant charged with robbery can not be convicted of larceny unless information is also sufficient under § 8426. (Per Ailshie, J.) S. v. Brill, supra.

§ 8227. [6591] Fear which constitutes robbery. The fear which constitutes robbery may be either:

1. The fear of an unlawful injury to the person or property of the person robbed, or of any relative of his, or member of his family; or,

2. The fear of an immediate and unlawful injury to the person or property of any one in the company of the person robbed at the time of the robbery. [R. S. § 6591.]

ARTICLE 10.

LIBEL.

§ 8253. [6737] Libel defined. A libel is a malicious defamation, expressed either by writing, printing, or by signs or pictures, or the like, tending to blacken the memory of one who is dead, or to impeach the honesty, integrity, virtue or reputation, or publish the natural or alleged defects, of one who is alive, and thereby to expose him to public hatred, contempt or ridicule. [R. S. § 6737.]

Hist. (See Cr. and P. '64, § 126) R. S. § 6737, reen. R. C. ib., reen. C. L. ib.

Comp. leg.—Cal. Same: Pen. C. 1872, § 248: Kerr's C. ib.

N. D. Similar: Pen. C. § 9550.

Information held sufficient: An information which sets forth the libelous matter in haec verba, prefacing with the words "that is to say," is good upon demurrer. Bonney v. S. (1892) 3 I. 288, 29 P. 185.

Libelous matter: Under this section it is not necessary that the alleged libelous matter charge the person named with a crime. Coupling a public official's name with the word "graft" is libelous per se. S. v. Sheridan (1908) 14 I. 222, 93 P. 656, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 497.

In a libel case words will be construed according to their plain, popular, natural and ordinary sense and as they would naturally be understood by persons hearing or reading them, unless it affirmatively appears that they were used and understood in some other sense. Ib.

A written publication charging one with wilful falsehood in the matter of a serious business transaction must necessarily expose him to contempt and lower him in the common estimation of citizens and is therefore actionable per se. Dwyer v. Libert (1917) 30 I. 576, 167 P. 661.

Privilege: The ends of justice and the public good can be best served by allowing litigants to freely plead any pertinent or material matter, in a judicial proceeding to which they are parties, holding them accountable only for defamatory matter that is neither pertinent nor material to the subject under inquiry. Carpenter v. Grimes Pass. P. Min. Co. (1911) 19 I. 384, 114 P. 42.

Complaint against public officer filed with the body having right of his discharge is conditionally privileged upon good faith and in the absence of malice. Dwyer v. Libert, supra.

§ 8254. [6738] Punishment. Every person who wilfully, and with a malicious intent to injure another, publishes, or procures to be published, any libel, is punishable by fine not exceeding $5000, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months. [R. S. § 6738.]

Privilege in judicial procedure: Whatever a litigant may properly plead he may plead with or without malice, and in such case the intent with which he pleaded the same can not be inquired into or become an issue in an action for libel. Carpenter v. Grimes Pass M. Co. (1911) 19 I. 384, 114 P. 42.

§ 8256. [6740] Truth may be proved. In all criminal prosecutions for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury, and if it appears to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted. The jury have the right to determine the law and the fact. [R. S. § 6740.]

N. D. Similar: Pen. C. § 9552.

Burden of proof: Where an article is libelous per se, the proof of the publication makes a prima facie case. The prosecution is not required to prove the untruth of the article or that the same was published with bad faith, the truth or good faith of the publication being matter of defense. S. v. Sheridan (1908) 14 I. 222, 93 P. 656, 15 L. R. A. (N. S.) 497.

§ 8257. [6741] Sufficiency of publication. To sustain a charge of publishing a libel, it is not needful that the words or things complained of should have been read or seen by another. It is enough that the accused knowingly parted with the immediate custody of the libel under circumstances which exposed it to be read or seen by any other person than himself. [R. S. § 6741.]

RAPE, ABDUCTION AND SEDUCTION.

§ 8262. [6765] Rape defined. Rape is an act of sexual intercourse accomplished with a female not the wife of the perpetrator, under either of the following circumstances:

1. Where the female is under the age of 18 years.
2. Where she is incapable, through lunacy or any other unsoundness of mind, whether temporary or permanent, of giving legal consent.
3. Where she resists, but her resistance is overcome by force or violence.
4. Where she is prevented from resistance by threats of immediate and great bodily harm, accompanied by apparent power of execution; or by any intoxicating narcotic, or anaesthetic substance administered by or with the privity of the accused.
5. Where she is at the time unconscious of the nature of the act, and this is known to the accused.
6. Where she submits under the belief that the person committing the act is her husband, and the belief is induced by artifice, pretense or concealment practiced by the accused, with intent to induce such belief. ['95, p. 19, § 1.]

Force must be shown: There is no rape unless it is shown that the acts complained of were committed by force or violence and the state must prove such force or violence; it is error for the court to charge that, the acts being committed, the burden is on the defendant to prove the absence of force or violence. S. v. Fowler (1907) 13 I. 317, 89 P. 757.

Unchastity immaterial: It is as much a crime to have sexual intercourse with an unchaste female under the age of consent as with a chaste one. S. v. Anthony (1899) 6 I. 383, 55 P. 884. S. v. Hammock (1910) 18 I. 424, 110 P. 169; S. v. Henderson (1911) 19 I. 524, 114 P. 30.

Corroboration: Conviction for rape may be had upon the uncorroborated evidence of the prosecutrix, but when the evidence of such prosecutrix is of a contradictory nature or her chastity or her reputation for truthfulness is impeached, her testimony must be corroborated or the judgment will be set aside. S. v. Anderson (1899) 6 I. 706, 59 P. 180; S. v. Trego (1914) 25 I. 625, 138 P. 1124.

In a prosecution for assault with intent to commit rape it is essential that the state prove every fact necessary to constitute rape, except penetration. S. v. Neil, supra.

Voluntary desistance by defendant is complete defense. S. v. Johnson (1914) 26 I. 609, 144 P. 784.

§ 8263. [6766] Proof of physical ability. No conviction for rape can be had against one who was under the age of 14 years at the time of the act alleged, unless his physical ability to accomplish penetration is proved as an independent fact, and beyond a reasonable doubt. [R. S. §6766.]

Transportation of women from one state to another for immoral purposes being interstate commerce, and congress having legislated with reference thereto, the Montana supreme court held a state statute similar to ours void. S. v. Harper (1914) 138 P. 495. But in S. v. BIGAMY, ADULTERY, INCEST AND THE CRIME AGAINST NATURE.

§ 8283. [6806] Polygamy. Every person who has a husband or wife living who marries another, whether married or single, and any man who simultaneously, or on the same day, marries more than one woman, is guilty of polygamy, and shall be punished by a fine of not less than $200 and six months' imprisonment in the county jail, or by fine not exceeding $2000 and by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a term of not more than five years.

But this section shall not extend to any person who by reason of a former marriage, whose husband or wife by such marriage shall have been absent for five successive years, and is not known to such person to be living, and is believed by such person to be dead, nor to any person by reason of any former marriage which shall have been dissolved by a valid decree of a competent court, nor to any person by reason of a former marriage which shall have been pronounced void by a valid decree of a competent court, on the ground of nullity of the marriage contract. Indictment: In an indictment under act of congress, March 22, 1882, c. 47, § 3, entitled "An act to amend U. S. Rev. Stats. 5352, in reference to bigamy and for other purposes," the use of the word "cohabit" is sufficient, and it is not necessary to set out at large in the indictment the meaning or definition of the word itself. U. S. v. Kuntze (1889) 2 I. 480, 21 P. 407; U. S. v. Cozzens (1889) 2 I. 486, 21 P. 409.

General repute not sufficient: In a prosecution for bigamy, it was improper to permit evidence as to the general repute in the community as to the relation existing between defendant and one of the women with whom it was claimed he cohabitated, since the facts themselves should be proven and the jury permitted to draw their inference therefrom. U. S. v. Langford (1889) 2 I. 561, 21 P. 409.

Celestial marriages: Celestial and patriarchal marriages to be participated in in the next world or the future life are not crimes here, but where under such designation or name, a man marries or has more than one wife during the same period of time, such marriages become bigamous or polygamous and are prohibited by the organic law of the state. Toncray v. Budge (1908) 14 I. 621, 95 P. 26.

Complaint: A complaint is fatally defective which charges a violation of the provisions of sec. 4597 by marriage of a divorced person within the six months' inhibited period, without alleging that the other party to such marriage was not the former spouse of the defendant. S. v. Cole, 31 I. 603, 174 P. 131.

and shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than three months, or by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a period not exceeding three years, or in the county jail for a period not exceeding one year, or by fine not exceeding $1000. Consanguinity: The degrees of consanguinity mentioned herein are defined by § 4595. S. v. Andrus, supra.

Consent unnecessary: The crime of incest is committed where other elements exist, although the female is by want of age incapable of consenting thereto. P. v. Barnes (1886) 2 I. 161, 9 P. 532.

Evidence: Prosecutrix if over age is an accomplice, and conviction can not be had on her uncorroborated testimony. S. v. Clark (1915) 27 I. 48, 146 P. 1107.

Constitutionality: This section is constitutional. S. v. Horn (1915) 27 I. 782, 152 P. 275; S. v. Omaechevviaria (1915) 27 I. 797, 152 P. 280; aff. 38 S. C. R. 323, 246 U. S. 343, 62 L. ed. 763. S. v. Butterfield (1917) 30 I, 415, 165 P. 218.

This section is not void for uncertainty. S. v. Omaechevviaria, supra.

Police regulation: The lands constituting the public domain of the United States within the jurisdiction of this state are subject to the police regulations of the state; the statute is a police regulation for the avoidance of range wars possible to arise in case of the invasion of cattle ranges by sheep herders. S. v. Horn (1915) 27 I. 782, 152 P. 275; S. v. Omaechevviaria, supra.

Intent: In order to warrant a conviction there must be an intent to violate this section, as well as the act of driving or herding sheep upon a cattle range. S. v. Omaechevviaria, supra.

Abandonment: Exclusive right of cattlemen as against sheepmen to the use of range first occupied by cattlemen may be abandoned by their ceasing to use it or by permitting use of it by sheep in common with cattle. Such joint use without protest of cattlemen for period long enough to create custom does not make use by sheep unlawful. S. v. Butterfield, supra.

If customary use of range has been for cattle, it is a cattle range. If customary use has been for both cattle and sheep, it is not a cattle range. Proof of customary use for both cattle and sheep is proper evidence in determining abandonment as cattle range. Ib.

Injunction not authorized: This section does not entitle one who has been accustomed to range cattle on the public land to enjoin another from herding sheep on the range. McGinnis v. Friedman (1888) 2 I. 393, 17 P. 635.

§ 8334. [6879] Changing, defacing or counterfeiting marks and brands. Every person who changes, conceals, defaces, disfigures, or obliterates any brand or mark previously branded, impressed, or marked on any head of live stock, or puts his own or any other brand upon or over any part of any brand previously branded upon any head of live

§ 8336. Stealing services of bull. It shall be unlawful for any person, without the consent of the owner, to take possession of any bull found running at large upon the open range and to confine the same in any enclosure for the purpose of obtaining service therefrom. And in any trial for violation of the provisions of this section, upon proof on the part of the state that any person has taken possession of such bull, upon the open range, and has confined the said bull in any enclosure with cows, such fact may be considered by the jury as bearing upon the question of the intent of such person to secure unlawfully the service of such bull. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. ['11, c. 130, p. 417.]

Informations: Indictments and informations for grand larceny are set out and held sufficient in the following cases: P. v. Freeman (1870) 1 I. 322; S. v. Collett & Ireland (1904) 9 I. 608, 75 P. 271; S. v. Rooke (1904) 10 I. 388, 79 P. 82.

Although the crime of robbery includes the crime of larceny, a jury would not be justified in returning a verdict against a defendant, finding him guilty of larceny where he is charged with robbery, unless the information is also sufficient in terms to charge the specific offense of larceny under this section as well as the crime of robbery, under § 8226. (Con.. op.) S. v. Brill (1912) 21 I. 269, 121 P. 79.

Ownership: Variance: An information charging C to be the owner of the stolen property is supported by proof that C was in possession as agent of the owner with power of sale and disposition. S. v Faris (1897) 5 I. 666, 51 P. 772.

An information for larceny which alleges title to the thing stolen to be in B is supported by proof of property in the firm of B & J. P. v. Frank, 1 I. 200, overruled; S. v. Ireland (1904) 9 I. 686, 75 P. 257.

There is no material variance where the information charges that the thing stolen was the property of C. W. D. when, in fact, it belonged to C. D., and it is nowhere shown that C. W. D. and C. D. are not the same person. S. v. Rooke, supra.

Intent: To constitute the crime of larceny, the felonious intent must exist at the time of taking the property. S. v. Riggs (1902) 8 I. 630, 70 P. 947.

Where one rightfully in possession of personal property subsequently conceives the intent of appropriating it, he is not guilty of larceny. Ib.

§ 8427. [7046] Same: Of lost property. One who finds lost property under circumstances which give him knowledge of, or means of inquiry as to, the true owner, and who appropriates such property to his own use, or to the use of another person not entitled thereto, without first making reasonable and just efforts to find the owner and restore the property to him, is guilty of larceny. 2. When the property is taken from the person of another.
3. When the property taken is a horse, mare, gelding, cow, steer, bull, calf, mule, jack, goat, jenny, sheep or hog. [R. S. § 7048.]

Larceny from person: Larceny from the person is grand larceny. T. v. McKern (1891) 3 I. 15, 26 P. 123.

Whether it is necessary to allege in an information charging larceny from the person the value of the property taken is a question of the sufficiency of the information, and does not go to the jurisdiction of the court. The only manner in which such question can be raised is by demurrer to the information, at the trial under the plea of not guilty, or after the trial in arrest of judgment. Re Dawson (1911) 20 I. 178, 117 P. 696, 35 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1146.

Information: An information charging, in the language of the statutes, the felonious taking of two mares, the property of B, from a range in a certain county, is sufficient. S. v. Rathbone (1901) 8 I. 161, 67 P. 186.

An information charging an unlawful and felonious taking of a "gray horse colt" charges grand larceny under this section. S. v. Williams (1906) 12 I. 483, 86 P. 53.

The charging part of the information must name the person charged, state what was stolen by that particular person, and where and when. S. v. Flower (1915) 27 I. 223, 147 P. 786.
